The extraordinary decrease in the visible supply Monday exerted a steadying influence at the opening and during the earlier trading. The buying by eastern interests and the selling by a leading Chicago operator served to keep the market within rather narrow limits earlier in the day. As the session grew older, local professionals started hammering wheat, concentrating on the September delivery, while the seaboard extended strong support. The local faction appeared none too confident, however, and ran to cover when report from the east and from St. Louis told of improved export demand.

Prices then advanced substantially for a short interval, but the easterners appeared to accept their gains and values receded. Toward the close, the locals were again pressing the market, while the eastern contingent seemed to have withdrawn much of its support.

Coarse grains exhibited independent strength, corn finishing with a gain. Oats averaged higher during the greater part of the session.

Scattered liquidation through commission houses carried provisions downward.

A THOUGHT.

THIS IS TO LIVE

In the New York Tribune, dated March 21st, 1905, there appeared this editorial: "We noticed quite a few (automobiles) on Fifth Avenue yesterday. Looks as though these contraptions were here to stay, but we doubt whether they will ever become generally popular."

This is what they thought twenty years ago, and it inspires a prediction.

Before the grave worms finish my flesh, passengers will be passed through pneumatic tubes from New York to Miami in less than an hour.

Before the granite that is now at the head of my untenanted cemetery lot shows the marks of age, telepathy will be sending thought waves to and from the minds of men as accurately as radio transmits sound waves.

When I am gone, and almost as soon forgotten, someone will recall these two practical predictions and say: "Van was looking ahead."

But this will not be true. I am not looking ahead. I am looking at the practical plans of today, and as soon as there is a demand for this rapid human transit, the tubes will be used. Telepathy has been used for centuries.

Some day the demand for mental messages will be so universal that telegraph will prove as obsolete as the ox-cart, the telephone as unnecessary as a wagon-brake on a buck board out on the prairies, and the wireless a second fiddle to the wonderful intellect of man and its power to be transmitted.

I hope to live long enough to see the night lights on tens of thousands of air cars sailing through the deep, blue, glorious heavens at night, on their way to the pleasure places or on business bent.

ONTARIO AHEAD OF ENGLAND IN PRISON REFORM

May Err on Side of Leniency, Says Goldie, But Believe in Another Chance.

IS IN PARIS.

Provincial Secretary Will Sail For Home on Saturday After European Tour.

PARIS, Aug. 19. — (Canadian Press).—Ontario is ahead of Great Britain in prison reform, according to Hon. Lincoln Goldie, Provincial Secretary in the Ontario Government, who was seen here yesterday after a tour of England and Scotland.

"We may err a little on the side of leniency," Mr. Goldie said, "but our idea in dealing with persons convicted of crime in the Province of Ontario is not so much punishment as humanization and material results from restraint. If Canada is the land of opportunity, it also is the country of another chance."

Mr. Goldie said he had not made a personal inspection of any of the hospitals in Great Britain, but some Ontario doctors who had been attending a convention in London assured him that the modern conveniences in Ontario hospitals were superior to those of the English hospitals, with the possible exception of the hospitals in Manchester. In any case the nurses at home, he said, were incomparable for their standard of womanhood and efficiency. The Ontario Provincial Secretary had only good words for the Ontario nurses.

Provincial Secretary Goldie was a guest at luncheon at the Inter-Allied Club quarters here yesterday given by C. J. Smith, European vice-president of the Canadian National Railways. Mr. Goldie, with Hon. Philippe Roy, Canadian Commissioner-General in Paris, will receive at Mr. Roy's home a large party of Canadian students now touring Eurone.

Hon. Mr. Goldie and his family will sail for home on Saturday on the Empress of Scotland. Hon. H. Mercier, Minister of Lands and Forests, Quebec, will also sail on the Empress on Saturday.

WATERPROOF PLANE IS FOR CHANNEL USE

Has Roomy Cabin With Special Ventilation Features.

LONDON, Aug 19 (Associated Press).—A single 650 horsepower engined airplane to seat 14 passengers recently completed its trials and will be used in the cross-Channel service. It has a large roomy cabin with wicker armchairs for the passengers who will have a constant supply of fresh air by means of special ventilation.

Emergency exits are provided in the room should it be necessary for passengers to emerge in case of landing on the sea, in which case the wheels, axle and under-carriage struts can be dropped by means of a lever in the pilot's cockpit. The body of the machine its watertight and buoyant and would float for several hours.

Woman Near Death Through Stings Of Angry Bees; Three Men Rescuers Fight To Save Their Lives

CALHOUN, Ky., Aug. 19. — Mrs. J. P. Ellis, her son Cokely, A. C. Harrison, and William Foy have just had the closest brush with death they are likely ever to have and live to tell about it.

Mrs. Ellis, who lives on the Livermore Road near Calhoun, climbed into a peach tree to gather fruit. She lost her balance and fell into a group of bee-hives. The bees swarmed out and in a minute covered her body. Her right arm and collar-bone were broken in the fall, and she was so badly injured that she could not move.

For half an hour the woman was helpless, while the bees swarmed upon her body. Mr. Harrison, a merchant, and Cokely Ellis finally noticed her plight and ran to her aid.

The men called on Mr. Foy, who joined them in trying to rescue Mrs. Ellis. The bees promptly attacked the men and stung each of them hundreds of times as they carried Mrs. Ellis from the yard.

First-aid treatment was provided for the four persons, who have great swellings over their bodies. Two physicians attended Mrs. Ellis, and after treatment announced their belief that she would recover, although she was suffering greatly, as were the men.

It is expected that two or three weeks will pass before all the poison is eradicated from their bodies.

'Let Dog Decide' Is Order Pup Runs To Boy Masters

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—John McCarthy and James William McCarthy, 7 years old, twins, of 439 West Fifty-Seventh Street, stood before the bar in West Side Court Monday, their flaxen hair carefully brushed, their faces shining but their chests heaving anxiously under their fresh sailor suits as they gazed first at a poodle on the floor and then at Magistrate Levine.

On the other side of the poodle, which was referred to as "Chummy," stood Mr. and Mrs. James Pickney of 421 West Fifty-Seventh Street.

The twins claimed the dog. They had owned him, they said, for eight months until last Saturday, when, they said, Mr. and Mrs. Pickney came along and said he was their's, that he had run away a few days previously, that they meant to keep him, and—

Magistrate Levine motioned to the twins and the Pickneys to move to either side of the bar.

"Put the dog on the table between the two sides," he directed. "The dog will go to his rightful owner."

"Chummy" was placed on the table. He crouched an instant, trembling, and then with two bounds he was in the arms of James William McCarthy.

Included in the sales were 2061 weasel, 2350 lynx, 3347 wolves, 139 silver foxes, and 142,946 rats.

The first offering was weasel which which sold fully 30c higher. Lynx, was also an exceptionally good offering, sold about 10 per cent. below the prices quoted at the last sale. The offerings however were well absorbed, most of the lynx being taken by local buyers and New York firms. Average lots brought from $14 to $24.

Ordinary foxes sold from $40 to $95 while the better quality of wolf brought from $8.50 to $16.75.

There was lively bidding for muskrat. The best quality muskrat sold ten per cent higher than the last sale.

Cairns was killed in a drinking brawl.

Bust of Milton Discovered In Costermonger's Stall

LONDON, Aug. 19.—A story of how two very valuable art treasures of the eighteenth century—a bust of Milton by Roubiliac and another of Dr. Arthur Johnston, the great Scottish Lantinist, by Rysbrack—long since lost, were purchased from the stall of a London costermonger for 7s 6d, was told at the British Museum.

Both of the terra cotta busts recovered were in perfect condition, and, although excellent specimens of eighteenth century sculpture, were offered for sale as junk. They were saved from the rubbish heap by the chance purchase of a dealer in stamps who had no knowledge of their artistic value, but nevertheless recognized them as having considerable worth. The dealer took the busts to the British Museum and explained that he had something "which might be of interest."

The museum officials soon established the identity of the busts.

Both are nearly 200 years old. The one of Milton had been long sought after with little hope of finding it. A plaster cast of the original was in Roubiliac's studio at the time of his death and was presented to the British Museum in 1762. It is thought that William Benson, Surveyor-General for King George II., first ordered both busts, but nothing is known of their fate from the time they were ordered in 1739, until discovered in the costermonger's stall. They are valued at several hundred pounds.

Don't Be Misled

No ordinary "olive and palm" soap does what Palmolive does

OLIVE and palm oils have been for ages the world's supreme cosmetics. Cleopatra used them. Roman beauties used them. Then in castile soap — real castile—they reached enormous fame. But men never knew how to make those oils supremely effective until Palmolive Soap came out.

Consider the result. Palmolive has shown millions the way to better complexions. Fresh, clear skins are so common now that anything else is conspicuous. Palmolive has become, by proved results, the leading toilet soap of the world.

It is made in five countries, to supply the world-wide demand. It is made in France—the home of fine cosmetics—because French women prize it so.

Yet the price is 10 cents—as low as common soaps—with artificial color—often over-fatted—which claim "olive and palm oil" ingredients. Some people are misled into classing such soaps with Palmolive.

Palmolive Soap is a unique creation, based on 60 years of soap study. It brings you olive and palm oil effects in ways never known before. Were that not so, it would never have reached the pinnacle place of today.

There are soaps that fairly compare with it—two that we know. But they cost you 25 cents. Cheap "olive and palm" soaps will sadly disappoint, if you seek for Palmolive results.

Note the unnatural "too green" color of Palmolive imitators. What does that suggest? Men don't paint nature to improve it.

Olive and palm oils——nothing else——give Palmolive its delicate, natural color. Olive and palm oils——no other fats whatsoever——are used in Palmolive.

No "super-fatting," no "super-anything"—the only secret to Palmolive is its blending. And that is judged one of the world's priceless beauty secrets.

If you seek a mere cleanser, ordinary soap will clean. But the Palmolive appeal is to women who seek beauty and skin health. Don't think that such results can come from ordinary "olive and palm" soap.

Probably nothing in all history has done so much for beauty as Palmolive Soap. Nothing else is doing so much today.

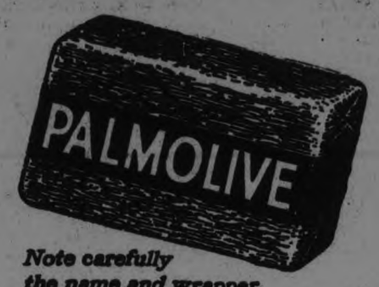
Wash, launder, cleanse with any soap you wish. But when beauty is at stake—take care. Use Palmolive, nature's formula to "Keep That Schoolgirl Complexion."

IN PARIS

French women are discarding French soaps for Palmolive

Palmolive is today one of the two greatest selling toilet soaps in France. Parisian beauties are happy to pay almost twice as much for a cake of Palmolive as Canadian women pay. And, in many cases, three times as much as for their own French soaps. Remember this when tempted by costly French soaps, or by "French" claims for soaps.

(MADE IN CANADA)



Note carefully the name and wrapper. Palmolive is never sold unwrapped.

ORLAND, Aug. 19.—The Cowan family had a family reunion and picnic at the Point Saturday.

Schepp Gets 82,000 Letters Telling How to Spend Cash

STAMFORD, Conn., Aug. 19. —Leopold Schepp, the wealthy New Yorker, who recently asked advice from the public as to how to get rid of his millions, still is master of the all, according to advices from his summer home at Canoe Hill, New Canaan.

He has gone away, and his secretaries are going through the 82,000 replies to his request already received, with the idea that somewhere in the flood of letters from the United States, Canada and Mexico, may be a suggestion that he may adopt.

GOOD ATTENDANCE ON WARM SUNDAY

Congregation at Marmora United Church Heard Fine Sermon.

MARMORA, Aug. 19 —Despite the heat, there was a good congregation at the United Church on Sunday. Rev. H. S. Osborne, B.A., B.D., of Central United Church, Toronto, now holidaying at Crowe Lake conducted the service and gave a masterly discourse on Matt. 25:10. He designated his subject as "The Parable of a Lost Opportunity." First of all the preacher showed how art, poetry and the drama had taken hold of the teaching contained in the parable of the ten virgins. He expressed the opinion that the folly of the five unwise might have been two fold. Not only was there folly in their lacking sufficiency of oil. "They were too strictly confined to the conventions and customs of the day to follow in the procession of those whose lamps would not burn out ere they reached the door." Continuing, the preacher remarked, "It wouldn't do to jar the sense of gossiping society today by doing the unusual."

"The greatest stimulus for tomorrow is that you did work today of which you were not ashamed," was the keynote of the reverend gentlemans' concluding remarks. On Sunday evening, Aug. 30th, Professor S. K. Laycock of Edmonton University will occupy the pulpit.

EXPORT PAPER VALUE GOES UP

Despite Lower Prices, Canada's Exports Are Up Two Millions.

OUTPUT HIGHER.

MONTREAL, Aug. 19.—(Canadian Press).—Despite the lowering of the price of newsprint, the value of the exports from Canada for the first six months of the year increased by $2,000,000 over that for the corresponding period last year. The quantity increased also by about 12 per cent.

The total output was 746,444 tons, as compared with 679,143 tons in the six months ending June 30, 1924. This year the Canadian output was only 16,000 tons less than that of the United States mills for the same period. While the bulk of the exports went to the United States, there was a large increase in export to other countries, the figures being 26,280 for the past half-year, as against 9,674 for the 1924 period.

GREED BREAKS SABBATH REST

Rev. F. H. Howard of Millbrook Sees Growing Neglect of the Lord's Day.

THE MOTOR HABIT

MILLBROOK, Aug. 19.—"There are scores of places along the highways of this province where, today, pop, ice-cream, and such things, will be sold. Why? Greed—that is the only answer. The people in charge share, with too many others in our land, in the tragedy of the fact that we have forgotten how to enjoy the Sabbath rest."

"Sabbath Observance" was the subject of a strong sermon by Rev. F. H. Howard in the United Church on Sunday morning. The theme was prompted by the general experience, in smaller communities at least, during the summer months, that good-sized congregations gather in the morning, but a lesser attendance of worshippers is present for the evening service. This is largely accounted for by the fact that when Sunday School is held at ten o'clock parents and families remain for the church service following.

"The "motor habit", as it has been aptly called, which takes people away from home, usually after dinner on Sundays, readily explains the non-attendance at the home church more than once each Lord's Day."

The speaker based his remarks on a number of verses in Hebrews, the fourth chapter, with particular reference to the word. "And God did rest on the seventh day; today, if ye will hear His voice, harden not your hearts. There remaineth therefore a rest for the people of God. They to whom it was first preached entered not in because of disobedience.'

Rest In Christ

Three rests are spoken of in the chapter—the seventh day rest, the Jewish Sabbath. "We require ourselves to learn the lesson of work, and find it good: but contemplation is higher than physical toil, and we miss a rich experience when we fail to master this lesson. The Christian finds rest in Christ, and then works for the Kingdom, and so appreciates God's day, which is for his highest good."

The rest of Canaan to the Jews meant home in a land of plenty, a blessing some failed to enjoy because they failed to obey. "Today, if ye will hear His voice, harden not your hearts." This has been spoken of as the spending age, but there is no real rest for the wicked even though rich. The rest which Christ promises bhings with it an abiding satisfacton that wealth cannot supply. "Sabbaths, properly observed, are to time what the mountains are to the earth, eminences from which we may survey glorious prospects, with the world beneath our feet."

The "rest for the people of God" brings to the Christian a sure sense of safety in His Father's provision for his temporal needs. "Not only does the believer feel certain of his share of God's heaven, but he is also assured of a sufficient portion here."

There is a higher rest of a changed and renewed nature. Rest in the midst of trouble, for "well borne burdens become wings that lift us up by faith to view the face of our Father, and we find the responsibilities of life carried without distress."

"There remaineth a rest" 'not of idleness, but peculiarly a rest in God and God's purpose, that includes a guarantee of things temporal and spiritual. It is a treasure waiting to be claimed, in many cases, trust and obedience being the pathway along which it may be found..

Sabbath Breaking

"A Sabbath-breaking example exceedingly tries the feelings of all lovers of good morals, and is demoralizing to national prosperity; for it is open war upon both. The restraints of the Sabbath are needful in maintaining family government, and to desecrate the Lord's Day is a suicidal act to the one breaking the command, "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy", making him his own enemy, and that of his family, and of society."

The duet, "I shall behold Him", sung by Mrs. G. W. Sayles and Mr. W. H. Coombe, was appropriate to the subject, and much appreciated by the congregation.

Methodist Finances

The annual financial report of the former Methodist church, covering the year from May 1st, 1924, to May 1st 1925, has just been issued and the printed copies were distributed to members and adherents, at the conclusion o f the services on Sunday, morning and evening.

The returns from the various departments show a most successful year, the preface, in the form of pastoral letter, emphasizing two facts—"the persistent spirit of harmony which has prevailed in all our church life, and the increasing enthusiasm and optimism that brings assurance of greater progress."

A summary of the statement shows a total of $2032.53 received from the weekly offering envelopes and $3321.15 raised during the year, The Woman's Missionary Society the mission circle and mission band, sent a total of $385.00 to the branch treasurers: the Sunday School reports receipts of $523.26; and the Ladies' Aid Society raised $773.56. The church thank offering was the largest for several years, ammounting to $734.79.

Carmel appointment does not hold regular preaching services during the entire year, but has a flourishing Sunday School, and raised a total of $140.54. Mr. Fred Hard is superintendent, and Miss Martha Lunn, treasurer.

PARENTS GUILTY OF ABDUCTION

Carried Off Newly-Wed Daughter From Her Home Near Belleville.

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 19 (Canadian Press).—Mrs. May Ward and Alexander Ward were yesterday found guilty of forcible seizure of their daughter at Halloway in Hastings County. C. A. Payne, acting for Mr. and Mrs. Ward, asked for a stated appeal, which the court granted until August 29. The case rises from the complaint of Russell Seeley that Mr. and Mrs. Ward forcibly seized his young wife to whom he had been married but three days and took her to her former home.

Russell Seeley stated that on August 6 he was married to Miss Jean Ward, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Ward. On the night of Aug. 10, Mr. and Mrs. Ward appeared at his home, after he had retired and called his wife to the door. He then heard them driving down the road and also his wife crying. Mrs. Seeley, under oath swore that she was 19 years of age and a pupil, having just passed her matriculation in Stirling High School and had been making preparations to teach.

She said that on August 8 they were married at Madoc Junction.

"I made up my mind to run away from him at the first opportunity, and I will never, never live with him again under any circumstances," she said.

All love was now gone, and she would rather take her life than remain with him.

BUSINESS MAN DIED IN STORE

Sudden Summons to W. S. Russell, of Campbellford on Tuesday.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 19.—The death of William S. Russell, one of Campbellford's most highly respected and best known men, which occurred suddenly while at his place of business late Tuesday afternoon, was a distinct shock to his friends and to the townspeople generally. The late Mr. Russell was conversing when he suddenly collapsed and died before medical aid arrived.

The deceased, who was in his 72nd year, was born in 12th Concession, Rawdon Township, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Russell, and farmed for several years in Seymour Township, near Rylestone. After his retirement from the farm, Mr. Russell lived for a time in Peterboro, and also in Havelock, coming later to Campbellford, where he was in partnership with Mr. J. A Meikle john, flour and feed business. The late Mr. Russell was a prominent figure in the municipal life of Seymour, and also of Campbellford, having served as Reeve of Seymour, Councillor, Mayor of Campbellford, and also several terms as member of the Water and Light Commission. He was a faithful member of St Andrew's Presbyterian Church, being a member of the session, and was a man of irreproachable character, public-spirited citizen and a loving husband.

He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, formerly Miss Frances Leatch, of Toronto, and two sisters, Mrs. Alfred Blackwell, Strathclair, Manitoba, and Mrs. James Park of Campbellford, and four brothers: Thomas of (English Line) Seymour Township, James of town, George of Havelock, and Harry of Trenton

TOURIST HURLS FLAG IN DUST

Flaunts Three U. S. Flags on Front of Car—Canadian Behind.

GODERICH, Ont., Aug. 19 (Canadian Press).—An American tourist who arrived in town with three United States flags flying in front of his car and a Union Jack tied on behind to a spare tire and almost dragging in the dust, caused a little excitement on the square here. Chief of Police Postlethwait who had been notified of the incident, asked the tourist to place the Canadian flag up with the rest, or take them all down.

At first the tourist refused to accede to the Chief's request, but at last he took the American flags down, and placed them in his car.

He then untied the Union Jack and threw it to the ground. This last act proved almost too much for a number of citizens, who had gathered around the car. However, a threat from the Chief to lock him up made the visitor pick up the Canadian flag and put it in his car. He was then allowed to proceed.

Fortunately this is the first case in which any objection of the kind has been raised by the many American tourists who pass through here.

Blue-jay is the efficient way to rout a corn. It leaves nothing to your guess-work. You do not have to decide how much or how little to put on. Each plaster is a complete standardized treatment, with just the right amount of the magic medication to end the corn. Simply put on the plaster—it does the rest.

Could you confess a Corn —without embarrassment?

There isn't anything unnatural in one's desire to hide a corn. A corn is undainty. One feels instinctively that it is not a possession a well-bred woman should have.... A dainty woman will not tolerate a corn. She is as careful of her feet as of her face. She feels that it is unpardonable to neglect those parts of her body which are usually unseen.... Anyone may acquire a corn.... But it is bad form to keep one. Especially when Science has provided the way to get rid of it so swiftly, surely and pleasantly. 45,000 druggists have Blue-jay.

DOMINION CATTLE FOR BRITAIN; GREAT POSSIBILITIES IN TRADE SAYS PRESIDENT OF CANADIAN CO.

Development Hindered By Lack of Sufficient Transportation Facilities.

RATES TOO HIGH.

High Class Hotel Praises Meat From Here After Month's Trial.

H. P. Kennedy, President of the Live-stock Producers of Canada Ltd., who has been on a visit to his parents in Peterborough has just returned from a ten weeks' visit to Europe, and has made a first hand study of the situation in the cattle business of Western Europe in general, and great Britain in particular.

"Canada has a heavy surplus of cattle at all times," Mr. Kennedy told the Examiner this morning, "and we market that surplus to Great Britain, United States and the Continent of Europe. Against us in the United States is a tariff of 1½c per lb. on all cattle 1050 lbs. and under, and of 2c per lb. on all cattle over that weight. Against us in Great Britain and Continent of Europe are freight charges of $20 per head on cattle 1000 lbs. and over and $18 per head on cattle under 1000 lbs. weight."

Mr. Kennedy proceeded to give figures showing why it will prove good economic policy in the future to ship the lighter cattle to Britain instead of to the States. To meet the demand of the American farmer for lighter cattle which he can finish for the home market the U. S. tariff has been lowered in favor of the smaller cattle, with the result that large numbers are being imported by the States, leaving the heavier cattle in the hands of the farmer of Western Canada. On cattle 1400 lbs., shipped to the U.S., the duty amounts to $28 per head, while the freight rates to Britain are $20 per head. On an animal 1050 lbs. weight, sent to the States, a duty of $15 is fixed, while the transportation charge to Britain is $20—the same for the much larger cattle. Naturally, in view of these conditions, the tendency is to ship to Britain steers weighing from 1200 to 1500 lbs., those between 800 and 1050 being sent to the U. S. market.

Mr. Kennedy thinks, as many as possible of the lighter cattle should be finished in Canada before being shipped anywhere, but as there will be always a surplus of light steers, some will have to be exported, and he sees no reason why they should not be sent to Britain in preference to the States, as higher prices can be obtained in the Old Country for Canadian cattle than those ruling in the American market. There are two steps essential to the carrying out of this idea—the establishment of proper ocean transportation facilities, and the institution of more equalized rates. Ocean charges are, largely, on a per head basis, instead of a per lb. basis; consequently, it costs as much to send an 1050 lb. steer from Quebec to Britain as it would take to export a 1500 lb. animal. Mr. Kennedy points out that steers are carried from Western Canada to the port at a per lb. charge and is emphatic is the assertion that this principle should rule right to the port of discharge on the other side.

He quoted some instances of the difficulties that have been experienced in getting cattle shipped across at a reasonable rate as compared with rates prevailing from other countries.

"The best rate we could get for ships from Canada, and none offering was $27.50 per head, whereas space for cattle from Argentine to Antwerp is being offered at £2-10s per head, and the shipper put on fittings which cost £1-10s—thus making a gross cost of £4." The railway companies of Canada have rendered every assistance, both the C. P. R. and the C. N. R. have shortened by 24 hours the journey from Winnipeg to Quebec, and if the shipping companies would provide sufficient transport at pro-rata rates, Canada would develop to the full this branch of her greatest industry. Present facilities, said Mr. Kennedy, were hopelessly inadequate, there were not sufficient ships to carry the stock across the Atlantic. He mentioned the fact that his company have at present about 600 cattle on the ocean en route for Britain. Had there been sufficient accommodation, they would have shipped three times that number, but there were no bottoms available, and the cattle, as a result, remain on this side.

Satisfied Customers.

Canadian cattle have established themselves in favor in the Old Country. In several cases all gave premiums for Canadian steers over Irish. For example: One farmer in Scotland on the same day bought—10 Irish Steers at £26-5s; 10 Scotch steers at £25-15s; 16 Canadian steers at £25-0. Fed same time and sold on same day. When sold, the Canadian steers averaged £1-10s per head over either of the other lots.

Mr. Kennedy was entertained to dinner in Glasgow by the leading men in the meat industry in Scotland, and in the course of his speech, as reported by the Meat Trades Journal, brought out many illuminating facts. For example, last year, over a million head of cattle were imported by Great Britain. Of that total Ireland contributed 93% and Canada 7%. Canada's exports of cattle amounted to 300,000 annually, of which 75% goes to the States and 25% to Britain.

His mission was primarily one of stirring a greater degree of interest in the as yet unrealized possibilities in the cattle trade between the Mother Country and the Dominion. The figures he quoted clearly indicated a wonderful field for development as the cattle of Canada were preferred by the Old Country consumer.

If the Canadian producers doubled their present shipments to Britain they would still have a 50% surplus and would only be supplying 15% of the British demand. Canada has the cattle, Britain provides the best market, and the best lairage facilities. A great expansion of a basic industry is being hindered by too inadequate transportation facilities.

Mr. Kennedy exhibited to his Scottish hosts a number of "movies" taken by himself of the handling of cattle in Western Canada. Three excellent vocalists were present and the best orchestra in Glasgow had been hired, but both singers and players were neglected while the pictures were on the screen. Eventually, the members of the orchestra laid aside their instruments and came down to follow the "flickers."

On the day of his departure, Mr. Kennedy was tendered a fine testimonial to the good qualities of Canadian beef. One of the most exclusive hotels made the experiment of using only Canadian meat for a period of 30 days. The hotel manager, after the 30 day's trial, expressed the opinion that Canadian meat was the equal of the best English meat, superior to the best Irish, and very slightly below the level of the best Scottish meat, which is raised specially to be sold at a premium.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

DOTTY DISCOVERS A QUEER LITTLE NURSERY

Dotty strolled down the path to the garden. She was so blue and lonesome she didn't know what to do with herself. All her little playmates had gone for the day on a picnic and Dotty couldn't go.

She hadn't gone far when she spied an anthill covered with little white things.

Dotty began looking in the grasses in hopes she would find a wishing pebble.

"Pshaw! I wish wishing pebbles grew in my yard," she mused to herself. A tiny laugh sounded behind her, and Dotty turned around to see a merry little elfin smiling at her. "Oh, Happy Giggles!" she cried, shaking the wee elfin's hand, "How glad I am to see you. Tell me, Happy Giggles, what are those funny wormy things on that anthill? I was just wishing I could find a wishing pebble so I could wish myself smaller so I could see for myself what they were."

"You don't need a wishing pebble when I'm around," laughed the elfin, and with a wave of his magic whistle over Dotty's head she began to shrink and shrink, until at last she was no larger than the funny little black ant who seemed to be taking care of the queer little white worms.

"What in the world are you doing with all those white worms?" she asked, as Missy Ant looked up and nodded to her and Happy Giggles. "Ants

"Do Ants Have Wings?"

don't eat worms, do they?"

"Goodness, no," replied Missy Ant, almost shocked. "Why, Honey, don't you know these are the Queen's children?"

"What, baby ants!" Dotty exclaimed, going closer so she could see them better. "Why, they don't look anything like ants. What are you doing to them?"

"Cleaning them," laughed Missy Ant good naturedly. "No, Honey, they don't look like their mother yet, but you just wait and see how they improve," and she brushed and cleaned the wee white things, one after another, very carefully. "You see, when they get to a certain age they each one spin a little fine net in which they wrap themselves. In this net they stay until they grow legs and wings and——"

"Wings!" Dotty exclaimed. "Do ants have wings?"

"These ants do," replied Missy Ant. "As I was saying, you come back here some nice warm day in the middle of the Summer, and you'll see these little white nets that they have spun burst open, and out will fly the young ants. You'll have to be here at the time they hatch, though, or you'll not see many of them, for as soon as they hatch out the greatest number of them fly away to build new homes for themselves. Now if you'll excuse me, I'll carry them into the anthill. There's going to be a storm," and Missy Ant gathered one of the queer little white things in her mouth and ran down into the anthill.

Dotty watched her take all the baby larvae into the anthill, then she ran back to the house just as the rain came pattering down on the walks. She was glad she hadn't gone on the picnic.

Three-Minute Journeys

WHERE A BARREL FIRE GREETS THE NEW YEAR.

The burning of the clavie is a rite that cannot be traced back to its origin, but it still survives in all its glory. The fact that it is celebrated on the eleventh of January, the last day of the year according to the old calendars, is indicative of the age of this custom.

On the evening of this day, all the fishermen of Burghead, on the south shore of Moray Firth, Morayshire, Scotland, assemble. They proceed to some shop where they demand a strong empty barrel. If they do not get it immediately, they take it by force and then proceed to another shop, where they make the same demand. When they have the two barrels, they collect a quantity of tar in the same way.

Then they bore a hole through the bottom of the stronger barrel and put a heavy pole through it. This barrel is filled with the tar and set out on fire. The other barrel is broken into bits and used as food for the flame.

When the fire is well alight, the barrel or clavie is carred through the town. Up and down through the streets of the town the fishermen carry the clavie. No landsman or stranger is permitted to join in the ceremony. At the end of every street the bearer is relieved by another fisherman.

The procession ends at the Durie, a little mound, the remains of an ancient fortification. This mound is carefully preserved for use during the burning of the clavie. When it is reached, the pole is planted in the earth and the clavie is allowed to burn on through the night. Then it is broken up and the embers are scattered. There is a mad rush upon them, for it is considered a token of good luck for the coming year to possess a piece of the clavie.

There is a peculiar superstition that anybody who falls during the ceremony will not live to see another clavie. This belief is so powerful that if the bearer falls on the way, the clavie as immediately snatched from his hands and the crowd rushes on, even at the risk of trampling him underfoot.

It is believed that the ceremony was originally a means of frightening witches. The embers were carried about through the year as a talisman against the possible evil spells that might be cast upon its wearer.

Whatever the original purpose of the ceremony may have been it is still carried out with almost religious devotion. It is one of the important things of the year in the little fishing village of Burghead.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D., Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

REASONS WHY A BABY MAY BEGIN TO CRY.

It is not a sign of disease, necessarily, that a baby cries. Any slight discomfort will bring a protest from the youngster. He can't talk—he can't swear—he just wails.

A new baby needs a lot of attention. If he gets wet, if his clothing is too tight, if he is cold or hot, if he is chafed and, certainly, if a pin sticks in him, he will cry. Look him over to find what is giving him cause to complain.

If you happen to be hurried in making up his bed or dressing him, there may be an uncomfortable lump in the crib, or a crease in the clothing—somewhere there may be something poking these sensitive tissues. When you are seeking the cause of the cry, have this in mind.

Some babies have extremely sensitive skins. They can't bear strong or flavored soaps. If the child cries when you are bathing him it may be due to the soap.

Likewise, there may be something in the powder which does not agree with your baby's skin. It may be necessary to omit the powder and apply petroleum oil instead. The oil protects the skin and guards against sunburn, too.

Take great pains not to get the soap or the powder in the eyes. You know how sensitive your eyes are to such irritation. A baby's eyes are even more delicate.

If the baby is hungry he will yell for food. But, please remember, it is not hunger that causes every cry. There can be no worse habit than to give the breast or bottle to appease every cry. You must feed the infant with the regularity of clockwork and must not be swung out of heat by his crying. The best rule to follow is not to change the feeding practice without the advice of the doctor. In any event, I beg of you, don't use feeding as a pacifier.

One of the most common causes for crying is thirst. Just because you are feeding milk and that is fluid—that is no reason to think your baby never requires water. He wants it just as you and I want it.

On a hot day, particularly, the baby will get thirsty. You will find, in the absence of some external irritation, that a teaspoonful of pure water will make the infant very happy. You should keep on hand a supply of water which has been boiled and cooled. A sip of this will stop many a cry.

Of course, many a crying baby is that kind of a youngster because of a bad temper. We will talk about this another time.

I need not remind you that tainted milk or other contaminated food, as well as too hasty feeding, may cause the little stomach to ache. Naturally the baby will cry under such circumstances.

Give thought and study to the cry of your baby, and it won't be long before you will be able to tell the difference between temper and pain.

What strange tricks birds and animals do, we can only guess at, when we hear, see or read about some of their stunts.

One old man, who has lived in the woods most of his life, was helping me locate some interesting birds, when, at the edge of a lake, we saw a fox trotting along the sandy shore with something in his mouth. That changed the whole morning's work for me, for we sat down right there and then to fish, while the old fellow told me about his wild fox friend.

This is the story, just as it was related to me: A very young fox was caught in a trap, by the front leg. The trap did not belong to the man in the story, but the fox betrayed it to him by whining and crying. Our old friend went at once to the place and found the poor but handsome young fellow a prisoner and whining. It is bad business to go near a trapped wild animal, but the pain and trouble had worked on this fox so that he was glad to see the old man, for he did not resist having his mouth tied up and he let the man carry him home.

The lacerated leg was put in splints and three weeks of companionship with a friendly old man, healed the leg and gave the fox a new understanding of human beings. He found out that some are good and kind to wild things.

Now for the main point.

The fox was released, went away at once and was not seen again for a year, and when that time came, it was a matter of foxy cunning and trust, for the fox was chased by some other animal, rushed in with a dead rabbit, dropped it at the man's feet, ran to the door and watched the woods for almost an hour, and then came in, picked up him meal in an relieved manner and giving the man a knowing look, which explained everything and yet explained nothing, trotted away out of sight.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

THURSDAY, AUGUST 20.

This day promises to be an eventful and possibly exciting one, judging by the prevailing sidereal operations. The most notable event may be the removal of a long-standing obstruction, which should make way for substantial growth and financial accumulation of worth. But these fine auguries should not be negatived by disputes and wrangling. Letters, writings and contracts should be signed with care. There is a sign which may mean accident, so care should be taken of the physical well-being and travel should be undertaken with precaution.

Those whose birthday it is are under excellent promise for an active, eventful and prosperous year. Substantial growth and satisfactory financial returns in business may follow the removal of an old obstruction. But do not resort to quarrels and disputes and also avoid the possibility of accident. A child born on this day should be clever, versatile and ambitious, but its inclination to contention and willfulness may make progress at times difficult for it.

TO ERECT SIGN.

Women's Institute Will Make Public "Welcome to Wooler."

WOOLER, Aug. 18.—On Wednesday the Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. Donald McColl, with an attendance of over forty, with the President, Mrs. J. J. McColl, in the chair. The reading of the minutes showed an advancement in the community welfare by buying a lawn mower for the Memorial Park. This is a very attractive spot in the village, and the motion was made and carried, that a sign, "Welcome to Wooler," would be erected in this park.

Mrs. S. L. Terrill, the convener, took charge of the programme. Subject: "Dress, and Its Influence," including a roll call, and "The Best Books We Have Read." Mrs. Percy Gooding, Miss Lulu McColl and Miss Bernice Stacey were on the programme. Mrs. Vera Teal gave a few instructions on basketry. Mrs. W. A. McColl gave a short but interesting talk on her holiday to the Coast, dwelling on the mountain hike at Banff, going up 8,000 feet above sea level and then enjoying the refreshing sulphur springs at the foot of the mountain.

Refreshments were served, and the meeting closed.

EVERYTHING NOW READY FOR THE BIG AUTO RACE MEET

To-morrow Afternoon the Exhibiltion Grounds Will Be the Mecca of All Interested in Work of Speed Demons.

Facts about the big automobile race programme to-morrow:

Place — Peterboro Exhibition Grounds.

Time—Gates open at noon. First race starts at 3 p.m.

Program—Six events, including the Barney Oldfield Diamond Medal race, and the Herbert King Trophy event.

Contestants—Many noted drivers of both Europe and America, including the world's champion woman driver, Mlle. Martens.

Prices—General admission 75 cents; tax extra; grandstand 25 cents extra; children, 12 years and under, 35 cents. (No extra charge for children in grandstand).

Warning — Spectators must positively keep away from both the inner and outer fences surrounding the race track. A safety zone, 40 feet wide, will be roped off and policed and must be observed by all spectators.

No Reserved Seats — First come, first served.

King Gasoline will reign at the Peterboro Exhibition Grounds to-morrow afternoon. The first auto race meet ever held here will be staged with many of the world's greatest pilots at the steering wheels of some of the fastest racing cars of the sport competing for rich cash purses and valuable trophies. Automobile racing, admittedly the most hazardous of all sports, when conducted over the Florida Beach or over the Brooklands, England or American board tracks, is most thrilling from the spectators' viewpoint, and from the driver's angle is considered about the most nerve-wracking test imaginable. But when the modern cars of Juggerhaut are sent around the narrow turns of a one-half mile dirt track, it is difficult to describe the dangers of such an adventure.

Heretofore, auto speed fans of this section have had to journey to Toronto or other cities to witness the speed duels between the star drivers. The bringing of the world's speed kings to Peterboro in advance of their appearance in Toronto and Ottawa at the Exhibitions, and in Montreal at the big Delorimier Park meet, can be credited to the enterprise of Webber Turner of the local Exhibition. Mr. Turner is most anxious that the meet to-morrow will attract a huge crowd in order that he may demonstrate to his board of directors that auto racing should be added to the program of the Peterboro Exhibition next and succeeding years. Automobile racing is a most expensive proposition from the promoters' angle. Some of the cars cost as much as $15,000, and it is easy to wreck a motor of the highly tuned type without even wrecking the chassis of the car in an accident. Mr. Turner succeeded in inducing Promoter John Sloan to adopt a lower price schedule here than is in effect at auto races in the United States. For Mr. Sloan, who is hanging up quite a lot of money in prizes and appearance money for the drivers, a big crowd must be drawn to enable him to make any profit. So, those who journey to the local Fair Grounds to-morrow will be able to tell from the size of the crowd whether Peterboro is to be annexed to the international automobile racing circuit beginning with the Exhibition next year.

"Scotty" Montieth, Louis Disbrow, Ray Claypool, Eddie Dailey, George Stevens, Floyd Roberts, Cleo Sarles, "Puddy" Hoffman, and Bob Green are the drivers who will crowd Lampkin to the limit. Each has a car with far more miles-an-hour speed than can be used on the local track. Thus, nerve and skill enters into the proceedings to a greater degree than speed.

There are two coveted trophies to be awarded, supplementing the valuable cash purses. Barney Oldfield, "the old master," daddy of all racing drivers, from his retirement in far off California, has hung up the Barney Oldfield Diamond Medal for the stars to race for. In the auto racing sport no trophy is harder to win than the Oldfield decoration.

The other trophy is the Herbert King Cup. Herbert King is an old Peterboro boy, now a famed tenor with a residence in Chicago. King is a dyed-in-the-wool auto racing fan being a close personal friend to Jimmy Moody and Walter Fraser, two noted speed boys. When he learned that Peterboro was going to be host to the big league auto racing pilots, King immediately notified the racing committee that he would award a gold and silver trophy made by Spaulding in Chicago.

Interest among the women speed fans will be centered in the exhibition drive of little Mlle. Martens, world's champion girl pilot. The petite girl has proved a sensation everywhere she has appeared, both in Europe and America. Her driving of a French Peugeot will rival the work of any of the men drivers and many who have seen here at the wheel of a fast racing machine declare that she will actually outdrive many of the male stars.

The famous racing cars have been on exhibition at several local garages during the past two days, and have created much enthusiasm among automobile enthusiasts as well as the general public.

There will be no reserved seats, those coming first will be the ones to get the best seats. "Start early and keep away from the danger zone," is the admonitory advice of Mr. Turner and others interested in making auto day a big success.

COMMUNISTS PLEAD TO ISSUE MANIFESTO

Say That Army and Navy Could Be Brought to Bear on Labor.

LONDON, Aug. 19 (Canadian Press).—Labor leaders are hardly likely to give serious consideration to a letter which the British Communist Party has forwarded to the National Labor Party and general council of the Trades Union Congress appealing for the issuance of a manifesto to the army and navy. It is suggested in letters that the situation between Labor and Capital, as conceived by the Communist party, be set forth in a manifesto to the effect that organized forces of Capitalism were prepared to use the army and navy to hold the workers under control or shoot them down if they showed resistance.

John Robert Clynes, who was lord privy seal in the MacDonald Labor Ministry, said: "Communists' fiery talk of mutiny and revolution belongs to an age which has passed and their utterances arouse more amusement than concern."

C.N.R. SHOP AFIRE.

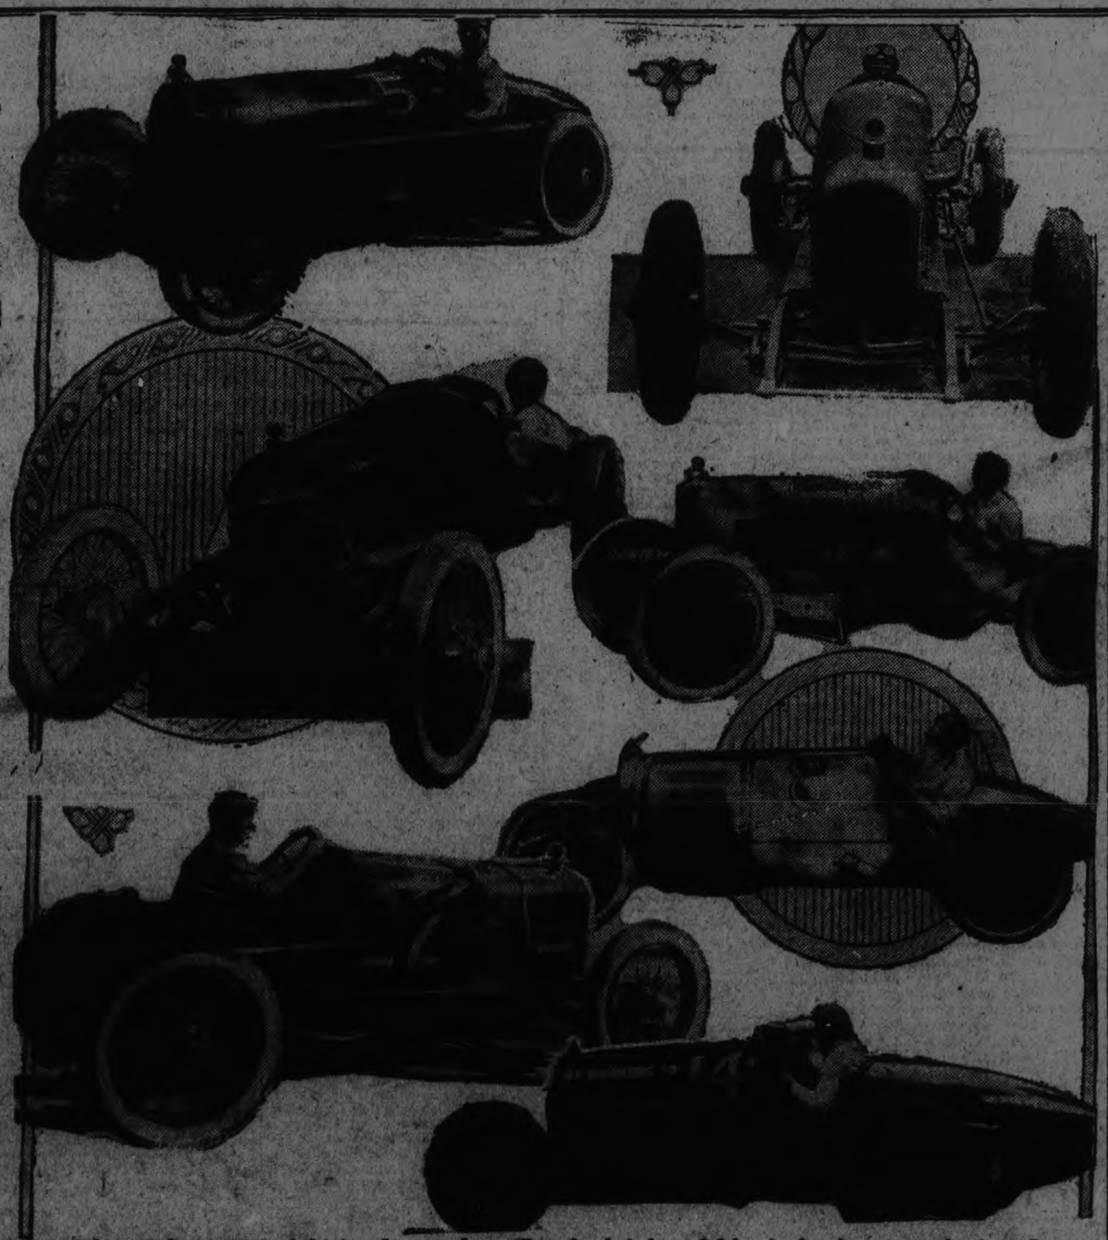
Considerable Damage to Point St. Charles Boiler Shop.

MONTREAL, August 19. — Canadian Press. — Fire which broke out in the boiler shop early to-day did considerable damage to the Canadian National Railway shop at Point St. Charles, Que.

The fire had got a strong hold when it was discovered by a passer by, and the structure of the boiler shop was badly damaged.

It is believed that most of the valuable machinery was saved.

The monetary loss has not ascertained.



Some of the speed creation and driving demons that will make their formal debut in the Auto race classic at Peterborough Exhibition Grounds to-morrow.

MORE ICE CREAM EATEN THESE DAYS

Hot Weather Gives Impetus to Sale of Cooling Condiments.

According to George A. Gillespie, manager of the Peterboro Milk Products Company, the hot weather which has accompanied the past few days has increased materially the consumption of ice cream. He says that the increase is 100 per cent., which means that ice cream eaters are doubling up on their consumption in an effort to assuage the terrible heat.

Sultry evenings have witnessed streams of customers flocking into ice cream vending establishments, while perspiring clerks rush about in a futile effort to cope to the ravenous populace. Great supplies of bricks are bought to ward off the heat when the citizens reach home. Bulk ice cream is also carried away in quantity, and many buy fruit and nuts in order to compile their own sundaes.

For everybody in Peterboro is busy eating twice as much ice cream as is usually consumed. At spare moments during work those near a source of supply are seen to dash into the parlors for the cooling confection, while trays are borne away to succor those unable to leave their tasks.

People drink more milk too. At least more milk is used, and it may be in part due to the fact that quantities of milk sour before it can be used. That would scarcely account for the 10 per cent. increase, however, which has been noticed in the demand. People like cold milk and ask for it at restaurant counters and soda fountains.

Many might wonder what the unfortunates of other days did in former years when ice cream and cold drinks were not available, and such comforts as the electric fan and refrigerators were unknown.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

Dear Annie Laurie: I am engaged to a young man, but our engagement is unknown to a friend of mine. When introducing him to this friend should I introduce him as my fiance?

—K. L. B.

K. L. B.: If your engagement has not yet been announced it is not necessary to use any other term than "friend" when introduciag your fiance. As a matter of fact you may introduce your fiance thus: "Mr. Green, this is Mr. White." This will eliminate the necessity for making known your engagement until such a time as you choose to announce it.

ADVICE TO A CONSPIRING HUSBAND-STEALER

Beatrice is in love. She's in love with the husband of another woman. She likes that woman and hates to hurt her by taking her husband away from her, but she "cannot give him up."

"My Love Is Stronger Than I And I Cannot Fight It!" says she.

That's what they all say when they want someone else's wife or someone else's husband: "My Love Is Stronger Than I and I Cannot Fight It."

The funny part of it is that we have been saying it so long we have almost bidded ourselves into thinking that we believe it. It's a popular fairy tale.

"Just another triangle," is probably what you will say when you read my letter. But, this is really different. The man I love is married and has a child.

You see, I am telling you the worst at first. I met his wife through mutual friends a year ago while the husband, whom I will call Charles, was away on a business trip.

I liked Rose, and we became rather chummy, seeing quite a lot of each other. I was boarding at the time and, having few friends, was glad to go to her home when she asked me there.

I forgot to say that I am not married. I teach school. To make a long story short, when Charles came back and I met him we forgot everything else.

It was but a short time before I knew I could not live without him. But I was tortured because of the situation. Rose was my friend and I loved her, too.

I tried to break away, but it was no use. My love was stronger than I. We were meant for each other. Rose as yet has no idea of what has been going on, for we dare not risk meeting in town.

I cannot give him up. I must find some way. I hate to hurt Rose, but he could make some provision for her and for their little girl. I care nothing for that side of it. I only know that I cannot give him up, so do not tell me to do that. I tried to go away, but my love is stronger than I and I cannot fight it.

And, why should I try to grind into the dust this beautiful thing that has come to me? Don't you think that when one wants something in this world so terribly it is really meant for them to have it?

BEATRICE.

So far, we haven't learned to look upon heart-stealing like chicken-stealing. If we want someone else's husband, we think we ought to have him. It's tough on his wife and children, but we can't worry about that. We want the husband and we must have him.

But is it enough to want something? Does that give us license to Take It? Try walking off with the platinum wristwatch in the showcase downtown and you'll find out soon enough. The plea that you saw it and loved it and your love was stronger than your will—that will bring no tears to the judge's eyes. You'll do time, just the same, Because You Have Taken What Did Not belong To You.

Stealing a husband is exactly as low as any other form of theft. Had this man and his wife already separated, the situation would be different. But as it is, she is deliberately sneaking into another woman's home and doing her best to steal another woman's husband. She is nothing more or less than a Thief, and the man himself will so regard her if she ever does win him away from the wife—which is doubtful! Perhaps if Beatrice will pause and consider that ugly word for a while she ma not see quite so much romantic glamor about her act.

Furnishing an Intimate Breakfast Room.

One of the most charming rooms in the modern house is the breakfast room. This room should be small, have a bright outlook over a garden spot if possible, and be attractively fitted up. Eight months out of the year, the floor should be left bare. For the other four months a harmoniously colored, homespun rug should be used.

The walls permitting paint will be found more satisfactory than paper in this room. Soft corn color with a creamy ceiling make an excellent background. The woodwork may be stained, then oiled a warm chestnut brown. The floor is best done to match the woodwork. Do not have it too dark, but just enough yellow in it to make it a warm golden brown. Of course, all built-in shelves and corner closets are painted like the rest of the wood-work.

The draperies of gay chintz, having a great deal of lilac and yellow in it, may be finished at the top by an oilcloth valance of violet with scalloped edge. The drapes may also be bound with the oilcloth to give them a smart finish. Yellow glazed chintz shades may be used.

If there are one or more open corner closets, let the shelves have an edging of the lilac oilcloth. The painted furniture may be done in corn color, a shade deeper than the walls. The decorations, stripes or motifs are done in lilac. If desired,

Sleeves

(Written for the United Press)

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—(United Press).—

A ship without a rudder
A ship without a sail
A sleeve without a mooring
Is fashion's latest wail!

A sleeve does not seem an important fashion item. However, if you don't think it is, try to wear one of last year's sleeveless frocks on the street some morning. You'd be as out-of-date as if dressed in a hoop skirt.

Long sleeves permanently asserted themselves at the beginning of Spring. And, tiring of the simple long sleeve, designers have introduced sleeves for Fall that actually make or mar one.

For instance, there's the frock whose sleeves seems to float from nowhere. It is not attached at the shoulder seam but is tacked at the under arm permitting a portion of the shoulder to show. This sleeve is very full and is gathered into bands at top and bottom. The top band is sufficiently snug to hold the sleeve in position on the upper arm. The lower band confines the wrist. An imported gown of bluish green velvet has sleeves of this type made of velvet and embroidered gold stitchery. The neckline of the gown is rounded, the bodice is semi-fitted and the skirt is circular.

Then there are sleeves with floating wristbands which add grace to the afternoon frock. Other sleeves flare in circular movement at the cuff in conformity with the flare at the hem of the skirt. Ruffles trim the lower portion of several sleeves. Huge, pleated lantern effects made of printed chiffon adorn black frocks. Dressy velvet gowns and chiffon evening gowns often are made with fur extending from wrist to elbow.

A sleeve for evening wear that is becoming to matrons is merely a three cornered piece of chiffon attached at the under arm flowing to the hem of the skirt where it finishes with a gold tassel.

a fine outer line of the golden brown may be introduced to outline the lilac on the furniture and bring out the contrast in a most pleasing way. The cushions used for the chairs should be covered with the chints like the draperies; the ties may be of the material or of lilac linen braid.

The lilac and white china, yellow and white china ,or the cold green sedje ware may be used with basket trays having tiles to match, or the bamboo painted trays. The tea wagon may be used here to advantage and can be painted to match. If lamp shades are used with the willow or bamboo lamps, or those of painted wood, make them of the yellow glazed chints. Or the parchment shades may be used tinted a brown shading into yellow, or soft yellow with lilac iris motifs placed separately, or in border formation.

The linens used in this room should be the natural unbleached linen with the intials done in lilac. They may be hemstitched or the edges may be colored and finished with tiny tassels, not deep enough to make a frowsy fringe. Yellow linen sets with applied lilac borders are new and rather attractive.

SOME ODD FACTS.

In Jamaica they have a wonderful tree, from which people make strong whips, which have the handle and lash all in one. They cut a very long piece off one of the branches and strip off the bark from part of the branch, leaving the rest for a nice firm handle. For the lash they split the inside of the part they have left for the purpose, plait the strips together, and then they have a strong whip.

Americans are said to be the greatest meat-eaters, with an average per capita consumption of 175 pounds a year much the larger part being beef. The English, though known as beef-eaters average only 110 pounds of meat. The French eat only half as much as the English, and the consumption is still less in Germany, Austria and Italy.

SECRETS OF CHARM

By Lucrezia Bori

We all know how lovely eyes can dominate the face of their lucky owner. Many a girl that has otherwise plain features is exceptionally good-looking because she happens to possess beautiful eyes.

Now, not all of us can have lovely big eyes, just the color we want them to be with the long curly lashes, which are considered such a claim to real beauty. I say we can't have these things just for the wishing, but we can have pretty eyes that mirror our thoughts in a truly adequate way.

Speaking of this, the eyes, you know, are a dead give away of what lies beneath the surface. People who are shallow or selfish usually show signs of this in the expression of their eyes. In the same way, kindly, generous persons who are always ready and willing to help others, have a kindly, spiritual expression of the eyes which lends much to their charm.

Now, aside from these things which come from within to light the eyes, and which can be cultivated if the owner is willing and has the proper spirit, there are other beauty aids to the eyes which are well worth knowing.

In the first place, you must get enough sleep and must not strain your eyes by using them in bad light. If your doctor advises glasses, you must wear them when necessary.

In counting the beauty of the eyes, I consider the surroundings as well as the eye itself. If you can cultivate long lovely lashes by applying white vaseline to the roots of your eyelashes nightly, you will find it worth while to do so. Some people's lashes respond more quickly to this treatment than others.

Now, I consider the practice of using tweezers to remove straggly hairs from the eyebrows a perfectly good way to make your eyebrows conform to beauty lines, but let me warn you. Do, do be careful not to produce a hard, harsh eyebrow which simply cries out its blatant artificiality. You must be very careful to leave plenty of brow. Do not reduce what nature gave you to a hard unnatural line. I assure you, if many women had this line naturally, they would be trying every means possible to grow more eyebrows. The overly penciled brow imparts a hard impression to the face, and no woman wants to have this if she can avoid it.

If you have wrinkles under your eyes, apply a light touch of skin food here nightly. Do not rub it into the skin, as this part of your face is very delicate. Simply touch it lightly to the parts you want to feed.

If your eyes feel tired, make a cold compress and lie on the bed with it over your eyes for ten or fifteen minutes. You will feel rested and your eyes will sparkle.

IN THE KITCHEN

By Jeanette Norton

GOOD WAYS TO SERVE NEW CORN.

The last corn from the kitchen garden always seems the best.

Baked Corn and Tomatoes.

Pare and slice four tomatoes thin. Shuck and silk six or eight ears of fresh corn, depending on the size. Take a sharp knife and cut the corn from the cobs, not cutting deep enough to get the little shucks, then scrape down the milk with the back of the knife. Butter a pudding dish and lay in a layer of tomatoes, then add a layer of corn, dot with butter, dust with pepper and salt and sprinkle with a little sugar. Dust over a tablespoonful of fine crumbs, then add a layer of tomatoes and repeat as before. Put the seasoning over the top and sprinkle with a little grated cheese. Pour in a small cupful of cream and bake about a half hour in a medium oven.

Creamed Corn on Toast.

Cut the corn neatly from six fresh ears. Put the corn in a small saucepan with pepper, salt, a tablespoonful of sugar, a heaping tablespoonful of butter and two cupfuls of rich milk. Stew gently until the corn is done, then heap on hot buttered toast and garnish with strips of freshly broiled bacon. If desired, poached eggs may be put on top.

House Roasted Corn.

Husk and silk six ears of fresh corn, then boil it in the usual way. When the corn is done, place the ears on a greased gridiron and broil over a gas hole or under the flames in the broiler, turning until well scorched, but not burned. Serve on hot plates, buttered and dusted with salt.

Old Indian Corn Flappers.

Cut enough corn from the cobs to make two cupfuls. Add a cupful of rich milk, a beaten egg, half a cupful of sifted flour, salt, pepper, a teaspoonful of sugar and a half saltspoonful of baking powder. Bake by dropping onto a hot greased griddle.

Dainty Corn Souffle.

Husk and silk six ears of fresh corn and then score each row of the kernels with a sharp knife, then scrape them down with the back of the knife. This should yield a cupful of the pulp. Add a tablespoonful of soft butter, a cupful of light cream, pepper, salt, a little sugar and the beaten yolks of three eggs. Cook in a double boiler until smooth and creamy, stirring constantly. Remove from the fire and cool. When cool, fold in the stiffly beaten whites of four eggs. Turn into a buttered souffle dish and bake for twenty minutes in a brisk oven.

CHOPPY SEAS CAUSED DEFEAT

Miss Ederle Swallowed Great Quantities of Salt Water in Mid-Channel.

END WAS SUDDEN.

BOULOGNE, France, Aug. 19 (Canadian Press).—Gertrude Ederle, the 18-year-old American girl, failed to swim the English Channel yesterday. She matched the strength and endurance of her muscles against the treacherous waters in a superb battle, but was defeated.

The end came suddenly six and a half miles from Dover after eight hours and forty-six minutes of one of the greatest exhibitions the old Channel has ever seen. She had swallowed great quantities of salt water repeatedly during two miles of a choppy sea which was encountered about mid-channel, and she was unable to withstand the effect this had on her.

Miss Ederle entered the water at Cape Gris-Nez at 7.12 o'clock in the morning, and ended her strenuous task at 3.58 in the afternoon. She bobbed as if her heart would break when she was dragged aboard a rowboat after having been kept afloat by Ishak Helmy, the Egyptian swimmer, who at a sign from her trainer, Jabez Wolfe, threw his arms about the sinking girl.

BANTAM FINAL WON BY ROTARY

Good Pitching By Crary Was Backed Up By Perfect Fielding.

SCORE WAS 9-3.

Rotary Bantams are champions of tthe city in their series by virtue of their win over Dufferin All-Stars in the third game of the playoffs last night. The score of the final game was 9-3.

Good pitching by Crary, backed by heavy hitting and errorless fielding, was too much for the East City lads. Jack Deannard's boys pounded Armitage for sixteen hits, although he struck out eleven. Crary struck out 15.

MacDonald led the batsmen with four hits in five tries. Cuthbertson had three and Payne and Cuffe collected two . Every member of the team except Dormer and Howden, had one hit. Green, with two, and Ellis, Mongraw and Collins, with one each, were the Dufferin hitters.

Manager Deannard and his boys are slated to play the Ottawa bantam winners next, and are figuring ways and means of making the trip. A sudden death game halfway there is spoken of, but even then assistance is needed.

INSIDE GOLF.

By CHESTER HORTON

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

I mentioned in a previous article that the ball could be cut from a sand trap with a niblick by chopping the blade across the ball and taking a slight cut of sand with it, causing the ball to jump a bank some three or four feet high, then run to the pin. Here is a typical shot in which the natural back-spin imparted to the ball by the niblick blade changes to over-spin when the ball hits the green because the ball still has forward energy in it. The correct way to make such a shot is to so hit the ball that it will just clear the embankment, it being assumed in this, of course, that the ball lies back a few feet from the wall. For this shot, also, the blade must be played with its natural lie. If it is flattened down or if the hands are too far forward, causing the blade to lose its natural loft, something else will happen with the ball. Players should always be careful to play the club with its natural lie unless the shot calls for changing it.

EVEN THE BIRDS SALUTE PRINCE

Flock of Them Dyed Red, White and Blue, Loosed in Buenos Aires.

BUENOS AIRES, Aug 19 (Canadian Press).—Buenos Aires continues en fete for the Prince of Wales. The streets surrounding His Royal Highness's residence were continually thronged by people anxious to catch a glimpse of the Prince, while crowds along the routes of the royal car and at various functions which he attends are so great as to cause great inconvenience to the police.

Yesterday afternoon the Prince visited the national industrial school, and was later present at a reception at Congress Hall. Last night he attended a gala performance of opera at the Colon Theatre.

Yesterday, when the Prince was motoring back to town after inspecting the naval school throngs lined the streets and threw flowers in the of His Royal Highness.

A picturesque feature of the return journey was the liberation of a flock of birds which had been dyed red, white and blue.

WOMEN EMPLOYEES COWED BY ROBBERS

Three of Them Locked Up While Safe Was Rifled.

DETROIT, Aug 19 (Canadian Press).—Three women employees of the Brooks Loan Company were trussed up by armed robbers yesterday and forced into a rear room of the office at the point of a pistol while the safe and cash drawer were ransacked of $400.

"Get into the back room," ordered the leader of the robbers. The terrifid girls walked into the rear room, where they were kept under guard. In the meantime an accomplice had entered the sage and ransacked both safe and cash drawer. The robbers then fled.

SPORT GOSSIP AND COMMENT.

Opinion around the circuit seems to be evenly divided as to the result of the Kingston-Peterboro play-off series for the Central Ontario championship, which commences with a game here on Saturday. In the other two cities of the Central loop both teams have friends, with the bulk of Oshawa sentiment going to Peterboro and perhaps the majority of Belleville fans pulling for Kingston. But the issue will be decided not by sentiment but by the teams on the field, and the Petes are confident that they have strength enough to turn the trick and go into the Ontario play-offs, where this city has not been represented in the senior series since 1920.

* * * * * * * * *

Saturday's game at Riverside Park will commence at 3 o'clock sharp, with Ken. Colling of Belleville officiating behind the bat, and the duty of making the decisions on the bases entrusted to Geo. Sullivan of Kingston and Alex. Kay of Peterboro. These umpires will officiate throughout the series.

* * * * * * * * *

The present dope as to pitching selections for Saturday's affray seems to favour "Lefty" Cairns as the Kingston choice, with Frank Whitehouse doing the gunning for the Petes, although neither manager has made a definite announcement. Arniel will catch for Kingston, with Swanston behind the bat for the Petes. Both teams have come through in good shape and will be at full strength for Saturday.

* * * * * * * * *

The Raybestos team, East Peterboro winners and Peterboro's representatives in the O.B.A.A. intermediate play-offs, are slated to play Lindsay, Big Four winners, in Lindsay today, with the second game here on Friday. The Raybestos team has been playing good ball, fielding nicely and hitting hard, and they should give Lindsay a great argument for the honours. Friday's game should draw a big patronage.

* * * * * * * * *

Micky Murray's Galt team has been knocked out of the running by Preston, and the St. Thomas team, of which Melville Jamieson, another old Peterboro boy, is Secretary, has been knocked into the discard by London. Thus the two old rivals have both dropped from the picture.

CRICKET RECORD BROKEN BY JACK HOBBS, SURREY

Made 127th Century of His Career in County Match.

TWO IN GAME.

Tied Dr. Grace's Record in First Inning, Breaking it in Second.

LONDON, Aug. 19 (Canadian Press)—Jack Hogg, the noted Surrey cricketer, who Monday in the county cricket championship match between Surrey and Somersetshire, scored his 126th century in Surrey's first innings, thus equalling the world's record set by Dr. W. G. Grace, the most brilliant all-round cricketer in the world, and yesterday in Surrey's second innings, made another century and thus eclipsed all records for runs during one period at bat, also created a new record of 14 centuries in one season. Hobbs' two centuries in this match was the third occasion in his cricket career on which he has scored a century in each innings of a match.

Hobbs was given a great ovation by a big crowd of spectators who had shown the keenest interest in his play throughout. The crowd surged round his pavilion and cheered continuously for a straight quarter of an hour. The enthusiastic gathering insisted upon the hero of the day making a speech.

Hobbs briefly addressed the crowd. He expressed thanks for the manifestation of pleasure at his play and said he was happy indeed to have achieved the ambition of his life.

The record of the match in which Hobbs set his mark so high was won by Surrey by 10 wickets, and is as follows.

Somerset 167 in the first innings (Young 58) and 374 in the second innings (Hunt 59, Young 71, MacBryan 109); Surrey 359 in the first innings (Hobbs 101, Pender 59) and 183 in the second innings without the loss of a wicket (Hobbs 101, Sandham 74, neither of them out).

NEW YORK LADY WINS AS CARMEN

Best Fancy Costume at Viamede's Annual Masquerade Dance—Many Costumes.

STONEY LAKE, Aug. 18.—Viamede pavilion was in gala attire on Friday evening last for the annual masquerade dance which is a feature of each season's gaieties. The attendance was good, both of spectators and those who were in fancy or comic costume and there was very much merriment over "who was who." The percentage of unique costumes was good and the task of the judges was no light one. The music supplied by Ellsworth's Orchestra was enticing and kept the floor full of dancers all evening. When the announcement of the grand march brought all in costume to the floor, the procession of gaily attired figures was a dazzling spectacle. "Carmen" flitted by on the arm of a "comic supplement", a cross word puzzle and a colonial gentleman, whose trim little feet belied the sex ,a gorgeous Valentino and Aunt Eppie Hogg, clowns and gypsies, kewpies, the gold dust twins, Napoleon, in solitary state, a pair of jolly romping youngsters, a grotesque straw man, a pretty little girl with long curls, whose coiffure answered the question, "Where are the girls of the old brigade", Si Perkins, the jolly hick, a Jew, a buxon coloured mammy and several dainty colonial maids all filed past with a host of less conspicuous figures lending a kaleidoscopic effect. The judges who were Mrs. Gilmour and Mrs. C. J. Sloan of Toronto and Dr. Belt of Cleveland made their selection of prize winners with considerable difficulty but judging from the applause the results were popular.

Mr. Paul Bilkey of Montreal, whose impersonation of Napoleon was remarkable was awarded the first prize for gentleman's fancy costume.

Mrs. Edwin B. Lausier of New York as "Carmen" received the first prize for lady's fancy costume. Mr. Hammond of Toronto who was the "straw man" was awarded the prize for gentlemans' comic costume, and Mrs. Wm. Clink of Toronto as "Aunt Eppie Hogg" received the prize for lady's comic costume. The prize for child's costume as awarded to Miss Margaret Ianson who demurely impersonated a kewpie doll.

After the prizes had been presented dancing was resumed and kept up till about midnight.

Miss Madge Scott as a colonial gentleman, Miss Pilkey a gentleman of the eighteenth century and Miss B. Bilkey as a colonial maid, and Miss Evelyn Henderson as a kewpie and Captain Lausier as a comic supplement and Mr. Andrews as Si Perkins were also among the outstanding costumes.

The evening passes into one of the pleasant memories of the season's social events at Stoney Lake.

Guests registered at "Viamede", Mount Julian, during the past week are as follows:

GROUNDS IN ORDER.

Small Boys Still Persist in Clambering Over Building.

Everything about the Exhibition Grounds now looks neat and trim as a result of the preparations that have been going on in past weeks.

Annoyance is still being caused by boys who persist in clambering all over the buildings and undoing much of the work of cleaning and repairing. It is stated that any boys who are found thus discrediting the community and themselves will be given an opportunity of becoming acquainted with the police.

MERCANTILE LEAGUE PLAY-OFF FOR CUP

Peterborough Lock Co. Meet Bankers in Series of Three Games.

Peterboro Lock Company has won the championship in the Mercantile League this year, but as there have been two cups donated, the winners have the choice of cups. They have decided to give the Bankers, who gave them a hard fight for first place, a chance to win, and when those two teams clash the fans can expect a battle royal. They are to play the best two out of three games.

As Mr. Fan said in The Examiner last night, this League has been poorly supported. These players certainly deserve the help of the fans.

MACMILLAN CUTS ARCTIC PROGRAMME

Explorer Hampered By Fogs and Early Ice.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19. — (Canadian Press.)—The Macmillan Arctic expedition has abandoned hope of carrying out its full exploration programme over the Polar sea this year. Curtailment of the expedition's activities was forced by adverse weather which has locked the northland in ice and fog well ahead of the usual winter season.

MacMillan and his explorers will proceed, however, to carry out other objects of the expedition, including investigations from the present base at Etah, Greenland.

Change in the plans was announced to-day by the National Geographic Society.

FINANCIAL NEWS.

Profit-Taking Sales Set Wall Street Leaders Back

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—(Canadian Press).—Selling pressure increased as trading progressed, and the general list lost ground during the morning. Cautionary commission-house advices finally had their intended effect in bringing about a large volume of profit-taking sales in Wall Street, which were swelled by offerings of professional bear traders who acted on the theory that the recent rapid upward pace in many stocks warranted, at least, a technical re-action. General Railway Signal broke 8¾ points, General Electric 3¼, and many others a point or two. Rails re-acted with the industrials, although the publication of a record-breaking car loadings report for the week ended on August 8 was a steadying influence. Bullish operations were not altogether abandoned, but were carried on with vigor in a selected list of farm implement paper and public utility share. International Harvester was bid up 3½ points to 127½ the highest price in five years, in reflection of expanding motor 'bus and truck operations of that company, and Havana Electric jumped 5½ to a record high at 208. Union Bag and Paper, Montana Power and American Express also recorded a sharp advance. Call money renewed at four per cent.

Brazilian Was Feature Of Toronto Stock Exchange

TORONTO, Aug. 19.—(Canadian Press).—The leadership of the market on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning swung to Brazilian after the first spurt of trading. Smelters opened the session with a great display of activity and climbed a high of 128 7-8. Then recessions set in and Smelters closed at noon at 121 3-4 at a net gain of 2-4. Brazilian steadily climbed to 63 7-8, and lost only an eighth from that new high mark at morning close for a net advance of 1½ points. Dealings in Brazilian totalled more than 1,800 shares. F. N. Burts softened 3-8 and City Dairy dropped 7-8, but Canada Bread strengthened up to 61 then receded to 60 for a point gain.

Twin City also made a point gain and held it at 61.

Lorraine Steady Among Declining Mine Stock

TORONTO, Aug. 19.—(Canadian Press).—With trading continuing desultory, an easier tone was shown on the Standard Mining Exchange this morning. As usual in the past few sessions Lorraine was the only stock dealt in to any great extent, and Lorraine to-day sold unchanged at 9. Vipond sold a point lower at 120 and Barry Hollinger also a point lower at 38. Baldwin, Columbus, Kirkland, Con. West Dome, Goldale and Hattie all softened fractionally. Hattie was a quarter down at 3-4.

Surplus Wheat Absorbed At Chicago Mart Opening

CHICAGO, Aug. 19. — (Canadian Press).—A house with eastern connections took the surplus wheat off the market at the opening of the Board of Trade session to-day, and with the shorts also covering, the range showed around a two-cent gain in all deliveries during the first hour. Adverse weather reports from Canada also had an influence. Wheat opened 3-8 cent down to 5-8 cent advance, with September 157¾ to 158¾, and December 157 to 157½, but this was followed by a gain that carried September to 160 and December to 159. Both deliveries receded fractionally later.

Corn trading was on a large scale, this grain showing strength right at the start, and gaining more during early dealings. Reports from the States other than those in the corn belt were not encouraging, and this helped to advance prices. The opening showed corn from ⅛ to 1 3-4 cents up, with September 105 to 106. Later another point was gained by September corn and then a fractional drop took place.

Oats started a shade up and also displayed firmness, making small gains during the first hour, September starting at 39 3-8 to 39 5-8. Provisions were firm.

SHIP OWNERS VIE FOR TRAMP CARGO

Lack of Space Demand Because of Unwillingness to Accept Rates.

LONDON, Aug. 19.—(Associated Press.)—Shipping freights are at present in a bad way. Rates have fallen to levels below those of pre-war days and represent losses to many ship owners. Large liner companies are experiencing a great dearth of demand for their space and cut rates to absorb cargoes which would ordinarily go on tramp steamers.

This policy is said to be insufficient to fill the liners with remunerative cargo and consequently sailing programmes and laid up several boats. Many cargo steamers are returning to home ports here in ballast rather than accept rates quoted in some trades.

52 DAYS WITHOUT FOOD.

Dietician Adopts Drastic Method to Cure Fever.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 19.—(United Press.)—Withered almost to a skeleton, Alexandra Varga, advocate of health by starvation, has rounded out his 52nd day of abstinence from food. Varga is a physical culturist and a well read dietician. He started abstaining from food to cure attacks of fever which had become almost chronic. He is 36 years old.

GETS SENTENCE.

Russian Archbishop Given Three Years For Counter Activities.

MINSK, Russia, Aug. 19.—(Canadian Press.)—Archbishop Melchisidek to-day was sentenced to three years' imprisonment by the Supreme Court after conviction of charges of counter-revolutionary activities and obstructing Soviet authorities in confiscation of church treasures in 1921.

AT THE CAPITOL

"DESERT FLOWER" SEES "SALLY" FILM

Colleen Moore, First National star, while convalescing in her beautiful home in Los Angeles from injuries sustained while filming scenes for "The Desert Flower" on location, viewed the first showing ever made of the completed production of "Sally," her previous vehicle.

A portable projecting machine, an operator and a three-piece orchestra were sent to Miss Moores sick room to make the slow days of recovery seem shorter.

Miss Moore injured several vertebrae and neck tendons in falling from a speeding handcar used in "The Desert Flower," which will be shown at the Capitol Theatre to-morrow.

AT THE ROYAL.

KIDDIES' 5c MATINEE THURSDAY AFTERNOON.

Another five-cent treat for the kiddies will be given to-morrow afternoon at the Royal. The entire program will be presented at 2.30 for five cents.

IRISH NOVELTIES THURSDAY NIGHT.

Irish songs, dances, music, will be an added attraction on Thursday night at the Royal. Many old favorite songs will be heard, including "My Wild Irish Rose," "River Shannon," "Killarney," "When Irish Eyes are Smiling," "Wearing of the Green," "Mother Machree," etc.

CLOSES TO-DAY.

"The Shock Punch," a Paramount picture starring Richard Dix, directed by Paul Sloane from the Liberty serial by John Monk Saunders, closes a three-day run at the Royal Theatre this afternoon and evening.

The picture has to do with a wealthy young fellow who becomes a structural iron worker to be near the girl he loves, the daughter of a big building contractor. Frances Howard, featured at the head of the cast, is the girl. "Gunboat" Smith, Walter Long and Paul Panzer also play in support.

BEAUTY OF SCREEN.

Patsy Ruth Miller has come to the fore rapidly in pictures. She is one of the most vivacious young beauties of the screen and one of the most talented. Miss Miller plays the lead in "My Man," a David Smith picturization of "A Tale of Red Roses" by George Randolph Chester, which will be seen at the Royal Theatre to-morrow. She has the role of a typical American girl, who brings the political Boss of the town, a modern caveman, to his knees. Miss Miller's most recent picture was "The Hunchback of Notre Dame."

COUNTY COUNCIL IN CONFERENCE WITH MINISTER

Adopt Road Recommendations of the Department of Highways.

REVISED SYSTEM.

Re-arrangement of Grants Made By Government to Local Bodies.

S. L. Squires, Deputy Minister of Highways, and the Advisory Board of the Department, met the Peterboro County Council this forenoon. The Council presented their case for a reduction of the mileage of the county and the Advisory Board in turn outlined the new county roads system dealing with roads carrying traffic other than that of the townships. The system as set out by the Advisory Board was adopted except for some minor changes.

Roads formerly under the old system, that come under the new scheme, will be paid by the Government 50 per cent. of all expenditure up to date, and will receive the same proportion in the future. Roads on the old system that fall back to the townships will receive grants of 40 per cent. of upkeep up to date or reverting the townships will receive grants of 30 per cent. of total expenditure.

The council met this afternoon for the purpose of passing by-laws adopting the new arrangement and regulating the expenditure.

Mr. Squires and the advisory board left this afternoon for Lindsay where they will inspect Kinmount Bridge with a view of arriving at an agreement between the Government and the counties of Peterborough and Victoria; by means of which the expenditure on the bridge will be distributed in equitable proportion among the interested parties.

The whole purpose of advertising is to show you ways in which you can live better, more comfortably and more happily. Read the advertisements to find out how you may own many things you have always felt were beyond your means.

OBITUARY.

JAMES SQUIRES.

Word was received here last night of the death in Seattle of James Squires. His body has been sent home, and Mr. Walter Squires, his brother, left yesterday to receive it in Chicago. The funeral will be held in Peterborough, but no arrangements have been made yet.

James Squires was the youngest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Walter Squires of this city. For years he was a clerk in the Peterborough Hardware Company's store, and is remembered as a genial and efficient salesman. He is survived by his brothers, Edward of Hamilton and Walter of Toronto.

MRS. (DR.) FIFE.

Mrs. Elizabeth Fife passed peacefully away at the home of her son, Col. A. T. Fife, at the age of 86 years. She had been in failing health for some time.

The late Mrs. Elizabeth Fife was born November 10, 1839, in Manchester, England, and came to Canada with her parents, the Rev. Ashton and Mrs. Fletcher, in 1842. She was married in 1867 to Dr. Joseph A. Fife, and for a couple of years after her marriage resided at Brampton, Ont., later removing to Hastings, and then to Peterboro', where her husband practiced his profession for many years, up to his death in 1902. She came to Kenora in 1905 to make her home with her son, and has resided here since that time.

The late Mrs. Fife was a fine type of Christian woman, exemplifying in her life the highest attributes. A mother, devoted to her home and family, she seemed to have the same kindly feelings to all with whom she came in contact—sympathetic, just and thoughtful. Her home was one where the whole-hearted hospitality of an earlier day in Canada prevailed, and exemplified in its finest characteristics. She was always devoted to her church and she treasured her faith. A woman of wide reading, she was wonderfully well informed, and in conversation combined a happy conception of humor which made her a charming hostess in her days of activity.

She is survived by two sons and two daughters: William T. Fife, Myrtle, Man.; Col. Ashton T. Fife; Mrs. L. E. Emerson, Cambridge, Mass., and Miss Alice L. O. Fife, at home.

Interment took place in the Fife Cemetery, Ontario.—Kenora Miner and News.

FERGUSON AS CHAIRMAN.

Suggested as Successor of Sir Adam Beck.

TORONTO, Aug. 19.—(Canadian Press).—Discussing the possibilities for the chairmanship of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission, which was rendered vacant by the death of Sir Adam Beck, the Toronto Star says to-day that it has been suggested that Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Premier of Ontario, could take the chairmanship himself and still retain the leadership of the Government as Premier, Mr. Ferguson would have to relinquish the portfolio of Education, however, the Star points out.

Time may pass from year to year
And friends from day to day

SISTERS BADE WORLD GOOD-BYE

Six Took Final Vows of Sisterhood of St. Joseph—Three Receive Habit.

Sacred Heart Chapel, Mount St. Joseph, was the scene of a very impressive ceremony on Saturday morning when three young ladies received the Holy Habit of the Sisters of St. Joseph and six Sisters pronounced their perpetual vows.

At nine o'clock the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass was offered by Rt. Rev. Bishop M. J. O'Brien, D.D., assisted by Rev. J. Finn, and Rev. P. Butler. Present also in the sanctuary were Rt. Rev. Mgr. McCall, Rev. J. McAuley of Ennismore, Rev. P. Costello, Rev. W. A. Dunn, S.J.

In a brief but eloquent address, Rev. Father Dunn paid tribute to the noble work done by the sisterhoods in the alleviation of human misery, and in the advancement of the cause of religion. The seed implanted by the ministers of the gospel, would, he declared, very often fail to produce fruit were it not for the zealous ministration of these handmaids of the Master. At the conclusion of the ceremony, His Lordship spoke briefly in appreciation of the Catholic homes in which the Sisters had been given a true outlook on life and had been inspired by high ideals of generosity and self-sacrifice. The three young ladies, all residents of Peterboro', who were received into the Community were: Miss Irene Grant, in religion, Sister Mary Germaine; Miss Anna Fitzgerald, in religion, Sister Mary Catharine; Miss Frances Woodhouse, in religion, Sister Mary Hilda. The Sisters who made final profession were: Sister M. St. Stephen, Sister Helen Marie, Sister M. St. Roch, Sister M. St. William, Sister M. Joan of Arc and Sister M. Celesta.

Coastal Regulations By Cantonese Government Closes Ports To All Ships Except British and Japanese—Press of Britain Angry.

BOLSHEVIK PROMPT EXCLUSION

Cantonese Government Lacks International Standing, Hence Chinese Action Regarded By Some Merely As Piracy.

LONDON, Aug. 20 (Canadian Press).—The new Chinese coastal regulation discriminating against British and Japanese shipping, reported from Canton yesterday, is not only engaging the close attention of the British Government, but has raised a remarkable stir in the press. The regulations, framed by Cantonese authorities are:

First—Steamers of any nationality except British and Japanese will be allowed to use any port provided they omit calling at the British port of Hong Kong.;

Second—All steamers upon entering the ports must be subject to inspection by pickets of the anti-Imperialist Union.

The British Consul General at Canton protested to the Chinese Government that the regulations were in violation of Great Britain's treaty rights and were tantamount to a declaration of war. His stand is endorsed by many papers here, although it is remarked that the Chinese Government is probably powerless in the matter.

Inspired by Russia.

The general conclusion accordingly is that the regulations are a deliberate affront by the so-called Cantonese government, which lacks international status, and is regarded here as under the thumb of the Bolsheviki. Action therefor is held by some to be rather an act of piracy than of war. Nevertheless, the incident is looked upon as having created somewhat of a crisis The foreign Office is examining the situation with great care and is understood to be in communication with other Powers, desiring to reach a complete agreement regarding any measures to be taken. The Daily Mail's Hong Kong correspondent says, there is intense indignation among the British there, coupled with impatience at the apparent inaction of the British Government.

TELEGRAPH BOYS CLAD IN UNIFORM

Messengers Present Natty Appearance in New Habilments.

WEATHER PROVISION.

Uniformed telegraph messengers are seen on Peterboro streets for the first time in its history. The Canadian National Telegraphs under the general managership of Mr. W. G. Barber, with Toronto headquarters, is now supplying messengers in all of the larger centres with a complete uniform of dark grey, consisting of tunic, riding trousers, leather leggings and cap with badge. For rainy weather a large oilskin cape is supplied and an overcoat for winter will be added. The whole outfit has a very neat appearance and will fulfil to the general public its purpose of authenticating the boys who are entrusted with the conveyance of important telegrams between the Canadian National Telegraph offices and patrons. Telegraph messengers in uniforms should also give tourists and travellers to Peterboro an impression of up-to-date-ness.

On Monday, the first time the boys were seen with the uniforms, the office staffs of the various patrons of the Casadian National Telegraphs would surround the messenger as soon as he was noticed, examising each item of the new uniforms. Favorable comments are heard from all quarters, and the Canadian National Telegraphs is to be congratulated upon the introduction of such an addition to its already well known speedy telegraph service.

Abolition Of Speed Limit Opposed By Hon. G. S. Henry

TORONTO, Aug. 20 (Canadian Press) — Suggestions that speed limits for motor cars be abolished and rules for careful driving substituted were emphatically opposed by Hon. George S. Henry, Minister of Highways, today.

"I do not think a car capable of travelling at 60 miles an hour should be allowed on the highways," the minister said.

The suggestion came from an American tourist who expressed the opinion that speed limits were not so important as regulations to check reckless driving. T. N. Phelan, K.C., president of Ontario Motor League when questioned said he thought speed limits would be abolished and the only rule of road would be careful and sane driving.

Ardent Lover Of Screen Finds Real Love Cooling

RODOLPH VALENTINO

VALENTINO AND WIFE SEPARATE

Originator of Film Shiek Roles Denies Divorce—A Marital Vacation.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—(Canadian Press).—Rudolph Valentino, original shiek of the screen, and his second wife, Winifred De Wolfe Hudnut Valentino, dancer, and daughter of the perfume manufacturer, have agreed to separate.

The wreck of one of Hollywood's dearest romances was announced early to-day by George Ellman, manager for Mrs. Valentino, but he emphasized that the rocks were nicely cushioned. The separation is entirely friendly, Mr. Ellman said, there being no idea of a divorce, no agreement for alimony, but merely the desire of the two artists to pursue their own talents in different directions.

Marital Vacation.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Aug. 20. — (Canadian Press).—Rudolph Valentino, motion picture actor, said today that he and his wife, the former Winifred Hudnut, had agreed on a martial vacation.

"I took her to train and kissed her good-bye," said the portrayer of sheik roles in the films. "Does that look as though we parted on anything but the best of terms?"

"Neither of us is contemplating a suit for divorce."

As to the length of the "marital vacation," Valentino would not commit himself.

Rumors had been in circulation that the Valentinos were soon to be divorced.

MONGOLS EXPEL ROY C. ANDREWS

American Discoverer of Dinosaur Eggs Charged With Anti-Bolshevist Propaganda.

ON EXPEDITION.

MOSCOW, Aug. 20. — (United Press).—Charging that Roy Chapman Andrews, American head of an excavation expedition into Mongolia, had conducted anti-Bolshevik propaganda there, the Mongolian Government has ordered his expedition out of the country, according to Urga despatches to-day. It was also charged that he took topographical maps.

Andrews arrived at Peking a few days ago, announcing that his expedition, which is made on behalf of the American Museum of Natural History and the Asia Magazine, had discovered a number of dinosaur eggs and had found indications that man existed 20,000,000 years before the dinosaur.

He had planned to return to Mongolia directly and said nothing in a despatch to the Asia Magazine about being expelled from the country.

Traces of Ancient Race.

PEKIN, Aug. 20. — (Canadian Press). — Stone implements and weapons of a race of men who lived thousands of years ago among the sand dunes on the shore of a lake, since swallowed by the Gobi Desert, and who discovered eggs of dinosaur countless ages before these were introduced to the civilized world by Roy Chapman Andrews, two years ago, have been found far in the interior of Mongolia by the third Asiatic Expedition of the American Museum of Natural History, Mr. Andrews, leader of the expedition, disclosed in Pekin yesterday.

That these primitive men knew of eggs left by the dinosaur, a giant reptile that roamed Asiatic uplands some ten million years ago; is proved by the fact that they neatly bored shells and made ornaments of them, Mr. Andrews said. They used for the same purpose shells of a gigantic ostrich, long since extinct.

FOUR INQUESTS INTO EXPLOSION THAT KILLED 37

Death List Among Injured Excursionists at Newport May Exceed Fifty.

FOUR ARE MISSING.

The "Mackinac" Was Within Sight of Dock When Boiler Blew Up.

NEWPORT, R.I., Aug. 20 (Canadian Press).—Four separate investigations were under way today to determine the responsibility for the tragedy of the explosion of a boiler on the excursion steamer Mackinac in Newport Harbor Tuesday evening which has claimed 37 lives already, with a dozen other victims fighting for their last slim chance for life with the probabilities against them.

Four other persons are still missing, and it is believed that they may have jumped overboard and drowned. Hospital authorities, who still have many sufferers from scalding steam which enveloped the boat, said that the death list will probably exceed fifty.

The disaster, the worst in Rhode Island waters since the Larchmont went down with between 125 and 175 on board in 1907, was the direct result of the defective boiler, Assistant Attorney-General Oscar A. Heltzen told the press last night.

The Rhode Island Attorney-General's Department will continue its investigation to determine whether there is criminal culpability.

Only one of the victims was killed instantly by the blast of steam. He was Joseph Le Vallee, of Central Falls, R.I., a fireman on the vessel.

On Way to Dock.

The Mackinac, in charge of Captain George McVey, was homeward bound from an excursion when the disaster occurred. She was steaming sliowly through Codington Cove, about a mile from shore, and would have docked in about ten minutes.

Merriment among passengers was undiminished by the sight of the lights of the city, which pressaged an end to the day's outing. To many of the men, women and children aboard, the Pawtucket excursion was an annual event, and they were enjoying themselves accordingly.

Suddenly there was a terrific roar. The vessel seemed to lift itself out of the water and rest, suspended for a moment in mid-air. Then it sank back, with a rolling movement that threw the passengers into panic.

Many, who only a few moments before had been singing and dancing, were struck down by the blast, while panic-stricken excursionists trampled over them in a stampede for the lifeboats.

Battled in Dark.

Blinded temporarily by the waves of the steam that were loosened by the explosion, frantic passengers, screaming and weeping, battled with each other in the semi-darkness, seeking their loved ones, from whom they had become separated in the excitement.

The explosion hurtled many passengers into the water.

Shrieks of the injured added to the bedlam as the burning vapor swept the decks.

Scores of passengers leaped into the water voluntarily to escape the sizzling inferno of steam, which penetrated every hatch and bulkhead.

J. O. Kane, of Providence, said he was driven back by steam while he tried to descend from the upper deck in search of his 17-year-old daughter, Sarah. He finally went to the side of the boat and lowered himself to the main deck where he found her unconscious, lying near a firewater bucket. On shaking her, he said, his daughter revived, and together they made their way to the rail to escape the steam.

A year-old baby was torn from the arms of Mrs. Florence Johnston, of Providence, and became lost during the period the steam flooded the boat.

"When the steam finally cleared away," Mrs. Johnston said, "I found my baby again, huddled on the deck near a hatchway. He had been burned, and I thought of jumping with him into the harbor, but the ship soon beached, and we were taken off."

Scenes after the tragedy were pathetic.

A ten-year-old girl with both hands and faced burned raw by the steam piteously begged a policeman to "blow on my hands, please."

Scenes of Horror.

Scenes about the naval hospital were of indescribable pity and horror. News of the disaster spread rapidly and brought hundreds of friends and relatives of those who had been aboard the doomed vessel.

Denied admittance to the naval hospital, they stood about the building throughout the night, crying piteously and imploring the guards to admit them. As this request was denied a group surged toward the doors as though to force entrance. To thwart such a plan, naval guards were called out, and they kept an effective patrol.

Heart trouble was the cause in both cases.

ELECTION SURE OTTAWA RUMOR

Advocates of Early Election Reported to Have Prevailed.

TORONTO, Aug. 20.—(Canadian Press).—An Ottawa despatch to the Toronto Star says:

"In the corridors of the Chateau, where parliamentarians on their arrival at Ottawa are wont to congregate, the impression prevails to-day that, as a result of the Cabinet Councils and private conferences which have been going on since the beginning of the week, advocates of an early general election have prevailed over those who desire a delay and that to all intents and purposes the campaign is on.

"While no definite official announcement is expected for some time, it is understood that Premier King, who has favored an early election from the outset, and those members of his Cabinet who were of a like mind, have succeeded in overcoming the objections of opposing Ministers and of private members who have been unfavorable to a plunge."

FISH HOOK IN NOSE HOSPITAL PROBLEM

Boy Swinging Pole Embedded Barb in Man's Face.

NEW YORK, N.Y., August 20. — (Special.) — It took nearly the entire staff of ambulance surgeons at St. John's Hospital, Long Island City to undo the work of a barefoot boy.

The boy, a little shaver of about 10, was on his way to the East River, outfitted for an afternoon of fishing, when he passed Theo. Isaac, aged 25, of Astoria.

The boy was swinging a long line attached to the end of a bamboo pole. As the pole passed Isaac the line swung in a wide circle.

"Ouch!" the man yelled. The line pulled tight, with the hook at its end firmly embedded in Isaac's nostrils.

With little hesitation the lad pulled a penknife from his pocket, and barring the blade, released his line. He fled.

A short time later Isaac appeared at the hospital, where the hook was removed from his nostrils.

WHEAT UP 5c.

In Sympathy With Advance in Toronto.

Wheat went up 5c per bushel in Peterboro yesterday, in sympathy with a similar increase in the Toronto market. No special significance is attached to the increase, "merely the fluctuation of the market," said an authority this morning. The Examiner informant added that a return to the former price inside a week was quite within the bounds of possibility.

Kirkland Lake Up Point Castle Tretheway Gains

TORONTO, Aug. 20. — (Canadian Press.)—Trading was a little heavier on the standard mining exchange to-day and a slight change in tone for the better was shown. Goldale, Con. West Dome Lake and Lorraine were leaders in activity, Lorrain easing an eighth and Con. West Dome a quarter, while Goldale strengthened a quarter. Tech Hughes dropped one and Vipond two points. Kirkland Lake again prominent, improved a full point at 46 and Castle Tretheway gained one at 95 1-2.

CROSSES ON ROAD TELL GRIM STORY

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 19. — (Associated Press).—Dotting the sides of Ohio's highways throughout the length of the State at frequent and infrequent intervals stand white crosses. They mark spots where automobilists have been killed.

Automobile drivers rounding a sharp curve, in many sections, come squarely upon a white cross, or possibly two or three, mute reminders that one or more persons have been killed at that spot.

Governor Vic Donahey was responsible for the placing of the crosses. It was his idea that they would help to cut down automobile fatalities by making drivers more cautious. They have not been installed long enough, however, to draw any conclusions.

Many automobile drivers declare they experience a sinking sensation when they suddenly come upon the white crosses. The Governor has been condemned for the move on the ground it gives rise to morbid thoughts; others have praised it as being a good "sedative" for reckless drivers.

GLOBE DESIRED NEUTRAL POLICY

John Lewis, Late Acting-Editor, Amplifies Explanation of Resignation.

TORONTO, Aug. 20.—(Canadian Press).—In a further statement to the press to-day, John Lewis, late acting editor of the Toronto Globe, said in part as follows: "In conversation with Mr. Jaffray, I freely conceded the right of the Globe to part with the Government upon a question of principle. No such disagreement was given as the cause of Mr. Jaffray's prejudice against the Government.

"Mr. Jaffray's demand was that for the present the Globe should be neutral—saying nothing in favor of the Government or against Mr. Meighen and his party, and that as to its attitude in the general election we should wait and see.

"My position was that, while I did not claim perfection for the Government, it should have not the blind allegiance but the friendly support of the Globe, that we could not maintain an act of neutrality throughout the campaign, and that our only alternative was to support either the King Government or Mr. Meighen. I advocated the former course, believing that the Government has done well in circumstances of extraordinary difficulty."

CORN INSPECTED.

Preventive Measure Against Corn Borer in the District.

The Examiner was informed this morning that inspectors of the Department of Health stopped farmers on the highway yesterday in the neighborhood of the city and examined several loads of corn to assure themselves that the corn borer was not present.

Complaints have been made in some towns in the province that among the corn offered for sale were some that had traces of the pest and steps have been taken to prevent any more of such corn being placed on the market. No such corn was found among any of the loads brought into Peterborough.

"BRINGING UP FATHER" — Geo. McManus

UNCLE SAM CANCELS $200,000,000 OF BELGIUM'S ACCRUED INTEREST

Small Payments on War Debt Will Be Accepted Until 1935 To Allow Belgium "Breathing Spell."

FRENCH ARE NEXT.

WASHINGTON August 20.—Canadian Press. — The terse announcement from Secretary Mellon that the French commissioners empowered to negotiate a plan for funding their nation's war debt to the United States, would sail September 15th, followed to-day on the heels of the Belgian settlement made yesterday. Otherwise there was no official statement on the funding situation. Members of the United States debt commission expressed the conviction that the Belgian settlement had been in no way associated with the French approach but there was considerable variance of opinion as to its effect upon French and Italian sentiment.

Differed on One Point.

The agreement reached with Belgium recognized practically all of Belgium's contentions with respect to a separation of pre-armistice and post-armistice debts. Only one point did the Americans refuse to budge, and that was on the Belgium claim that the pre-armistice debt should be made an obligation of Germany, as provided in the Versailles treaty, to which President Wilson assented, and collected from Germany, and not from Belgium.

In handling both the pre and post armistice debts allowance was made for Belgium's unfavorable economic and financial position at present. While no moratorium was granted, provision was made for relatively small payments on both until 1935 in order to give Belgium a "breathing spell" in which to get her financial house in order.

Claim of Leniency.

The agreement now will go to the respective parliaments of the two countries. The Belgian will sail for their country on Saturday and probably will submit the pact immediately for approval. The American commision will lay it before congress in December. Despite optimistic statements of the American commission it seems likely that opposition will be made to the pact here because of its leniency.

In point of fact the agreement practically cancels more than $200,000,000 when the interest concessions are figured in. The interest which is remitted to Belgium must continue to be paid out by the American government on Liberty bonds by which money lent to Belgium was raised.

President Coolidge's endorsement of the agreement, however, is believed to be sufficient to prevent its overturning in Congress.

SHE WAS WEAK, THIN AND NERVOUS

One of the greatest strength givers and producers of good healthy flesh in the world is Cod Liver Extract—it's full of vitamines.

Thank goodness! that now, when a woman is weak and haggard and don't weigh what she ought to, she knows where to go for help as all druggists are now selling McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets, sugar coated, and as easy to take as candy.

And it's a mighty good thing for skinny, rundown men and women to know that they can get the real Cod Liver vitamines in condensed form, that they can easily carry with them wherever they travel.

Men and women, weak, thin and nervous, are urged to put on weight and get back their health and strength with these wonderful tablets.

One woman gained 15 pounds in five weeks and that's going fast enough for anyone.

Only 60 cents for 60 tablets, and if they don't put five pounds of flesh on any thin person in 30 days—why, money back and no quibbling about it, either.

But be sure and get McCoy's, the original and genuine. Warne Drug Co., McDerimd & Jury, Jas. Lynch and Bond's Drug Store is selling lots of them.

The Question.

Willie—"Say, pop, what is a diplomat?"

Father—"A diplomat, my son, is one who can talk for hours without saying anything."

Willie—"Say, pop, is mom a diplomat?"

The Proof.

Van Jay—"Are you going in for purer English?"

Van Puff—"Bet your life! None of that jazz jabber in mine. My gab is simon pure and I am slinging it straight, too. Why, I am just dippy. Get me?"

TORONTO POLICE ARREST "SPIRIT" FRAUD ALLEGED

Lights Turned Out at Spiritualistic Meeting—Hamilton Man Appeared in White.

POLICE ATTACKED.

"Spirit" Stripped of White Robe and Chased in His B.V.D.'s.

TORONTO, Aug. 20.—(Canadian Press).—Police were forced to use their billies in order to carry out an arrest last night when they broke up a spiritualistic meeting. Although a number of the men who made up the 65 paid admissions to the hall had their heads battered, they were not taken into custody. Arthur Heldregh, aged 38, giving his address as 35 Balsam Avenue, Hamilton, and claiming to be the church pastor, was locked up on a charge of fraud.

Plain Clothesmen Mulholland and Wilson purchased two tickets at $1 a piece and entered the hall. Heldregh, garbed in minister's cloth ing, stepped forward from behind black robes hanging from a partitioned section of the platform. Heldregh announced that the hall would be placed in darkness, and a spirit would appear. The lights went out, and suddenly a figure appeared from behind the curtains garbed in long white robe and wearing a wig of long hair. Satisfied that this was Heldregh, Plain Clothesmen Mulholland and Wilson rose from their seats. Mulholland flashed his light and grasped hold of Heldregh. As he did Heldregh bolted, and the robe was torn off. Heldregh started to run in the dark hall, but was apprehended.

Before the lights could be turned on, women were screaming and men started to roughly use the two police officers. Mulholland drew his "billie" and beat his assailants away. When the rioters were subdued, Heldregh, then stripped to his underclothing, was taken to the rear of the hall and compelled to dress. He was then escored to the police station.

PIE REGARDED A REAL FOOD

Nutrition Expert Finds It Has All Body-Building Elements.

RESULT OF TESTS.

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—Along with the New England breakfast menu, Chicago may become one of the principal supporters of pie. Six months' experimenting just concluded here has advanced pie from the dessert column to near the top of the list of foods.

The tests were conducted by Roscoe H. Shaw, nutrition expert for the American Baking Association, with the collaboration of two groups of albino rats. Half the animals were fed custard pie and the others rice, potatoes, cabbage, spinach, bread. As a result, Mr. Shaw gives his fellow human beings the finding that pie is food and that certain pastries are about as nearly complete in food balance as any item on the modern menu.

Custard Heads List.

Custard, pumpkin, squash and sweet potato pies head Mr. Shaw's list. Apple pie has its qualities, too. While low in protein, he says, it is an excellent source of heat and energy and has slightly more food value pound for pound than wheat bread.

So highly does he regard pie as food, Mr. Shaw suggests that its place on the dinner bill is well forward. When pie is eaten for dessert, he says, the diner has had as much food as his body requires and so doesn't get the good that abounds in pie. Mr. Shaw thinks pie should precede other dishes.

In his test with the rats Mr. Shaw used custard pie made as if for human consumption, with two eggs to each pint of milk and the usual amount of sugar and spices. He reported that his subjects had a pie appetite from the start and showed results. The pie-fed animals became sleek and gained weight more rapidly than those on pieless diet.

Food Factors Present.

The ingredients of pie, says Mr. Shaw, are such as to nourish human beings as well as rats. Eggs, milk and wheat flour supply proteins. Flour also has carbohydrates and so has the sugar of the milk and the cane sugar. There are fats in the shortening of the crust, butter and eggs and mineral salts are supplied by eggs and milk and the berries in berry pie.

WOMEN'S BOARD NAME OFFICERS

District Institute Headed By Mrs. David Miller, of Warsaw.

SPECIAL SERVICES.

WARSAW, Aug. 20.—The regular meeting of the Warsaw Women's Institute was held on Thursday, Aug. 13, with forty ladies present. There were several ladies present from Norwood. Mrs. Chas. Macoun, Provincial Secretary, was present and explained the need and method of affiliation with other branches; also gave a talk on motherhood and on the general work of institutes. She considers the institute gives an impetus to every good work undertaken. While neither partisan nor denominational, it is political and it is religious. After her address the Norwood ladies elected their representatives for the district board, viz., Mesdames Rogers, McMillan and W. Chamberlain. The Warsaw ladies elected: Mesdames David Miller, Thos. Cooper, L. E. McCracken and Robert Payne. These seven elected, as President, Mrs. David Miller; 2nd Vice-President, Mrs. H. Rogers; Secretary, Mrs. Thos. Cooper; and Directors, Mesdames E. J. McMillan and L. E. McCracken, leaving 1st Vice-President and a Director for Havelock. These officers must be approved by department.

Mrs. Smith gave a most interesting talk on her return trip from India, especially her visits to Cairo and to Jerusalem. As with most others, Jesusalem, with its environments, was an inspiration to herself and to her husband. When the city first met their view, they stood on tip-toe to see it.

Mrs. Smith had some curios which she very kindly explained. Among them was an Indian fiddle, made out of half a cocoanut with a skin stretched tight across it, a piece of bamboo stick about eighteen inches long and some wire, wooden screw and bridge.

Evangelistic Services.

Messrs. Todd and Cameron, two young men from McMaster Hall, held evangelistic services in the Baptist Church four evenings last week. Thursday and Friday they were quite largely attended, and members of other choirs in the village assisted. On Thursday evening Mr. Todd spoke from "He then having received the sop went out, and it was night."

Pastor Pinkerton was present and assisted at the services.

On Friday evening the special feature was a series of cartoons by Mr. Cameron. Before entering the ministry he was cartoonist for several newspapers. Since then he has devoted his talent to Christ's service. Friday evening his pictures were on temperance.

Sunday morning service was well attended. Union choir led the service of praise and an earnest appeal was made for the Christian life.

Rev. Walter Cox conducted the usual afternoon service in the Anglican Church.

Rev. Mr. Herrington conducted the services at Bethel and Carmel. Mr. Wesley Stark sang "He Lifted Me" at Bethel and Mrs. Smith spoke on her work in India at both services.

In Warsaw in the evening Mr. Herrington preached to the Orangemen, who paraded to the church in a body. He reminded them of their privileges and of their obligations.

Ladies' Aid Organized.

A Ladies' Aid, in connection with the United Church, was organized last Monday, with Mrs. Herrington President and Mrs. Wm. Selkirk Secretary-Treasurer.

The Warsaw branch of the Bible Society will hold a meeting on Monday evening, Aug. 24, at which Rev. Mr. Harrington, an Anglican, will be present.

Rev. Mr. Herrington expects to have Mr. John, a Chinese student from Knox College, speak at the different appointments the first Sunday in October.

Weather Helps Harvest.

There has been splendid harvest weather lately. Grain ripened rapidly, and there had been rain enough to fill the grains quite well. Many have all their grain cut and others are cutting as fast as they can. No one reports being disappointed in his grain, and several report being surprised by finding grain heavier than expected when it comes to getting into it.

A great deal of binder twine is being used. Mr. Wellington Garbutt has a nice field of corn tasselling out already.

WELCOME PERSONALS.

WELCOME, Aug. 20. — Mrs. (Rev.) Rorke, of Peterboro, with her sister and sons, Mr. Geo. Rorke and Mr. Arthur Rorke and family, spent Friday with her daughter, Mrs. Ed. Martyn.

Mr. W. Lewis was in Cobourg on Saturday.

Mr. Staples and daughter, Miss C. Staples, were in Cobourg on Saturday.

Miss Florence Clare returned from an extended holiday on Saturday. She was accompanied by her friend, Miss Hilda Thomson, of Marmora.

Mr. George Williams and Mr. John Danford, of Springbrook, spent the week-end at Welcome Parsonage.

MEIGHEN URGES ELECTION SOON

Mackenzie King's Administration Has Terminated the Customary Four-Year Period.

SPEAKS AT LONDON.

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 20 (Canadian Press).—Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader, and L. J. Gauthier, former Liberal member M.P. for St. Hyanicthe, were the principal speakers at a well-attended picnic arranged by the Western Ontario Conservative Association at Springbank Park yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Meighen said: "After four years of experience under the government which succeeded our own, I return and invite the Prime Minister of today to repeat my example of 1921, come to London or anywhere in Canada, dissolve the parliament of today and let the people say whom they want to govern them. Four years is the usual period of the life of parliament. Rarely in our history has it ever been exceeded. Never was there a time in our history when there was less justification for exceeding it than at this time. The people demand of this administration that it submit itself to the public will, and the sooner they do so, the better for business—laborer, employer and this Dominion.'

Gauthier's Charge.

Mr. Gauthier arraigned the Mackenzie King Government as follows: "My first charge against the present administration at Ottawa is, that having no definite national policy it yet lacks the courage to resign, and my second charge is that by its tariff policy it is allowing German goods into Canada in competition with Canadian made goods."

"There are three supremely necessary characteristics for any government," he said. "Honesty in action and thought, courage to face every problem confronting it, and broad-mindedness wherewith to solve these problems. I choose to criticize this government because it has none of these three.

"We have throughout the country today closing factories, unemployment, unrest and sectional differences; and why? Because there is no stability anywhere even in the places of government. Even at the seat of government, there is no decided policy and no definite programme.

Leans to Progressives.

"Mr. King's government has agreed to forfeit the old Liberalism of Laurier for the policies of the Western Progressives and thus it has ceased to be truly representative of Liberalism. I am not opposed to the West nor to the needs of the Prairie. I know that increased immigration will mean transference of political power to the West and yet I believe that Canada should afford a happy, prosperous home to the men of all nations. But I am opposed to the domination of our national policy by a section of the Western provinces. In parts of the West there is 60 per cent. of the population American and their interests are not the interests of Canada as a whole. They want a low tariff to enable the American manufacturer to ship in goods in competition with the Canadian goods, and that is not in the interests of this country."

WEDDING BELLS.

HILL—THORNDYKE.

MILLBROOK, Aug. 20.—One of the prettiest of midsummer weddings was solemnized in Grace Presbyterian Church on Wednesday, August 19, at 11 o'clock, when Kathleen Isabelle, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thorndyke became the bride of Edward Albert Hill, B.A., formerly of Winnipeg, and now principal of one of the Collegiate Institutes of London, Ont.

Rev. G. Ingram Craw, acting Moderator of the Peterboro Presbytery, performed the ceremony in the presence of a large gathering of relatives, guests and friends.

The bride, who was given away by her father, looked charming in her dainty wedding gown of ivory georgette crepe, with crystal and silver trimming, a large lover- knot set with rhinestones, adding an attractive finish to the design of the French-made dress. A Colonial bouquet of sunset roses and lily of the valley, with its quaint lace frill, and long satin streamers, was carried. The veil, held in place by a coronet of orange blossoms, also formed a train, and two little boys, Joe Thorndyke and Harry Forsyth, brother and cousin of the bride respectively, acted as train-bearers. They wore white trousers and blue blazer coats trimmed with white silk braid.

White silk stockings, and silver shoes, completed the bride's toilette, the jewellery worn being a rope of pearls and a diamond bracelet.

Miss Ann Thompson, of Sunderland, an intimate friend of the bride, was maid-of-honor, her dress being of golden yellow georgette crepe, with hat to match. She wore gold sandals, and her bouquet, of Colonial style, was of mauve sweet peas.

Miss Jean Thorndyke, of Toronto, acted as bridesmaid for her sister, wearing a becoming dress of orchid georgette crepe, with hat to match and carrying a bouquet, also of Colonial design, formed of flame-colored sweet peas. Orchid silk stockings, and silver sandals, completed her costume.

The church was beautifully decorated in a color scheme of mauve and white, the altar being banked with purple larkspur, and white hydranges, feathery ferns giving the needed touch of green. Bows of white tulle, holding in place a knot of pink asters, marked off the guest pews.

The bridal party entered the church to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March, played by Miss Elinor Wood, of Guelph, who wore a dainty frock of pale green georgette crepe, her hat being of a slightly darker hue. Mendelssohn's Wedding March was played by Miss Wood as the bridal party left the church following the signing of the register.

Mr. S. J. Dempsey, of Nepawa, Manitoba, supported the groom, and the ushers were Mr. R. A. Doak and Mr. W. Armstrong.

A reception was held on the lawn at the home of the bride's parents, Mrs. Thorndyke receiving with her daughter, wearing a becoming dress of navy blue, satin-face crepe, with finely-tucked, deep cream vestee of georgette, and close-fitting black hat, trimmed with cut steel. She carried flowers of a golden brown shade.

The wedding breakfast was also served on the lawn, the bride's table, centred with the handsome three-storey wedding cake, being in pink and white, bows of tulle and pink asters being used in carrying out the attractive color scheme. Between fifty and sixty guests were in attendance.

The groom's gift to the bride's-maid, and the maid-of-honor, were French vanity cases, in black and silver; to the ushers, gold cuff links; and to the groomsman, a set which included watch-chain, pocket knife and cuff-links. The organist was remembered with a gold-mounted fountain pen, daintily small, with black corded silk sautoir, admitting of its being conveniently worn about the neck.

Later in the afternoon the happy couple left by motor for Toronto their honeymoon including a boat trip from Owen Sound and through Lakes Huron and Superior, possibly going as far as Chicago before their return. They were showered with confetti and good wishes as their departure took place.

The bride travelled in an ensemble suit of the fashionable light, wood-brown shade, with blonde kid shoes and stockings. A neckniece of red fox fur was worn, and the becoming hat was of pansy purple velvet. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Hill will reside at London.

The presents were both numerous and costly, and included two cabinets of silver, one of which was from the bride's parents, cut glass, fine china, silverware, and linens beautifully embroidered.

BETTS—WOODARD.

NORHAM, Aug. 20.—A very pretty wedding was solemnized in Norham United Church at 1 p.m. on Tuesday, August 18. The contracting parties were Eader Eliza Woodard, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Woodard, Cramahe township and Howard Clayton Betts, only son of Walter and the late Mrs. Betts, Rochester, New York. Rev. J. F. Everson officiated The bride, who was given away by her father was gowned in white silk crepe and wore the customary veil with a bandeau of orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of ferns and astors. She was attended by Miss Nettie Ryal of Rochester, a fast friend for a number of years, who wore a silver bandeau and a dress of rose pink crepe and carried a bouquet of astors and marigolds. John Arnold, of Rochester, brother-in-law of the groom was the best man. Miss Della Diamond played the wedding march. During the signing of the register Mrs. William Grant sang a solo. Messrs. Fred Platt and Fred H. Huycke were ushers. The church, which was comfortably filled with friends and neighbors, was prettily decorated with cut flowers and plants.

After the ceremony the guests to the number of fifty motored to the bride's home, where a delicious lunch, which had been prepared by close friends of Mr. and Mrs. Woodard, was served by Miss Lulu Mitchell, Winnie Huycke, Madge Cliffe, Margaret Huycke, Jean Diamond and Eva Denike, special friends of the bride. A beautiful three story wedding cake was prepared by Mrs. Lorne Evans. The toast to the bride was proposed by J. Nelson Stone, of Campbellford and responded to by William Burkel, of Rochester. The groom was then called upon and in a few well chosen words thanked the friends for their great kindness to the bride and himself. The many and useful gifts which the bride received was an index of the high esteem in which she is held. The groom, who has a good position with the Eastman Kodak Company of Rochester, was presented with a valuable oak library table by his fellow-workmen.

The happy couple left by motor for Belleville, the bride attired in a green silk dress, blue coat and hat to match, and after a honeymoon among friends as far east as Montreal, will reside in Rochester.

LEARNING TO SWIM.

The learn-to-swim campaign being conducted by the Y.W.C.A. and the Y.M.C.A., offering an opportunity to non-swimmers of both sexes to master the useful art, deserves commendation.

Peterboro citizens, with so many facilities for boating at their doors, should of all people know how to swim.

Probably more Peterboro people in proportion to population spend at least a portion of the summer at some river or lake resort than do the residents of any other large centre.

Knowing how to take care of themselves in the water is therefore a very desirable attribute, because accidents cannot always be avoided, and sometimes the ability or inability to swim a few strokes represents the difference between life and death.

Swimming is one of the easiest exercises in the world to learn, and it is never forgotten once it is mastered.

The opportunity offered by the two local institutions makes it possible for many who have not yet protected themselves by learning to swim to do so under ideal conditions and should not be allowed to slip by unused.

ENNISMORE'S CELEBRATION.

The success of the Ennismore Old Boys' Reunion, commemorating the one hundredth anniversary of the settlement of the township, must be gratifying to those responsible for it, as it is pleasing to every one who realizes the desirability of stopping occasionally amid the mad rush of modern life to pay tribute to the memory of those who made our present prosperity possible.

The story of the settlement of Ennismore is one of the most interesting in the annals of Peterboro County history; the saga of the pioneers who carved a township out of the virgin forest should be carefully preserved, not only by the descendants of those heroic men and women but by the people of the district generally.

From Ennismore have gone forth men and women who have risen to high places in the professions, in the world of industry and business—the same qualities that enabled their sires to overcome the dangers and difficulties of the primeval forest making it possible for them to scale the heights and win success against the world's competition.

It is well, therefore, that some acknowledgement should be given of the debt owing to the memory of the pioneers who first settled Ennismore, and the fact that so many former residents have returned for the celebration shows tha tthey at least recognize this to be the case.

IMPROVEMENTS NEEDED.

During the hot wave this week the city's bathing beaches have been very largely patronized, the attendance at Inverlea Park and at the Lake street beach running close to four figures each day.

Out-of-town visitors to Inverlea Park are impressed with two things—the natural beauty of the park and the almost complete failure of the authorities to take advantage of the opportunity that is offered them to make a worth-while bathing place there.

The dressing-room accommodation, to start with, is inadequate and far from sanitary, the tent that is the only shelter for women bathers being totally unfit for the purpose.

The beach itself needs attention, especially the pier that has been built inside the breakwater at the north end of the park, which has been constructed of rough stones, over which only bathers who are as sure-footed as Rocky Mountain goats are qualified to clamber in safety to reach the water.

With a small expenditure a satisfactory pier could be built that, equipped with diving-boards, would be of great service to bathers generally.

Nature has done so much for Inverlea Park that it seems a pity that the work cannot be completed and Peterboro given a bathing place to which our visitors can be taken with pride and confidence.

EVERYBODY WINS.

The annual inspection of lawns and premises in connection with the Peterboro Horticultural Society's competitions was held yesterday.

The best thing about such a competition is that there are no losers.

All entrants are not awarded prizes, but they all win, because of the improvement made in the appearance of their grounds and lawns.

And the community wins because scores of other folks, while not entering the contest themselves, have been stirred by the activities of those who did to pay more attention to their own gardens, with results so gratifying that visitors to Peterboro make favourable comment as they motor down streets lined with neat houses surrounded by trim lawns and striking beds of flowers.

The Horticultural Society doubtless counted upon this when they inaugurated the annual contests, and the effect has been so marked that the judgment of the officers of the society has been triumphantly vindicated.

The year-by-year improvement shown in the premises entered in the competition, accompanied by a corresponding improvement in lawns and gardens generally through the city, is a matter which Peterboro should note with pride.

HOTELKEEPERS' CONVENTIONS.

Toronto has been selected more than once as "the logical location" for the annual convention of the hotelkeepers of North America, and the presence of these plump and prosperous Bonifaces always arouses certain curious questionings in the mind of the reflective layman. What do they do at their meetings? asks the Toronto Globe. What do they talk about? Do they read papers to each other on how to frustrate the hungry and "take in" the stranger?

One could easily suggest topics which they might consider. Why not discuss methods of sound-proofing rooms, so that the first bath or the first "call" in the morning will not automatically end all further repose for every one else in the vicinity? Why not devise ways and means of preventing chambermaids from broadcasting and house-wrecking at 6.30 a.m. just outside one's door? Why not seek stringent measures to eradicate those favorite foibles of waitresses: chewing toothpicks or gum in the dining-room, lifting glasses by their tops, and feeling the toast or meat to see if it is warm? Above all, why not strive to develop in waiters such well-nigh human intelligence that they will provide a guest with a menu card as soon as he takes his seat, thus permitting him to pass very profitably the apparently unavoidable period of delay before he is served in choosing his order at his leisure, as contrasted with the cruel system now in vogue which provides a menu only at the very moment when the waiter is ready to take the order, and thus compels the unhappy guest to "stand and deliver" without a chance to look before he leaps?

Hotelkeepers' conventions are all very well, but much might be gained if a little unconventionality were introduced, to the extent of humoring the sheep's whims as he is being led to the shearing.

REORGANIZING THE HYDRO COMMISSION.

The reorganization of the Ontario Hydro-electric Power Commission is the most important duty calling for the attention of Premier Ferguson. The commission is a statutory three-man body, but for two years it has lacked a third commissioner, and during the last five months the Chairman has been absent because of illness.

The Government may be considering the advisability of making the commission a five-man body. But six months must pass before legislation can be put through to permit a reorganization on that basis, and the great power undertaking cannot be left to the direction of a single commissioner over such an extended period.

At the earliest convenient date two new commissioners should be appointed. If the Government likes the idea of appointing two additional commissioners and giving the municipalities special representation, that thought can be kept in mind in completing the commission on its present basis of three members. But the Government has been to dilatory already.

The great Provincial-municipal electric enterprise requires direction and should not be allowed to drift. The loss of Sir Adam Beck is irreparable. The men who hereafter must give leadership to Hydro should be given every opportunity to familiarize themselves with their task. They should be men of first-class ability and of unimpeachable integrity, who have demonstrated their devotion to the cause of public ownership. The people would never forgive the application of party patronage principles to the appointment of Hydro chairman and commissioners.—Toronto Star.

THE REASON FOR IT.

A tourist from far-off Texas pulled his car up close to the curb in London on Tuesday shortly after one o'clock. He wanted to know what the crowd was doing. A man driving a truck, who had also paused in his rounds for a point of vantage on the street, told him in three words 'Sir Adam's dead." And the Texan asked who he might have been. Once more the answer: "He built the sanatorium out at Byron, and I was in it and got cured."

Had the stranger asked others he might have been told that Sir Adam developed electrical energy at Niagara Falls so that the people might have power and light at cost price. He was an observant stranger, for he remarked: "Well, they're all here today, the high hats and the homespun."

He was right. London never paid such tribute to a departed son; never before was there such a gathering of Premiers, Cabinet Ministers, leaders in national life, captains of industry, those whose capital is computed in dollars and those whose capital is figured in their capacity to do a day's work. The little barriers that we build between people, and the small hedges that we plant as lines between this man and that had disappeared. It was as though the city had poured forth its men and women, its boys and girls, all of them eager by personal attendance to pay mute homage, to add some small quota to the sum total of genuine grief that had gripped the hearts of the people.

There must have been a reason for this. There is, and it is that Sir Adam built greater estates for the people than he constructed for himself. When he and Lady Beck undertook the erection of Queen Alexandra sanatorium at Byron there was nothing selfish about it—it was expression of a desire to provide a place where those threatened with tuberculosis could fight for health with some reasonable prospect of victory. It put new hope into lives that were facing defeat, and the hundreds who have passed through the sanatorium and the hundreds who will go there in years to come have been and will be living witnesses to the humanity and thoughtfulness of the late Sir Adam and Lady Beck.

Had Sir Adam organized a private company for the exploitation of Niagara power his passing would have been regarded as the departure of a successful promoter, a keen businessman. Instead of that his death is referred to as the loss of a public benefactor and a friend of the people.

Sir Adam could undoubtedly have succeeded as a private promoter in the development of power or the invasion of any commercial field to which he might have turned his hand. He possessed in generous degrees the very qualities that are regarded as the exclusive property of "big businessmen." He was visionary and yet extremely practical; he knew enough to surround himself with competent executives; he could think, plan and act in terms of millions of dollars. Yes, he had the qualifications that would have carried him a long way down the road toward what we call success.

But Sir Adam chose rather to use these powers to build an estate that would be the property of the people, and not of Sir Adam Beck and those with whom he might have been associated in private enterprise. As in the erection of the great buildings at Byron, his Hydro accomplishments are for the use and profit of others, and therein is the explanation of the greatest tribute that London or any other city has ever paid to the memory of a distinguished son.—London Advertiser.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Gertrude Elderle used a jazz band in her attempt to swim the channel, the idea doubtless being that she would try to keep as far ahead of the musicians as possible.

Federal candidates already in the field are waiting for the official word from Ottawa as to the election. But the Premier seems to enjoy keeping them on the anxious seat.

The funeral of Sir Adam Beck was a magnificent tribute to the memory of a great man who had done much for the people of his native Province. Few residents of Ontario have been buried with such remarkable evidence of respect.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

To the Editor of The Examiner.

We do not understand the matter of this 4.4 beer. We believed we sent our representative to parliament "to carry out the will of the people." Our country gave no uncertain sound on the O.T.A. question—a large majority for the O.T.A.

Now we find that our member—or is he Mr. Ferguson's member?—voted for the stronger beer!

We don't want our lads—and lasses—to get fond of strong drink. We know that the German beer—which they say is the best in the world—is one great cause of the coarseness and brutality of the German nation.

Mr. Ferguson says that he "did not consult on this question with other members." Why did he not? Is ours a one-man government? When I went to school, I read of a government called the "Star Chamber," in which the laws were made by a tyranny of two who ruled England and enslaved the people. The people rose and rebelled, and one of the two had his head taken off! They were sturdy chaps in those days! It looks as if the days of the Star Chamber were not over.

Will we have to wait for another election day? People feel pretty sore down here about the way they have been treated.

And again, our thoughtful premier does not think it kind that our youth should be obliged, as in the old days, to stand at the bar while drinking his stronger beer. No; seats and tables must be provided where he can loll back at his ease and wait till he feels inclined for another glass! Certainly an excellent way to encourage business—of drinking.

And what can be done about this? Well, for one thing, there should be a strong determined campaign conducted, both to create, where it is lacking, a right knowledge of the evil, and to provide machinery for the carrying out of such an organization. It means "work."

Old Timer.

A THOUGHT.

EVERY OLD FIREPLACE

It is so common to call romance just "romance" and let it go at that, and so natural to speak of sentiment as "sentiment" and say no more about the subject: dismiss the thought.

But there is just as much difference between "romance' and "sentiment" as there is between green, uncut grass and dry, cured hay. Grass has its summer season, but hay is winter fodder.

I will admit this simile will sound strange and homely to society leaders, to the city wise, but a cattle feeder will understand.

Romance is a green, summertime pasture, sentiment is a seasoned store that will serve during a cold, severe spell.

I. The bud of romance cannot blossom without sunshine, but sentiment is the sweet violets we find under the snow.

Romance is the imagination of youth—sentiment the stern reality of years.

Each young heart, even in a hut, has had its romance, and every old fireplace has had its flame.

Romance rules the court and the camp, but pity is the path to sentiment, so whisper what you would say to romance or write your

Beauty will keep romance alive, eBauty will keep romance alive, but "beauty," when stowed away in the hayloft for winter (the flowers of the field when dry), is all hay to the hungry herd.

Appetite accepts the slender-stemmed, crimson-tipped "parlings of the poet" (the daisies), along with the dry timothy. It's all hay.

The buttercups and star-disked dandelions that leap in the kindly sun of summer—the pretty daughters of the meadow are all cut down and all make hay.

But "when winter comes," the well-cured, dry but sustaining hay of sentiment satisfies much of the older animal appetite.

II. Youth and age will look upon this subject from opposite ends of the telescope and fortunately both be satisfied. Youth will want to bring romance nearer, and age will turn the telescope and be perfectly satisfied with a close-up view of sentiment.

And this is about all there is to say on this point about romance and sentiment. At least, my two seasons of personal experience has helped me to come to this conclusion: Youth is satisfied with romance. Age is sustained by sentiment.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, August 20 (Canadian Press). — Extreme dullness marked the export trade in Canadian grain here yesterday. Cable advices were generally of a discouraging nature. Liverpool and London reporting no demand for oats and barley and cables received from Rotterdam stated that the grain market was demoralized. New York export houses were in the market for No. 1, No. 2, and No. 3 Northern wheat, and also for No. 4 wheat, but as there was none offering on spot no business resulted and the market on the whole was inactive.

The domestic trade in coarse grain was also reported slow, the demand being chiefly for odd cars to meet immediate wants, but the tone for oats was stronger and prices were advanced 1-2 cent per bushel.

There was some demand from foreign buyers for low grade of spring wheat flour and a little business resulted for prompt and nearby shipment, but the trade in the higher grades for export account continued very quiet owing to the faet that millers cannot compete with the English production at present. The domestic trade was quiet and steady.

There was no further change in the winter wheat flour market, Prices were well maintained under a good demand.

The enquiry from local and United States buyers for all lines of millfeed continued good, but owing to the curtailed production at present, supplies are somewhat scarce and the volume of business checked. The tone was strong and the prospects are that prices will be advanced in the near future. Standard grades of rolled oats were steady and quiet.

While the volume of business transacted in eggs was small, the tone remained firm. Little business was done in butter but prices were unchanged. The feature of the cheese trade was the easier feeling and prices were reduced 1-8 to 1-4 cent per pound.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Aug 20 (Canadian Press).—Substantial gains in wheat yesterday were accounted for by the support of commission houses with extensive seaboard connections, combined with selling by local professionals. The news was decidedly bullish, wires from the east advising increased export inquiry and business. The finish found wheat firm, 2 7-8 to 3 cents net higher, September $1.60 1-4 to $1.60 1-2, and December $1.60 to $1.60 1-4, with corn ranging from 1 to 1 1-4 cents advance; oats 1 to 1-4 cents higher, and provisions 12 to 25 cents up.

Minneapolis and Winnipeg markets were sharply higher, leading the local market all day and finishing with large gains. Extreme bulges met with profit-taking and increased pressure from locals, but the market absorbed all offerings with no sharp setback and finished close to the top prices. The general run of news from the northwest was favorable to holders. Farmers are reported as showing a disposition to hold back wheat.

Wheat buying was also stimulated by a local authority's estimate on the Caandian crop, showing 25,000,000 bushels less than was forecast by the Government report more than a week ago. Another expert estimated the spring wheat crop at 4,000,000 less than an estimate made two weeks ago.

Corn registered a sharp advance on reports of high temperatures over the southwest territory and several unfavorable reports from states outside the actual corn belt. This gave corn independent strength which it maintained almost to the finish, closing within fractions of the day's high. Offerings of oats were light and prices were higher.

Provisions moved up in sympathy with grains.

LIBRARY BOOKS ARE MUTILATED

Goldsmith Article Cut From Brittanica—Effort Being Made to Find Offender.

There are certain forms of evil-doing which seem, by some curious freak of human intelligence, to be regarded neither as crimes nor as misdemeanors. Amongst these the mutilation of books and magazines in public institutions is apparently classed. The mere fact that they are subscribed for out of the public funds of a municipality seems to create in some misguided minds the belief that everybody's property is anybody's property, and that one is free to utilize them to the full extent of one's desires.

A few days ago the article on Oliver Goldsmith was cut out of the copy of the Encyclopædia Britannica in our public library. This must have been done by someone interested in supplemental examinations at one or other of our universities, or by some transient visitor to the library. In any case, it must have been done by somebody interested in literature or in biography, and not wantonly or without purpose.

There is not much to be said in the premises, and what can be said is going to be said as succinctly and clearly as possible. Every effort is going to be made to discover the criminal. If found, no mercy will be shown him, and such an example will be made of him as will serve, once for all, to mark the heinousness of the offence, and to stamp it as one of the meanest and despicable in the category to which it belongs.—F. M. Dela Fosse.

Drifting Ferryboat Caused Great Excitement; Passengers Taken Off On Swiftly Flowing River

SHANDRO, Alta., Aug. 20.—(Canadian Press).—There was tremendous excitement along the banks of the Saskatchewan River between Pakan and Shandro for an hour or two Tuesday afternoon, when a ferryboat broke its cable and drifted down stream with three women, two men and a boy and two loaded teams.

The ferryboat was making the crossing at Pakan.

There was wild excitement for a time and a telephone message was sent to the ferryman at Shandro to try to stop the ferry and effect a rescue if possible.

The Saskatchewan River is very high and the current sweeps along at the rate of 15 miles an hour. It was feared that a disaster might result if the ferry struck a sand bar or bridge.

Between Pakan and Shandro the screams of the passengers were heard by people living along the river, and rescues were effected. Homesteaders set out in small boats, and before the ferry reached Shandro all but one man had been taken off. When the drifting ferry reached Shandro it was possible to pull it in and the one remaining passenger and teams were taken off.

Recession Of Glacier Gives Canada New Port

VICTORIA, B. C., Aug. 20.—(Canadian Press). — Bringing word of British Columbia's new port, Glacier Bay, at the northwestern tip of the province, J. P. Forde, district engineer of the Department of Public Works, has returned to Victoria after an inspection of the scene of the discovery and its contiguous country.

The Cassiar district of British Columbia has now a waterway open for 12 months in the year, through the recession of the Grand Pacific Glacier, said Mr. Forde yesterday. The port is at the head of Tarr Inlet, one mile beyond the international boundary, and on Canadian territory. The water is open for the entire year, but the country to the back of the port is ice-covered and further investigation will be necessary to determine if a road can be built to the port.

Mr. Forde is now preparing his report for the authorities at Ottawa.

PARIS CHANGES EVENING STYLE

Decollete Will Be On Square Lines of Before the War.

PARIS, Aug. 20.—A change in the decollete of evening gowns is indicated for Fall and Winter by the first of the fashion openings this month.

Judging from models shown by Agnes, Patou, Drecoll, Vallet, Beer, Paquin, Worth, Philippe & Gaston, Callot Soeurs and other well-known houses, the prevailing decollete will be on the square lines familiar before the war.

This will be the first time for more than fifteen years that evening styles have tended towards the square-cut decolette. During the war the preference was for the V-shape. After the Armistice came the "bateau" or gondola cut—a very high bodice cut in an oblong curve from shoulder to shoulder.

Two years ago this changed in that, while the gondola shape was retained in front, the back deepened to about the fourth joint on the backbone.

REPORTS WILL BE CONSIDERED

Government Can't See Its Way to Adopting Recommendation.

IMPORT LIVE STOCK.

LONDON, Aug. 20. — (Canadian Press Cable).—A statement issued last night with Premier Baldwin's authority says that, while the Government will carefully consider the Imperial Economic Committee's two reports, the Government cannot see its way to adopt the recommendation contained in the second report on the marketing of meat issued last night advocating reconsideration of legislation respecting the importation of livestock into the United Kingdom. The statement says that the agricultural interests of the United Kingdom are to-day as definitely opposed to the extension of the existing system as they were in 1923, when the Imperial Economic Conference recognized that the British Government was fully entitled to have regard primarily to the interests of its own producers in this matter and confined its recommendation to advocating an inter-Imperial trade in pedigreed stock on reciprocal terms. The Government has already given legislative effect to this recommendation.

DEPOT BRIDGE BEING REBUILT

Concrete Structure Replaces Old Wooden Span Near Apsley.

GORDON BUILDER.

DEPOT BRIDGE Burleigh Township, August 20. — A new concrete bridge is being built here by the same men who have been busy all summer in the vicinity of Peterboro.

This is the ninth bridge to be constructed since the season opened eight having been completed on the Warsaw Norwood and Keene roads, at the DeLaval Co., factory, and at Mule bridge, Asphodel.

The new Depot bridge with a solid arch span of reinforced concrete, will have wings extending 42 feet over all and a main arch of 50 feet. The roadway will be 18 feet wide and the width of the bridge will be 20 feet. It replaces an old wooden bridge built about twenty years ago, and now in bad condition.

The point where Depot bridge crosses Eel's Creek, 9 miles from Apsley and 12 miles from Burleigh Falls, is the prettiest in the long stretch of rapids that form the principal attraction of this section.

Not many fish are caught in this section but some miles down stream the bass make their way into the warm creek water from Cedar Lake. Fishing at Haultain last night, Tom Gordon, one of the construction gang, caught a mud turtle that refused to get off the hook until kicked off. Even then he did not take the hint, and was recaptured a few minutes later.

The men engaged in building the bridge board at Haultain, three miles away, the nearest occupied habitation. Toward Apsley there is no occupied house for five miles.

Twelve Men Engaged.

There are 12 men employed on the work, which is in charge of R. Gordon, builder for the county of Peterboro. Mr. Gordon does all the bridge construction work for the county council and the Suburban Area Commission. Under him are C. Gordon, Alf. Cassan, Isadore Gordon, Harry Eccles, Tom Gordon, George Trotter, Harold Hewitt, Fred Watkins, Jack Brown, Martin Near, and Tom Clancy. A. W. Connor & Co., are the engineers.

Road Improved.

Besides the work on the bridge, a new stretch of road is being built through the bush, cutting out a steep and rocky hill. Another gang of men is employed here blasting and cutting trees, and filling in swamp land.

Work started on tre bridge last Wednesday, and cement will be poured this week. The piers rest on solid rock and the men have been working in bathing suits to set the poles supporting the frame work in the swift current.

There were last week thirty to forty families of United States tourists at Jack's Lake and dozens of cars pass this point almost every day carrying fishermen north or south.

On Tuesday a party went through from West Virginia but most of the visitors to this section are from Pennsylvania and Ohio.

SASKATCHEWAN EXPECTS WHEAT CROP BETTER THAN THE AVERAGE

Field Crop Commissioner Says Yield Will Be More Than 14.9.

RUST PREVALENT.

Has Not Done as Much Harm as Was Done By Excessive Heat.

REGINA, Sask., Aug. 20.—(Canadian Press).—Saskatchewan is now talking of a better than average wheat crop, despite sensational reports circulated regarding alleged serious damage from rust, saw-fly, drought and other sources.

The average per acre yield in Saskatchewan over a ten-year period is 14.9 bushels. Last year the production figure was three bushels below 14.9. M. P. Tullis, field crop commissioner for the province, yesterday stated that all information now in the hands of officials of the Department of Agriculture would indicate a better than average yield. He would not venture an estimate, contenting himself with the statement that the 14.9 mark would be bettered.

At the same time Mr. Tullis admitted rust was fairly prevalent in the province.

"Rust," he said, "has not been the main factor in reducing the great yield hoped for in the early season. The big factor was the hot weather that induced too speedy ripening and did not allow proper filling out."

According to Mr. Tullis, the only section where rust has materially affected the yield has been in the south-east. There is rust in the central districts and as far north as Carot River Valley. Harvesting is now general throughout the province and except to the late crops in the area south-east, the damage has not been extensive.

Soprano Alto Contralto Radio Announcers In Tokyo

TOKIO, Aug. 19.—(Associated Press).—The raucous-voiced male radio announcer may become a thing of the past in Japan if the officials of the new Tokio broadcasting station succeed in setting a new style. In fact, women are to be employed exclusively as announcers in the new broadcasting studio.

They are being chosen by examination, it is said, and only those with excellent enunciatory ability will be employed. One of the requirements is that the announcer have the pure Tokio dialect, so that the station will not be mistaken for the one at Osaka. There is much difference in the speech of the two cities.

MRS. DENNISTOUN'S SHOP.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—Mrs. Katherine Muriel Dennistoun, who achieved so much notoriety through her sensational and unsuccessful suit against her divorced husband, Lieut. Col. Ian Onslow Dennistoun, now married to the Dowager Duchess of Carnavon, has gone into a business enterprise which is opening an antique shop in a smart street in Mayfair.

The establishment is not 50 yards from the Guards club, of which her former husband was once a member.

Major Nicholas Woevodsky, Russian painter, whose name was mentioned in court in the course of the trial, will be business manager of the antique shop. It was recently revealed to the public that after her divorce Mrs. Dennistoun interested herself in making trips to the continent to buy old furniture and other antiques, which she brought back to her London flat to sell.

MILLBROOK RATE 45 MILLS

Schools Require 21 Mills—Rate Same as Last Year.

MILLBROOK, Aug. 19 — Millbrook council held a business session on Saturday evening and struck a rate of forty-five mills for the current year. The rate is divided as follows: school rate 21 mills; county rate 6 mills; debenture rate 2 mills; street lighting 3 mills; general rate 13 mills.

The rate is the same as last year, and had it not been for absolutely necessary exepnditure for road improvements, a reduction of at least three mills would have been effected.

Old Drain Washed Out

The severe electrical storm over two weeks ago, when an excessively heavy rain fell for about four hours was responsible for washing several holes in the roadway from the C.N.R. station to the McBride property, necessitating an expense of $500.00 to repair the drain. The original drain as put down in the late Squire Sowden's time, between fifty and sixty years ago, and being of cedar it has lasted well. It is being replaced by a two-foot tile drain, the railway paying for the stretch under the tracks, and the municipality the remainder of the cost.

To avoid the backing up of water in the spring, making a miniature pond in the ditch on Main street, and filling the cellars at that point, a grate will be in, and a pipe connecting with the main pipe running along King street.

Improvements at the station end of the town will include a culvert at Wilkinson's corner, the end in view being to obviate the mudhole that makes traffic, even for buggies and delivery waggons, practically impossible every spring.

New Anne St. Bridge

A new bridge and culvert on Anne street, just west of the town hall, is another necessity of an expensive nature, the recent heavy storm having damaged this place also. Damage from the annual flood from the river, which fills the cellars downtown, causing loss and inconvenience to storekeepers and householders may be, in part at least, avoided when this important repair is completed.

Any accident occurring at this bridge in its present condition, would involve the municipality in an expense much heavier than the necessary improvements will cost.

The roadwork done on King street this summer has made that thoroughfare in better condition than it has ever previously been known to boast, and the advantage of this will be particularly appreciated next spring, a season when King street has usually been spoken of as "the worst stretch of road in the whole countryside."

FARM NEWS AND PROBLEMS

FRUIT HISTORY DISCUSSED AND PROPHECY MADE

Apples of Lake Front Near Top of Canadian List.

COMBATING PESTS

Special Dust Sprayer in Modern Use is Effective.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 20.—It requires no severe strain on the memory to recall the days when thousands of barrels of choice apples were shipped from the Campbellford depot and this district was recognized as one of the best fruit producing sections of Central Ontario. In those days the town had an industry that has passed away. The late Alpheus Covert did a large business as a manufacturer of apple barrels, shipping in the staves, the hoops and the heads, and assembling the parts here. In those days the skating rink, now owned by Mr. Covert's son, was filled during the summer months with barrels for which there was a ready sale. Making apples was an important branch of farming in those days. Just outside the town limits on the Burnbrae road, there was a flourishing nursery owned by J. W. Johnston, where the growers were supplied with young trees. The nursery is there yet, and Mr. Johnston is still in possession, but it is not the flourishing industry that it was some years ago. Mr. Johnston buys apples for shipment every Fall, but the offerings are light.

When the Blight Came.

Then the apple blight came and the orchardists of this section lost heart. Year after year the fruit in some orchards was worthless owing to the ravages of insects and were not picked. Other branches of husbandry, dairying especially, engaged the attention of farmers, and now neglected orchards are to be seen in all parts of Seymour and Percy Townships. The land is seeded or sown to crop, the trees are unpruned, and the tent caterpillars are allowed to build their habitations in the branches of the apple trees unmolested. This pest, however, is unknown, a fact that is attributed to the cold weather early in the season.

On the Lake Front.

Northumberland County has not lost its reputation as a producer of apples. Along the lake front, in the vicinity of Cobourg, Trenton, Brighton and Colborne, the apple orchards compare favorable with any in Ontario, in fact, that section is credited with the production of the finest apples in the Dominion of Canada, with the possible exception of those raised in British Columbia. Raising apples has become a vocation by itself, a calling that requires a high standard of business ability and ceaseless vigilance on the part of those who adopt it as a means of earning a living. The enemies of the orchardist are still rampant and the fight between man and insects is being waged as vigorously as ever.

"The Invisible Life."

That is what the scientists term one of the menaces that threaten the very existence of the human race to-day. Is the insect world working silently and unseen, finally to get the upper hand? Is this earth to have an insect age in the future, just as it has had a glacier and a stone age in the past, when overcome by a force which he is unable to withstand, man will perish for the lack of sustenance that has been absorbed by his unseen insect foe?

Fighting the Unseen.

Such a calamity will not overwhelm the world if the methods of the modern orchardists are successful. The brightest scientific minds of the day are dealing with the dangers that threaten not only the apple crop but all other souces of food supply. The sprayer that has saved so many orchards from ruin has been supplemented by the "duster," which is coming more and more into general use among fruit growers.

One Orchard Example.

S. N. Sexsmith, who resides in Murray Township, near Trenton, and who is a brother of J. A. Sexsmith, ex-M.P. for East Peterboro, has an orchard that contains 24 acres, and to which he devotes all of his working time. Half of the trees are Spies, the balance Snows, Baldwins, and various other varieties. The ground is cultivated with a tractor and disc constantly, it is entirely free from weeds, and no attempt is made to grow a crop of any kind among the trees. Sustaining the trees is regarded as a sufficient tax upon the trees.

Scientist Sent For.

A short time ago when the orchardists in that district began to hope that the danger point for the season had been passed, traces of the codling moth were noticed in the orchard of Mr. Sexsmith, and others in that vicinity. The fruit men at once sent for a famous entomologist, whose home is in Indianapolis, Ind., and who came to the Trenton district at once.

After making an investigation, the scientist recommended that the duster be set to work at once, and his advice was taken. This machine is a costly affair that blows a powder upon the trees, the pressure required being between three and four hundred pounds to the square inch, so that operating the machine is a task entailing considerable risk. The machine passes down between the rows, dusting the trees on either side. The chemical used to kill the insects costs $160 a ton.

This duster is generally operated in the night time when the air is perfectly still and the foliage is damp with dew, so that the powder sticks to the leaves. It does not supplant the sprayer, which is used early in the season before the trees are in leaf. The duster is effective only when the foliage is dense enough to hold the powder.

Some idea of what the modern apple grower is up against may be gathered from the above, but such treatment of orchards is essential if the apples are to find a place in the export market.

Fruit Prospects

The estimated yield from Mr. Sexsmith's 24 acres of orchard is 3000 barrels. There is a heavy demand for barrels in which to ship the crop from that district. Early in the season contracts for barrels were taken by the manufacturer at Trenton at 75 cents each, but now the price has been raised to 80 cents, with prospects that it will go still higher.

AYRSHIRES GROW IN IMPORTANCE

Demand in Canada and U. S. for That Breed Increases.

CLEAN-UP CAMPAIGN

The well-known breeder of Ayrshires, Mr. A. W. Montgomerie, Lessnessock, Ochiltree, Scotland, in a historical review of the popular breed to the "North British Agriculturist," gives a word of advice to breeders.

Letters received recently from U.S.A. and Canada, he says, report greatly improved trade, and growing demand for Ayrshires, and anxiously await the opening up of the ports to enable Ayrshire importations. New Zealand has orders placed for Ayrshires also, and anxiously await the opening of the ports. Finland had also orders placed for over sixty good Ayrshires when the ports were closed. The prospects for good Ayrshires are brighter at the present time than they have ever been in the history of the Society.

Get ready! Have all your cattle carefully entered up and tattooed. Have all herds pass tuberculin test, if possible. Have at least all the young stock isolated and reared from milk from cows whose dams can pass the test. Our country does not insist on having animals to stand the T.B. test, nor are they giving much encouragement to our breeders to clear up their herds. Mostly all other countries insist that all imported cattle pass the T.B. test, and they are spending enormous sums to assist the farmers to rapidly clear up their herds.

A letter received from a Scot in New Zealand, who spent a few months in this country, is very significant. Writing to me on a trip through Canada and U.S.A. on his way home, he says:—"I find they have almost got their herds cleaned up, and free from tuberculosis, while Britain is sitting looking on. You will wake up some day and find your trade gone."

The breed that is first free from tuberculosis, or has the greatest number of herds from which to draw tuberculin-tested animals, is going to have the pull. Let Ayrshire breeders put all their skill and energy into this matter, and produce a good, sound, commercial animal, with well-balanced udder and good-sized teats, and capable of producing 800 to 1000 gallons of milk with a 4 per cent. butter-fat annually, without undue feeding and forcing, and the breed will rise to heights undreamt of.—Ayrshire Post.

REPORTS INDICATE BIG GRAIN YIELDS

Farmer's Threshing Shows Average of Nearly 50 Bushels to Acre.

POTATO BLIGHT

ORLAND, Aug. 20.—Mr. Cecil Goodfellow threshed six acres of wheat that turned out 287 bushels, only falling short of a 50-bushel yield by 17 bushels on the total.

J. B. Moran has threshed 1,200 bushels of fall wheat and rye. He reports a yield of nearly 40 bushels.

Edward Strong threshed 35 bags of two bushels each from 15 acres. He would have had a much larger yield but for the many showers. The threshers were at his farm five days, threshing as much of the time as the weather would permit.

W. E. Davidson threshed 700 bushels of fall wheat recently.

Fall wheat, on the whole, is turning out big, and as soon as the weather fairs up, threshing will be in full swing.

The clover seed attachment, which Willett Simpson had put on his grain thresher, has been laid aside as the grain threshing is more urgent.

Harry Belford, son of Major Belford, M.P.P., reports extra barley and spring wheat.

Most farmers are complaining of blighted potatoes, principally of the earlier varieties. Some patches of late potatoes are looking good.

Jas. Ross' wheat went 40 bushels to the acre, in all nearly 800 bushels. Mr. Ross is, perhaps, the largest grain grower in Brighton Township. His crop is usually 3,000 bushels and over.

Mr. McColl, of Wooler, threshed 350 bushels of fall wheat from seven acres.

"QUALITY FIRST" IS WORKABLE SLOGAN

People Will Eat More if Quality Supplies the Desire.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 18. — The succession of "eat more" weeks enticing the public to devour a greater quantity of nearly every kind of food from almonds to yams has moved some folk with a sense of humor to remark on the implied elasticity of the human stomach.

These advertising campaigns have their humorous aspects, to be sure. They may be competitively wasteful. Still they are manifestations of the emphasis placed on quality in food by the farmers' co-operative marketing associations.

The co-operatives have discovered what the daughters of Eve found out long ago—that the way to a man's pocketbook as well as his heart is through his stomach. They are vieing with each other to tempt him with all sorts of delectable products.

Also, they have not been slow to sense the popular interest in the relation of food to health. They are losing no opportunity to call the attention of the public to whatever health-giving qualities their particular products may happen to possess.

Goods of Quality.

The importance of quality in the goods marketed co-operatively has been emphasized time and again in the discussions at the American Institute of Co-operation here.

Take eggs, for instance. The poultrymen of the states of Washington, Oregon and California found themselves at a disadvantage because of their great distance from the eastern markets. Did they go out of business on this account? No; they studied the likes and dislikes of the consumers in New York city, and decided that while eggs graded closely for size and cleanliness and guaranteed to be infertile would find a ready market, and set about to produce such eggs in quantity. The eggs shipped by way of the Panama Canal were nearly three weeks old by the time they reached New York. But they were in such perfect condition they commanded a premium of several cents a dozen.

Up in Minnesota the co-operative creameries found themselves in a bad way several years ago because their butter, being of low quality, was not in demand. They banded together 460 strong in the Minnesota Co-operative Creameries Association. They spent two years in perfecting a sweet cream butter such as had never before been available in quantity to the consuming public. Then they began to advertise on a large scale. Now, instead of being unable to sell their products, they are topping the market by several cents.

Selling Potatoes.

In Michigan the potato growers have gone through the same experience. Greenville potatoes were once famous in the eastern cities for quality. But the growers became careless and the state acquired an unenviable reputation among potato dealers. The Michigan Potato Growers' Exchange took up the problem and with the aid of the inspection service of the State Department of Agriculture and the potato experts at Michigan State College it has brought the state's reputation on the potato markets back to its former level.

Another Michigan case is the attention paid by the Co-operative Grape Marketing Associations to the quality of their pack, particularly the two and four quart baskets intended for table use.

Here in the Philadelphia district the members of the Interstate Milk Producers' Association discovered that milk consumption was restricted because of the public's lack of confidence in the quality of the milk. Little attention to this problem was paid by the city health department. The association organized is town inspection service, improved the quality of the milk and so built up public confidence that Philadelphia is near the head of the list of large cities in her capita consumption.

Milk for Health.

The importance of milk for health was stressed by the new habit to the school children of Boston by promoting school savings funds. Its aim is to make Boston children 100 per cent milk fed. The campaign has helped the welfare organizations, it has helped the children and it has helped sell the milk.

Examples of the part played by co-operatives in improving and emphasizing quality in production and packing are manifold. The eating public is happier and healthier as a result; the farmers receive a better and more dependable price; and the railroads and market mechanisms are not burdened with a lot of inferior stuff which nobody really wants.

The important thing is that this improvement in quality can not be brought about by independent dealers; it can result only from the united action of the farmers themselves banded together inco-operative associations.

One speaker suggested that all the co-operatives in the United States might agree on an emblem distinct from the brands of particular associations to be placed on all products sold co-operatively, just as the union label is placed on all union-made goods. Thus the public might come to know that the co-operative emblem stands for quality unexcelled.

48 BUS. TO ACRE.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 20.—West Brothers threshed on the farm of Marshall H. West on the Hastings Road, West Seymour, 182 bags of Fall wheat in three hours, the grain being threshed from the stook. The amount of ground from which the wheat was taken was seven and a half acres. Allowing two bushels to the bag, a conservative estimate, the yield figures out at 48 bushels to the acre.

When this crop was growing, it was one of the agricultural sights of the township, and when it stood in stooks there was scarcely room for a wagon to pass between the rows.

CROP COMMENTARY OF DISTRICT SHOWS BEST HARVEST IN YEARS IS BEING DRAWN IN BY FARMERS

Hawthorne Farm at Bridgen orth Has Biggest Yield That Land Has Ever Produced, Including Hay, Saved in Good C ondition.

NO TIME TO TAKE SHOW HORSES OUT

Charles Mather of Keene Takes 20 Loads of Wheat From 7 Acres, and H. G. Webber, Near Limits, Had 300 Loads of Hay.

Allan B. Mann, of "The Hawthornes," the well-known stock farm at Bridgenorth, is at present engaged in harvesting one of the best crops that his land has ever produced. He had a heavy yield of hay, all of which he managed to save in good condition. His wheat, too, turned out well, but the acreage was small, as he does not raise much of that particular kind of grain. His oat crop, without exception, is excellent. Mr. Mann finds so much to do at home saving his crop that he will be unable to spare time to take his show horses to Cobourg this week, and he has been a prize winner with heavy and light horses at that annual event for years.

Charles Mather, of the Keene district, had 20 large loads of wheat from seven acres of land, and that quantity of straw, considering the way wheat is headed and filled this year, and the yield of some crops that have been threshed, should turn out over 40 bushels to the acre.

Three hundred loads of hay have been cut on the farm of the late H. G. Webber, near the city limits.

The above are a few of the many local cases that could be cited to show that Peterboro' county will this year harvest a record crop of hay and grain. An abundant yield will be general, and not confined to certain localities as was so often the case in former fat years. It makes no difference where the traveller goes, whether the land in the section visited is poor or fertile, the crops this year of all kinds are above the average. So far the prospects of an abundant yield has not halt the usual effect of lowering the prices.

District Representative's Opinion.

District Representative F. C. McRae, of Norwood, who keeps a close watch on crop conditions all over the country, bears out the above summary. The only crop, according to his observation, that may be said to be below the average is corn, which was held back by the wet and cold weather early in the season. However, with warm dry weather, this crop is likely to make up for its backward growth. Taking the crops in rotation as they ripen, Mr. McRae's summary, as given to The Examiner the other day, is substantially as follows:

Yield of Hay.

Early in the spring, when the weather was unseasonably cold, farmers were inclined to be pessimistic. Grass was showing slow growth, and the general forecast was that, while some fields of hay would not be worth cutting, the best of them would not yield over half a ton to the acre. Lacking in faith as to the promise of a seed time and harvest the farming community was fearful.

As a matter of fact, Mr. McRae says that the average yield of hay in Peterboro' County will not fall below one and a half tons to the acre, a valuable asset in a section where so much attention is given to dairying. Mr. McRae says that sweet clover as fodder is losing its popularity, as it has been found that it is a difficult matter to save it for hay. At the best, it is coarse fodder. Very few farmers in the county have stored sweet clover in silos, preferring corn for that purpose.

There is this to be said for sweet clover—as pasture, one acre of it is as good as five of any other kind of crop. It is an excellent fertilizer, as it loosens up heavy land, and appears to grow equally well on poor and fertile soil. Another argument in its favor is that it flourishes regardless of whether the weather is wet or dry.

Alfalfa a Favorite.

Alfalfa is growing in favor among the farmers. Like sweet clover, it is an excellent fertilizer, and is much superior either as fodder or pasture. It will yield two and sometimes three crops of hay in one season, and for dairy stock or for horses it is better as fodder than red clover.

In Ontario, Mr. McRae says the acreage under wheat and pasture exceeds that of all other crops combined. This acreage is estimated at sixteen million acres, and of this not more than one million is sown to alfalfa. Farmers are slow in realizing the value of this crop.

In order to impress upon the farmers the fact that alfalfa is one of the most profitable crops which they can raise, The Department of Agriculture proposes next year to put on an alfalfa campaign in Ontario to get its merits before the farming public.

Timothy as a Fodder.

For years there has been an impression that while timothy hay is of little more value as a fodder for dairy stock than well saved straw, it was the only feed for either light or heavy horses. This idea is gradually being dispelled as stock men realize that alfalfa is as desirable as a fodder for hoses as for cattle. This year, on account of unfavorable weather, considerable timothy has become over-ripe before cutting, but Mr. McRae says that the seed is now so cheap that it would scarcely pay to put this through a threshing machine. Even if it has become too ripe, the hay will still have some value as a fodder.

Big Acreage of Wheat.

The high price of wheat a year ago induced the farmers to sow a larger acreage of this crop than usual, and the result shows that they made no mistake. The estimated average yield of wheat for Peterboro' county this year is from 35 to 40 bushels to the acre. It would, however, be impossible to even approximately estimate the total yield of wheat, or of any other crop.

As to the price, old wheat is selling at $1.25, and new wheat that has been put on the market brought $1.20. It is not so many years ago that farmers ceased to murmur when the price of wheat was on the safe side of $1.00.

Weather That Helped.

A short time ago there were two weeks of cool—even cold—weather when the pessimistic were inclined to predict blus ruin for the growing crops. Every day of that period, however, was putting money into the pockets of the Peterboro' farmers. The thousands of acres of oats—always an essential crop in a dairying community—were in the milky stage, and the cool weather permitted the grain to fill as it has not done for years. Mr. McRae quotes W. J. Shields, of Peterboro', as saying that the oat crop in the county is the best that has been harvested for five or six years.

The lightest crop of oats this year will yield from 40 to 45 bushels, while there are fields that will turn out over 70 bushels to the acre.

The Barley Acreage.

Prohibition has not put an end to the raising of barley in Canada. There is more of this grain now exported, as in former days, from Cobourg and other lake ports, to make beer for the American nation, but all that is raised is used at home, the bulk of it for feed. It yields almost as many bushels to the acre as a crop of oats. A great many stock farmers are now sowing mixed grain, oats, barley and wheat, for seed, and if care is taken to secure the right varieties, these will ripen at the same time, so that there is no loss by one coming to maturity before the others.

Very Little Buckwheat.

There is very little buckwheat in evidence on the farms of Peterboro' county to-day, and that is taken as a good sign. As a rule, this crop is sown only in backward seasons when it is too late to plant the standard varieties of grain. What buckwheat has been sown gives good promise of a yield above the average.

Vegetables in Abundance.

The vegetable crop in this county is on a par with other produce of all kinds. There will be an abundance of potatoes if nothing unforseen happens. So far, "curl leaf" is the only disease that threatens, but the crop is sufficiently advanced in growth to reduce this menace to the minimum. For man and the lower animals there is an abundance of food in sight.

Very Little Fruit.

There is so little fruit produced in Peterboro' County that conditions as to this produce does not enter into the expectations of the crop prospects.

Sweet Clover's Growth.

To revert to the subject of sweet clover—some farmers object to it because after a field is plowed down, the clover grows in grain crops for two or three years. Mr. McRae says that the explanation of this is that the ordinary threshing machine does not scarify—that is, remove the hull—of the sweet clover seed. Seed unhulled remains in the ground for two years before it germinates, whereas when the outer shell is removed, it sprouts at once.

The high price of red clover seed that has prevailed for some years is likely to prove in the end a benefit to the farmers as it is likely to turn their attention more and more to the raising of alfalfa.

ASK COUNCIL TO REMOVE WEEDS

Provincial Highways Are Held Up as Model of Well Kept Roadsides.

NO ACTION TAKEN

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 20.—The Department of Agriculture is sending out circulars, autographed by Minister of Agriculture, Martin, and Minister of Highways, Henry, urging township councils to make war on noxious weeds growing on the side of country roads. Councils are asked to take as a mode the care that is taken to keep the provincial highways clear of weeds. The copy of this circular was received and considered at the last meeting of the Seymour Council, but no action was taken.

District Representative Smith, of Brighton, wrote asking for a grant for the bacon hog show to be held at Colborne in October, but on motion of Deputy Reeve Peake and Councillor Innis, nothing was done for the present.

The usual budget of accounts was passed.

RECENT RAINS BOOST REPORTS OF GRAIN CROP

Weather Conditions Not Conducive to Growth of Wheat Rust.

PASTURE PLENTIFUL

Hail Falls in Some Localities, Doing Considerable Harm.

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 20.—Considering the mid-summer drought, fairly satisfactory agricultural conditions continued to prevail, and would indicate a better than average crop from the three western provinces, according to the Weekly Crop Report of the Agricultural Department of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Rust is in evidence on both mature and late grain, but present weather conditions are not conducive to the spread of rust. The new rye crop is moving steadily. A heavy increase of live stock yards, but too many unfinished cattle being shipped has resulted in an active and lowering market.

Manitoba.—Heavy rains fell at intervals during the week, covering the whole of the province with temperature moderately cool. Harvesting of early grain is fairly general in southern and central areas, and will become so in northern parts in a week or ten days. The first car of new wheat from Rosenfeld, graded one northern, and weighed 63 pounds to the bushel. It is expected that as a result of the July drought and the recent rust development, a somewhat wide range in both acreage, yield and quality will result. Live stock conditions are excellent, with ample pasture.

Saskatchewan.—Rainfall over thenorthern and central parts, with showers over the remainder of the province, have greatly improved prospects with respect to later sown crops, including coarse grain fodder and pasturage. Rust in some parts is in evidence, which may reduce yield and grade, especially in the southern parts. There are some reports of rust in the north, but these are scattered and, at present, believed not serious.

With favorable weather continuing, the damage will be minimum. Hail on Tuesday last did some damage in the Melford district.

Alberta.—Rainfall in the north was quite liberal, with local showers covering the south, but only scattered beyond Taber. Cutting of all grains is now general, and some threshing will begin this week. Conditions, generally, have improved with recent rains.

Edmonton, Dunvegan and B.C.—Showers have been general over the entire district during the past week, and cutting of all grains is now giving excellent promise of yield and quality.

British Columbia.—Following several weeks of dry, hot weather, showers fell over the greater portion of the province during the week, materially helping both vegetables and fruit crops. Soft fruit and early apples and pears are now moving steadily.

GRAIN ALL CUT AT BAILIEBORO

Stooks Still Stand in the Fields—Little Field Threshing Done.

APPLES PLENTIFUL

BAILIEBORO, Aug. 20.—On account of the frequent heavy rain-falls the season for harvesting has been very backward during the past couple of weeks.

The wheat and barley is now almost all cut and stooked, but as yet there has been very little grain drawn in to the barns.

The weather is also very backward for field threshing. As yet there has only been a few days on which then weather and alike have been sufficiently fit to thresh. The majority of crops of alsike that have been threshed have averaged from three to five bushels per acre, with some exceptions yielding more.

Although the rain-falls have been keeping the harvest back some, still they have not been doing nearly as much harm as good. They have already enabled the farmers to get a lot of their sod ground ploughed for afll wheat, and all over South Monaghan a great quantity of ground has been ploughed during the past couple of weeks. It looks as though the farmer was going to have plenty of time to prepare his land before seeding time, and by getting the ground ploughed up and worked now chances are that a large acreage of fall wheat will be sowed this fall.

The buckwheat, root crops, corn, pastures, etc., have also benefited wonderfully by the recent rains. So far this summer there has been no lack of pastures. Almost as fast as the grass and pastures have been eaten off they have kept growing up again; lots of good pasture is a great benefit to the farmers during the entire year. If ther pastures continue good during thet summer months, the stock keeps up in much better flesh and goes into the stable in the fall in a fine condition, and in this case it does not require so much feed to winter the stock as it does when they are stables in the fall in a poor run-down condition.

The apple crop also looks very prosperous for this season, both the harvest apples, as well as the fall and winter apple trees are laden with fruit.

Two bushels of oats will take the place of one of corn for beef cattle over 800 pounds. If two bushels of oats cost less than one of corn, feed the oats, for it will be cheaper. For beef animals up to 800 pounds, oats can replace corn up to two-thirds of the ration.

CROPS LOOK GOOD IN DOURO DISTRICT

Wheat, Rye, Barley All Cut and Sweet Clover For Seed.

DOURO, Aug. 20.—Wheat, rye and barley are cut and are an excellent crop. Mr. Fred Walsh threshed on Thursday and had a yield of three hundred bushels of rye from ten acres which is splendid. Some sweet clover has been cut for seed. It promises a splendid yield. Gardens, corn, turnips, etc., are splendid oats are a heavy crop and buckwheat is doing well. Crop prospects could not be better. Pastures are good for the time of year and much milk is going to the various factories.

LOAD OF OATS GIVES 48 BUSH.

Peas Also Good Crop for Year's Condition of Growth.

FINISH THIS WEEK

BAILIEBORO, Aug. 21.—Harvest is fast coming to a close in this district. Wheat, alsike, peas and barley are now mostly all harvested, and drawn into the barns. The oat crop is mostly all cut and stooked, and if the weather continues fine during this week, quite a number of farmers will wind up harvesting for this season.

During the past week, N. Jemison threshed his alsike in the field, and it yielded around four bushels per acre. H. Barnard threshed nine acres of Potter peas, which yielded about twenty-five bushels per acre. They were a splendid sample and a good crop for this season. P. Barnard threshed one load of oats which yielded forty-eight bushels.

The local grain buyers are offering from $7.50 to $8.00 a bushel for alsike, and $1.25 per bushel for fall wheat.

GOOD PRICES AT HOLSTEIN SALE

Highest Bid Was $1,000 Paid for One Cow by McCauley.

CALF $205

MILLBROOK, Aug. 20.—Though the matter has been under consideration, it is not likely that the Durham County Holstein Breeders' Club will have a county exhibit at the Royal Winter Fair this year.

A county herd requires eight animals in all—a bull two years old, or over; one under two years; three cows three years old, and over; a heifer one year and under two, and a heifer calf.

The committee in charge, President W. F. Fallis, Millbrook, the Vice-President Archie Muir, Courtice, and District Representative F. C. Paterson, Port Hope, recently visited the accredited herds in the district and made a careful selection of such animals as were thought fit for show purposes. Since then, the Vice-President, Mr. Muir, attended the dispersal sale at the farm of the late Alfred Hulet, Norwich, and with Mr. Paterson looked over some of the herds both in Oxford and Norfolk counties, arriving at the conclusion that Durham would have small chance of winning out against the competitors from the western part of the province.

Mr. Muir purchased a young male animal at the Hulet sale, the four offered bringing a total of $1,150, an average of $287.5 a head. Hopkins Bros., of Ottawa, paid $560 for a year-old bull, a pedigreed animal whose dam was grand champion at the Royal Fair last year.

The Hulet herd was one of the best for show purposes, as well as for milk production, in the Dominion, and Holstein men throughout Canada and the United States were present at the sale, at which a total of over ten thousand dollars was realized.

The highest price paid was $1,000 for one cow, McCauley, of Hudson's Heights Quebec, giving this figure. In all, 42 animals, four males, 28 females, and 10 calves under one year old, were disposed of at an average of $250.42 each, a good showing, considering the large number of calves on the list. The highest figure for a calf was paid by Harding Bros., of St. John, N.B., who gave $205, and the next, $175, was given by Dolson, of Brampton.

With one exception all the animals were sold to buyers from outside Oxford county....

NORHAM, Aug. 20.—While Mr. Edward Duff, who lives a few miles north of here, was threshing some grain in the fields a few days ago, a stone, in going through the machine, ignited the straw and burned up the stack. The machine was gotten away in safety. Had the threshing been going on in the barn, no dout a serious loss would have been sustained.

WATER SUPPLY OF IMPORTANCE ON ALL FARMS

Care Should be Taken to Have Well From Pollution Source.

DANGER IN WATER

Doubtful Supply Should be Sent to an Expert Analyst.

It is a well-known fact that with the introduction of public water supplies in cities and towns which had previously been dependent on domestic wells, the death rate from typhoid fever, the most serious of water-borne diseases, has decreased to a remarkable extent.

In our country districts, however, where the scattered population makes the establishment of a public water supply system impossible, the farmer is forced to depend upon his own domestic source, which is, in most cases, the shallow well. That such a well can be a source of positive danger from typhoid, dysentery, diarrhoea and other disorders has been amply proven, but still many farmers do not realize fully the importance of a pure unpolluted water supply, or the danger to their families and their stock lurking in contaminated water.

The location of the farm well is frequently faulty and denotes a lack of knowledge of the danger to health from water when there is any chance of drainage or leaking from such sources of pollution as barnyards, cesspools, privy, manured fields, sink drains, etc. Not only should the well be placed at a reasonable distance from such sources of filth (say 40-50 yards), but also, if possible, on higher ground. The more porous the ground, the greater should be the distance from any contaminating source.

Even when the well is removed from any source of pollution, the ground water should be made to filter through at least 12 to 15 feet of soil before entering the well. Soil tends to remove germs and impurities from surface washings. The water, however, should be made to really filter through the soil by insuring that the sides of the well, for a depth of 12 to 15 feet are tight and impervious to water. The top naturally should be so constructed that no contamination can possibly enter.

Water may be seriously polluted without showing this by its taste or appearance. A bright, sparkling water is by no means a guarantee of a pure supply. When, however, water from a well becomes cloudy or turbid after a heavy rain, there is evidently some defect, for this condition indicates that surface washings are entering without proper filtration.

The Divisions of Bacteriology and Chemistry at the Central Experimental Farm will analyze water samples submitted by farmers living within a reasonable distance. Application for instructions as to taking the sample should first be made.—A. G. Loshead, Dom. Agric'l Bacteriologist.

FARMER'S WIFE NOT INTERESTED

Agricultural Decline in England is Blamed on the Women.

TOO MANY CHORES

LONDON, Aug. 20 (Canadian Press). —Blame for agricultural decline in England is placed on the female sex and the lack of rural domestic science by Mrs. Margaret Wintringham, former Liberal member of parliament.

"The farmer wife is not as interested in doing the adjmets of farm work as she used to be and that is one of the reasons why agriculture is declining," Mrs. Wintringham declared in a recent address.

The speaker stated that women are discouraged by prevailing conditions—necessity to carry all the water used in the house, washing and other chores about the farm. The trouble, Mrs. Wintringham thought, was that the old system of rural education was drawn up to suit the men, and that a new one was needed to relieve the women.

England will be far behind America and Belgium in arranging instruction in rural domestic science and this contributed a great deal to the decline of feminine interest in farm life, the speaker said. About 109,000 women were actually employed in agriculture in this country and the number was rapidly declining. The farm women's wages in England were very small, in some cases being only three pence an hour.

RAINS HURT ALSIKE.

Some Farmers Leaving It in the Field as Worthless.

MILLBROOK, Aug. 20.—The frequent rains of the past few weeks have interfered seriously with harvesting the alsike in this vicinity. This grain had to be turned so often that some farmers estimate they lost fifty per cent. of their crop, and some are leaving it in the field, considering it too long cut to be worth while drawing in at all.

Offa Williamson, 7th Line, Cavan, threshed alsike last week, the yield being four bushels to the acre, an average considered fair this season.

Work is already commenced on and for new fall wheat, and quite an are is already prepared. The rains have helped this work greatly.

Barley is in the stooks in many instances, and oats are ripening fast an occasional field having been cu, this week.

When the old woodsman found out that I would give up a good meal any day, for a good wild life story, he told me one that happened only last year.

The Boy Scouts of a certain section of Montreal, were in camp on a nice lake in the Laurentian Mountains. Our friend happens to live in a shanty not far from where the camp was located, so the boys got into the habit of visiting with him.

The boys showed some of their wood lore to the old man and got his confidence, so he took them over to the lake and pointed out a particular high rock on the shore and told them to fish for trout there, in the evening and they would be sure to get some fish. He told this to only two or three of the boys.

The very next day, the father of one of the boys came up to see the camp and, after he had seen all the different things that boy scouts can do, the evening drew on and his son suggested a fishing trip over to a secret spot he knew about. He said this to his daddy in a very impressive way and let it be known that boy scouts are on the job all the time.

Well, Dad and son were in the flat bottomed boat, one at each end, fishing in the deep dark hole near the high rock, and had caught several fine trout, when, without a word of warning of any sound whatever, in advance, up popped a magnificent loon, right beside the boat at the boy's end.

The loon gave a frightened, surprised squak, cut short by a hasty dive out of sight, for he had come up in the wrong place. The boy, also startled so that his hair stood on end, gave a gasp, threw up his rod and toppled over into the water.

For a while, our wet scout tried to convince everyone that he was diving after the loon, but he couldn't get away with it.

However, a good catch of trout convinced everyone that he was a good scout, even if a loon could take him by surprise.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

A SKIN AILMENT MAY PROVE BAFFLING.

I have had a good letter from an Ohio reader. He does not agree with me about some suggestions I made in an article on psoriasis. I must say he speaks by the book, because he has suffered from attacks of this disagreeable disease for almost fifty years.

Psoriasis shows itself by a localized patch of scaly skin on a red base. It is sharply defined at the edges. The patch is not unlike a scald of the skin upon which white scales have been spread.

The accepted view to-day is that these patches are the result of some sort of food poisoning, the failure of proper elimination of some given element in the body wastes, or to an infection from some pus center. Just why skin poisoning should take this form nobody knows.

We are a long, long way from knowing a lot of things. This need not be discouraging. The Commissioner of Patents recommended to Congress fifty years ago that the Bureau of Patents be abolished, because, he said, "Everything has been invented that the mind of man can possibly think of."

Think of the things which have been invented in the past fifty years—the electric light, the telephone, automobile and aeroplane, the tractor, the radio. During the next fifty years I have no doubt greater wonders will be revealed.

In the field of medicine wonderful discoveries will be made. Diseases now incurable will be under control. The span of life will be materially extended.

The skin diseases are puzzling. Take hives, for instance. Why do those swollen spots come after eating certain foods? I know a girl who would have giant hives if she took a single drop of cream.

My Ohio friend is sure his trouble is "systematic, either due to lack of elimination of some substance in the blood or to some unperformed function of the skin." I believe he is right, but how to get at the bottom of it is the question.

Whenever the nose, the bend of the elbow, the prominent part of the cheek or some other area is the seat of repeated pimples, swellings, redness, scaliness or itching, there must be two conditions present. There is a local weakness which, as my correspondent says, may be due to an unperformed function of the skin, and then there must be some irritant or exciting substance which comes through the circulation.

Of course, there is a further possibility—that the irritation comes from without, possibly from some unconscious habit.

But you can see how difficult it is to explain rationally these mysterious skin disturbances. The best thing to do, however, is to search the body in an attempt to discover any local infection which may exist, and, failing in this, to eliminate one after another the articles of food which may be responsible for the trouble.

My friend will say he has done all this, but it won't hurt to go over the ground once more.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

FRIDAY, AUGUST 21.

A rather restless and probably critical condition of affairs is to be forecast from the prevailing lunar and mutual aspects. There is the prospect of an abrupt change, removal or journey which would not bring the advantage anticipated. Travel also carries some threat of accident and otherwise the physical condition calls for protection. Difficulties, delays and disappointments are possible under an inimical Saturn.

Those whose birthday it is may have a disturbing and obstructed year in which it would be well to postpone travel and change unless well considered. The physical safety and welfare call for more than ordinary attention. A child born on this day may be clever and quick-witted, independent and unconventional in its manner and methods. Its restless and self-willed ways may militate against its success.

FAMOUS "FIRSTS"

By Temple Manning

THE ANTIQUITY OF THE NAPKIN

"James, remember your napkin. No under-the-table tactics, dear. Show our guests how gracefully you can use your napkin and your fork, and you will get a nice, big bonbon after dinner."

How often have you heard your friends admonish their children in this fashion. Although the napkin, just as other necessaries of the dinner table, is in everyday use, the art of wielding it unobtrusively is not always conquered by children. Since the napkin has been in common use for centuries, it would seem that its deft manipulation were instinctive, but ask any mother whether it is!

The Napkin, Now Common, Once Was Reserved for Celebrities.

According to records and books now extant, the napkin was even more necessary in ancient and mediaeval tiques than it is at present. This was due to the late introduction of the fork which only came into use years after the napkin. Gentlemen who used their fingers to convey food to the mouth frequently found it advantageous to disguise traces of this custom by using their napkins as a sort of finger towel. Although history tells us that plebians like the nursery "Goops" did not hestitate to lick their fingers, no Roman patrician or mediaeval lord ever indulged in this odious practice.

Because the napkin was in constant demand during a meal, the Romans, who often provided their guests with two or three at a time, made their hand towels and table linens very decorative. Their beautiful linens soon aroused the envy of their neighbors and not infrequently an unscrupulous guest could be seen tucking his napkin in his coat pocket.

There is a story about Hermogenes who was invited to a sumptuous banquet. For some unaccountable reason napkins were not served that evening and the irate guest of honor avenged himself by running off with the very expensive tablecloth.

The English, from the Anglo-Saxon period to that of the Stuarts, used table linen lavishly. They made much parade of washing both before and after each meal and often provided their guests with elaborately wrought bowls filled with scented water, at the conclusion of the fork, however, made this elaborate system of ablution unnecessary and soon only one napkin was used at each meal and the practice of washing relegated to the finger-dipping process twice a day.

A very partial use of the napkin is made known through the diary of that witty old cosmopolite, Samuel Pepys. Early in the reign of Charles II, Pepys was invited to a banquet at Guildhall. Although he expressed himself as pleased with the food and entertainment, he afterwards wrote: "Many were the tables, but none in the hall but the Mayor's and the lords of the Privy Council that had napkins or knives, which was very strange." Thus it would seem that there was a time in England when only the socially elect were permitted the genteel practice of wiping their august fingers on a table napkin.

Giles Rose, favorite culinary artist of Charles II, compiled a sort of encyclopedia "of the table." He called this "Perfect School of Instructions for Offices of the Mouth" and in it gives instructions for folding dinner napkins into twenty-six different forms. Later on, however, less effort was spent on contriving them.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

BETTY CHANGES HER MIND ABOUT HER DOLLY

Betty picked up her old dolly, looked at it, then tossed it over in the corner of the play room.

"I just hate the old thing!" she cried. "I want a new dolly and if I can't have one like the one at the toy store, I'll not play with any dolly. I can't see why I can't have a nice new dolly like the other girls have," and two big tears ran down Betty's cheeks and splashed on her apron.

"My goodness, gracious," laughed a merry little voice, and Goosneback, the wee travel elfin, hopped down beside Betty. "What's all the tears about?"

"I just hate that old torn dolly of mine," replied Betty. "All the other girls have such pretty dollies and Mama can't afford to buy me any."

Gocomeback walked over and picked up the old torn dolly.

"All she needs is some mending and some cleaning up," suggested the elfin. "Why, I'd just like to have you see the dolly a little friend of mine has to play with. That just reminds me," and like a puff of smoke, Betty was lifted up into the air and away she sailed beside the elfin to a strange land.

"Where are we, any way, Gocomeback?" Betty asked when a little brown girl came running out from a wigwam to meet them.

"You are in South America," replied Gocomeback, "and this is little Bluebird, my little Indian girl. This is Betty Turner from Boston in North America. She wants to see your toys."

"Isn't She a Lovely Dolly?"

"Surely she may see them," laughed Bluebird, and reaching over her shoulder she pulled a funny looking thing from a bag that was fastened on her back and handed it to Betty.

Betty turned it over. It was the queerest looking doll she had ever seen in all her life.

"Isn't she a lovely dolly?" asked Bluebird, her pretty black eyes sparkling. "I think she's a beautiful dolly."

Betty turned the queer looking dolly over in her hand.

It was carved out of wood with its face painted on, and its hair was made of fur. In the back of the fur hair Bluebird had stuck three feathers—a blue, a red and a yellow one. It was dressed in rabbit skin with a fur cloak tied over its shoulders. Betty shivered as she looked at it. She smiled bravely and blinked a tear.

"That is a nice dolly,' she said, kindly, handing the dolly back to its owner. "I don't blame you for loving her. Maybe some day Gocomeback will let me bring you another dolly."

"You may bring me another one," laughed the happy little Indian girl, "but I will always love my old one best," and kissing her dolly, she tucked it back into the bag on her back and ran into the wigwam.

Doris never knew just how she reached home, for her eyes were filled with tears. She lost no time in gathering up her own dolly, and hugging it tightly she rocked it to sleep. No one ever heard her complaining about her dolly again.

Mrs. Ida Keegan is staying with her aunt, Mrs. Alex Lang, Lifford. Some time ago Mrs. Lang had the misfortune of breaking her wrist.

Mrs. C. L. McNeil was at home to her friends on Tuesday and Wednesday afternoon and evening last week. She was assisted in receiving by Miss Bertha McNeil and in serving by Mrs. C. McNeil and Miss Helen Staples. Mrs. M. Sutton poured tea.

Mrs. H. Staples and daughter, Miss Muriel, Toronto, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Staples.

Mr. G. E. Staples spent the week-end at Lifford.

Mrs. C. McNeil, Janetville, visited friends in Cavan last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Paul and Miss Margaret Paul motored to Cartwright on Sunday and attended the Decoration services there.

The first service, in the afternoon, was held in the Blackstock armouries. It was conducted by the Anglican and United church ministers. The soldiers attended in a body, marching to the armouries.

After the service the "monument to the fallen soldiers" was decorated and a short service held there. Afterwards the Anglican and Union cemeteries were visited, also Nestleton, and graves were decorated.

At Nestleton the grave of the Rev. W. C. Windrim was decorated. He had preached in the Presbyterian church for forty-four years. His daughter, who lives in Dakota, had written, requesting friends to lay flowers upon her father's grave as she could not be there to do so. Mr. Windrim was Mrs. Paul's uncle.

THE FIGHTING RANGER

By F. J. McCONNELL and GEORGE W. PYPER.

CHAPTER 30.
Double-Crossing Double Crossers.

For some time past Buck McLeod had been a disgruntled man, with a growing suspicion that Taggart was ready to drop him, unrewarded for his services, the moment he had finished his use for him. His discontent had reached its apex when Taggart had elevated "Idaho Bill" to chief of the gang after their fight in the rustlers' camp.

Buck returned to the room where his men were guarding the three prisoners, now securely bound and helpless. He called them all into a corner. They held a whispered consultation.

"So I hears him sayin' to her, as they goes out, 'I have a little plan,' he says, 'I have a little plan, we'll go to Pico now and talk it over.' he says," Buck told them, and waited to watch their reactions.

They all growled suspiciously.

"Well, boys," continued Buck, "it looks to me like he's layin' to put some raw deal over on us. See? He'll leave us here watchin' the prisoners, while he and her goes out and gets the swag. Then when they've cleaned up, they'll beat it, and we'll still be here watchin'. He'll leave us here watchin' till along'll come the sheriff and a posse and we'll be the ones as gets run in, while he's got far away with everything in sight. Does that appeal to you birds? Do ye h nk he's playin' a square game with us?"

The men muttered expressions of distrust, mingled w th oaths.

"Well, then, boys, I see you're of a mind with me," Buck went on in a low voice. "Now then. I've got a little game, too. When the pie's sliced, supposin' we do the slicin' ourselves?"

"Atta boy, Buck," one of the men yelled.

"Shut up," growled Buck, pointing to the prisoners, and continued in a low voice, "An' as to watchin,' if we're gonna do any watchin,' we'll watch Taggart from now n Eh, what?"

All signified their eager agreement.

"C'mon then," Buck said. "We'll take the upper trail to Pico, and get there about as soon as he does, an' find out what he's gonna be up to."

The men inspected the bonds and gags of the three prisoners, tightening them up in spots, and filed out of the room.

* * *

Buck left his men at the Pico Bar to await his return while he did some spying alone. He went to Taggart's office, crept cautiously to the door, peeked through the keyhole, and listened.

"We've got to act quickly," Taggart was saying.

"Why not start tonight?" Stella demanded.

"Because—because there's one thing missing," Taggart replied with chagrin. "The secret of the topaz. The map is useless without that." He fondled his topaz watch charm.

"I've got the topaz itself—here," he continued. "But I don't yet know how to use it. I've got to find that out first." He paused, then went on: "I have long suspected—for reasons of my own—that Buck McLeod is the man who knows the secret of the topaz. I'll see him in the morning, and make him kick in."

"And if he won't?" said Stella.

"He will," laughed Taggart. "We'll offer h m a good slice of the swag. We have both the map and the topaz—he has only the secret of the topaz alone—it won't pay him to keep it secret."

"But if he wants too much for it?"

"Look here, Stella, once I get hold of this treasure I don't want to be bothered with Buck any more anyway," said Taggart. "It's too dangerous. I don't want it to come out that I've been dealing with him, and besides he knows too much about me. Once we get the secret out of him—well, the sheriff would be glad to get hold of him, you know, and it'll be a damn sight more convenient for me to have him behind the bars than anywhere else. Then let him try to collect his share." He laughed sardonically.

Buck, taking it all in at the keyhole, grinned to himself.

Taggart was speaking again:

"Now you go to your hotel—I'm going home. After I've got what I want from Buck in the morning I'll call for you."

At these words Buck darted like a flash down the stairs, leaped to his horse, and sped hotfoot for the Hotel Rio Grande.

* * *

When Stella arrived at the hotel Buck was waiting at the door. He slouched up to her and said:

"Say, I want to see you—private."

He indicated a corner of the lobby where they could talk unheard. After they had seated themselves, he began:

"I jes happened to be passing Taggart's office, and overheard the little confab you two were havin'."

He paused, and watched her face. She showed surprise, but affected an air of calm, and simply replied, "Yes?"

After a moment's silence, Buck said sneeringly:

"So you're fallin' for his stuff, too, eh?" Then, after a pause, he grabbed her hand and went on, "Looka here—he's gonna pull the same game on you. He's gonna double-cross us both if he can. Why, he told me he was usin' you only 'cause ye came in handy. When he's through with ye he'll do the same to you as he thinks he's gonna do to me."

Stella smiled.

"I thought of all that," she said. "But he's not the only smart one."

"You bet he ain't," Buck said. "And I do know what the topaz means. But he ain't never gonna learn it from me. And I'm gonna get my hands on that map—and that topaz—and then——"

Stella, who was smiling more broadly, interrupted, saying:

"I figured he might pull some game on me, like he was on you, so I didn't take any chances—look!"

From her handbag she drew the two pieces of the map.

They both grinned.

"And the topaz?" asked Buck.

"Well, I couldn't get away with that," Stella replied. "But he doesn't know how to use it, and without this—he's helpless."

Buck's eyes gleamed elatedly.

"Look here," he said, "I'll get the topaz—tonight—and we'll go 50-50. We'll beat him at his own game. Are ye on?"

"I'm on," said Stella, and they shook hands on the agreement.

The Bar M. ranch hands who had been out scouting for the stolen steers, rode in at sunset after a fruitless quest.

Riding up to their quarters, they found the door barred from the outside, and heard heavy pounding against it from within.

They opened it and found Smitty, Mike and Barney, the three cowboys who had been left on watch, trying to break their way out.

"Some hellishly queer things goin' on around here since you boys been out," said Smitty. "First this strange woman who's been livin' here rides in alone. A little later Miss Marshall and her boy friend comes in. Then Taggart. And then—what should happen but these here rustlers come back, bringin' the stolen steers with 'em. One gang of 'em jumps us, and locks us in here, while the rest of 'em runs the cattle back into the corral where they belongs. Now what do ye make of that? Since then, everythin's been quiet, and you sees for yourself there ain't a soul in sight now."

"We better hop up to the ranch house," suggested Barney, "and see just what's what."

The boys all went for the ranch house, lickety-split, and entering found Mary, Terence and Bug bound and gagged. They released them and Terence made a brief explanation of what had happened. The boys received instructions for guarding the ranch, and left.

"Well, Mary, I guess you're convinced about Taggart and this Montrose woman now," said Terence.

"Yes, Terence," and she smiled half-apologetically for not having agreed with him at first. "But what shall we do next? Since that's what he is, he'll probably have the ranch taken from us to satisfy the notes—he's very friendly with Banker Dawson.

"We must find the treasure at once," said Terence. "That will save everything. It's lucky I made this copy of the map."

He pondered.

"All we need now is the secret of the topaz," he said. "And to get that, I must run down this man Buck. I'll take his trail at once—this very night. And I'm not coming back until I get my man! Just before they left—remember?—Buck said something about going to Pico. Guess that's my first destination."

"We're going with you," Mary announced determinedly.

"Yes," chimed in Bud, "you can't tell—you may need help."

CHAPTER 31.
Buck Wins the First Lap.

It was past midnight. Except for Terence, Mary and Bud, riding up and down the street aimlessly, and talking in low voices, the streets of Pico were deserted. They had found no trace of Buck, nor any clue to follow.

Suddenly the street was flooded with the glare of automobile headlights.

"Look out!" cried Terence, and they pulled their horses to the edge of the road just in time to avoid being struck by the madly racing car. In the fleeting instant that the machine was passing them Terence caught a glimpse of the two tense faces in the front seat.

"Did you see who was in it?" he cried excitedly. "It was Buck, and that Montrose woman. Come, quick, we must get a car and follow."

They spurred their horses down the street, stopped at the public garage, awakened the reluctant man in charge, and hired a machine.

"No time to lose," shouted Terence, jumping to the wheel. Mary and Bud leaped in beside him, and htey sped off in the direction in which the other machine had vanished.

SOLUTION OF YESTERDAY'S CROSSWORD PUZZLE

STREET NAMES

BOSWELL AVENUE.

(Contributed)

Boswell avenue was named after the late John Sowden Boswell, who married Elizabeth Burnham, only daughter of the late Elias Burnham, the first solicitor to practice law in Peterborough.

Mr. Boswell, after being in mercantile life for several years in Cobourg, and later in Cannington, removed to Peterborough shortly after the death of his father-in-law, taking the oversight of the latter's estate, and conducting a fire insurance and real estate business.

The block of property, which Mr. Burnham purchased from the holder of the crown deed, extends from Park street to the Monaghan Road, and has Charlotte street and King street as its other boundaries. Some years after Mr. Burnham's decease it was decided to divide the property into building lots, lay it out in avenues, and start the sale of the lots by public auction.

The name "Burnham Avenue" was chosen for the first street so opened because of the owner's long tenure of the property, but because of a street of that name in what was then known as Ashburnham, permission to use the name a second time was refused, and Boswell avenue was substituted in its place. The firm of solicitors in charge when the initial sale of lots took place was Roger & Bennett, later Bennett & Goodwill, and now James Fordyce Strickland.

Elias avenue is named after the original owner, and also after Mr. Burnham's eldest son, Dr. Elias L. Burnham, of Millbrook.

Mr. Boswell's death occurred about twenty-five years ago when he was residing on Dennistoun avenue. Upon first coming to Peterborough to live, Mr. and Mrs. Boswell occupied the family homestead, a large, square, roughcast house, surrounded by wide lawns, with garden and orchard in the rear, which Mr. Burnham built, in Peteborough's early days, on the Charlotte and Park Street corner of his property. The rest of the land was about as nature left it. This house was considered one of the show places of the growing town when it was first erected, frame houses being principally in use at that time.

Mrs. Boswell, who made her home with her son, Professor Maitland C. Boswell, of the University of Toronto staff, after her husband's death, is now also deceased. Maitland avenue was named after this grandson of Mr. Burnham's, and other names, Frederick, Pearl, Margaret, were chosen from immediate family relatives.

SUGGESTIONS FOR SOLVING CROSS-WORD PUZZLES

Start out by filling in the words of which you feel reasonably sure. These will give you a clue to other words crossing them, and they in turn to still others. A letter belongs in each white space, words starting at the numbered squares and running either horizontally or vertically or both.

HINDENBURG ABSOLVED OF WAR DEFEAT IS POPULAR IN GERMANY

People See President as Honest, Simple Soul Who Did All He Could.

DETEST LUDENDORF.

FRANKFURT-ON-MAIN, Aug. 20.—Why Hindenburg is so popular is, like many other German matters, better understood when one is here.

It has puzzled me a good deal that Ludendorf should be so generally detested and Hindenburg loved, writes Norman Hapgood in the New York American. After all, as Hindenburg was Commander-in-Chief, it would be supposed that he would be held responsible for the mistakes of the army.

Germany had plenty of chances to make peace before her people had suffered so terribly, and to make a favorable peace. The civil authorities were ready. The army chief forbade. They insisted on having the starving people told that victory was certain long after every soldier in the army knew that the war was lost. They had such power that they could remove a member of the Government for telling the truth, and did.

Saved By Sympathy.

Moreover, they had tremendously good luck at the end, or their lies about the nearness of victory would have had a more dramatic exposure. The allies had hammered in the German lines to such an extent that retreat through the narrow neck of the bottle in Belgium was no longer possible and a few weeks more would have meant by far the largest surrender in history. This spectacular showing-up was saved them by the state of public opinion in the allied nations about any needless added loss of life.

To understand why the commander-in-chief is not blamed for a terrific disaster, forced by the army, we must understand that Hindenburg is a simple soul and is accepted by his people as such. He is not a great man. He was not a great soldier.

Audubons to a Fault.

He made no pretensions. When he was told by his next in command in formally correct language that he was not a politician, and that political matters were in the hands of Ludendorf, he accepted it. It is not easy for us to imagine a commander being so docile, or a people loving him in spite of such a costly credulity.

It is said that Germans are more sentimental that other nations. I distrust those generalizations, but it may be true. At any rate the feeling for Hindenburg is a sentiment of touching simplicity. He is a good kindly old man who did his best. He was never selfish. He personally was never careless about his fellow citizens.

A True Patriot.

He loved his country. He accepted defeat and offered his services in peace to a Socialist who had so strangely controlled him plotted to overthrow the Republic, embroil it in more bloodshed and bring back to the throne the man whose vanity and weakness had become fully realized.

In office Hindenburg accepts his role as simply as he accepted the ideas of Ludendorf about political responsibility. He will never take the bit in his teeth, never try to go against the Reichstag. He will do what he is expected to do. He will be a figure of honesty, good will and submission. He is, in fact, the old Papa Hindenburg which the German masses picture him in their hearts to be.

British Brewers Plead For Less Expensive Beer

BRIGHTON, Eng., Aug. 19.—(Associated Press).—Cheaper beer has been suggested as one remedy for the unemployment in England that has been bothering successive Governments since the war ended.

At the annual meeting of stockholders of a large brewery recently the chairman said that the country was still overburdened with taxation and that the crying demand today was for cheaper beer, which, he contended, could only be given by reducing the tax upon that beverage.

The chairman said that there are very few, including members of the Government, who realize the number of industries which are dependent upon the brewery trade, and that reduced taxation on beer would not only assist agriculture, but would go some way to meet the unemployment problem.

HIGHER TAXES DUE IN FRANCE

Caillaux Has Plan Which May Cost Him Political Post.

PARIS, Aug. 20.—France, to pay her debts at home and abroad, including the money owed the United States and British Governments, must raise more money by taxation in future years than she has ever raised before. The exact amount of the increase of 1926 will not be known until Joseph Caillaux, finance minister, brings in his budget later in the year, but it is certain to be large.

When he presents his budget, with a scheme of taxation for meeting its demands, there is certain to be a storm of protest, which might easily develop into a ministerial crisis. The reasons grow out of the present taxation system, and the changes which Caillaux proposes.

The present tax burden is not only quite light, but it bears down unevenly. Certain classes, particularly the farmers, owners of real estate, and members of the liberal professions, have escaped paying their share. Farmers, who constitute about half of the population of France, and the small property class in the cities which is also large, have been paying real estate taxes on valuations fixed from 1907 to 1910, which of course bear no relation to present values because of the devalorization of the franc and the general change in economic values.

Tax Effective.

The income tax against members of the liberal professions has never been effective because no government has ever had the courage to create machinery and enforce it the same as in England and the United States.

A revaluation of real estate and farm land has already been ordered. This revaluation will be reflected not only in the real estate tax proper, but also in the yield of taxes on agricultural profits due to the relation assumed between the rental value of the land and agricultural profits.

Caillaux has also announced that he intends to tighten up on the income tax. The professions have hardly been touched heretofore by taxation because of the French belief that investigation of incomes are interference with individual rights. But the refusal of professional men to make correct reports, and the realization that frauds are being committed with great losses to the treasury have led the government to declare that it will put on the screws.

After Capital.

The propertied classes will also suffer increased taxes on securities, according to announcements, and measures are to be taken to force the return to France of capital that has been exported to escape French taxation. The 1925 law adopted in July grants grace until Jon. 1, 1926 to return exported capital without penalty. After that every Frenchman must make a sworn statement every year of his foreign holdings, and concealment will be punished by criminal proceedings and confiscation of half of the concealed holdings.

By raising taxes on farmers, the small property class, and members of the liberal professions, Caillaux will run the risk of antagonizing the majority of the voters in France. He already has their enmity because of his alleged radical background. If they could turn him out of office they would do it gladly. His only chance is to be able to lay his case before the country so convincingly that it must be accepted.

He already has made a good start. He has the confidence of the financial groups, and his general popularity has appeared to increase in recent months. His gold loan, which assures investors of a return of at least 4 per cent. by anchoring dividends to the pound sterling has been popular, as subscriptions testify.

A Light Load.

The French have no great cause to complain even if taxes do increase rather sharply. They have not been paying at the rates demanded of the English, for example, and their prosperity has been unequalled among important European nations. Their load has been light enough to permit advances in the standard of living, and the introduction of the eight hour day.

The figures show that their per capita annual tax payments if adjusted to the cost of living are 159 on the basis of 100 in 1913. Expressed in gold, the 1924 payment would be 189 with 1913 at 100. So the French people have been paying only slightly more than 50 per cent. more tax than before the war, despite the great costs of the conflict.

The best figures available on the national income show that the Frenchman paid approximately 20 per cent. of his income toward national expenses in 1924 and 11.60 per cent. in 1913. If extraordinary war taxes and departmental and communal levies are included, the percentage becomes 11.48 in 1913 and 24.10 in 1924.

ROAD TO ROUYN.

The official survey plan of the C.N.R. branch railway line into the Rouyn gold fields have been filed at Quebec and approved by the Provincial Government. The map above shows the route which will be taken from the town of O'Brien on the C. N. main line between Quebec City and Winnipeg. The route runs southwest through Privat and Poularies Townships, then curves south to go through Destor and Dufresnoy Townships to Rouyn. The line runs to the west of both Lake Dufresnoy and Lake Dafault. The station at the mines is just at the west of Lake Osisko on Lake Tremoy, near the Noranda mines property. The line and the station are about 22 miles from the Ontario border, which has to be the terminus of the T. and N. O. line running out to Larder Lake.

PAINTERS FIND SPIRE COOLER

But Strain on Workmen at George Street Church Offsets Atmosphere.

Workmen employed by Coleman Brothers commenced the repainting of the woodwork on the spire on George street Methodist church. Messrs. Coleman have carried out similar contracts from time to time, a previous job of a similar nature being that on the Prince of Wales' school.

Men on the work say the atmosphere is much cooler at the top of the spire than down on the ground although the mental tension of work at such a height and the continual activity usually keeps the worker at top at a fairly high temperature.

One of the men had the experience of being photographed on the spire yesterday afternoon by his wife, from his house, which is quite near the church on George st.

The minister of the church, Rev J. E. Todd, observed the work yesterday and was given a cordiau invitation to climb to the top. Mr. Todd preferred remaining below, but his little son made the ascent right to the top.

An interested spectator this morning was a grey haired veteran, who told the workmen he was employed as a young man on the building of the church in the year 1875.

TRY MAGNESIA FOR STOMACH TROUBLE

It Neutralizes Stomach Acidity, Prevents Food Fermentation, Sour Gassy Stomach and Acid Indigestion.

Doubtless if you are a sufferer from indigestion, you have already tried pepsin, charcoal, drugs and various digestive aids and you know these things will not cure your trouble—in some cases do not even give relief.

But before giving up hope and deciding you are a chronic dyspeptic just try the effect of a little Bisurated Magnesia—not the ordinary commercial carbonate, eltrate, or milk, but the pure Bisurated Magnesia which you can obtain from practically any druggist in either powdered or tablet form.

Take a teaspoonful of the powder or three compressed tablets with a little water after your next meal, and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous, harmful acid in the stomach which now causes your food to ferment and sour, making gas, wind, flatulence, heartburn and the bloated or heavy, lumpy feeling that seems to follow most everything you eat.

You will find that provided you take a little Bisurated Magnesia immediately after a meal, you can eat almost anything and enjoy it without any danger of pain or discomfort to follow and moreover, the continued use of the Bisurated Magnesia cannot injure the stomach in any way so long as there are any symptoms of acid indigestion.

CONGRESSMAN IN LIQUOR SUIT

Revelations of alleged wholesale liquor smuggling by a group of congressmen on a junket to Panama at government expense re-opened the divorce duel of Congressman Frank D. Scott and his wife, Mrs. Edna James Scott.

MILLIONAIRES SLEEP IN TUBS

Americans at Deauville Give Small Fortune to Head Waiters.

DEAUVILLE, Aug. 20.— All women will be young and pretty next Fall and Winter, thanks to the newest style launched at the Deauville races. Fashion has re-established the veil as an indispensable detail of the smart woman's attire.

It is not the long veil of several years ago, but a narrow strip of precious lace, preferably Spanish, covering the front of the hat and just enough of the face to soften the features and mercifully hide the ravages of time, cocktails and all-night parties.

Mouth Uncovered.

The mouth remains completely uncovered, giving the same charming effect obtained by the eighteenth century Venetian ladies with their black velvet half-mask.

The vogue of old lace as dress material is confirmed and is likely to remain for a long time, because only smart women possessing heirlooms or limited means are able to afford the fashion that never can be copied by cheap models.

Through the cleverest advertising campaign ever devised anywhere, Deauville's managers have succeeded in attracting the biggest and richest crowd of Americans and Britishers at present on this side of the water.

American Dollars Pour In.

On this strip of channel coast which does not measure more than half a mile, and which does not hold a candle to lovel Santa Monica or Palm Beach, American dollars are being poured by the bushel. Millionaires are sleeping on cots and in bathtubs, and are tipping headwaiters with small fortunes for the privilege of spending a bigger fortune around one of their dinner tables.

Mrs. Joseph Pulitzer, who has taken a villa, had a dinner with eighteen covers at the Casino, following the races. The dinner was in honor of her guest, Lady Victoria Bullock, whose ocean green "artificial panne" gown was admired all around as the newest of the season. "Artificial panne" is a novel velvety material which moulds perfectly to the body, and without being "shot" has enough shimmer to make it appear of various shades.

RED PIMPLES ITCHED BADLY

Neck and Chest Broken Out. Cuticura Healed.

"My daughter's neck and chest were very badly broken out with red pimples that festered and itched badly. She scratched the affected parts and caused the trouble to spread. At night she could not sleep and the breaking out caused disfigurement.

"I tried everything I could think of but nothing helped her. I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. I purchased more, and after using one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment she was healed." (Signed) Mrs. R. B. Cross, 81 Seneca Parkway, Rochester, N. Y.

1,000 MINE COAL IN LAND OF ICE

Physical and Labor Problems Stagger in Spitzbergen, in Arctic Circle.

LONGYEAR CITY, Spitzbergen, Aug. 19.—Mining in Spitzbergen presents peculiar features that are not met with anywhere else in the world.

It is a long tramp from Longyear City to the mine entrance across a boulder-strewn valley between two snow-covered mountain ranges. In the spring, the slowly melting snow turns the valley, really a moraine, into a morass of slush and mud, with rapid little watercourses winding their way towards the fjord.

Working gangs are hoisted in open cable cars 800 feet up at an angle of some 60 degrees to the main gallery, which opens out on the mountainside, and looks from below like an ugly black scar.

From here, galleries run horizontally through the heart of the mountain, with an exit on the other side. Thus there is a constant supply of fresh air, and the temperature within is constant; about five degrees of frost all the year around. There is a remarkable absence of dust which is kept down by shoveling in snow from outside. This snow never melts, and it helps to keep the air pure.

Pillars of Ice.

Pillars of solid ice, said to be millions of years old, and many feet thick, form reliable natural supports for the galleries, which are reinforced by wooden balks.

The company's engineers are proud of their American electric traction equipment which conveys the coal from the bowels of the earth to the outlet high up on the mountainside, hence an endless chain of tips carries it down to the distant harbor.

"This is really our worst time, as far as labor is concerned," said Sigurd Westby, Spitzbergen manager of the Great Norwegian Coal Co., to an Associated Press correspondent discussing ways and means of recruiting operating staffs, all of whom have to be imported, since there are no Spitzbergen "natives," properly speaking.

"At this time of the year, when the first boats begin to arrive from Norway," he went on, "many of our fellows get the homing instinct and there's no holding them. They have to sign a contract for at least one summer and one winter, but nothing will keep them once the ice breaks up and there is a chance of going home. Oh yes, many of them come back after they have spent their money at Tromso or elsewhere. Miners' wages run to about 30 kroner per day; they are charged four kroner for board and lodging and there are no opportunities for spending money here. Amusements in the way of movies, wireless parties and social entertainments are provided for them free in the winter time, so every man has his little hoard by the time the sun reappears above the horizon, late in April."

500,000 Tons a Year.

People who have spent four consecutive winters in Spitzbergen are pretty rare.

Coal is king in Spitzbergen and everyone talks in terms of coal, which is no wonder, seeing that the existence of all the 1,000 odd inhabitants of these islands is dependent upon the production of that commodity, since the whaling industry was ruined many decades ago by reckless slaughtering methods employed by the hunters.

Of 10 mining countries which own land in the archipelago, the principal concerns, two Norwegian, one Dutch and one Swedish, produce more than 500,000 tons annually, all of which is used in Norway, Finland and Northern Russia for domestic and industrial purposes.

It was the late John M. Longyear, of Boston, Mass., who, together with his friend, Frederick Ayer, located some 25 years ago the most promising coal fields in these parts, which are estimated to contain 500,000,000 tons, or about one-quarter of the total supply supposed to exist, as far as is known, in all Spitzbergen.

Trouble Ahead.

New Beau—"Here is a quarter, Willie. Now you are off to the movies, I suppose."

Willie—"Nope, off for a battery for my flashlight."

His Mind Unsettled.

Beatrice—"I think Harold will propose as soon as he can settle his mind to it, my dear."

Millicent—"As soon as he can settle his mind to it?"

Beatrice—"Yes, he is learning to roll his own cigarets now, you know."

GARDEN HINTS

MILLBROOK, Aug. 20.—As a general rule this season most local gardeners have had poor luck in raising sweet peas, but H. Lord, who is cultivating a number of gardens in the village for market purposes, has a very fine row from which, up to last Saturday, one hundred and forty-four good sized bouquets have been picked. The vines are still blooming profusely.

Mr. Lord attributes his success to the fact of early planting, his practice being to shovel away the snow the last week in March, or the first in April, and put in the seed then in rich soil, using a deep trench which may be gradually filled in, the spring rains helping to perform this task. If this plan is followed a main root growth of at least six inches is obtained and continuous bloom from spring until late fall is assured. Some advocate planting in the latter part of October for the sake of early and prolonged blossoming, but evidently, locally, this suggestion has not yet been tried.

Mr. Lord had the first corn of the season on the Peterborough market, sending twelve dozen ears on the first Saturday in August, and six dozen the following week.

A practical gardener offers the suggestion which he has successfully tried for more than one season, that in cutting early cabbages, instead of pulling up by the roots, break the heads from the stems, and the latter will make a second growth, resulting in miniature cabbages which are quite palatable for table use. Where poultry is kept the hens relish this form of succulent green food.

Most flower lovers in the village have a few roots of the Oriental poppy in their gardens, its brilliant blossoms in the early part of the season, preceding even the peonies, making it a general favorite. The Department of Agriculture issues the hint that the middle of August is the proper time for moving this perennial, providing it was not done in the early spring.

Particular care is necessary in transplanting, so the roots may not be disturbed, plenty of earth must be lifted with them, and when placed in their new bed, soak well with water, then leave without further interference until another season.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

THURSDAY

Dear Annie Laurie: I am a young man, eighteen years old, and am sincerely in love with a girl. She lives in a neighboring town and her folks will not permit us to meet or write. They will allow her to go with other friends but I must not even talk to her.

How can we prove our love is true and gain her father's friendship and consent? —True Love.

True Love: I suggest that you write to the father of this young lady and explain the situation to him. Tell him that you are sincerely fond of his daughter and that she enjoys your company. Ask his permission to call on her occasionally or to invite her out and say that you have never consciously done anything to merit his disapproval. If your letter is tactful and earnest he will in all probability reconsider the matter, and give your friendship with his daughter an opportunity to develop.

Dear Annie Laurie: I am a young girl of 19 and care a great deal for a young man four years my senior. I have never been out with him, yet I see him quite often, and when I speak to him I always feel shy and embarrassed. Please tell me how I can get more friendly in trying to win him. Yours truly, —Yearning.

Yearning: In the first place, if I were you, I would stop trying to live up to the name by which you sign yourself in this letter. There are very few men who care for the "yearning" sort of young female. As for that "shy and embarrassed" feeling, it is probably caused by your own consciousness of a deep feeling for this young man. When you meet him, try and imagine that he is the milkman bringing in the morning supply, and greet him in just the same way as you would that gentleman, if you got up in time to request an extra pint. Of course, if he happens to be a real milkman, then you will have to imagine he is someone else, a postman, for instance. Think about him, if you wish, as a Greek god with a halo around his head, but talk to him like you would any ordinary man, and see if you don't get along better

Dear Annie Laurie: I am in love with a young girl of my own age and go to see her once or twice a week, but I am not sure she loves me. How can I find out? —Uneasy.

Uneasy: Why don't you ask her, Uneasy?

Annie Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. Letters to Miss Laurie should be addressed to her in care of this office.

BURIED TREASURE

By Juanita Hammel

Buried Treasure! Is there anyone in the world who doesn't thrill to the words? Whenever we get where we can dig, the first thought that flashes into the mind is, "Perhaps I'll find some of the pirate's buried treasure!" And if you're persistent and patient, you'll find it. Not gold and jewels, it's true, but the kind of treasure that every girl dreams of. The greatest treasure of all—Love! Miss Vacation Girl has found him, buried in the golden sands and her dreams of romance are fulfilled. Not to the utmost, as yet, but the mere finding of him here at the seaside is sufficient, and now that her search is ended and she's found her "buried treasure," she knows that the rest of her life will be spent in watching and tending him carefully.

A FASHION MODEL'S DIARY

By Grace Thorncliffe

SHE CHATS ABOUT A NEW ENSEMBLE SUIT.

To-day I spent all my time assisting Madame in her little office.

"There are so many business details connected with a modiste shop, aside from the actual designing of frocks, that I need a special assistant to help me out," Madame declared.

"Well, as long as I haven't much to do in the manikin line to-day, let me help," I urged her.

"Delighted," Madame declared, as she led me to her office without more ado and gave me some accounts to go over.

Then one of her assistant designers came in, and I was most interested in hearing them talk over the early Fall trends in fashion.

The assistant had just returned from her trip abroad, having stayed a little longer than Madame herself in order to study fashion trends.

"We must have numerous ensembles," Madame informed her.

"Indeed, I agree with you," the younger designer returned. "Everywhere the simple ensemble was undoubtedly the best fashion bet."

"Well, there's no doubt in my mind that the matching coat and dress have entrenched themselves so firmly that we'll see them both for a long time to come," Madame said emphatically.

Then she reached for a drawing that lay on top of her desk and handed it to her assistant, saying:

"This is what I've drawn for the first ensemble of the new season."

"Very, very pretty. I like the smart tailored simplicity. May I ask what the material is to be?"

"Certainly," Madame answered. "It's that very soft, fine kasha that I brought back from abroad. And I'm using the natural tint for this first outfit."

I rose to ask if I might see the sketch, which I am showing here in my diary as rather typical of the early Fall things.

The coat is long and plain, with two inset pleats at the front topped by darts. The dress beneath is of the same natural kasha. It is made on straight lines and buttons down the front.

The simple collar and cuffs are of the kasha, trimmed with crossing strips of gold-colored kid, and the effect is very stunning.

"By the way, I expect to use a good deal of colored kid to trim my early Fall things," Madame remarked.

"Let's show a brown and tan kid hat to top this costume," the assistant suggested, and Madame set to work to design the hat that is shown here.

The natural-tinted kid is trimmed with applied strips of brown.

This Natural-Tinted Kasha Costume Is Ideal for Fall.

WHEN GEORGE STREET LEVEL WAS REDUCED

Evidence of Other Days in J. D. Craig Store.

The store at the corner of Brock and George streets, for many years occupied by J. D. Craig as a furniture store, is now undergoing some extensive alterations. Those who look in through the windows or doors, will notice that the openings where the joists for the ground floor were, are now some three or four feet above the street level. Since this block was built, George street at this point, has been lowered considerably, and many of the older residents will remember the occasion, about 40 years ago, when this was done. A still heavier cutting was done previous to that, as old residents claim that the balcony on the second story of the old Commercial House block, marks the original level of George street at this point.—W. P.

Failure may cause pain, but if the lesson that it teaches is taken to heart it will be a growing pain.

Let's Talk It Over

A NEEDLESS PART OF MARRIED LIFE

Mean little setts to you had with Jim this morning, wasn't it, Pal? Left a bad taste in your mouth all day, didn't it? Funny how married folks cannot get along without these little squabbles. Of course, it isn't as if you and Jim had ever had any real difficulties. Gosh, weren't you sore when you heard that Mrs. Peck said you fought like "cats and dogs!" The very idea! Why, you get along fine; sure you do.

Only now and then you have one of those spats all married people have. How often? Once a month? Well, maybe a little oftener than once a month. Once a week? Well, it might be oftener than once a week. Come to think of it, it is oftener. Most every day now. You hadn't realized that, had you? Why, when you were first married, you'd have cried your eyes out if Jim had said one cross word to you. And, as for Jim—remember the time he threatened to shoot himself because you stopped talking to him for two whole days? But gradually things have changed, without your knowing it. Pretty soon you answered Jim right back and gave him a dozen cross words for his one. And before you knew it you were both acting as if having spats were as much a part of married life as parlor lamps and gas bills and fried onions.

Yes, but Need They Be a Part Of Married Life, Pal? Are those little spats as harmless as they have come to seem to you and Jim, my dear? Or are they slow doses of deadly poison which you hardly notice at the time but which are surely destroying your love and happiness?

Read this letter and see what "those little fights" did to one home.

I would like to have your opinion on this letter. I am a married man and we have a baby boy some weeks old. A few weeks ago my wife sued me for a divorce and, I not contesting it, she was granted the divorce.

Not that I don't love my wife and baby—just the opposite. I am all broken up over it and I can't sleep, eat or do justice to my work. I thought maybe by not contesting it she would realize what she was doing and for the baby's sake and mine she would change her mind, but she didn't and I don't think she will. I have always tried to do the best I could by her. I gave her the best hospital and doctor and home I could afford.

No matter what a person does, you always hear about mother love, but you seldom hear anything about father love. Why is that? Don't you think that a father cares for a baby or that he doesn't want to be near the child?

I have seen her since the divorce but she says we can never come together again. She doesn't seem to realize that I have any right to the baby at all (she was awarded custody of the child). She doesn't want to look at it as I do. My idea is that she is not fair to the baby or to me. Everyone knows that there is nothing like a mother and a father for a baby and that both should be together and acting for the common good of their child.

Well, I surely would appreciate any advice that would mean my wife, baby and self all happy and together once more. I know that I would be one of the best of fathers and husbands if I was only given the chance.

SAD HEARTED.

Do you get it, Pal, the loneliness, pain and despair? He doesn't understand how it happened. But can't you see the reason? The "little fight" that was accepted as part of the programme. The little fights that were never "violent fights," but that surely wore down the love upon which that home was built.

Suppose you started to write the story of your life with Jim. Suppose you tried to tell about that queer coldness that has come lately. Those "little squabbles"—that Sunday morning disagreement—what is it doing to Your home? Better grab a pen and sit down and see what will seep from your heavy heart on to a scrap of paper. You may be surprised a bit yourself.

LAKEVIEWS LOSE DECIDING GAME TO BELLEVILLE

Two Time Champions Eliminated From Hunt in Third Game.

TWO HOMERS.

Heavy Hitting By Belleville Team, Which Bunched Blows For Runs.

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 20.—(Special).— Belleville Junior Baseball team defeated Lakeviews of Peterboro in the third deciding game here yesterday afternoon with ease by 10 to 3, and it should have been 10 to 1, the Petes shoving two cheap runs over in their last innings after Holland, a pinch hitter, had fanned, and Mein had flied out.

"Inkey" Woods, Lebarr's holdback pitcher was easy for the locals, but "Chump Gerow, whom Manager Colling sent back after Lakeviews yesterday, held the visitors right in control all the way. Gerow allowed but five hits throughout the whole game. Belleville nicked eleven off Woods. The Petes were stronger with support, too, having but two misses to Belleville's seven. Collings Colts had the happy knack of bunching hits which were counters and which had to mean runs, getting a pair of runs in the fourth and four in the sixth and again in seventh. Petes grabbed one of their three in the fifth and were handed the other two in the ninth.

Good ball was played with small chances of scoring until the fourth, when Belleville broke the ice with a brace. Latchford's Texas Leaguer started the fireworks, followed by Hurley's' double and Symon's two bagger which scored Latchford and Hurley. Marchen's home run came in the fifth, but in the sixth when Woods weakened badly, the locals got four. He walked Palmer and hit Latchford, Symons lining to the garden, filling the sacks. Rigby's sod burner along first scored Palmer and Latchford, he reaching second on the hit, Symons going to third. Post doubled over second, scoring Symons and Rigby.

Again in the seventh, Palmer singled with one down. Latchford received a life on Marchen's error and Hurley clouted a long drive to right field for a homer, sending in two ahead of him. Symons and Rigby singled, Rigby's hit scoring Symons.

In the ninth after Holland had struck out, and Mein flied out, the locals became over confident and Woods singled, Marchen doubled scoring Woods, Lebarr was safe on Palmer's fumble, Marchen scoring before Collins flied out to Post.

Line up:

Lakeviews—Marchen, 2b; Lebarr, 3b; Collins, cf; Delahaye, c; Scully lf; Halliday, rf; Johnston, 3b; Mein ss; Woods, p.

Belleville—Stark, 3b; Palmer, rf; Latchford, c; Hurley, lf; Symons, 1b; Rigby, ss; Ross, cf; Post, 2b; Gerow, p.

TRENT JUNIORS ARE DEFEATED

Havelock-Norwood Piled Up Score Against Campbellford-Hastings.

HAVELOCK, Aug. 20.—O.A.L.A. Junior Lacrosse, Campbellford-Hastings versus Havelock-Norwood. Played at Havelock Wednesday afternoon. Havelock started this game with a 6 goal lead against them, so they had to do business to overcome that lead and also pile up a few to help them toward the game at Campbellford on Friday next.

The game started at a good pace, considering the excessive heat, and had not been in progress many seconds before Havelock tallied through W. Laing and after this counter it was all Havelock and Norwood scoring which they did very frequently and four goals were scored in the first period.

After the rest Havelock and Norwood went out for all they could get, and were rewarded with five more goals in the second period. The third period was about the same as the other two and Havelock scored five more. The last period added four more goals to the score.

Campbellford-Hastings team were all on the defensive and rarely did they get near enough to the Havelock goal to take a shot, but it was a good game, although very one-sided and Campbellford's goal tender saved a considerable amount of sure goals.

Comments on Game.

The game was played in a good sportsmanlike spirit, and there were very few penalties, only minors being dealt out. The Campbellford team was handicapped by the loss of a couple of good defence men, but the Havelock-Norwood combination were the best team, and the eighteen goals were scored by the following players: W. Laing, 3; H. Plunkett, 2; Glen Wright, 3; L. Jack, 2; Red McGee, 1; H. Baker, 4; H. Ketchen, 1; G. Baker, 1; Basil Darling.

With a twelve-goal lead, Havelock should with good luck be able to win the district honors.

INSIDE GOLF.

By CHESTER HORTON

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

How the golfer goes about the short pitch shot to avoid having the ball roll when it strikes the green is a detail of the fine game that every golfer should understand. It enables, also, a wider use of the mashie, one of the most interesting clubs. When you have a full mashie shot—say 140-150 yards — place the blade back of the ball so that it takes its natural lie, then swing. The distance is sufficient so that all the forward energy of the ball will have died before the ball attains its full flight. If the pitch is short, say 75 yards, place the mashie blade back of the ball in a somewhat flattened down position and take such a stance that the hands are about two inches in front of the ball, then swing. This will cause the ball to go higher and come down straighter—that is, you increase its upward flight and decrease its forward energy at the same time. There are no fixed measurements for such work with the mashie—practice alone will teach you the fine points in so playing this great club.

RAYBESTOS PUT 4 WHEEL BRAKE ON BIG 4 TEAM

Oulette Beaten on Home Lot By Battling Peterborough Crew.

BIG INNING.

Consistent Team Work Pulls Game From Fire in Seventh Frame.

Raybestos players journeyed to Lindsay yesterday, where they succeeded in taking a fall out of the Big Four winners to the refrain of 10 to 7. At one time, at the end of the sixth frame, it looked as if Oulette had the game cinched, as he had a five-run lead and seemed to be going nicely. The Brake-makers however, not one whit discouraged, went right out in the opening seance of the seventh and before the curtain was rung down, had chalked up those five runs where they would do the most good and stood for the first time during the game within grasping distance of victory. The contagion of run-getting spread through the eighth, when three more were hooked and stowed away. From that lofty eminence Raybestos men gazed upon the futile efforts of Lindsay swatters whose day's work had been brought to a close at the end of the sixth, when Moore in conjunction with eight other players tightened up and closed the gates on the home lane.

Oulette looked good at the first of the game, although his control left much to be desired. Possibly his reputation as the mainstay of the Belleville C.N.R. team got him by for a time, but the Brakemen tumbled to the fact that a mystery solved is no mystery, and they accordingly brought the wood to bear upon the big boy's heaves. His team mates, seeing their idol thus unkindly treated, tossed in some costly errors and went to pieces in their offensive, so that after scoring in every frame excepting the fifth, they left the last three spaces tenanted by little round marks which meant nothing whatever.

Team Work Won.

No particular favorite could be picked on the Raybestos' line because the afternoon assignment was turned in as a team performance. It was team play that robbed Oulette of a victory. Every man was in there, giving everything he had to beat the erstwhile Central Ontario boy and in spite of the hard surfaced diamond to which they were unaccustomed, they had fewer misplays than their opponents, accustomed to its vagaries.

Due to the uneven surface features the ball goes down to the infielder in a peculiarly drunken fashion which does not lend itself to fast picking. The infield had a lot of work to do and they did it well allowing only two hard drives to puncture it. Three reached the outfield by the aerial route, but were absorbed by waiting gardeners.

Considerable commotion was aroused when one of the drives was returned to the infield and a runner who had advanced from second to third before the ball was caught, was nipped off. Lindsay fans contended that the runner had returned and accordingly declared that the remainder of the game was to be played under protest. They didn't care anything about the umpire's decision.

Both Shaughnessy and Moore were good, although two-thirds of the distance through the third frame Shag's pinion went dead and Moore took up the burden successfully.

After the game, the Peterborough boys were assigned to the Hotel Grand, where James Cowan, the proprietor, saw that the visitors were made comfortable and produced the best edibles in the house.

KNOCKOUT COMING TO SIKI BY THE U.S.

Senegalese Fighter Has Overstayed Passport Leave.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Battling Siki, the Senegalese prizefighter, who sprang to the fore when he knocked out Georges Carpentier, France's idol, will have one more little bout in this country.

The bout will be with the United States Government and will take place at Ellis Island next Monday. Present indications are that Siki will lose. If he does, he will be deported.

All this because Siki broke into print the other day when he came out of a free-for-all in "Hell's Kitchen" with two stab wounds. It recalled to the immigration authorities that Siki was in the country longer than his passport permitted. A deportation warrant was issued and Siki was arrested yesterday morning at his apartment, No. 3 1 West Forty-second street. He was taken to Ellis Island and released when his manager, Bob Levy, put up a $1,000 bond for the pugilist's appearance before the board of inquiry next Monday.

Siki came here originally from France a year ago. Before his six months' term in this country expired he went to Cuba. He returned from the island last Winter and, under the law, could remain here only six months. If he is deported, he probably will be sent to Cuba.

SPORT GOSSIP AND COMMENT.

According to the Kingston Standard, the Peterboro-Kingston playoff series is over before it has started. The Standard says that Harry Batstone is very anxious to beat the Oslers, "who will likely be the next team met after Peterboro has been put away."

* * * * * * * * *

Talk like that carries no threat so far as the Petes are concerned. They are approaching the series with earnest determination to give the Ponies the toughest kind of an argument—and they hope to start in on Saturday by beating Joe Daley's tribe at Riverside Park in the opening clash. The squad is practising faithfully, and they will be in the best of shape when Umpire Colling sends the teams away at 3 o'clock sharp.

* * * * * * * * *

Interest in the game is at fever heat, and fans from all over the Central Ontario League territory will gather here on Saturday. A number of Kingston fans will be here, while Belleville, Oshawa and other centres in Eastern Ontario will send quotas to swell the crowd. The biggest Peterboro turnout of the year will mark the occasion, and the ball dished out should be worth the day, for both teams are fit and ready for the final dash for the pennant.

* * * * * * * * *

Last year Kingston won both games in the play-off series, only to disappear, along with Peterboro, when both teams were discovered to have used ineligible players. They go into the series this year with a clean sheet, and the winning team on the field will represent the Central loop in the Ontario play-offs.

* * * * * * * * *

The Lindsay Big Four winners will be here tomorrow for the second game of their series with Raybestos, the East Peterboro title-holders, and a mighty interesting struggle is promised. Raybestos deserve the support of local fans as Peterboro's only representative in the intermediate series.

* * * * * * * * *

Harry Batstone, Kingston's third sacker, won the majority of prizes offered by Kingston merchants for the best performances by Pony players during the Central Ontario League schedule. Batstone had the best batting average, .401, scored the most runs, 31, stole the most bases, 9, and made the most extra base hits, 16, while he was tied with Del Cherry in home runs, each having hit for the circuit three times.

DELORO SWAMPS HASTINGS, SCORE BEING 28 TO 12

Smelters Won Decisive Victory in Second Game of Play-off Round.

POOR FIELDING.

Twenty-two Errors Made, 13 By Home Team—Many Pitchers Used.

(By a Staff Reporter.)

HASTINGS, August 20. — Hastings had its famous Highland piper, arrayed in full regalia, at the ball game yesterday between the home team and Deloro—the second in the play-off—to fill the air with melody in case the local youngsters won. But the piper might have hung his bagpipes in a willow or any other convenient tree. He did not play, and if he had the most appropriate air he could have selected would have been "The Flowers of the Forest, Scotland's lyrical lament for a vanquished host. For the Hastings boys were routed, and if a baseball team carried such impedimenta as horse and artillery those adjuncts, too, would probably have been unable to hold their own against the champions of the Bay of Quinte League.

Alex. Kay, who officiated behind the batter, has umpired 125 games this season, and if he has seen a worse contest than that of yesteday he is unable to recall it. Even the Deloros were off color. Probably the rough diamond upon which they appeared for first time had something to do with it, but whatever the cause they made error after error, but retrieved themselves by pounding the ball. With a temperature of something over 100 in the sun, and not a breath of air blowing, the speed and frequency with which they circled the diamond would have exhausted any but athletes who have been in training as sprinters all season.

Were Simply Outclassed.

The Hastings' boys were simply outclassed, just as any team in the Northumberland League facing the Deloros would be, and until next year, the local boys must be satisfied to rest on their well won honors, the winning of the championship when among players of their own class.

Their triumph is appreciated by the villagers and as a mark of that appreciation they will be tendered a banquet when the cup is formally presented to them.

When the score stood 13 to 4 in favor of Delora, with Shea pitching, and it began to look as if Hastings would overtake the leaders, Ada, the star pitcher for Deloro, went into the box, Shea taking his place at left. In that inning nine Hastings men went to bat, and five hits brought in as many runs. Things began to look better for the local team, and the piper began preparing for action, while the fans set up a demonstration that could be heard a mile. That, however, was the closest Hastings came to evening the score.

Stephenson relieved L. Scriver in the fifth and struck out the first man who faced him. The only man who reached first was Shea who made that bag on an error. Stephenson retired the side by throwing two men out at first.

Deloro kept up their run getting to the end, their biggest rally being made in the ninth when 12 of their men went to bat, and eight of them cantered across the plate. Herrington started in to pitch in this inning, but the latter was recalled before that side was retired.

Hard catches made by L. Scriver in centre field, where nothing gets away from him, and a double by Cruickshanks, a triple by Clapper, and a double play by Cassidy and Cruickshanks, were features of an otherwise prosey game. The score:

Deloro.

PETERBORO CLUB BEAT LAKEFIELD

Cricket Score 69-64 in Saturday Game After a Bad Start.

A very enjoyable cricket match was played on Saturday between the Peterborough and Lakefield clubs, and resulted in a close win for the former. The local club had a very disastrous start, four wickets being down for nine runs, but a successful "tail" raised the score to 69 before the side was finally retired. Of this, Thorpe and Dyer contributed a very valuable partnership. In reply to the Peterborough club's total, Lakefield opened their innings with Grier and Massie, and in spite of bowling changes, the score rose to 41 before the partnership was broken. At this stage, with nine wickets in hand, it looked certain that the visitors would be returned winners. However, without any change in the score, three more wickets fell in rapid succession, and in spite of a gallant effort by Little, who batted steadily for half an hour, the whole side was out shortly after six o'clock for 64, leaving the home club victors by the narrow margin of five runs. Mr. "Extras" can be said to be a mighty useful man as he contributed eight runs to the local side as against one for the visitors, and in this respect the fielding of the winning side might take credit for the victory.

The Peterborough ladies served afternoon tea and all are looking forward to a return game. Scores:

CHAMPIONS FIGHT.

Bantam Kings of Canada and Australia Will Meet August 28.

VANCOUVER, Aug. 20.—(Canadian Press).—Vic Foley, Canadian bantamweight champion, and Vic King, holder of the Australian bantamweight title, have been matched for a 15 round bout here on August 28. The men will weigh at 118 pounds on the afternoon of the fight and both titles will be at stake.

KINGSTON TEAM HERE SATURDAY IN FINAL GAME

Ponies and Petes Will Fight It Out at Riverside Park.

WILL BE TUSSLE.

Teams at Full Strength and Both Are Very Confident.

The old rivals, the Kingston Ponies and the Petes, clash at Riverside Park on Saturday, in the first game of the series to decide the championship of the Central Ontario League.

The best baseball of the season should be developed during the series.

Both teams are in the best of shape, with no casualties in either camp, and they finished the regular league schedule on even terms, each team having won fifteen games out of twenty-three starts.

Kingston has not won a game in Peterboro this year and by the same token the Petes have been beaten every time they appeared in Kingston.

Thus the dope shows the teams to be evenly matched.

Kingston has a number of high class ball players, with Harry Batstone, Somerville, the veteran second baseman and Del Cherry, the hard hitting centre fielder, as the outstanding stars. The Ponies know the game and play good ball.

The Petes, with a mixture of veterans and youngsters have, however, shown good form all season and Manager Johnston hopes to lead them to victory on Saturday.

The game will be called at 3 o'clock sharp, with Umpires Colling, Sullivan and Kay in charge.

PITCHING WILL DECIDE MACK'S PENNANT HOPES

Athletics Won 18 and Lost 9 as Nationals Took 15 and Lost 13.

SEASON'S HEIGHT.

Looks Like Struggle Between Walter Johnson and Sammy Gray.

Stoney McLinn in the Philadelphia Ledger says:

Pitching is the topic one hears discussed on all sides by baseball fans as the Athletics and Senators, American League pennant contenders, start their final journey through the West this week.

Many factors enter into a tight race such as we have in the Ban Johnson diamond organization—batting, punch, fielding, base-running, the competitive spirit and, of course, injuries and other breaks of the luck.

But at this particular stage of the race we find ourselves asking, "Which pitchers are right for the coming series?"

A team which starts a series three or four games with, say, five curvers in physical and mental shape and "rarin' to go" has an asset that all the money in the world couldn't buy on a moment's notice.

From Tuesday on to the finish it is pitching that will determine whether the American League half of the World Series will be played in Philadelphia or Washington.

Statistics wont show which curving corps is the stronger or better fitted for the grueling race to the finish line. There is hidden and psychological factors—let's call it the "will to win"—that must be in a pitcher's heart and arm.

* * *

However, it may prove interesting to show what was accomplished by the chuckers under the direction of Connie Mack and Bucky Harris in the more recent East-West entanglements. It gives Philadelphians reason to hope.

* * *

A's "Big Five" Topped Senators Staff in West.

For the purposes of this discussion we shall assume that the Athletics and Senators both have a "Big Five"—that is, five pitchers who will do the bulk of the throwing of baseballs along the remainder of the journey.

Eddie Rommel, Sammy Gray, Slim Harriss and Jack Quinn, right-handers, and Rube Walberg, southpaw, are the big guns for the Macks.

Walter Johnson, Stanny Covelskie and Fred Marberry, who employ the right arm, and Dutch Reuther and Tom Zachary, lefties, are Washington's dependables.

First, let's see what happened in the West when the pennant contenders did their July touring. The A's won ten and lost six and nine of the victorious pitchers toiled the complete game.

Rommel pitched and won four full games, one of fifteen innings. Quinn went the route twice and Harriss, Walberg and Groves each once.

Groves, on the July tour, was regarded as one of the "Big Five." He was charged with three defeats. Harriss lost two and Heimach, as relief curver, once.

Gray, called home by the death of his wife, did not throw a baseball in the West last trip.

Washington, on the July trip, won seven and lost a like number. Ol' Stan Coveleskie was the victorious pitcher three times, twice working the complete game.

Reuther and Vean Gregg, another ancient and honorable southpaw, each pitched and won one complete contest. The other two wins were credited to Marberry and Russell, pinch throwers.

Tom Zachary lost two games and didn't turn in a win. Reuther dropped three. Marberry and Russell each lost one as relief chuckers.

* * *

Walter Johnson, on the hospital shelf, did not appear on the hill while the Senators were traveling.

* * *

Even at Home A's Hurlers Show Trifle Best.

Next we'll have a look at the pitching performances of the Mack and Harris staffs while the clubs were at home in late July and early August and entertaining the clubs from the Western half of the circuit.

Sammy Gray, in uniform again, captured three games, in two of which he traveled the distance. Slim Harriss won three, one a complete game. Rommel gained two triumphs, starting and finishing both.

Quinn and Walberg each pitched and won one battle in which they went the route.

The A's won ten and lost five, by the way. Walberg was charged with two defeats and Harriss, Rommel and Quinn with one each.

Washington also won ten games from Western clubs while the Senators were entertaining, but they played seventeen, two more than the Macks.

Reuther was the ace of the Nat staff with three wins, all complete games. Johnson regained his health and strength and turned in three victories, going the limit twice.

Zachary found himself and captured two, while Coveleskie and Marberry each won one. Covey's was a full game, but Marberry went to the rescue of a pal in a late inning.

Coveleskie was the big disappointment of the last home stand by the Senators. He was licked three times. Zachary lost two and Johnson and Marberry one each.

Against the Western teams at home and abroad this is what our two "Big Fives" accomplished:

Athletics

	Won	Lost	Com. Games
Gray	3	0	2
Rommel	6	1	6
Quinn	3	1	3
Walberg	2	4	2

Washington

	Won	Lost	Com. Games
Johnson	3	1	2
Ruether	4	3	4
Coveleskie	4	3	3
Marberry	2	2	0
Zachary	2	4	2

Where will the "crack", if any, show in the pitching defenses of the Athletics and Washington on the coming tour? That is the interesting—one might write it "moot"—question.

* * *

Or you may put in another way and ask whether Gray or Johnson will prove the greater asset on the tour that began Tuesday.

STORM HALTED RIFLE SHOOTING

D.R.A. Meet Was Interrupted By Heavy Thunder Storm—Some Good Scores.

WESTERNERS LEAD.

CONNAUGHT RIFLE RANGE, Ottawa, Aug. 20.—(Canadian Press)—A bad thunderstorm, accompanied by heavy rain and hail, halted the programme yesterday afternoon at the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association meet. The second stage of the Macdonald Brier trophy competition, open to regimental teams, was completed in a torrential rain. So heavy was the downpour that for a time, the marksmen were unable to see their targets and were blinded by the vivid flashes of lightning. The Macdonald Brier competition will be completed later in the week at the call of the match committee.

The British Columbian competitors outclassed all others in yesterday's shoot. Sgt.-Major E. J. Reid, of the Esquimault Garrison Rifle Association, won the City of Ottawa trophy competition yesterday morning, and the Esquimault Garrison team won the Coates match yesterday afternoon. This team, with an aggregate total of 358 points, included the following with their individual scores: Lt. G. H. Collings, 93; Sgt.-Major E. J. Reid, 88; Cpl. F. W. Burton, 90; Q.-M.-S. J. H. Murray, 87.

The same team from Esquimault won the Kirkpatrick Cup awarded to the team with the highest aggregate in the MacDougall, Walker and Bankers' competitions. The same team, with the exception that Pte. F. H. Shrobie, took the place of Q.-M.-S. Murray, won the City of Ottawa gold cup donated to the team with the highest aggregate in the City of Ottawa competition.

The Governor - General's Foot Guards, "A" and "C" teams, won second and third prizes respectively in the Kirkpatrick trophy competition with scores of 707 and 705 points.

The Coates match, which is restricted to Militia or Navy teams, was fired on the 500 and 600-yard ranges. The Esquimault team, by taking first place, are winners of the Coates Cup and $50 in cash prizes. The Princess Louise (Argyle and Sutherland) Highlanders team won the second prize with 358 points, the Ottawa Highlanders team took third prize and the 48th Battalion team of Toronto took fourth place.

WRIT AGAINST CITY FOR GIRL'S INJURY

Gordon and O'Brien Enter Action For $500 Damages.

Messrs. Gordon & O'Brien to-day issued a writ against the City of Peterboro for $500 damages on behalf of Edith Gamble, an 11-year-old girl, who broke her leg about a month ago in Victoria Park at an evening band concert by striking against a water pipe which is said to have been a foot above the ground. The hearing wil come before His Honor Judge E. C. Huycke in September.

The contention is that when the council extends a public invitation to the concerts in the park, the park must be kept clear of all obstructions, especially in the evening when the grounds are not particularly well lighted.

MISS EDERLE MAY TRY CHANNEL AGAIN

"Old Bill" Burgess Engaged To Condition Her.

CAPE GRIS-NEZ, France, Aug. 20.—(Canadian Press).—"Old Bill" Burgess, English veteran, who swam the Channel in 1911, has been engaged to condition and handle Miss Gertrude Ederle, New York girl swimmer, "should it be decided the American girl will make another attempt to swim the English Channel." Jabez Wolfe, who trained her for her unsuccessful attempt last Tuesday, left Boulogne to-day for London.

Ishak Helmy, Egyptian giant, announced to-day that he will attempt the Channel next Saturday.

Miss Ederlre is feeling no ill effects from her great effort in which she battled the waters of the English

Channel for nearly nine hours in a game but unsuccessful attempt to be the first woman swimmer to cross from France to England.

She arose at 9 o'clock after a good night's sleep and went out to the country for a short walk. The swimmer suffered no muscle stiffness and the zest with which she consumed a hearty breakfast showed that the salt water she swallowed had left little or no after-effects.

Miss Ederle intends to take a complete rest for two or three days, after which she may go to Paris for a short stay with her chaperone, Miss Vieta. While in Paris she will decide whether to undertake another Channel attempt this year.

The only physical reminder of her wonderful swim is a slight irritation of the skin due to her encounter with a school of jelly fish four miles out.

"The feeling of these slimy things against my arms and legs perhaps had as much to do with upsetting my stomach as swallowing the salt water," she said.

KINGSTON CLUE TO MISSING HUSBAND

Syracuse Woman Receives Unsigned Letter From Ontario Town.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 20.—(Canadian Press).—An unsigned letter from Kingston, Ont., telling Mrs. Clarence W. Walker, of this city, that she might obtain her husband's automobile and some personal effects there to-day gave the woman the first clue to the whereabouts of her husband, who disappeared from his home here on August 11. No indication was given, however, that he would be in the Canadian city to greet her, and Mrs. Walker left early to-day for Kingston with the firm belief that she would not find him alive.

The letter was in Walker's handwriting, his wife said. Walker was a contractor.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Norwood, Aug. 18, 1925.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—The officers and players of the Norwood Lacrosse Club have read with a great deal of regret the unsportsmanlike and misleading comments published in your paper of Tuesday under the name of Mr. Sutherland, manager of the Peterboro Lacrosse Club. Such talk is surely not worthy of a city such as Peterboro. Evidently the onus of guilt rests so heavy with Mr. Sutherland that he cannot forget the mob treatment accorded a visiting team in his city and his efforts to cover it up by misleading statements only makes the matter worse.

His belittling comment of "Poppycock" upon the injuries received by Weir, a visiting player, are most ungentlemanly. Weir was hurt badly enough to demand the attention of more than one doctor after the attack of the Peterboro rowdies who were allowed to pile onto him on the field. One grabbed him by the throat while his back was turned, while several others then jumped on his chest while he was down. If there was any "Poppycock," Mr Sutherland's idol, "Bailey," showed it when he took to the ground and then suddenly sprang up and hit Brennan. Mr. Sutherland's statement that Bailey hit Weir on the jaw is absolutely untrue. Bailey hit at Brennan, but as for his toppling Weir over, he tried alright but wasn't able to do it. Weir has it over Bailey as a lacrosse player any day, which is admitted by the experienced and fair Peterboro fan, and when it came to fisticuffs, Mr. Bailey started something he wasn't able to finish himself without aid from the sidelines. While seeing stars through his discolored optic, Bailey evidently dreamed he had hit Weir on the jaw.

The referee's penalties surely revealed who were the real offenders in the game. Peterboro got thirteen five-minute penalties and two for the balance of the game, while Norwood-Havelock only drew five five-minute penalties. Mr. Sutherland's effort to thrust the blame for abuse on the opposing team is very unfair.

Some of the Peterboro men evidently did not intend to play lacrosse from the start, but rather to break up the game, as they had no hope of winning it. At the end of the first period Norwood-Havelock asked for police protection but were refused, although Peterboro brought two policemen with them for their game at Norwood. The cries of some Peterboro spectators, "Cut them open," and the threat of Ranger that he would do so are no credit to Peterboro. This is not the first time I understand bad treatment has been handed out by some Peterboro sports (?) to other visitors, and on more than one occasion The Examiner has editorially acknowledged the mob tactics of some of its city roughnecks. Lovers of clean sport in Peterboro need to do some housecleaning and not more mud-slinging such as in Mr. Sutherland's letter.

Signed on behalf of the Norwood Lacrosse Club,

ALEX. KEMPT, Manager.

"MY MAN," WITH PATSY RUTH MILLER AND DUSTIN FARNUM AT ROYAL.

The Romance of a Modern Cavemen

Work was stopped for a time on "My Man," a screen version of George Randolph Chester's novel "A Tale of Red Roses," which will be shown at the Royal Theatre today for an unusual reason. In the wedding sequence of the story, Director David Smith, thinking that a minister of the gospel would be more at home in the part than an actor, persuaded a reverend gentleman of a certain church in Los Angeles to enact the scenes for him.

In the midst of the sequence, a young couple burst onto the stage, upsetting the mental equilibrium of everybody; grasped the minister by the arms, and began, frantically, to explain.

They were a runaway couple from a neighboring city. The minister was an old family friend. They believed that if he would perform the ceremony, that all would be well at home and they would receive the parental blessing they needed to make their happiness complete. They must catch the train returning that afternoon — and would he, please; sweetly, pleadingly, please, perform the ceremony.

A hasty consultation was had with Director Smith; and as the set was dressed for a wedding, preparations were soon completed.

Mr. Smith gave the bride away, Patsy Ruth Miller and Margaret Landis acted as bridesmaids, while Violet Palmer played the wedding march on the piano. Dustin Farnum acted as best man, with Geo. Webb and Niles Welch acting as ushers for the technical staff. There amid the avalanche of flowers, which is shown in the production; beneath as beautiful a bell as a bride could wish; and amid a gathering of celebrities seldom equalled, the minister performed the ceremony.

The young lady wept tears of joy on Mr. Smith's shoulder, and then brought out the deepest blush of his career by giving him a kiss of thanks. The young couple departed for their home city amid the congratulations and good wishes of the entire troupe and work was resumed.

AT THE REGENT

THRILLS, THROBS AND TEARS IN MELODRAMA.

Spectacular Production Given Chicago Fire Story.

Thrills and pathos, romance and melodrama vie with each other to hold you spellbound at the Regent Theatre, where "Barriers Burned Away" was shown for the first time yesterday, remaining all week. This encore picture presents Mabel Ballin and Frank Mayo in the leading roles of E. P. Roe's famous story of the Chicago fire. It is a drama of the power of a woman's hate and the depth of her love, the heroine being a proud beauty, who, in a fit of pique toys with the love of a man who, beneath her in station, worshipped her from afar until she gave him encouragement.

Miss Ballin's performance is splendid. She does not hesitate to make the heroine anything but lovely when necessary, and therefore when love and suffering temper her spirit she is all the more adorable. Frank Mayo is a noble and long suffering hero. Tom Santschi gives a delightful portrait of a political boss of 1871, and J. P. Lockney and Mrs. Charles G. Craig as Mr. and Mrs. Leary, whose cow kicked over the cistern, supply some humor. Wanda Hawley has a comparatively small role, but you'll never forget her in this. The rest of the cast—Harry T. Morey, Arline, Pretty, Wally Van, Eric Mayne, William V. Mong, Frankie Mann, Pat Harmon and James Mason, is admirably selected.

The Chicago fire has been staged in a manner that beggars description. It must be seen to be best appreciated. Suffice it to say that it sends the thrills up and down your spine—you almost smell the smoke and feel the heat of the flames. It is superbly done and you're passing pu one hundred per cent. entertainment if you don't go to the Regent Theatre this week.

AT THE CAPITOL

COLLEEN MOORE IS MARTYR TO COMEDY.

Star's Shower Bath in "Desert Flower" May Seem Funny, But—

Comedy martyrdom—
What is it, and why?

It is the art of suffering and seeming to enjoy it.

And the object of it all, of course, is to make the world laugh.

Two examples that graphically illustrate the meaning of the phrase came to notice during the filming of "The Desert Flower," Colleen Moore's new First National picture, now showing at the Capitol Theatre.

Jose, soulful-eyed Mexican, interpreted by Gene Corrado, whose affection for little Maggie Fortune, played by Miss Moore, is dog-like and undying, strums his guitar under the heroine's window. Maggie, hearing the serenade, opens the window and tosses the vocalist an onion as a token of her complete disapproval.

Accepting the vegetable with as much delight as if it were an American Beauty rose, Jose gazes with estatic joy at the girl and proceeds to eat the onion as if it were a sweet, juicy apple. And all the while he eats he smiles and smiles.

That smile was nothing but sheer acting. One vegetable that Corrado detests and which invariably fills him with nausea is the onion.

Colleen herself, experienced this form of martyrdom when she appeared in a comedy scene depicting her taking an improvised shower bath in her boxcar home. In place of the tarpaulin, a rough burlap cloth sheathes her, exposing only shoulders and head. Just as the cameras began to grind, one of those icy winter winds of the desert, where the scene was taken, sprang up. Shiveringly, Miss Moore suffered until the scene was completed.

-And that's comedy "martyrdom."

WEDDING BELLS

HARRISON—HEFFERNAN.

The Sacred Heart Church was the scene of a very attractive wedding this morning at eight o'clock, when Miss Kathleen Heffernan, of Romaine Street, was united in marriage to Mr. James Francis Harrison, of Copper Cliff.

The bride was charmingly attired in coral georgette, with picture hat to match of coral tones with touches of silver, also shoes and stockings of silver. She wore a platinum fox fur, the gift of the groom, and carried a shower bouquet of ophelia roses and lily-of-the-valley. Her attendant, Miss Geraldine Heffernan, of Detroit, looked very pretty in orchid chiffon over crepe de chene, trimmed with pearls. She wore the groom's gift, a string of pearls, and carried an armful of Columbia roses.

Mr. Harrison was attended by his brother, Mr. Hugh Harrison, of Kingston.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her brother, Mr. George Heffernan, of Lakefield, to the strains of a wedding march, played by Mr. Armstrong, who played a Berceuse at the signing of the register, and Mendelssohn's Wedding March as the procession left the church.

During nuptial mass Shubert's Ave Maria was beautifully rendered by Miss Helena Heffernan, sister of the bride.

The bride's travelling dress was of russet satin crepe, with shoes and coat to match, and worn with a hat of brown wood velour.

The happy couple left on the 3.35 train for Niagara, Buffalo and Detroit.

FINANCIAL NEWS.

Heavy Buying By Millers Strengthens Chicago Wheat

CHICAGO, Aug. 20. — Canadian Press.—Wheat opened higher here to-day because of buying by millers at Minneapolis and strength at Kansas City, combined with light offerings and commission house buying here.

The range in early trading, however, was within narrow limits, although the market generally maintained strength. Kansas City values showed a full cent over Chicago at one time. Wheat opened ¼ to 1½c. higher, with Sept. 161 ¼ to 161 3-4, and Dec. at 160 1-2 to 161, but later receded somewhat although remaining above last night's close.

There appeared to be an absence of pressure to sell corn, and this market also opened higher at a shade to 5-8c up with Sept. at 106 to 106½. The market then declined fractionally and an hour after the opening was down a shade below last night's finish. Oats started ½c down to ⅛c up with Sept. 41 3-4c to 41 7-8 and later held nearly the initial range.

Provisions were firm.

Chandler Motors Drops To Lowest Price On Board

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—(Canadian Press.)—Confused price movements characterized the morning trading in Wall street. Revival of merger rumors stimulated buying of low priced Southern and South-western shares, substantial gains being recorded by Seaboard Air-line common and preferred, 'Katy' common, Norfolk and Southern, and St. Louis South-western. Recent advance in non-ferrous metal prices brought fresh buying into the copper group, American Smelting leading early advance by touching 110 1-2, its best since 1916. Conversion of paper profits into cash grain reached substantial proportions in the motor group. White Motors broke over six points below its recent high and Chandler sagged 1 1-2 to 27 1-2, the lowest quotation since the stock was admitted to the "Big Board" six years ago. The general list displayed considerable irregularity, with strength of United States' cast iron pipe and weakness of National Lead and United Fruit among the early features.

Call money renewed at 4 per cent.

Brazilian and Dominion Stores Toronto Features

TORONTO, Aug. 20 (Canadian Press).—Trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning centered around Brazilian, with Consolidated Smelters providing some interesting dealings. Transactions in Brazilian were more than 2,400 shares, and Brazilian touched a new peak price of 63 3-4. Though fluctuating within a very narrow range Brazilian at noon was selling at 65 1-4, a net advance of 3-4. Consolidated Smelters continued the recession which set in yesterday until it was selling as low as 118, then recovered to 118 5-8 at noon, a net loss of 1 7-8 points, a feature of the session was an advance of 2 1-4 points in Dominion Stores Common at 54 1-4 in light trading. The balance of the market seemed easier, Bread Common eased off 1-2 point and F. N. Burt 3-4.

Seeing in the Distance and Reading

If you are young you may be able to do both these perfectly without glasses. That doesn't mean that your eyes are perfect, though, as some defect may be present in spite of the fact that you see well. NEW ENGLAND STATE GOVERNORS MEETING TONIGHT TO CONSIDER THREAT OF ANTHRACITE STRIKE

Only Ten Days Remain Until Old Wage Agreement Expires on August 31.

PUBLIC'S INTEREST.

Resumption of Negotiations Urged By Pennsylvania Business Men.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 21 (Canadian Press).—With but ten days remaining in which to avert a general walkout in the anthracite coal fields, when the working agreement expires on August 31, the public has taken its place as the third interested faction in the battle between operators and miners.

Tonight the governors of the New England States meet to discuss ways and means of averting a strike and of handling the situation should they be unsuccessful. In Wilkesbarre, Pa., yesterday, a mass meeting of businessmen from North-eastern Pennsylvania appointed committees to persuade the operators and miners to resume operations broken off on August 4th at Atlantic City.

CHURCH FACTIONS MAY SHARE PULPIT

Week About Until Courts Settle Kingston Dispute.

TORONTO, Aug. 21 (Canadian Press)—Counsel interested in the dispute as to the ownership of St. John's Presbyterian Church, Pittsburgh Township, spent a long vigil at Osgoode Hall this morning in an effort to locate Mr. Justice Masten, to whom Mr. Justice Logie had referred a motion to continue the injunction obtained by the session of St. John's Church from the County Judge at Kingston, restraining the continuing Presbyterian Church from attempting to use the building.

Mr. Justice Masten who is on vacation turned up at 12.20 and declared that he was not available and as he would not be able to touch the case for three weeks, refused to hear any application.

As a result the motion stands until August 27 and according to the view of the defendants the injunction is not continued in the meantime.

The parties discussed the possibility of making an arrangement whereby the opposing factions will share the pulpit Sunday about until the case can be tried in September. Some such proposition will be taken up between the parties when they return to Kingston.

Ferguson Discountenances Rumors Re Hydro Vacancies

TORONTO, Aug. 21 (Canadian Press) — Premier G. H. Ferguson today said he entirely dissociated himself from any and all speculations which have been made concerning possible appointments to fill two vacancies on the Ontario Hydro Commission. Questioned in particular as to rumor published that the government contemplated making the appointments permanent for five or ten years, he said there was no foundation for any statement that has yet been published regarding the situation.

SHAKE-UP EXPECTED IN BORDER POLICE

Will Be Carried Out In Connection With Blind Pig Clean-up.

WINDSOR, Ont., Aug. 21.—A general shake-up of the personnel of Ontario Provincial Police stationed here and blanket charges involving several score blind pig operators and rum runners, was presaged yesterday at the district headquarters office.

The threatened shake up, especially that of the branch in charge fo the liquor law violation, follows the trip to Toronto of W. T. Lougheed, district inspector of the force.

Necessity of the pending clean-up of the border was emphasized last week by the Provincial Inspector of of the Department, F. E. Wyott, who returned to Toronto, following a ten-day stay in Windsor and districts. The visiting inspector, who work carries him throughout every part of Ontario, declares that despite apparent activities of the Essex County License Inspector, T. M. Mousseau, and the provincial officers, blind pigs seemed to flourish with mushroom rapidity.

Although several raids and many convictions had been secured during the past few months, Inspector Elliot stated that more vigorous methods must be used to clean out the majority of the hundreds of pigs operating along the 30-mile Canadian water front.

To facilitate the clean up task new officers are to be brought into the Windsor district.

MISSIONARIES STILL CAPTIVES OF CHINESE

British Party of Eight Seized at Summer Resort.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21—(Canadian Press).—Although well and hopeful that they will soon be released from captivity, eight British missionaries taken by bandits more than two weeks ago at a summer resort in the Province of Szechwan, Southern China, at last accounts still were being detained.

The unfortunates are Bishop H. W. K. Mowll, formerly Dean of Wycliffe College, Toronto, and Mrs. Mowll, Rev. V. H. Donnisthorne and Mrs. Donnisthorne, F. W. Wiles and the Misses M. Armfield, A. Zettle and Carlton.

They were captured when the bandits attacked the summer resort which lies thirty miles north of Chengtu.

TRADE BOYCOTT FELT IN CANADA

Vancouver Merchants Wire Premier King of Effects of Chinese Trouble.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Aug. 21 (Canadian Press). — The Chinese boycott of British goods and British ships constitutes a menace of Canadian trade with the Orient through this port, business men declare; and the Merchants' League yesterday wired Premier King asking him to advise the British Government of the "serious result."

Hong Kong's Losses.

LONDON, Aug. 21 (Canadian Press).—Paralysis of trade in Hong Kong with daily losses estimated at several hundred thousands of pounds sterling due to the Chinese coastal regulations discriminating against British and Japanese shipping, continues to agitate the press and engross the attention of the Foreign Office.

Austen Chamberlain, British Foreign Secretary, has interrupted his vacation in the country and returned to London to deal with the situation, and the legal department of the Foreign Office is busy examining into it, as it affects treaty rights and international law. The Times editorially describes conditions in Hong Kong as only too distressing, and says "the effrontery of her government in Canton is hardly to be borne."

But it contends that for that very reason great circumspection is necessary, and that "this typically Bolshevist challenge must be countered warily.

Thomas Greystock Sentenced To Month's Confinement for Prowling.

Two widely differing versions were related before Magistrate O. A. Langley concerning the conduct and past history of Thomas S. Greystock, who was brought up on remand on a charge of vagrancy.

According to the evidence of the police, Greystock had a habit of prowling around the Jackson Park, hiding behind bushes and making himself objectionable to frequenters of the park. He failed to give an explanation of his conduct when questioned, and said he had never worked a full season since 1906.

The accused, on the other hand, pleaded that his wanderings around the park were due to a desire to protect the young people, and to look after duties that he considered were neglected by those responsible. He denied ever having been questioned by the police or the park keeper, and subjected them all to a questioning from the dock. He went into the witness box and there, under examination by the Chief of Police, admitted several previous convictions and also admitted having made a practice of bathing near the park in Nature's bathing suit.

The Magistrate said accused's own statement had given indication of guilt, and sentenced him to one month in jail.

PRESS INTERVIEW BY RADIO FROM LONDON TO NEW ZEALAND WORLD RECORD MADE BY AMATEUR TODAY

U. P. Reporter's Voice Heard Distinctly on U. S. Battleship in New Zealand.

USED SHORT WAVE.

Connection Made in 50 Seconds By Radio Operators For Reporter.

LONDON, Aug. 21. — (By Keith Jefs, United Press Staff Correspondent, Copyright 1925 by United Press) —The world's record long distance radio press interview was made today when I conversed across 14,000 miles of space with Commander Crosse of the United States battleship Heittle at Wellington, New Zealand.

This feat of aerial communication and journalism was made possible through the courtesy of the famous radio amateur, Gerald Marcuse, who, without any prearrangement, established in fifty seconds a link by air with the battleships more than half-way around the world from here.

The commander aboard the visiting United States battleship in far away New Zealand could hear my voice plainly, but he gave his answers in the Morse code.

The connection was made at 6.30 this morning, and I asked the commander: "Is there any truth in reports of fighting between the American sailors and the New Zealand police?"

"The reports are absurd," came his reply. "There has been no fighting and no rioting whatsoever. The sailors are doing the best they can to enjoy all the festivities showered upon them by the people of Wellington."

My next inquiry was as to when the fleet would leave for America, and to this the commander answered: "Monday."

"Is New Zealand dry or wet?" I then asked him across the miles.

"Wellington is wet both inside and outside—it's beeing raining all day," came his quick retort, as our interview ended.

The establishment of clear communication across such a tremendous span was viewed by Marcuse as a forerunner of a vast extension in the use of short-wave communication. Marcuse is a veteran experimenter in both long and short wave radio transmission.

For this unique interview with the other side of the world, he used a pole of 75 feet with an aerial of approximately the same length. This required one-half a kilowatt of power compared with 25 kilowatts used by the big stations. Marcuse used a 45 meter wave length for this test.

Heavy Traffic Volume Causes Delay at Border.

ST. CATHARINES, Aug. 21.—Tourist cars from practically every State across the line have been passing through St. Catharines this summer on the Provincial Highway. Officials here and at Niagara Falls state that never before has there been such a volume of tourist traffic, and the congestion at the international bridges has got beyond handling on Sundays and holidays. Extra men have been put on at the bridges to hasten the passing through of cars; but, even with this, there are sometimes delays of hours.

BODY FOUND IN BURLINGTON BAY

Angler's Hook Brought Corpse of Unknown Man to Surface.

HAMILTON, Ont., Aug. 21 (Canadian Press)—The body of an unknown man was brought to the surface of Burlington Bay yesterday afternoon by J. Sims, an angler. His fishing hook caught in a heavy weight, and, with the help of several other men, the remains were brought to the surface.

It is thought that the body is that of the man who left a farewell on the bay front yesterday morning. The note expressed the writer's intention of committing suicide and asked that the body be sent to Creemore, Ont., for burial. At the top of the note was the name R. Sovering or Lovering Half of a return ticket from Creemore to Collingwood was found in the coat, but no other clue to the man's identity.

PERMISSION GIVEN FOR DEMONSTRATION AGAINST ZIONISTS DRAWS CRITICISMS

Fear Mass Meeting in Vienna on Saturday May Cause Serious Outbreaks — Hostile Placards Are Are Posted on Walls.

VIENNA, Aug. 21.— (Canadian Press).—The decision of the Government to allow the Hakenkreuzler, an anti-Semitic organization, to stage a huge mass meeting on Saturday afternoon has aroused much criticism and comment. The authorities have not been able to prevent demonstrations by the members of this organiation for the past several days, and it is feared that Saturday's meeting may lead to serious outbreaks.

When the delegates left their hotels yesterday morning to attend the session of the Fourteenth Zionist Congress, they found on many of the walls placards reading:

"Eighty thousand Jews came to Vienna, while 30,000 Viennese must emigrate to America. The Zionist Congress wishes to realize the plans of the elders of Zion to gain world domination."

Rumors are afloat in Vienna that the Hakenkreuzlers are determined to test their forces and to use the Zionist Congress to sway the masses against the present Government.

PROPOSAL BY AVIATOR ACCEPTED IN CLOUDS.

Honeymoon From Chile To New York A Result.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—(Special). —While flying high up among the condors over the Andes in Chile, an aviator won his sweetheart, it is known to-day.

The aviator is Captain Oscar H. Walker, of the Chilean Air Service, who arrived with his bride on the steamship Teno. The couple are on their honeymoon. Mrs. Walker, commenting on the manner in which she was won, said:

"He took me on a flight and then, a mile in the air, shouted a proposal. I thought it would be discreet to accept, and I'm not sorry."

DECISION WHEN CABINET MEETS

Week After Next Before Federal Ministers Will Assemble Again.

OTTAWA, Aug. 21.—(Canadian Press).—The decision whether there is to be a general election or not will not, it was stated by a member of the Government to-day, be reached before the next meeting of the Cabinet at the earliest, and some little time may pass before there is a definite announcement. When the Cabinet will meet has not been decided. No notice of a meeting has yet been issued, and there may not be another gathering of Ministers until the week after next.

Among members and prominent party men who are constantly drifting in and out of Ottawa, interviewing Ministers and endeavoring to find out the lay of the land, the impression prevails that dissolution is impending with a general election towards the end of October.

The report that Premier King has decided in favor of an appeal to the polls, but was holding back a formal announcement, is current, but is denied in official circles, although preparations under way have all the earmarks of an election.

Re-making Cabinet.

Premier King remains at his summer home in Kingsmere, and from the seclusion of his retreat is said to be conducting negotiations looking to Cabinet reconstruction.

It was there that he was visited by Premier Dunning of Saskatchewan, who came to Ottawa for a few days, and then left again for the West without giving any indication as to his intentions. The common impression is that he had an offer of a portfolio in the reconstructed Cabinet, but official confirmation or denial is lacking.

To what extent Premier King will reconstruct his Cabinet will be dependent on the decision in regard to an election. If there is to be an appeal to the poll, there may be a number of Cabinet changes.

Byng Home in Week.

Several of the Ministers who were here for the Cabinet meetings earlier in the week have returned to their homes. The Governor-General, whose arrival will probably be awaited before there is any formal announcement, is expected back on Friday of next week.

Mentioned in connection with the Cabinet reconstruction are Herbert Marler, member for St. Lawrence-St. George, and W. L. McDougall, chairman of the Montreal Harbor Commission.

FOUR BANDITS LOOT AT LEISURE CHICAGO JEWELLERS OF $250,000 MOSTLY IN DIAMONDS AND ESCAPE

Invaded Seventh Floor Offices of Jewelry Manufacturers and Held Employees At Bay

WORKED HALF HOUR.

Emptied Five Large Safes — Slugged Elevator Man On Departing.

CHICAGO August 21. — Canadian Press. — Jewelery valued at upwards of $250,000 most of it in diamonds, was the loot of a robber quartette who late yesterday invaded the 7th floor offices of Lasarus & Weil, jewelery manufacturers, in a building on the fringe of the downtown district, held half a dozen employees and officials of the company at bay, raided five large safes, and fled without disturbing more than thirty other employees in adjoining rooms. The robbers were engaged for more than half an hour in their task of sorting out the most valuable jewelery, and scattering the cheaper gems on the floor.

All were masked, worked calmly and leisurely, and as they backed out of the office, pressed the elevator button, whisked the masks from their faces as they stepped in, and at the bottom slugged the elevator operator and fled in their car.

Officials of the company after a cursory examination said the loot was at least $200,000, and possibly much higher, Half of the loss is covered by insurance.

PRINCE REVIEWS ARMY STUDENTS

Cadets of Argentine Military College Paraded for Wales.

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 21.—(By Canadian Press).—The Prince of Wales yesterday reviewed the cadets of the Argentine Military College at Sandhurst, some distance from Buenos Aires They were fine smart youths, who gave an excellent display, beginning with a parade of infantry, resplendent in red, white and blue uniforms. The cavalry armed with lances then had their turn, concluding with a charge, in which two cadets were unhorsed.

It appeared at first as if a serious accident had occurred, but one of the youthful cavalrymen walked off, the other was transported to the hospital, where shortly afterwards the Prince paid him a visit.

BR.-ISLES PROVIDE HOUSEHOLD HELP

Most of Demand Comes From Farm Women—Is Not Satisfied.

REGINA, Sask., Aug. 21.—(Canadian Press).—Saskatchewan farmers' wives are looking anxiously for the household help which the Bureau of Labor and Industries of the provincial government arranged to be sent to them from the British Isles under the Imperial Government Overseas Settlement scheme. The bureau contracted for 100 domestics to be sent to Saskatchewan during the year and barely half have arrived. The girls are coming in ones and twos while 20 could be placed every month. Most of the demand is from farm women. The pay offered is from $20 to $25 a month and fully 50 per cent of the girls placed remain in the first position, while the remainder have to be changed once or twice. Out of 150 who have come under the assisted passage arrangement in the last year and a half only two have failed to repay the passage loan.

WEATHER

The highest point the thermometer could get yesterday was but 80 degrees, a long way from the high mark of 92 degrees on Wednesday. While no thunderstorms closed the recent heated spell here they were common and severe in Western Ontario. And by the way have you noticed how free from severe thunderstorms Peterboro has been during recent years? Both north and south and west, and less frequently in the east, reports have come in of electrical storms, some of which have done much damage, while this place has entirely escaped, or escaped very lightly. Lowest temperature last night 48 degrees. The air was cool and fresh, and though there was no frost, it was not far away.—W. P

PROBABILITIES.

SPECIAL POLICE TO GUARD PUBLIC

Menace of Socialist Extremists in Britain is Recognized.

LONDON, August 21. Canadian Press. — The Daily Mail says that Home Secretary Sir William Joynson-Hicks, has decided in favor of the rapid recruiting of special constabulary as one of the steps necessary to safeguard the public against unrest fostered by the Communists. The Mail asserts that Socialists and Communist extremists are ceaselessly preparing for the struggle they wish to precipitate either when the time comes to give effect to the regulations of the coal commission or earlier should trouble develop in the railways.

The paper declares that John Wheatley who was health minister in Ramsay MacDonald's government is founding at Glasgow "workers' defence corps" which he hopes will achieve a membership of ten million men ready to fight against attacks on their standard of living.

KIWANIS HEAR ADDRESS ABOUT VOCAL MUSIC

Singing Is the Natural Reaction of Genuine Feeling.

EUROPEAN APT.

Children Should Receive Training in Choral Work While Young.

A new member was introduced to Kiwanians to-day at their luncheon in the person of Frank White. Joe Johns performed the introductory ceremony. Prizes were drawn by Carl Brown, Charles Lacheur and R. A. Carman. President Charlie was fined because he had the privilege of sitting beside a lady. He gladly paid and imposed a tax on the sergeant-at-arms who appeared without his distinguishing button.

Francis Sutton then delivered a paper on Singing in the community and dealt with the subject in such a manner as to show a thorough understanding of the facts.

Singing is a natural and spontaneous reaction of genuine feeling and different types of song denote the depth and poignance of such feeling. Marching troops lighten their burdens with song and people at their work find the time passes more pleasantly and happily if their tasks are accompanied by vocal music of their own making.

Music is incorporate with the body and it should be as natural for human beings to sing as for the birds in the trees.

Most of the European countries encourage choral work and men at coal mines will rush through luncheas to engage in group singing in the hillsides.

Welsh people sing as a class because training in part singing is received in youth.

Singing should be encouraged in every home where it might well be employed to knit more closely the bonds of home life which palpably becoming dismembered in this age. Every child should receive encouragement at home and definite training in school that he might be incited to develop natural aptitude. Children's choirs should be generally established in the churches and an abundance of trained singers would be the natural result.

Mr. Sutton made a sweeping indictment of popular music which finds such a demand to-day. If such music was good why does it not stand the test of time? On the contrary it is scrapped as soon as the newness wears away and is superseded by the other barbaric paeans which follow.

Children reared in the atmosphere lose the fine sense of proportions and the discriminatory sense which picks out the good and casts the evil aside. Good music is necessary to balance the aesthetic rations on which humans feed. Phonographs, radio and player-piano are all used principally for catering to the jazz addict whereas they might be devoted to loftier purposes.

The phonograph could profitably be used in schools that children might listen to good music supplemented by the teachers preparations. Children have a national aptitude for music and Mr. Sutton was anxious that Kiwanis might assert itself in fostering the love for and teaching of music in the schools.

GIPSIES' WAGON IS 6-CYLINDER

Nomads Take to Auto and Radio Drowns Out Strains of Violin.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 20. — Even the gipsies have surrendered to modern speed.

Time was when long caravans of one-horse wagons moved along the roads, from them peeping black-eyed women, gold spangles dancing against their hair and dangling from their ears, dressed in vivid striped basques and wide, flaring skirts of flowered material. With them were their household effects, to be set up on reaching a camping place. On the box of each wagon and as outriders were fierce-looking men, whose features relaxed into calm expressions in the evening when, sitting around a camp fire, they listened to the minor strains of a violin in the hands of a swaying temperamental youth.

Crude oil lamps illumined their tents, hung at the entrance with burlap bags. The ground served as their dining table and beds. Horses roamed about. Mud-stained wagons served as lodging for the dogs.

Now all this is beginning to change. Automobile tourists in the East have noted the metamorphosis. Along the roads speed shining automobiles. In them are the same gipsy men and women, but not the queer assortment of luggage. This is carefully stored in trailers. Ribbons of many hues decorate their machines, and tiny feet, displaying red and green slippers, protrude over the side.

Interior decorations are not lacking. In some may even be found Maxfield Parrish prints. On the ground are matted rugs. And through these surroundings move women in the same gayly colored attire as of old and men with scowling looks dressed in the same corduroy suits. But in the younger generation may be found a discordant note. One sees a youth wearing linen knickerbockers and golf hose. He compromises with the old order by having bound a bandana kerchief, a medley of lively colors, around his head, hiding ears from which hang two large brass curtain rings.

ENNISMORE BOYS DRAW TO A CLOSE REUNION FEASTS

Many Visitors Rekindled By Concourse of Old Inhabitants.

SPORTS DAY.

Strenuous Afternoon Followed by a Specially Prepared Fowl Supper.

Ennismore Old Boys and Girls continued their festivities until last night, and a happy time they made of their reunion. People widely separated by a gulf of years were brought back together for a short space and had a busy time recounting past events which linked them in a common bond of kinship.

All through the day a service was maintained from the city to Ennismore, and every car was loaded to city. In the afternoon a programme of sports was run through and old boys and girls as well as their sons and daughters demonstrated their agility in races and numerous novelty events, while refreshment booths were kept busy satiating arid throats.

A number of games on the lawn received their full share of attention and small knots of erstwhile pals could be seen in all parts of the ground hob-nobbing and introducing the well known query. "Do you remember the time when——?" And apparently there was much to remember, for the sessions appeared to be of endless duration.

In the evening a fowl supper was dispensed in the hall, and Ennismore cooks had brought all their magic to bear upon the result. While the edibles were stowed away with marked efficiency, it by no means stemmed the torrential flow of recollection and experience. Everyone marked the changes which had transpired within a comparatively short time, and marvelled on the work which had been done in improvement and lessening of arduous tasks.

After the supper the crowd was swelled to greater dimensions by many others who came to lend their patronage in making Ennismore's effort a success. All games on the grounds were conducted at full pressure and that spirit of light-hearted buoyancy was present which makes one forget the work-a-day trivialities and gives pure enjoyment. Everyone had a good time, and had it in such a manner that it came naturally rather than by determined effort.

Night slowly drew its curtains over the scene, bringing to a close the memorable event. An incident in the lives of all Ennismore people, for it will be treasured in the hearts of all.

Memories have been rekindled; old haunts revisited, which will give pleasure in the white years ahead.

PORT COLBORNE LIQUOR SEIZED

Four Men Arrested Thursday With Cargo of Rum on Boat.

PORT COLBORNE, Aug. 21 (Canadian Press).—The police believe they have got at least closer to the leaders in Port Colborne's bootlegging ring, following the arrest of four men and the seizure of over 100 cases of ale, gin and whis? key yesterday. Four men arrested are Grant Snider, Arthur Hill, Joseph Rogers and Gordon Kennedy.

All the liquor seized was the cargo of a rum boat that was unloaded at Morgan's Point, seven miles west of Port Colborne, early yesterday morning, according to the story the prisoners, are alleged to have told the police, and more arrests are expected.

HUSBAND AND NURSE MISSING

Car Found at Kingston Told in Letter to Wife.

KINGSTON, Ont., Aug. 21 (Canadian Press)—The mystery, with its possibility of foul play, created by Mrs. Clarence W. Walker of Syracuse, N.Y.., receiving an unsigned letter but evidently written by her husband to the effect that his automobile would be found in Kingston dwindled last evening to what is apparently an elopement. Mrs. Walker, who arrived last evening informed the police that she, Walker and a young nurse had been in Simcoe, Mrs. Walker's former home, that on August 11th Walker left in his car with the nurse, presumably for Buffalo from where she was to proceed to her home in Syracuse and that since then she had seen neither of them.

The car was found last evening by police in a garage where Walker who was accompanied by a young girl answering a description of the nurse left it on August 12th saying that they were going on to Detroit next day and that the car would be called for. Mrs. Walker accompanied by a police officer searched the hotel registers last evening but found no one had registered whose signature resembled her husband's.

DRIVE FOR VOTES ALREADY UNDER WAY THOUGH NOT YET IN THE OPEN

Only Two of Federal Cabinet Were Opposed To Election.

STILL SILENCE.

OTTAWA, Aug. 21.—To all intents and purposes the federal election compaign is on. Dissolution has not taken place and probably will not until the governor-general comes back to Ottawa, but the moves and manoeuvres of the political machine and comings and goings by members leave little if any doubt that the present parliament has had its last session. Some time in the fall, in late October or early November, a new one will be chosen.

All the signs point that way in sequence to the cabinet sittings of the week, and ministers who have left the city have gone to get their fences in order.

Only Two Opposed.

It is said that only two of the cabinet have opposed the idea, although a third has not been overly enthusiastic. The others think that nothing is to be gained by delay, and they foresee possible trouble arising from another session. Their view, it is now apparent, will prevail. The cabinet may not have a meeting for a week, but when it occurs an announcement is expected, though the formality of dissolution might be deferred. In 1921 the coming of an election was proclaimed in September, although parliament was not dissolved till October. The list of returning officers is now being completed and other arrangements made.

Liberals Irritated.

If any official intimation is being delayed, and silence on the subject causes some irritation in the government party, there is little reticence unofficially. With the Conservatives actively campaigning and nominating conventions being held by all parties all over, the possibility of any retreat is now being scouted. A certain wing of the Liberal members whose constituencies ar not in the best of shape and who have opposed this course, have been given to understand that local conditions should not preclude action which the great majority consider expedient.

Appointments.

Before dissolution comes, some shifting in portfolios is forecast, and the retirement of a few of the ministers is certain. Likewise, there may be a reduction in the number of ministers by the merger of two or three of the departments. Eight senate vacancies and nearly a dozen judgeships will be filled, along with several minor vacancies. There is no embarrassment from lack of aspirants.

The exact time of polling is not known or even determined, but there is every reason to believe that Mr. King's personal inclination to go to the country is supported by the preponderance of the cabinet and that the course is to be followed with a general elettion probably at the end of October.

Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen returned to Ottawa this morning from London. He will leave again to-morrow to address a Conservative picnic at St. Catharines.

BRAIN WAVES NOT FIGURE OF SPEECH

Transmit Oscillations Which Can Be Detected On Wireless Sets.

PARIS, Aug. 21. — Canadian Press —"Brain waves" are not a mere figure of speech, but a scientific reality according to the Italian savant, Ferdinando Cazzamali, Professor of Neurology at the University of Milan of whose latest experiments Dr. Osty has just revealed sensational results.

Cassamali declares that the human brain actually does transmit electromagnetic oscillations or waves which can be registered by ordinary wireless receiving sets.

CELEBRATE SIGNING OF MAGNA CHARTA

Many Attend Service Commemorating Great Day in English History.

LONDON, Aug 21 (Associated Press).—A service held recently on the spot where the barons met King John commemorated the 710th anniversary of the signing of Magna Charta.

Many members of the clergy, Boy Scouts, fire fighters, representatives of friendly societies and hundreds of others marched for two miles from the village church of Egham across the Mere to the Old Windsor End, where speeches were made in the enclosure by the Right Rev. Bishop Darlington, of Harrisburg, Pa., and Sir Joseph Cook, the High Commissioner for Australia.

Nearly 10,000 attended and with bowed heads they repeated the following prayer in unison:

"We praise Thee, O God, for the great deed in this place 700 years ago, whereby the laws and liberties of the realm were defended against tyranny and a victory was fought for justice and freedom."

"A burglar broke into our house last night."

"What did he get?"

"Practice."

AT THE FINAL JOURNEY OF SIR ADAM BECK

A nation mourned on Tuesday when Sir Adam Beck was borne to his lest resting place beside his wife in Hamilton Cemetery. Tens of thousands of grief-stricken people, men of high station and low, women and children of all creeds, were united in a common sorrow.

Top, shows the pall bearers carrying the casket from St. Paul's Cathedral, London, where the body of the Hydro Knight had lain in state for nearly three hours before a final oration was delivered by Bishop Williams. Alongside, in the Cemetery at Hamilton, where Sir Adam was laid to his final rest, beside his wife, to whose memory the tall cross seen in the background is raised. Below, is the funeral cortege passing through the streets of London, where the Hydro Knight had lived and labored.

MOSCOW SHOWS RENEWED LIFE

Some Large Buildings Are Going Up And More Open For Business.

MOSCOW, Aug. 21.—After a year's absence Moscow, the Soviet capital, appears considerably changed. For the first time since the revolution a number of large buildings are being constructed, not merely renovated or completed as heretofore. The city presents an aid of greater animation with several lines of auto busses and new taxicabs—as yet a small number—nd many street car extensions, especially in the suburbs. There is the usual Summer painting of house fronts, but many still need paint and give the side streets a slovenly appearance.

More shops seem to be open than before, but there is an obvious shortage of goods and prices are excessively high. People have unquestionably a more cheerful appearance and the general average of dress has improved. This is doubtless due to expecttion of a bumper crop, which now and for many years to come will be the barometer of Russia's prosperity.

Popoff, chief of the Statistical Bureau, recently gave out an interview stating the crop total would be about 2,000,000,000 bushels, instead of the previous estimate, below 1,750,000000. This, he claims, will allow the export of not less than 225,000,000 bushels, while leaving the Government a reserve of nearly double than.

Paradoxically enough the better the crop the greater will be the difficulty in meeting the demand of the peasants for cheap goods which it is now clear Soviet industry cannot do. The problem is expected to be solved by extensive importations.

A noticeable feature of the city is the extraordinary number of cats and young children. The latter are playing everywhere in the streets squares and public gardens, gayly decorated with flowers. The children are plump and healthy and it is claimed there is now none of the city's population suffering hunger. Certainly the number of beggars has greatly diminished.

It is striking to see the increase in the proportion of red-capped and red-ribboned girls—members of the Communist youth organization—among the juvenile population. The organization now has 1,300,000 members and refused admittance to fully 1,000,000 more owing to lack of teachers and trainers. The junior organization, "Young Pioneers," or the Communist Boy and Girl Scouts, has increased in similar proportion with the same limitation regarding teachers.

"Give us four year to teach the children and our work will stand." Lenin once said. They have had eight and it looks as if they had got the children fast enough.

Despite high prices, restaurant gardens, cinemas, etc., are crowded, which is perhaps a less favorable sign than appears, because it indicates a majority are still spending money as fast as making it, either through memory of the past or uncertainty as to the future.

TRIPLETS PUT IN NEW CLASS AT EX.

Mothers' Zeal Responsible and Medal Given for Best Trio.

TORONTO, Aug. 21.—(Canadian Press).—There will be a class for triplets at the baby show at the Canadian National Exhibition this year. It came about through the zeal of the mother of a trio of chubby babes to have her offspring entered in the competition. They told her there was no class for triplets. "All right", she said, "I'll enter two as twins, then, and all three as singles." There's no beating a mother with that spirit, the managing director of the fair gave orders there should be a triplets class. The prize is a silver medal and $25.

TURKEY TO DEMAND LEAGUE SETTLEMENT

Both British and Turks Prepared To Attack Findings.

GENEVA, August 21. Canadian Press. — Turkey is preparing to demand a show down when the September council of the League of Nations considers the boundary of Irak as treated in the report of the Mosul commission.

Turkey will oppose the postponement of a decision which it is believed the league contemplates as the result of a predicament arising from the commission's report.

Both British and Turks are prepared bitterly to attack the methods and the findings of the commission, and all the indications are for an extremely complicated session.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

To The Editor of The Examiner:

Sir.—"Old Timer," in your paper of Thursday asks prohibitionists to get ready for the fray. We are to have more coercion. Are we? It is a poor rule that doesn't work both ways. "Old Timer" does not seem to be able to learn anything. He seems satisfied that he and his friends are going to do just about as they like with the rest of the community. Once again I say that it is a poor rule that won't work both ways. Have you brains enough to understand that my friend?

A FREE MAN AND NO NIGGER.

WHAT THE PAINT MEANS.

A well-known advertising slogan declares that when you "Save the surface you save all," and apparently Peterboro's business community believes that there is a good deal in the contention.

Which will lead up to what the Examiner started out to say in this article—that is, that there has been a very commendable activity with the paint brush in the city's business section, for which the individuals and firms responsible deserve much credit.

This has not been a particularly corpulent business year—and the programme of decorating that has developed, the contagion apparently spreading from one to another, is therefore especially gratifying.

It gives the business blocks an air of cleanness and progress that cannot fail to impress visitors—and it does more than that, because it serves notice that Peterboro's business community does not intend to let a momentary depression "get its goat."

There is no evidence of a tendency to let go, and the new paint tells the world that Peterboro believes that the worst is over and better times are coming.

AUTOMOBILE RACING.

Peterboro's first taste of the thrilling modern sport—if that word can be used to describe something that is too hazardous perhaps to be so designated—of automobile racing left most of those who attended Exhibition Park yesterday feeling like Oliver Twist.

It is a peculiar trait in the make-up of the average man or woman that caused most of us to be fascinated with the spectacle of fellow human beings risking their lives.

The more dangerous a circus act is the more anxious we are to see it.

We watch a man working at a great heighth, thrilled by the distance he is from the ground and the thought of what would be the result of a fall.

So with the motor racing game in which the participants flirt with death at every curve.

Already this season nearly a score of racing drivers have sacrificed their lives to the gods of speed—and those fellows who climbed into their machines at the Exhibition Grounds yesterday with a cheerful grin on their faces were within the next few seconds wagering their nerve and skill and the staunchness of their machines against an accident, with death or serious injury as the price to be paid if they lost.

It may well be asked if the sport is worth while—but, frankly, it carries a thrill that would send most people back tomorrow if there was another programme promised.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTES.

A force for good in rural Ontario about which urban dwellers know all too little is the Women's Institute, branches of which exist in all parts of the Province, and which for the past twenty-five years has proven, in the words of Geo. A. Putnam, the Provincial superintendent to be "a very important factor in the education of women of responsibility, both old and young, and in training girls to a sense of responsibility and knowledge bearing upon the duties that will come to them in after life."

Peterboro County has much to thank its Women's Institute for and has reason to believe that Mr. Putnam is right in declaring that their efforts and influence are broadening.

The annual report shows that there are now 1,000 Women's Institutes in Ontario, and that the organizations are not only doing a fine work in their respective districts, but there is much being accomplished along general lines through co-operative efforts on the part of the various branches, the annual Provincial convention producing most helpful discussion on matters of great importances affecting the social life of the rural districts.

In recent years a splendid schedule of demonstration lectures has become a feature, the annual report showing that there were 211 two weeks' courses in nursing, sewing and cooking in 1924, and that 6,824 women attended, while many three weeks' courses were attended by girls of the junior institutes.

OPPORTUNITIES THAT ARE MISSED.

The eulogies paid by a visitor from across the border to the wonderful scenery of the Peterboro district inspires the question of whether we Peterboro people are getting nearly as much out of what nature has provided for us as we should.

The motor car, of course, has made it possible for thousands to see much of the most beautiful portions of the surrounding countryside—yet, after all, the automobile cannot traverse the waterways.

How many Peterboro people have travelled down the Otonabee to Rice Lake this year—a wonderful trip down a beautiful river?

How many have enjoyed a sail around Stoney Lake, most beautiful of all the Kawartha chain, and accessible to local people because of the excellent steamer service six days a week?

How many have ever made the water journey from Peterboro to Lindsay through lake after lake, each presenting new beauties?

How many have spent an afternoon at Chemong Park, with its splendid bathing and its magnificent trees?

These are some of the things that could make the summer memorable if we were alive to our opportunities—yet far too many let the holiday season go by without taking advantage of what is offered at our very doors.

See your own district—other people come thousands of miles to view what is but an hour or two away from your door.

'T PAYS TO ADVERTISE

"KNOWING" A BUSINESS.

Henry Ford, writing in the Dearborn Independent, says a young man planning to go into business must "know his job." That is the surest measure of protection against failure, for, according to Mr. Ford, "business never fails; only men do that."

Learning any one business thoroughly is one thing our young men are not doing today, says the London Advertiser. In a measure our idea of education steers them away from it. We have come to look upon matriculation standing in a collegiate as the hurdle that must be jumped before a young man can be accepted in business or commercial life. He is either eighteen or nineteen years old before he gets that, and he has not started to learn a business or a trade. In too many cases when he has attained that standing he imagines he is qualified to demand good wages, wages that his knowledge of the work to be done do not warrant.

Here is how it actually worked out in one case here in London. A young man entered a manufacturing concern and was put on cost records, one of the most important departments in any institution. When he had been doing that for a few months the head of the firm, who is very practical himself, found the young man had an aptitude for the work and suggested that he should spend a year out in the shop in order to become familiar with certain processes of manufacture. The next day the employer received a call from the young man, and was notified that he had no desire to learn a trade and was therefore leaving.

That lad was as blind as a bat to his own future. He failed to see that by getting a first-hand knowledge of how the things the firm made were turned out he was becoming the master of the work he was going to do. The obstacle he couldn't overcome was the idea of working clothes and soiled hands, and the tragic part was that his father agreed with him in his decision.

Henry Ford is right. The call is today for young men to "know" the business they decide to follow, and the way to know it is to work at it from the bottom up, and the sooner they get started at it after securing a fair mental training the better it is for them.

PROGRESS IN THE AIR.

According to information given out by officers of the navy, the lighter-than-air craft is to be developed in the near future. New dirigibles will be built and then organized into a squadron of evolution. They will probably be used for scouting, although plans are made for guns and for a protective squadron of airplanes to be used as destroyers are used to protect battleships.

All naval authorities are agreed on the value of the dirigible as a scout. Admiral Sir John R. Jellicoe of the British Navy has said that one dirigible has the tactical value of three scout cruisers. As a scout cruiser costs $11,000,000 and a dirigible costs $2,000,000, the economy of the dirigible is manifest.

Not only is a dirigible squadron planned for the navy, but the first dirigible for the use of the army is now nearing completion at Akron. Members of the army aviation crew have already been assigned to attend the naval dirigible school at Lakehurst. Both the land and sea branches of the military service are perfecting themselves for work in the air.

It is proposed that a line of mooring masts be erected across the continent from Lakehurst to San Diego. A mooring mast is already building in Hawaii to accommodate the dirigibles that are to fly from the California coast. Henry Ford is planning a mooring mast of his own near Detroit that will be available to the military craft. It is expected that the masts erected by the Government will be at the disposal of the commercial craft when and if the dirigible shall be used extensively in commerce. The Los Angeles is restricted to commercial uses by the terms under which it was built, but is being used to train men in the art of handling the lighter-than-air machines. The Government has been asked, however, to turn it over to a private corporation as the nucleus of a fleet of freight and passenger craft.

The United States is evidently on the eve of a great development in air navigation. The airplane is a familiar sight. It is almost continually in flight about the Navy Yard at League Island, and every pleasant day the residents in that part of New Jersey between Philadelphia and Atlantic City see one or more planes winging their way back and forth. The mail planes are continually outlined against the sky on some part of the route between the Atlantic and the Pacific, and Henry Ford's freight planes are doing a trucking business in the Middle West.

The dirigible, however, has not yet come into its own. But it can never again induce in the spectator those emotions which accompanied the first sight of the Shenandoah when it floated over the cities of the country. This magic ship looked as fragile as a bit of silver gossamer hung in the sky. It seemed as if one were gazing into the transparent deeps of the ocean at a shimmering fish instead of into the upper air at a man-made monster capable of destroying whole communities almost in the flash of an eye. Men held their breath as they watched it, and women who looked up at it were moved by its awful beauty. This is a sensation that can be experienced only once. It is like the thrill which the Arabs in Africa felt when they first saw a military airplane. It was not long, however, before these same Arabs were taking pot shots at the machines and bringing them down with as little concern as though they had been vultures.

We are accustomed to mechanical marvels. The telegraph, the telephone and the radio are accepted as commonplace things. And it is only the small boy or the savage hearing a phonograph for the first time who look inside for the man who does the talking. If the dreams of the men planning air transportation are realized, it will not be many years before the heavens are filled with transport to which the man on the ground will deign no more than a passing glance. And if he makes any remark it will be to damn the machines for their infernal racket, which keeps him awake when he wants to sleep.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Every city has one now—the fellow who knows just when the Federal election is to be held.

Sir Thomas White says he has no particular aptitude for the position of Chairman of the Hydro-electric Commission. It is a safe wager that he has a lot more than some of those people who have their eyes upon the position.

Some of those Chemong road speeders should have filed their entries in yesterday's racing meet.

The Examiner is informed that the old home week is to be held when Peterboro's war memorial is ready for dedication. The latter ceremony might well be made a feature of the return of the city's old boys and girls.

A THOUGHT.

INTERRUPTIONS

Thank Providence for the conflicts, crosses and interruptions. Unlimited wealth for life, continuous good health through life, uninterrupted sleep—wealth, health, sleep—these three big blessings can only be truly enjoyed after they have been interrupted. We must be deprived to appreciate dearly.

If all things could come our way without the slightest disappointment or delay, success would be so common that it would be considered a failure. It is the interruptions that should inspire, the crosses that should make us courageous. I can conceive of nothing more blasting, more blighting, than wealth guaranteed, health insured and sleep without interruption.

Perpetual sunshine, the tiresmoeness of too much wisdom, the everlasting presence of rare perfume, the unintrrupted peace of the family circle, the monotony of the most agreeable things in life are all increased in interest by interruption; so take a trip far from the nearest and dearest, and the "interruption" will bring you back with a full understanding and a firmer appreciation. Winter is interrupted by spring, nights are interrupted by some season of happiness, else we would all be mighty miserable.

Experience a downward curve in your income, suffer the shock of poor health, have a few nights of insomnia and it is then that wealth, health and sleep will be considered a blessing, until—until you feel that these great gifts are permanent. Then wealth may weary, health may not be appreciated and sleep be looked upon as a loss of time.

Be compelled to dispose of your car, be forced to economize, hit what we call a "hard spot," lie on your cot in physical pain or mental anguish, be compelled to step down and take a position as a night watchman in a lonely factory facing a cemetery, and it is then that the three meaning of wealth, health and sleep will strike you and strike you right. It is then that the interruption will inflame your intelligence, your understanding.

A little trouble preceding our pleasure is as necessary as salt is to soup. The big idea is to not let the interrupting influence deaden our courage to keep on keeping on.

This interruption plan that so often upsets us, is an Indefinite idea. There is an immeasurable distance between submitting to some temporary interruption and accepting it as a permanent failure. The interruption is intoduced to insue or increase your interest in the blessings you fail to appreciate.

Perhaps this short sentence will drive my thought home to your head and heart: Appreciation, like men, more often dies of excess than of hunger.—The Silent Partner.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Aug. 21.—Trading at the cattle market yesterday opened slow. There was a very fair clean up in the good killing cattle, but there will likely be a carry over of poor quality stockers and feeders. About 500 cattle were carried over from Wednesday. Packers bought an odd baby beef up to $11 and some handy weight butchers around $7. T. J. McMahon of Guelph shipped two extra choice baby beeves weighing 1,240 pounds at 12 cents which is the highest price that has been paid for four months. Exports to Great Britain for the week amounted to 1,825 head.

The calf market was steady for a few carry overs at $10 to $11 for good stock.

The hog market was steady at $14 off cars for thick smooths and $2.66 per head premium for select bacon hogs.

The lamb market was steady at yesterday's decline. Good lambs were bringing $13 to $13.50, with the $2 discount on bucks.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Aug. 21 (Canadian Press)—The export business in Canadian grain on the Montreal market yesterday was extremely dull and according to cable advices foreign buyers were not disposed to operate to any extent at present. A sale of two or three loads of No. 1 Northern was reported at about $1.25 per bushel, c.i.f. Montreal. The domestic trade was also slow. Oats were easier at a decline of 1-2 cent per bushel.

There was some demand for ocean grain room to the Continent here yesterday and bookings of wheat to Antwerp for August shipment were made at 13 cents per 100 pounds which showed an advance of 2 cents per 100 pounds, while barley was quoted at 15 cents per 100 pounds, and oats at 16 cents, and rates to Rotterdam for September loading were 13 cents per 100 pounds for wheat, 16 cents for barley, and 17 cents for oats, with Hamburg the same as Antwerp.

Business in ocean grain freights to the United Kingdom was quiet.

The spring wheat flour market was without any new feature to note, business being quiet and prices unchanged. The tone of the winter wheat flour market was steady, but the trade volume was small.

Prices for all grades of millfeed were well maintained under a moderate demand. The trade in standard grades of rolled oats was moderate and prices ruled steady.

The volume of business transacted in eggs was small, but the tendency was firm. The butter market was easier but prices did not show any change. Prices for cheese were reduced another 1-4 cent per pound.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Aug. 21 (Canadian Press).—Wheat finished lower after an erratic session during which prices alternately displayed strength and uneasiness. There was a good class of buying on breaks, but bulges brought in good selling. Claims of frost in the Canadian northwest brought on a strong rally at one time, and wheat ascended to a high for the day of 1 1-2 to 1 3-4 cents over the previous close, but aggressive selling of wheat at Winnipeg and selling by houses with northwestern connections that were good buyers here Wednesday, served to cause a break at the finish.

The close found wheat 1-4 to 1 cent down from Wednesday night's finish, with September at $1.59 1-2 to $1.59 3-4, and December at the identical figures of $1.59 1-2 to $1.59 3-4. Corn finished 1 to 2 3-8 cents decrease; oats unchanged to 3-8 cent loss, and provisions at 2 cents down to 30 cents up. Reports of Russian selling of a big line of wheat to Italy brought about an increase in selling in the local pit. The market was generally quiet, however, and lacked features of any great importance. As a consequence prices were extremely susceptible to any increased activity on either side. Bulges inevitably met with realizing sales, while declines encountered increased buying and resting orders. Short covering and a good class of commission house buying maintained corn prices on firm ground during most of the session, but at the finish buying was discouraged by the drop in wheat and heavy country offerings and final prices registered losses. Oats were dull and featureless.

Provisions were unsettled, with commission houses fair buyers but eased off toward the close, affected by the drop in wheat.

CHICAGO CATTLE

CHICAGO, Aug. 21 (Canadian Press).—Cattle—Receipts, 6,000; fed and grass steer trade uneven, generally steady; fresh offerings fully steady with some advance on a few loads good to choice heavies; stale offerings held from earlier in week dull; many loads unsold late; top, 15.25 paid for 1,232 pound averages; lings, 14.50; bulk grassers, 7.00 to steers at 13.50 to 14.25; best yearlings, 14.50; bulk grasstrs, 7.00 to 7.75; most grain feds, 10.00 to 13.00 she-stock firm; other classes unchanged.

Hogs—Receipts, 14,000; 25 to 35 cents higher than Wednesday's average; maximum advance on lighter weights; big packers out of market; bulk desirable 140 to 210 lb. weights, 13.35 to 13.50; top, 13.60; bulk good and choice 225 to 325 lb. butchers, 12.75 to 13.25; packing sows largely 11.25 to 11.50; bulk strong weight killing pigs, 12.75 to 13.25; shippers, 4.500; estimated hold-over, 16.000.

Sheep—Receipts, 14,000; fat native lambs fully 25 cents lower; rangers weak to 25 cents lower; best rangers, 15.00; bulk natives, 14.00 to 14.50; few sorted lots to packers, 14.75; city butchers, 14.90; most culls 11.00 to 11.50; few 12.00; odd lots fat native ewes, 6.00 to 7.50, steady; heavies weak to unevenly lower at 5.00 downward; feeding lambs fully steady.

The Difference in Cord Tires is SUPERTWIST

IF you think all cord tires are pretty much alike, talk to Goodyear users. (They are easy to find, because more people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind.)

You'll find that you've encountered an enthusiast—a man who knows there is a difference in mileage, in comfort, in safety.

He may or may not know that this difference is largely due to SUPERTWIST.

The Goodyear plan of perfecting Balloon Tires required a new Cord Fabric—a fabric which would stretch more—give to the road—not break under road shocks. Conceived by Goodyear and developed in Goodyear cotton mills, this fabric is SUPERTWIST.

Actual road usage reveals that, ply for ply, SUPERTWIST adds immensely to tire usefulness and tire life. So superior is SUPERTWIST that it is now used in all Goodyear Cord Tires.

You want these benefits in the tires you buy—they mean extra economy and satisfaction.

You get them in full measure in Goodyear Cord Tires, the only tires made of SUPERTWIST.

Your Goodyear Selected Dealer has in stock Goodyear Cord Tires made of SUPERTWIST at various prices.

HIGH SCORE IN MEDAL SHOOT

Despite Bad Weather, First Man Scored 100 Out of 105.

GOVERNOR'S MEDAL

CONNAUGHT RANGES, Ont., August 21. — Canadian Press. — Lt. James Boa, of the Victoria Rifles of Canada, determined to emulate his brother, Captain A. Stuart Boa, M.C., who last year captured the Governor General's medal, yesterday captured the first place in the first stage of this match, out-distancing all other competitors. His score, despite the shifting light and gusty wind, was only one point below the highest point scored last year under ideal weather conditions, by Pte. E. Shillingford, of Saskatchewan.

Yesterday morning under occasional showers and wind which at times gained gale-like proportions Lieut. Boa scored 33 and 34 points out of possible 35s at the 200 and 500 yard ranges respectively. In the afternoon un less trying conditions he scored six bulls and one i ner at the 600 yard range.

It was a day when experience at the ranges counted and younger shots fell to the wayside, allowing first places to the tried and experienced marksmen.

The highest scores in the first stage of the Governor-General's match followed:

Lieut. James Boa Montreal 101, Sgt. A. E. Paddock, Hamilton, 100; Lieut. J. T. Steele, Guelph, 99; Lt. D. Burke, (C.M.) Ottawa, 9? Sgt. G. M. Emslie Toronto, 99; Corp. H. W. Burton, Esquimalt, G. A., 98; Major F. Richardson, Victoria, 98; Gnr. E. Regan, Victoria, 98; Major R. M. Balir, Victoria, 98; S. M. R. Kiddie, Toronto, 98; Pte. W. J. Irvine, Ottawa, 98.

DRASTIC ACTION TO LESSEN TOLL OF AUTO WRECKS

British Traffic Situation Has Become Serious, Many Being Killed.

DEAF MUTE DRIVING

Had Another Behind Him on Motorcycle—Offender Was "Gentleman."

LONDON, Aug. 21 (Canadian Press Cable) — The toll of life through motor accidents has not been diminished since the bank holiday of August 3, when 30 people were killed and more than 60 injured. So serious has it become that the ministry of transport proposes taking drastic action, though in what direction the action will be taken is not yet decided.

A motor cyclist who was heavily fined for exceeding the speed limit in Surrey was discovered to be deaf and dumb, and he was carrying on the pillion of his cycle another man similarly afflicted.

The magistrates who heard the case of the two deaf mutes riding the one wheel characterized such a proceeding as "a downright shame," and declared that it was "disgraceful and dreadful."

The Chertsey, Surrey, bench of magistrates had before them a motorist charged with having engaged in dangerous driving. The police inspector who took the particulars and time of the alleged offence stated that when he asked the offender if he had any objection to stating what his occupation or profession was, the latter replied: "You mind your own business, that has nothing to do with you."

"So I said to the constable with me," remarked the inspector to the court, "put him down a gentleman"

GROUNDING DUE TO OLD WRECK

C.P.O.S. Attorney Says Wrecked Vessel Should Have Been Moved.

INQUIRY CLOSED

QUEBEC, Aug. 21 (Canadian Press)—The hearing of evidence at the enquiry into the grounding of the Canadian Pacific liner Montrose on the night of August 7 last, was concluded before Wreck Commissioner Demers here yesterday. Captain Demers will announce his findings next week.

Following the conclusion of the case the Commissioner informed the master and pilot of the Montrose that their licenses would be returned to them immediately.

A. R. Holden, K.C., representing the Canadian Pacific Steamships, summing up said that the wreck of the Canadian Government Merchant Marine liner Canadian Recruit, which was sunk in the St. Lawrence river near the lower traverse nearly four years ago, should have been removed as a menace to navigation. Even though the wreck was not in the channel, he claimed, it was sufficiently near to make it necessary to remove it without any undue delay.

He submitted that the captain and pilot of the Montrose had handled a difficult situation skilfully and well and would have been more successful had it not been for the wreck.

CANTING OF LOOSE PLANK THREW MAN INTO OTTAWA RIVER; FATAL RESULTS

Captain of Lumber Barge Was Looking Over His Vessel —Nobody Saw Accident — Body Recovered by Grappling Irons.

OTTAWA, Aug 21 —(Canadian Press).—Hormidas Desforges, aged 23, captain of a barge of the Ottawa Transportation Company, was drowned in the Ottawa River at the foot of Booth's lumber yards about one o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Desforges was taking a look around his barge after having his lunch. Men who had been loading lumber onto the barge were eating their lunch some distance from the barge at the time, and no one saw him fall in.

When they came to look for him all they could see was a plank floating in the water beside the barge. From this they judged that he must have been standing on the end of a plank which canted up with his weight, throwing him into the river.

Police were called and Constable John Ritchie found the body with the grappling irons within a few minutes.

Desforges came from Alphino, Calumette Island.

OFFICER KILLED MAN WHO HURT HIM SERIOUSLY TWO YEARS AGO

Sent to Serve Summons, Detroit Patrolman Recognized Shooter.

REACHED IN POCKET

Policeman Thought He Was After Gun and Opened Fire.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 21 (Canadian Press) — Patrolman Proctor Pruitt today shot and killed the man that two years ago tried to take his life, when he killed Stephen Tompkins, 42, in the latter's home where Pruitt was sent to serve a subpoena aaginst Tompkinsh to appear as a defendant on a charge of violating the prohibition laws. Pruitt did not know he was to face his former assailant when he entered the Tompkins' home, but recognized him immediately on sight. Tompkins put his hand in his pocket and was ordered to withdraw it whereupon he fled to a bedroom and placed his hand under a pillow. Thinking he was reaching for a gun, Pruitt shot him.

In April, 1923, Pruitt saw Tompkins lurking near the vicinity of the present home. Taking him for a suspicious character he ordered him to halt but Tompkins fired six times at Pruitt and to save the patrolman's life, surgeons had to remove his stomach.

PLAN MARKETING SYSTEM TO KEEP WHEAT PRICE UP

Copy Rubber Scheme of Delaying Crop in Reaching Market.

CHECK SPECULATION

Supply Held Back Would Deter Grain Speculators—Keep Price Firm.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 21.—(Canadian Press).—The Free Press evening bulletin carried the following in its news column yesterday afternoon:

"Taking a leaf from the book of the British Economist who evolved the rubber restriction scheme, interests, not inimical to the farmers of Western Canada, are making a move calculated to elevate the price of wheat above the present prices prevailing, almost on a level of 13 cents less than a lower grade of wheat in Chicago. Once the higher rate is established, speculation will be checked and the price pegged.

"The first step is being and will be effected by making arrangements so that a large portion of the 1925 crop will be delayed indefinitely in reaching the market. Once this has achieved the effect that is believed to be economically inevitable, the wheat so withheld will hover as a modern sword of domocles over the head of the speculator who would force the price ever upward.

"A representative of the Free Press received no uncertain hint that such a movement was in progress."

HARRY GREB IS HURT IN SMASH

Middleweight Champ Was Driving to Bout When Car Upset.

RIBS BROKEN

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 21.—J (Canadian Press).— Harry Greb, world's middleweight boxing champion, was seriously injured in an automobile accident near here early last night. He was rushed to a hospital, where a first examination revealed that he suffered two broken ribs, severe bruises and possible internal injuries.

Greb and two other men had set out in the fighter's automobile for Erie, Pa., where Greb was to meet Jimmy Darragh, in an American Legion boxing match tonight. Twelve miles from here on descending a hill the fighter's car met two others. Slamming on the brakes the wheels locked and the Greb car overturned. Passing autoists rushed Greb to this city. His companions were not seriously hurt.

CANADIAN TRADE SHOWS INCREASE IN FOUR MONTHS

Forty-five Millions Gain in Grand Total Since Fiscal Year Started.

AGRICULTURE DOWN

Animal and Wood Products Provide Increase in Export Trade.

OTTAWA, Aug. 21.—(Canadian Press).—An increase of over forty-five million dollars in the grand total of Canadian trade during the four months of the present fiscal year, as compared with the same period last year, is shown by figures issued through the Department of Customs and Excise yesterday evening. The grand total of Canadian trade during the four months just ended was $647,865,298, while during the four-month period a year ago it amounted to $602,636,714. Imports from foreign countries during the four months ended July 31 last, were to the value of $292,083,091, as compared with $271,258,586, or an increase of $20,824,505. Domestic exports also increased their total value this year, being $351,407,904, as against $327,309,594 during the four months of last year. This is an increase of $24,098,310.

Domestic agriculture products during the four months show a falling off from last year. During the four months under review, agricultural products were exported from Canada to the value of $123,694,208, as compared with $131,994,825 during the four months period of 1924. Exports of animals and their products, on the contrary, show a great increase, amounting this year to $52,873,392, as against $38,442,168 in the four months of 1924. There was an increase of approximately five millions in value of exports of wood, wood products and paper, which amounted this year to $85,841,797.

The largest item under the head of imports is iron and its products. Dutiable imports of this commodity during the four months of the present year were to the value of $53,276,990, as compared with $45,759,984 last year.

VOTING AGAIN ON CHURCH UNION IN MANITOBA CITIES

Second Vote is Being Taken in September, Under Federal Act.

DECIDES PROPERTY

Those Who Have Withdrawn From Churches Have Left Their Certificates.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 21.—(Canadian Press).—Preparations for taking another vote in the former Presbyterian churches of the city and throughout the chief centres of the province in connection with entering Union will be taken here under the Federal Act, startihg September 10, it was announced yesterday.

The claim is made that the Federal vote will decide the question of ownership of the Church property and that the Provincial Act does not take precedence in that regard over the Federal Act, as contended by the United Church.

Those who have withdrawn from the United Churches in Winnipeg have not taken out their membership certificates, and are still on the rolls and will be eligible for the September vote, it was stated yesterday morning. The Presbyterians have strong hopes of securing St. John's Church in Winnipeg, St. Paul's in Brandon, and the church in Stonewall, Man.

"I Love to Dance but—OH! MY FEET!"

Try this and forget all your aches, pains, strains, corns, callouses or other foot troubles.

A foot bath in hot saltrated water is all you need to stop any foot pains instantly. Phyllis Monkman says the saltrated water is wonderful for tired, tender, aching feet or any other foot troubles. As for corns—it does not affect sound healthy skin in the slightest degree, but acts only on the dead, hardened skin composing corns and callouses, which it softens just as water softens soap. Then pick the corn right out—root and all—like the hull out of a strawberry. Merely cutting the top off with a razor or burning it off with caustic liquids, plasters, etc., is about as logical as cutting the top off an aching tooth, and is simply a waste of time. Also it hurts, and is dangerous. Millions of packages of Reudel Bath Saltrates (for the preparation of saltrated water) have been sold, and the sale is increasing daily. This means something, as you will understand when you see for yourself the wonderful effects it produces. In packages of convenient size and at low price, from all druggists. Ask them about it.

RETIRING EDITOR STANDS BY PREMIER

Resignation of Globe Writer is Due to Political Views; Two More Resign.

TORONTO, Aug. 20.—"I think it would perhaps be fair to say that the Globe would not go as far as I would in support of the Government," said John L. Lewis, when asked for the reason behind his resignation as acting editor of the Globe. "I have no plans for the present, and may take a holiday, although it is likely I will do some work for the Government."

Following the resignation of Mr. Lewis it became known that Ross Munro and Melville W. Rossie have resigned from the editorial staff of that paper.

Asked what reasons prompted them to sever their connection with the Globe, Mr. Munro said: "We associated ourselves with the statement issued by Mr. Lewis. We resigned at the same time and for the same reasons. I do not know that there is anything further to be said at present."

Stewart Lyon, who has been ill, has resumed the Globe editorship temporarily.

Mr. Lewis issued a written statement in which he set forth at some length the reasons for his resignation and his position. The statement reads:

"The note published in the Globe says that I am resigning my position because of disagreement on a question of public policy. I am asked what the disagreement was. To understand that fully it would be necessary to know what each party contended. It might be unfair or misleading for me to attempt to explain the position of Mr. Jaffray, he president of the Globe, in various conversations, which are likely to be interpreted in different ways by the parties concerned. I will therefore, simply explain my own position. I think I will not be described by those who know me as a rabid or bitter partisan, but I believe in the two-party system, in spite of its acknowledged faults, as the most workable plan of government.

Two-Party System Best.

"Coalitions and third parties, to meet certain emergencies, have their uses, but I think that public opinion in Canada is settling down to the view that as a permanent plan, the country is best governed by the representatives of a party having a working majority.

"Naturally, as a Liberal, I prefer that my own party shall hold that position. In order to carry out the party system fairly it is necessary that each party shall have vigorous advocacy in the press as well as by other means. That does not preclude fair and frank consideration of one's own party, but it does mean an adequate presentation of the case of each party by its own friends.

"In a general election, one must make his choice between the parties, and my own desire is to see the King Government with a working majority in the House of Commons. On the whole, it has done well. It is giving Government ownership of railways, as it promised, a fair trial, and in Sir Henry Thornton it found a chief executive who has given signal proof of capacity, and has made remarkable progress in his very difficult task. By the trade agreements negotiated with Australia and the West Indies it has developed the policy of inter-Imperial trade which was begun by the establishment of the British preference under Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. Fielding. Its tariff policy has been one of moderation, founded upon a view of the interests and desires of all Canada. The modest concession made to the Western Prairie view has been severely criticized by high protectionists, but I do not see how Canada can be governed with an entire disregard of the Western view. My own opinion is that the tariff has for many years been unduly emphasized—by both parties, and that reasonable men on both sides would agree that neither free trade nor high protection is practicable in Canada.

"This, of course, is not intended as a full presentation of the Liberal case, but it leads up to my position: That the Liberal Government has done well under extraordinary difficulties and that with a fair working majority it would do better. The difficulty was to a large extent created by the electors, who in the exercise of their undoubted right sent to Parliament three groups, the Liberal by far the largest but without an assured working majority. There was no alternative for Mr. King but to assume the duty of forming a government and carrying on. For this purpose it was necessary for him to consult the House of Commons to an extent never before known. No previous Prime Minister had undertaken a similar task without an assured working majority. I see nothing wrong in this consultation and deference to the wishes of the House.

"But for those who find fault with it, the only alternative is to give the King Government a working majority of the old kind. That at least seems to be the only course open to Liberals.

"The hostility of the Senate has been another difficulty which ought to be kept in view in considering the record of the Government, but that is too large a question to be discussed at this stage."

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S COPELAND, M.D., Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

START THE DAY RIGHT TO RETAIN VIGOR

A day's work if well begun,
Is really more than half done.

I am writing this on a Pullman car. It is the morning after my fourth successive night on the sleeper. Perhaps I am irritable and fussy, but really I am provoked.

In the wash-room of the sleeper are three wash-basins. Three persons can be removing the grime of travel, while two or three more can be hunting for clean linen and changing collar buttons.

It always makes me mad to have the space in the wash-room taken up by early risers who have been to the diner and have returned for a morning smoke. This morning, in addition to the bathers, five persons were crowding the seats of that little coop. There was a Jap, two cowboys, a lost soul with sadness in his eyes and a captain of some foreign army. Two were smoking ancient and, doubtless, honorable pipes; one blew clouds from a cigarette, and the Lost Soul merely took up space.

A sleeping car isn't any too fresh in the morning. No way has yet been found to ventilate it. You don't sleep well, get up with a dark-brown taste in your moth, and then have to crowd into a little room where ten other mortals are breathing the vile air and tobacco smoke of a vitiated and poisoned atmosphere.

I never complain about tobacco and have not shared the horror some medical writers feel about what it will do to human beings. Temperately used by adults, it probably soothes and comforts more than it harms. But I proclaim an unwillingness to have it forced into my protesting lungs while I am trying to clean up for the day!

That vile air ruined my appetite for breakfast, it damaged my temper, and it has spoiled the beginning, at least, of what might have been a good day. So, you see, this day's work is not well begun, and time only can tell what will happen by night.

In the morning every window in your dressing room should be wide open. You should take fifty deep breaths of pure air. After your bath, a good rubbing with a rough towel will leave you in a glow. Even in hot weather these preliminaries should be taken. You want your heart pumping vigorously and your skin flushed with good, red blood.

I am sorry I am cross to-day, but, you see, I started wrong. The Pullman conductor is smiling and thoughtful. I like him and I think I will forgive the world!

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

DORIS MEETS A QUEER LOOKING BEAR.

One day when Doris was visiting her Aunt in Brazil she was startled by a queer little animal running through the grasses in the path before her.

"Oh, dear," she mused. "If I were back in America I could call on Squeedee."

"Did I hear someone call me?" queried a tiny voice, and a merry little elfin hopped down the path beside Doris. "Here I am, in Brazil. What's the trouble?"

"I just saw a funny-looking creature running down the path in front of me, and wondered who he was. There he is now," and she pointed towards a bush, out of which poked a long, slender nose curved at the end. "See him?"

"Well, well, well, Mrs. Ant Bear, come out and meet Doris from America. She was just wondering who you were," said Squeedee.

The owner of the long, slender, curved snout slowly came from behind the bush and ran towards them, waving a long, plume-like tail above her back.

"I'm mighty glad to meet you, Doris," and Mrs. Ant Bear bowed very policely. "I don't suppose you've ever seen an ant bear before, have you?" said she. Doris shook her head and Mrs. Ant Bear laughed. "Of course not. I don't suppose you find any of my relatives in your part of the country." Something stirred on her back, and up popped a baby ant bear. He was riding on his mother's back, almost hidden under the long hairs of her plume-like tail. "This is my baby. Isn't he cute?"

"We Sleep in the Daytime."

"He certainly is," exclaimed Doris. "You are both interesting. I'd like to know why——"

"Our snouts are so long and our claws are hooked," interrupted Mrs. Ant Bear. "All strangers ask that the first thing. If it wasn't for this long snout, I'd have no place to carry my long tongue," and Mrs. Ant Bear stuck out a long, slender tongue. "And if it wasn't for that long, slender tongue, I couldn't eat, for we folks live on ants. That's why they call us ant bears. These strong, hooked claws can dig out any ant hill in this part of the country. We have no teeth, so we just run our long snout into an ant hill and with our sticky tongue soon clean up every ant in there."

"Were you hunting for an ant hill when I disturbed you?" Doris asked.

"No indeed," laughed Mrs. Ants Bear. "We were just going home to bed. We sleep in the day time and at night when the ants are asleep we can get them without much trouble. Well, nestle down, Honey, and we'll be on our way," and nodding her head to Doris and Squeedee, she ran on down the path to the woods.

"Mrs. Ant Bear's an attentive mother all right," Squeedee said as Mrs. Ant Bear turned out of sight. "She carries her baby on her back everywhere she goes. Come on, may be we can find something else that will interest you," and taking Doris by the hand, they ran down the path towards the woods.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

SATURDAY, AUGUST 22.

A generally satisfactory and happy day is read from the dominant lunar transits. This applies to business as well as to all social, domestic and personal activities. Especially in the latter should the gracious rule of Venus hold sway, promoting pleasant situations and favoring courtship and marriage. Employment is under a fortunate figure, as is all that pertains to letters, writings and publishing, as well as to commercial contracts.

Those whose birthday it is are under a promising augury for a pleasant and prosperous year in business as well as in all personal affairs. Particularly should domestic, social and romantic affiliations thrive and bring happiness. A child born on this day may be expected to be accomplished, courteous, well-conducted and popular. It should prosper in business and be happy in its personal relations.

STREET NAMES

DUFFERIN STREET.

Francis Temple Hamilton Blackwood, Marquis of Dufferin, was born on June, 1826, at Florence, Italy, of Scottish and Irish ancestry.

This future peer of the realm was one of fortune's favorites. He enjoyed the advantages of a good upbringing and the best education that could be had for one who was to become a man of the world. He was educated at Eton and Oxford University. After completing his education he returned to his Irish estates and signalized himself by his work among the sufferers of the Irish famine, in the years 1846 and 1848.

Well endowed socially and personally, he entered politics and attached himself to the party of Lord John Russell whom he accompanied on a political mission to Vienna. As a relaxation from political labors he indulged in cruises on his yacht and made a voyage to Iceland writing an account of his experiences in his book, "Letters from High Altitudes", a work which abounds in humorous and graphic description and gave evidence of no small degree of literary ability on the part of the writer.

His first diplomatic post was as British Commissioner in Syria, when he represented the Government in some delicate negotiations among the powers which followed a massacre of Syrian Christians at Damascus by a fanatic Mohammedan tribe that has lately attracted world wide attention. The Druses, whose restlessness has given the French Government much concern for the safety of their New Eastern possession. Throughout the conferences with French, Prussian and Turkish representatives, Dufferin displayed much tact and forbearance and while stoutly maintaining his Government's interests he proved himself conscientious in negotiation and possessed of an ability to understand the point of view of those who differed from him.

From Mr. Gladstone he received a Home position as Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, and in 1871 he was elevated to the peerage as Earl of Dufferin. His appointment as Governor General of Canada came in the following year.

As governor general, Dufferin was singularly successful at a time when a tactless and unattractive figure-head would have weakened the Imperial connection. He played a conspicuous part in stilling the animosities between the newly confederated provinces and undoubtedly was a force for good in the endeavor to coalesce the widely separated units of the country into one indissoluble whole. His term of office having expired in 1878 he accepted from Lord Beaconsfield the position of Ambassador to Russia and later became a Marquis. He filled many other posts—British Commissioner in Egypt and British Ambassador at Constantinople, at Rome, and at Paris, and Viceroy of India. During his period of occupancy of the Vice Regal palace many important reforms were affected and Burma was annexed to the India Empire. Lady Dufferin also achieved a great reputation for her work in procuring the establishment of modern medical treatment for native women.

On his retirement from active public life Lord Dufferin spent much time in the administration of his Irish estates. The last years of his life were clouded by the death of his eldest son who was killed at Ladysmith at the Boer War in 1900 and by serious financial reverses, a great portion of his property being involved in the failure of the London and Globe Corporation which culminated in the dramatic suicide of the company president, Whittaker Wright, following his conviction for fraudulence in a court of law. The financial catrastrophe hastened the end of the great servant of state, who died in February 12, 1902.

WHERE KITE FLYING CHARACTERIZES A FESTIVAL.

We have curious traditional ways of celebrating some of our holidays. We cling to them devotedly and would be indignant with anybody who suggested that they were a bit bizarre. There may be no really good reason for the fact that we celebrate the Fourth of July by lighting firecrackers, but we do and probably shall continue to do so for many and many a year.

Therefore we should not be surprised to hear of customs that seem curious to us. It is always well to remember that our own customs may seem equally strange to others.

Now in China, that most ancient of countries, there is a whole day set aside for flying of kites. We are accustomed to thinking of this sport as a child's game. Only small boys indulge in it. But in China, on this day, men of all ages as well a boys join in the fun.

The custom had a strange origin, according to the legends that have grown up about it. Centuries and centuries ago a man was warned that on a certain day, the ninth day of the ninth month in the Chinese calendar, grave misfortune would overtake his household. Being a wise man, he gathered together his family on that day and repaired to the hills. There on a great hill he amused himself through the long day by flying kites.

When he returned to his home that evening he found that his house had fallen in ruins and his domestic animals had all been killed in the ruins.

That is why on that day thousands and thousands of Chinese go out into the hills to fly their kites. It is generally supposed that the kites, flying aloft into the pure air, carry with them the evils that may be in store for their owners' households. When the strings of the kites are cut, the kites, with the evils in their wings, fly off into eternity.

That may be the reason behind the festivities but undoubtedly it is a day of great sport for the participants. For there is something of the boy in every man and that boy in him responds with joy to the tugging of the strings in his hands as the kite catches the breeze. And for the women of the family it is a glorious day in the open.

Wafting Evil Spirits Away.

I'M THE GINK.

I'm the gink who cultivates a "superior" air. When one mentions the simple, wholesome things of life I managed to get up a wan, condescending smile. The ordinary things of life are such a bore to me. I go about looking as though I am weary of life itself. I frequently remark that I am tired of existing. Of course I know that I make other people tired. They would suggest the neatness of the river were it not for courtesy. I just lik to affect "superiority."

THE OTTAWA "EX" OPENS SATURDAY

Creatore and Band Each Afternoon and Evening—Auto Races, Auto Polo and Other Features.

The Ottawa Exhibition will open on Saturday, August 22, and continue for seven full days, closing on Saturday night, August 29. This is three weeks ahead of the usual dates for the big annual event, and it is expected that there will be an exceptionally large influx of motorists from all parts of Ontario, Quebec, and from the American side.

Automobile races and auto polo will be the features for the opening day. For the sanctioned races on Saturday afternoon, the fastest of the dirt track speedsters have entered, and there will be real contests with the object of making new records. Leading drivers who have made history on the United States tracks, as well as Canadian speedmen, will pilot their favorite cars, and spectators will be given real thrills. Auto polo will be given each afternoon in addition to the other big ring events. For sensational spills and daring stunts, this sport is difficult to excell.

Creatore and his band will be heard each afternoon and evening commencing on Monday, August 24, which will be Music Day at the exhibition. The committee in charge has arranged other special attractions in the musical line, and the innovation of Music Day promises to be an important factor in the success of the fair. Creatore and his band have international reputations. They have been heard in Ottawa before, but at dollar and dollar and a half prices. At the exhibition they will give the same high class, artistic programs from the new band stand with no other charge than the admission fee to the grounds. This year the admission is only 25 cents or six tickets for a dollar by purchasing the coupon tickets, which are now on sale at the exhibition office, or from various merchants.

The midway will be in place by noon of the opening day, and will continue intact until the last hour on the closing Saturday. New rides, new shows, and a hundred and one things to surprise and please will be provided for the lover of amusement. The program for in front of the grandstand will be on a scale of excellence never before equalled. Daring aerial feats, horse racing, novel horse acts, big comedy turns, and the pick of the New York vaudeville will be given each day. In the evening the program will conclude with a spectacular fireworks display.

The pure food show, auto show, dog and cat shows, child's welfare and baby show, poultry and pets, horticulture, merchants and manufacturers, live stock and agriculture, and many other displays will attract and educate young and old.

Special parking grounds have been provided for visiting motorists, and everything possible will be done to make them welcome.

CALLS DARROW RELIGION'S FOE

New York Clergyman Challenges Darrow and Denounces Franks Case.

CHICAGO, Aug. 20—Clarence S. Darrow was attacked by the Rev. John Roach Straton, pastor of Calvary Baptist church, New York city, when he arrived in Chicago to speak before the fundamental Bible conference at the North Shore Congregational church.

"Darrow is the embodiment of the forces seeking to tear down the Christian religion and with it American institutons," he declared. "He is the man whose influence is doing more to justify loose living than any other. And the young men of the country are folloiwng him."

Darrow's part in saving Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb from hanging was denounced by Dr. Stratton as "using his brilliant legal talent to snatch from justice two of the greatest murderers of the age."

"Double-Dog Challenge"

"You can say that to Darrow I deliver a double-dog challenge," said Dr. Stratton. "That was our strongest when we grew up and it still should hold good."

Dr. Shailer Mathews, dean of the school divinity of the University of Chicago, was mentioned by Dr. Stratton as the logical man to meet him in debate as representative of both the religious and scientific modernist mind.

Dr. Straton expressed willingness to attempt to take up the leadership of the fundamentalist forces in the United States in succession to the late William Jennings Bryan. He had no intention, he said, of giving up his New York pastorate.

"Everywhere I have been I have been urged to take up Mr. Bryan's work. It was unique and should be carried on. I would be willing to attempt it."

Dr. Straton said he would deliver a direct challenge to Mr. Darrow while here. "He will either accept or I will run him to cover," said Dr. Straton. "He was shrewd enough to get one side of the matter before the public in the Dayton trial and the other side should come out."

Wants to Face Darrow

Dr. Straton said that a group of New York fundamentalist leaders was trying to arrange fifteen or twenty debates for him throughout the country, and that while he ould prefer to face Darrow in each of them, failing that he would meet individuals in each city

Dr. Straton said there was no conflict between religion and science and that Christianity and atheism were the real issues with an organized, heavily financed opposition to religion and righteousness behind the effort to break down the laws of Christianity

"Back of the organized opposition are sinister, radical and revolutionary forces which are manipulating prominent men they are able to draw to them," said Mr. Straton.

"The time is coming when the American people, of which Bryan was representative are going to wake up to the fact that this fight goes even deeper and is not merely religious, but is patriotic."

Dr. Straton began his talk to reporters who met him at the station by declared that the fight against modernism is just beginning. The real struggle, he said, is between atheism and Christianity, and not between science and religion.

"William J. Bryan was the embodiment of Christianity and Darrow stands for atheism. There are scores of religions, but only Christianity is founded on the Bible.

Sees Good in Scopes Trial

"The Scopes trial did vast good. It focused the attention of the world on the issue which lies between political radicals and atheists. These atheists are also behind the movement to abolish prohibition and the Sunday-closing laws in the moving picture business. Allied with them is the strong movie crowd."

"Bryan walked by faith. He believed in God, in service to his fellow men. He has exemplified the highest character. He served his country faithfully and well He crowned his career by fighting a good fight for the preservation of our holiest altar fires.

"When in Knoxville Darrow talked before a group of young men and his first remark was to tell how he made his first money by playing in a poker game.

"America must choose between these two ideals. It must either come back to the Christian ideals that have made this country great or it must go to Hades with Darrow.

"When Darrow got life sentences for Leopold and Loeb he did the most damaging thing to American institutions that they have suffered in the last 100 years. It was a ruinous influence.

"The result of that trial is the source of the present crime wave in Chicago. There is no such crime wave in New York as there is here and it is a much larger city. It is all a result of the triumph of lawlessness.

"Agnosticism is getting Darrow nowhere. It got Ingersoll nowhere. It is childish and puerile."

THE FIGHTING RANGER

By F. J. McCONNELL and GEORGE W. PYPER.

They were gradually gaining ground on the leading car, and congratulating themselves when suddenly something happened—the car staggered ahead uncertainly, swerving toward the embankment.

"The steering knuckle's broke," cried Terence, as tense horror spread over all their faces.

He clutched wildly for the brake—too late——

* * *

"They've gone over!" Stella, looking back, cried into Buck's ear.

She saw the pursuing car, after it had gone out of control leap to the edge of the road, hang there uncertainly for a brief moment, then topple and plunge down the steep embankment.

"Good," said Bud, with elation, as they kept on their way, slowing down slightly for safety. "They almost had us. Now we're safe."

* * *

Terence and Bud struggled out from under the submerged, overturned car, rose to the surface, and bumped into each other, swimming.

"Mary—where's Mary?" cried Terence.

Both looked frantically about them, but there was no sign of the girl.

"She must be caught under the car," Bud replied in horror.

"Quick! We must dive and reach her."

It was only a few feet to the bank. The two men swam in, clambered up and both took deep running dives toward the car.

Their eyes open under water, they found Mary, her clothes caught under the car, trapped, after she had gotten herself half freed from the wreckage. She had apparently made a frantic struggle, till her strength had given way, and now was unconscious, near drowning.

The two men tore at the wreckage, and at the caught part of the girl's clothing with all of the force they could muster between them. After a struggle during which they exhausted themselves, endangered of drowning, they finally wrenched her free and brought her to the surface. In their weakened state the few feet to the shore now seemed miles, but they managed to swim it with the unconscious girl between them, and dragged her up on the bank. Bud fell exhausted beside her.

Terence started to work resuscitating Mary at once. He shouted with joy, as after frantically moving her arms up and down a few minutes, he saw her breath slowly returning. Bud came out of his exhausted daze and helped. They soon had Mary revived, sitting up.

"You had better stay with Bud, Mary," said Terence. "I'm going to run down that McLeod yet, in spite of everything—before Taggart gets a chance at that treasure."

"I'm quite all right now," was Mary's firm reply, "and Bud and I are going wherever you go!"

Bud vouched for his own determination.

Terence took them by the hands, and looked into their steadfast eyes, exhilarated by their spirit.

"We three—together through the crisis—to the end, whatever it may be!" he said with emotion. Then jumped up, crying, "All right. Let's go. There's not a moment to spare. Over the next divide—it's quite a hike, but we'll make it before dawn—is a forestry station. I know the ranger well. He has both airplane and auto for scout service. He will aid us."

CHAPTER 32.
The Secret of the Topaz.

"And now for the secret of the topaz!" exclaimed Buck jubilantly.

The dawn was just breaking over the purple summit of Sierra Diablo. They had left their car at the mountain's base, and were sitting on rocks, in front of a flat topped boulder upon which Stella had spread the two pieces of the map.

Buck drew forth from his blouse the weirdly cut topaz he had stolen from Taggart. Both their eyes gleamed as they regarded it.

"Taggart carried it for years—knowing it meant something—but never knowing what," grinned Buck.

He turned the gem over in his hand, and finally, his face lighted in triumph, he pointed to a tiny picket, sealed up with wax.

"There," he said, "the secret is in there."

He laid the topaz on the boulder table, and using the hard steel of his revolver as a hammer, pounded it. Stella looked alarmed at this action, but before she could stop him the topaz was smashed. From among the pieces Buck extracted a tiny scroll of paper unrolled it, and their eager eyes read:

"Cave at letter D."

They feverishly consulted the map. Scribbled across the topographical lines were the words "Sierra Diablo." Buck's finger moved across the words, stopping at the letter D. He studied the map carefully at that point, then exclaimed:

"I know the opening! Stumbled onto it once before, but never thought nothin' of it. Come. It's not far."

He led the way, and they trudged over rocks and ledges for half an hour. Finally they reached a winding passage cut behind high, oddly shaped rocks.

"This is the entrance," Buck cried in feverish glee. Stella followed on trembling with excitement. After winding their way through the rocks for five minutes, they stopped suddenly, in frozen astonishment at the mouth of a cave, in the stone wall of which was carved a weird Yaqui god which frowned down upon them. They pushed in past the idol into the cave.

"The treasure!" Buck cried, and Stella echoed his words.

There, glittering in the weird light that streamed through the cave opening, lay huge piles of gold, virgin gold, diamonds, precious gems of all kinds—ancient jars and vases and boxes, filled with yet more gold and jewels.

IN THE KITCHEN

By Jeanette Norton

FALL PRESERVING AND PICKLING RECIPES.

Early Fall is always a busy time for the housewife who puts up her own Winter delicacies, therefore it is advisable to do your preserving when the fruit is in its prime.

Damson Plum Jam.

Wash and pick over carefully a six-pound basket of ripe damson plums. Put the plums into the preserve kettle with four and a half pounds of sugar and a cupful of cold water. Let melt together and heat very slowly until the juice begins to run, then cook slowly, skimming carefully and thoroughly. Cook until a little of the juice tried on a cold plate shows a tendency to jell, then remove from the fire and fill hot, dry jam pots. When cold, cover down with paraffin melted on top of each pot and cover with brown paper pasted tightly with white of egg or paste.

Preserved Pineapple.

Select four large sugar-loaf pineapples, and with a sharp knife pare off the thin skin. Cut the fruit up in small sections, allowing a pound of sugar to each pineapple. Place in the preserve kettle and add a half cupful of water, stir frequently as the mixture melts together. Cook gently, skim well, and when the fruit looks glassy and the syrup is rich, fill the preserve jars as usual and seal. Turn them upside down to cool.

Spiced Apple Jam.

Pare, quarter and remove the cores from as many good flavored, tart apples as there are to be done. Fall pippins or the early greenings are excellent for this use. Dice the apples into the preserve kettle, allowing a pint of sugar to three pints of the fruit. Add a cupful of water and melt together slowly. Cook steadily and skim well. When the jam gets heavy and rich, add to it a teaspoonful of ground nutmeg and two teaspoonfuls of cinnamon. Also a teaspoonful of grated lemon rind. Fill jam pots with the mixture and let cool, then cover down.

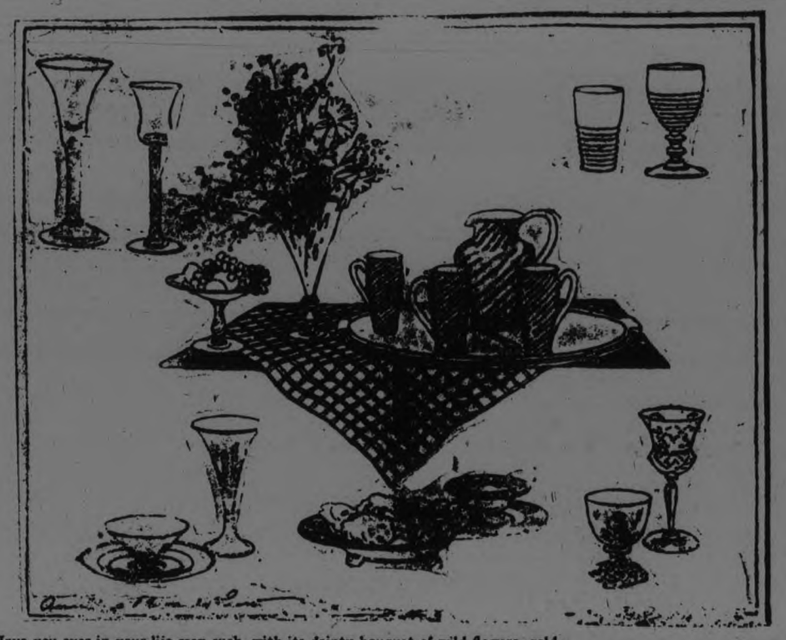
Pumpkin for Pies.

Cut a yellow pumpkin into convenient pieces, peel, then put into a kettle and boil until the pumpkin is very tender. Drain, mash as fine as possible, work through a puree sieve to remove all lumps. Then put the pumpkin back into the kettle and to each quart of pulp add a half pint of sugar. Add a heaping teaspoonful of salt and a half cupful of honey. Cook gently for a half hour over a gas hole covered with an asbestos pad.

Marriage soon cures a man of the flattery habit.

ATTRACTIVE GLASSWARE

By Annette Bradshaw



Have you ever in your life seen such lovely glassware as is to be found in the shops to-day? It's a joy and delight to walk around and see all the wonderful things which one can buy to add to the attractiveness of the home. Whether they are for decoration or for practical use, the pleasure in finding some of the gorgeous things now shown more than repays for the bit of additional expense.

Instead of the plain white glassware, to which we have become accustomed, one can now carry out any selected color scheme of decoration for the formal dinner or luncheon with the tinted glassware.

A few choice bits which I have found in shopping around are shown above. In the center is an adorable iced tea or lemonade set in amber glass, with white glass handles. The fan-shaped vase with its dainty bouquet of wild flowers and the compote of fruit are also in amber. All these pieces can be had in various other colors.

The long stemmed glasses shown to the upper left are in a delicate green, with deeper green stems and white base. These are for punch or the ever popular "cup."

The upper right are the deep ringed glass and goblet gow so popular as water glasses. These come in shades of amber, green, red, amethyst and blue and go far in dressing a table.

The finger bowl and plate in the lower left hand corner are in iridescent glass with a vivid colored edge. The tall glass is in crystal delicately etched in gold.

The salad plate and mayonnaise bowl are in crystal with a deep border of gold.

The goblets in the lower right, the smaller of which may be used as a sherbet cup, are in crystal, deeply etched in gold, with colored bases.

The few pieces sketched above are among the ones most popularly used now, but with a little time in which to shop around, the woman who wants something different for her luncheon table, or for the porch tea wagon can find any number of things which will immediately stamp her as a hostess of tastes.

One can find salad plates, ice cream plates, sandwich plates in an imitation crackled glass, at a moderate price.

A few flowers, a dainty table cloth, nice silver and attractive glasses, tastefully arranged, make a table over which any woman may be proud to preside.

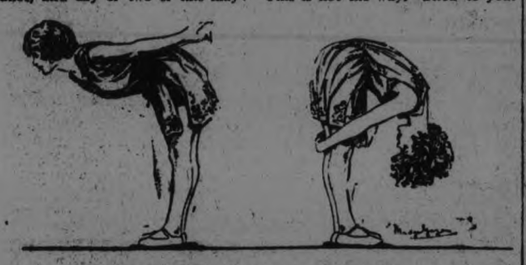
HOW TO GET EXTRA ENERGY

By Lucrezia Bori

Reserve strength, which makes us able to rise to any occasion which calls for a clear mind coupled with physical endurance, is an invaluable asset.

The woman who thinks she is strong, who boasts of this to herself when there is no real call on her strength, often finds to her sorrow that she is not up to special needs which arise in her life.

She may be called upon to nurse a member of her family or a sick friend, for instance, and day or two of this may literally wear her out. She may appear haggard and wan, with deep circles under her eyes, and a touchy disposition which is a sure sign of overstrain.



This Exercise Will Soon Give You Reserve Strength

The woman who can meet a crisis like this with untroubled mind, and with superb physical strength, is the woman who is a pleasure to her friends and family. She is bound to derive satisfaction from her physical fitness, and to take great pride in keeping it at its best.

Without exercise, you simply cannot build your body up to the maximum of resistance. You cannot possess the kind of strength that remains intact when there is some special call upon its endurance. Furthermore, you cannot appear at your best and prettiest, and this latter point should appeal to all women, even if any of them are so foolish as to overlook the need of strength at all times.

Now, it will avail you nothing to exercise in spasmodic fits, being very patient and attentive to your daily exercise one week and neglecting it the next. If you persist at exercise for ten minutes every single day without fail, you will improve much more than if you exercise for an hour or two only once a week.

I have known women who resolve to exercise each day, and then let a number of days go by without it, so that they suffer remorse and set about to exercise unremittingly for an hour or so.

This is not the way. Stick to your short exercise periods each day. Stock yourself with interesting exercises which will make it easier and pleasanter for you to indulge in your short exercise periods.

Here is an excellent one for you to try:

Begin by standing erect, your feet together, and your chest and head held up.

Now bend over and clasp your hands behind your knees. Let your hands overlap as far as possible, thus getting a good grip on them.

Draw your head down until it touches your knees, or until it comes as near to touching them as you can bring it. If you cannot bring it far enough the first day you try this, you will be able to do so later.

Continue until you have grown tired.

This exercise will limber your muscles and make them flexible and supple. You may grow stiff from it at first, but this will not hurt you.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

We are three high school girls who are coming to you for advice.

We have been going with three young gentlemen who say they care a great deal for us. We have been told that these young men say they do not care for us when they are in other company.

They treat us very nicely when we are with them but we have come to you for advice as to how we can find out the truth of this.

THREE BROKEN HEARTS.

THREE BROKEN HEARTS: As long as these young men are trustworthy friends and you enjoy their company, there is no reason why you should worry about idle gossip. If they were not interested in you they would not seek your company. As for ascertaining whether or not their affection for you is sincere, it is not your place to broach this subject, my dears. Content yourselves with loyal friendship and don't brood over love until you are more mature, and able to cope with its problems.

Another Sensation.

Millicent—"Goodness gracious! Say, wouldn't you love to hear her?"

Let's Talk It Over

CAN WOMEN DEFEND PAY-CHECK JOBS?

We've been running along very smoothly and lovingly for quite a while, but I see another fight ahead. "One Who Knows" makes a few insinuating remarks about the married woman who works.

Are You a Married Woman With a Job? Do You Keep That Job To Provide Your Self With "Jewelry, Fine Clothes, Jazz Parties and Fine Cars On The Instalment Plan?"

If you do, we'll take your silence as consent. But if you don't, For The Luvva Mike, Break The News To "One Who Knows." Tell Her Why You're Working—Justify It If You Can.

DEAR ELSIE:

Will you please give me your opinion of married couples who work when the man makes enough money to support them both comfortably?

Is it not true that there are hundreds of girls and men that really need the position held by some married woman? From my observation, there are a great many widowed mothers and married men looking for employment.

One case I know of in particular—the husband's salary is more than $225 and the wife's is $100 or more, and still, from pay day to pay day, they are broke, spending their money for jewelry, fine clothes, jazz parties and fine cars on the installment plan. What would happen to such people should sickness come upon them, as many a poor man trying to raise a family has? Thanking you in advance for your reply.

ONE WHO KNOWS.

If all married women were luxury loving jazz babies, too stupid to "manage" on their husband's salaries, too selfish to think of other folks, it wouldn't be much of a problem, would it? The world would simply give 'em "thumbs down"—and the job would be closed to them.

But there are other reasons why married women work—good reasons. There's the woman who works to keep up the payments on the house when hubby's business is bad. There's the woman who works to pay Dorothy's tuition at business college and Ted's fees at medical school. There's the woman who buys beans for the family when hubby's out of a job or ill or otherwise down on his luck. What of them? We can't hit the one without hitting the other.

What do you really think, Pals? Do you think that it is a sort of necessary evil, or do you think it ought to be wiped out—let it cost what it may?

Let's have your opinion, but let's keep the whole situation well in hand. Do not forget that two Cannot Live as cheaply as one—and when it comes right down to brass tacks, few of us work for our health. We work because we have to—for the most part, at least.

About Ourselves And Other People

By Winifred Black

AMAZING LETTER OF A TIRED BUTTERFLY.

Did you ever have a poor little scared child run up to you in a crowd and catch you by the hand and beg you to help her find her mother? If you have, you'll know just what the girl who has written this letter makes me think of. It reads:

"How can my mother expect me to be sweet, unspoiled, good, etc., when she goes out with other men, drinks, smokes, and tries frantically to stay young? It is impossible and I hate it all. Sometimes I wish I were dead and I really mean it.

"Of course I drink, smoke and neck. Once I got a big kick out of it. But no more. I am just tired, so tired. I want a good man to love and a little home, and children. But there is no man. They are all the same. I hate them myself, and, forgive me, God, for saying it, but I even hate my mother. It's hideous, everything is.

"Just now we (mother and I) are 'resting' here in West Virginia. But it's the same thing, same crowd.

"Oh, if I could just creep into your arms and have a good cry and, if you would, perhaps give me the comfort my own mother can't."

Did you ever hear a sermon like that preached in your life? Did you ever read an essay or listen to a lecture that told you the plain truth in such plain words as these?

What would you like to do with the mother of a girl like that?

The girl herself—poor child, the best I can wish for her is that she will have the courage and the common-sense and the dignity to find some place of her own in a courageous common-sense sane world of her own.

I hope she'll meet the right kind of a man and marry him and make the right kind of a home and let her poor, silly mother make a goose of herself as far away from her as she can get.

But if she doesn't find the man and can't have the home—I wish she wouldn't wait any longer.

I wish she'd find a job—any good, honest job—and go to work at it and make her own life and her own friends and forget the folly and the heartache and the emptiness of life with her foolish, empty-headed, empty-hearted mother.

And that's what I'm wishing for you, girl o' mine, and good luck and good sense and simple happiness and honest self-respect be with you.

Merrion Square Proposed as Site; $200,000 Available for Project.

DUBLIN, Ireland, Aug. 21.—The chief commissioner of police in Dublin, who served as a colonel in the British army during the European war, has recommended the acceptance of the offer of the national war memorial committee to acquire Merrion square, erect a great war memorial there and hand the square over to the city as a public park.

On the appeal of the late earl of Ypres, when viceroy, a large sum was subscribed to commemorate the service of the Irish troops in the war. The money has remained idle ever since and $200,000 now is available for the Merrion square project.

TOURISTS COME THROUGH MOTOR LEAGUE'S WORK

Recent Example of Successful Efforts of Local Branch Of League.

MET OHIO PARTY.

Four Cars in One Group Appreciated Attentions of Commerce Chambers.

It is felt by some and known definitely to many that all the tourist traffic to our beautiful Kawartha Lakes does not just happen. The yearly increase can safely be attributed to about three organizations all working for the public good.

The railways advertise holiday districts extensively, and prepare pamphlets for distribution assisting the tourist in selecting a suitable summer resort.

The tourists who have already been over the ground, so to speak, return home and give publicity to Ontario play-grounds by relating ther experiences and impressions to their friends and acquaintances.

More particularly, however, the officials of the local branch of the Ontario Motor League, working in conjunction with the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce are actively engaged, day in and day out in attracting and piloting tourist traffic to Peterborough, the Gateway to the Kawartha Lakes. A concrete instance of their activities is as follows:

A resident of Cleveland, Ohio, wrote to the Chamber of Commerce about two weeks ago requesting information as to road conditions and asking for road maps of the Province. He explained that he, and his family with a party of friends would motor to Young's Point where they expected to spend about two weeks, arriving in Peterborough on a set date. The Chamber, quick to see the possibilities of the thing and a chance to advertise Peterboro immediately despatched road maps, pamphlets of the Kawartha Lakes, Guidal maps of Peterboro County, and "Welcome Cards" signed by His Worship Mayor Turner, along with a letter answering various questions they had asked.

On their arrival in Peterborough (a mixed party of about fifteen adults and five children, travelling in four large cars) they were met by an official of the Motor League, who saw that they were supplied with fishing licenses and various purchases. After they had lunched they were shown the Liftlocks which they had decided to see before leaving home, and piloted to Lakefield Road, along which they disappeared after man a grateful "Thank You" and hand wave.

Shortly afterwards some of them returned to Peterboro to do some shopping and they did not overlook dropping in at the Chamber of Commerce Rooms to again express satisfaction and appreciation of the courteous treatment extended them in Peterborough and district, which they vociferously contended to be superior to that at any other Ontario point.

In summing up it requires no very vivid imagination to visualize the result of their recounting experiences and impressions of Peterboro and the Kawartha Lakes to their friends at home. It is safe bet that numbers of them will be here next summer, and thus the tourist traffic multiplies.

The old black crow puts down his head, for me to scratch his ear, and then, the way he jabbers, is quite comical to hear. He may be bad, he may be black, but he can laugh and cry, and knows the friends that he can trust the same as you and I.

Only an old black crow. How often we see these birds and wonder how bad they are and all that sort of thing, but a few weeks with one as a pet about the garden will make us do a lot of thinking.

This crow, Mickey, knows his name. He will answer if called from hiding. He comes over to where we are sitting on the veranda and talks in a low throaty gabbling kind of jargon, seeming to tell us all about whatever is on his mind. His talk is different altogether from the usual cawing with which we are all familiar. What he is saying, is very definite, if real effort at talking is to count, although the sounds do not resemble any of our human talk.

We tried scratching his neck and rubbing his ears, and he seems to like it so well that he will jabber away and then lower his head and await the soothing touch.

Proof of brains in a bird is very difficult to find, but some things are worthy of notice. For instance: most birds look at window glass, seeing only the glass, or the reflections in it, when the room behind the window is dark, but the crow looks through the glass and into the room, much as we do, making an effort with his eyes, as we do, to overcome the reflections, and he sees us inside and clearly shows his desire to come in. How much brains it takes for him to make his sight pass the reflecting glass and peer into the dim room, is neither here nor there, but he shows intelligence in doing it.

PETERBOROUGH CHURCHES

ST. LUKE'S ANGLICAN CHURCH.

St. Luke's Parish, Ashburnham, was organized by the late Rev. Mark Burnham, who gave a site for the church and made a liberal contribution to the building funds. The building then erected was a small school-house which soon became inadequate for the purpose of housing the congregation, and a new church was resolved upon. The foundation of the present church was laid on Ascension Day, 1877, was opened for worship on September 23 of the same year, and was consecrated the following year. In 1880 a new pipe-organ was installed and a parsonage was built of brick in the following year. The parish was made a rectory in the year 1884, the first incumbent being the Rev. W. C. Bradshaw. An increase of the numbers of the congregation and consequently of the children of the church led to the building of a new school-house in 1885. Further improvements and alterations took place in 1886, when the chancel was enlarged to twice its size and cathedral glass windows were put in. The installation of a new organ in 1888 put a finishing touch to a series of ambitious improvements.

A notable feature of the ministry of St. Luke's Church has been the high standard of the scholarship of its clergymen, perhaps the outstanding name being that of the Rev. Herbert Symonds, M.A., who was Professor of Theology at Trinity College before coming to Peterboro and left St. Luke's to become Headmaster of Trinity College Schools in Toronto. Another scholar was the Rev. Canon Sawers.

Built of white brick in the Gothic style of architecture, the church occupies a pleasing site on Rogers street. The rectory is on an adjoining site.

The Rev. G. J. Bousfield came to St. Luke's Church in 1921.

LORNA DOONE STILL POPULAR

Sustained Demand for Classics at Public Library—Some Suggestions.

It is a great thing to know that there are many writers of past days who are still in favour with the reading public, notwithstanding the widespread belief that their works lie neglected on library shelves.

At the present time Blackmore's Lorna Doone is as popular as it was when it was published in 1869, and the sales of Kipling's works are four times greater than they were twenty years ago. Daniel Defoe died many a decade ago, but Robinson Crusoe, in India alone, has at present five times greater circulation than it had throughout the entire world in the five years succeeding its publication. Bulwer Lytton, Fenimore Cooper, Charles Reade, Wilkie Collins, Dickens and Thackeray are still names to conjure with. It is a great thing to know this for it shows that the great public is as it always has been, sound at heart, and it lends more than colour to the hope that when the present craze for sex problems dies out, a newer and a saner spirit will animate the coming generation of writers and readers.

Seated at my desk I can name book after book, friends of my boyhood days, which I would not be afraid to place in comparison with the whole turn-out of the novels of the present time. I do not need to go to the shelves to refresh my memory. They are jotted down here in the sincere hope that there may be readers found sufficiently interested to ask for them at the Library. They will be able to secure enough good reading to last them for many months, and they will not be disappointed—They will find also that the Victorian novelists as well as those of other countries of the same era were men and women of a mental calibre altogether finer than the majority of those who write to-day. Here is the list—Adam Bede, The Mill on the Floss, Silas Marner, Les Miserables, The Man who Laughs, Toilers of the Sea, Hunchback of Notre Dame, All Dumas' Works, Cloister and the Hearth, Dombey and Son, Boscobel, Last of the Mohicans, Headless Horseman, Oliver Twist, Bleak House, Old Curiosity Shop, The Newcomes, Tower of London, Last Days of Pompeii, Vanity Fair, Admirable Crichton, Vice Versa, Called Back, Woman in White, Moonstone, Madcap Violet, Romance of War, Plain tales from the Hills, Kim, Harry Lorrequer, Charles O'Malley, Handy Andy, Peter Simple, Japhet in Searth of a Father, Hard Cash, Ten Thousand a Year, It is Never Too Late to Mend, Rob Roy, Ivanhoe, Orley Farm.

Of course there are hundreds of other volumes by well-known writers of the past, which, if they were known to the present generation would prove prime favourites. But in the march of progress, many things that might be carried along for humanity's betterment are left by the wayside and people are content to be catered for by quick-lunch novelists in the same way that they are willing to satisfy their appetites at Chinese restaurants and cafeterias. They get served quickly and that is what men and women are after in these days of rush and bustle.

Whole civilizations, nations and languages have died out for the very same cause. They have not been cast into the lumber heap of neglect from any other cause than that of hurry. People have passed them by in the wild rush for something that they think lies on the horizon and new inventions, new languages, new customs have unconsciously been allowed to efface the old.

It is well for us to bear this in mind and before it is too late, have a good look backward to see if there is not a good deal that could be made to do service in our own day, which is in danger of being relegated to the limbo of oblivion.

DEBT AGREEMENT WITH BELGIUM NOT PRECEDENT FOR FRANCE AND OTHER NATIONS INDEBTED TO U. S.

France and Italy's Debt Will Be Considered On Respective Merits.

ABILITY TO PAY.

Belgium is Assessed on Basis Of Her Financial Capacity Commission Says.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—(Canadian Press).—France will be asked to settle her war debt on the basis of her "capacity to pay," and the case of France, Italy and each debtor nation will be considered on its own merits, distinct from other settlements.

This statement was put forth authoratively from the Treasury yesterday, serving further to emphasize that the Belgian agreement is to set no precedent. Members of the Debt Commission assert Belgium is being assessed on the basis of her capacity to pay, and the American commission feels Belgium is to repay all that her financial situation will permit.

Members of the Debt Commission take the position that France and Italy are not entitled to special indulgence, no promises having been made regarding separate consideration of their pre-armistice and post-armistice debts which would warrant the moral obligation felt in the case of King Albert's country. It is believed they will insist they must have easy terms on first payments of their debts, and will drive hard, too, for the same terms on accrued interest granted Belgium, who in calculating this interest for reaching the principal for funding purposes was permitted 4¼ per cent. from the armistice to December, 1922, and 3 per cent. thence to June, 1925, whereas Great Britain was charged 4¼ per cent. to the date of her funding.

It is not thought here that the two nations will feel in a position to demand a lower rate of interest than 3½ per cent. on the debt, because that is the rate for previous settlements.

What France and Italy are expected to stress most are pleas for a moratorium, and it is thought probable that they will urge that the easy payments permirtted Belgium for ten years on her post-armistice obligation really amount to a moratorium itself. Members of the American commission seem now in no way inclined to think about giving France or Italy a moratorium, although the desire not to be unduly harsh may result in arranging light payments at the opening stages of payments. It is further intimated that there is no thought of cancellation of any part of the interest charges.

It was learned that some pressure was brought to bear on the Belgians in the way of suggesting they come to an agreement as soon as possible, and it was also stated that France and Italy had been notified that failure to come forward with proposals would militate against their countries should they desire to obtain foreign loans in the United States in the near future.

With the funding of the Belgian debt, six nations have made arrangements with the United States for payment of more than $5,000,000,000 of the $12,000,000,000 due her through war loans to twenty countries. These six nations have agreed to fund a total of $5,213,309,000, and to pay an aggregate interest charge of $7,097,094,285, making a total payment to the United States of $12,310,403,225.

The principal as funded, the interest to be paid and the total payments are shown in the following table:

	Principal.	Interest.	Total.
Belgium	$417,780,000	$310,050,500	$727,830,000
Finland	9,000,000	12,695,055	21,695,055
Great Britain	4,600,000,000	6,505,965,000	11,105,965,000
Hungary	1,939,000	2,754,240	4,693,240
Lithuania	6,030,000	8,501,940	14,531,940
Poland	178,560,000	257,127,550	435,687,550
Total	$5,213,309,000	$7,097,094,285	$12,210,403,285

On May 15, 1925, the five nations other than Belgium which had already funded their debts had made some payments. The following table shows the amounts then due on their debts, and the payments on principal and interest:

	Debt.	Prin. Paid.	Int. Paid.
Great Britain	$4,554,000,000	$46,000,000	$275,320,000
Finland	8,910,000	90,000	538,650
Hungary	1,958,412	9,672	29,303
Lithuania	6,030,000	.....	90,450
Foland	178,560,000	.....	.....

On May 15, 1925, the total indebtedness to this country of the twenty nations totalled $12,151,238,393, of which $10,556,804,223 was in principal and $1,594,434,169 in accrued interest. In addition $327,361,993.16 had been paid on the principal and $946,430,821 on the interest.

Included in the nearly $7,000,000,000 yet unfunded are France's debt of $4,210,556,948, and Italy's obligation of $2,138,543,852, and also $255,147,692 which this country loaned to Russia, which is regarded as uncollectable. But should the $6,360,000,000 lent to France and Italy be funded there would remain outstanding only $625,000,000.

PARIS WORRIED BY MONOPOLIES

State-Owned Business Not Big Success—Change Needed.

PARIS, Aug. 21. —France probably will be forced sooner or later to change her policy toward the state monopolies such as the manufacture and sale of tobacco matches and certain other products classed as non-essential to existence. There is much dissatisfaction with the product, and also a growing realization that the monopolies are not yielding as much revenue as they would if their conduct was more efficient.

It was reported recently that Joseph Caillaux, finance minister, in his programme for re-organizing French finances, intended to abolish state operation of the monopolies and to auction them off to highest bidders, the state to retain control of the privileges, but private companies to administer them. Caillaux promptely denied the reports, and public attention turned to othere phases of the proposed financial revenue.

Their Yield.

During 1924 they brought into the treasury a total of 2,252 million francs, a sum not insignificant in the government's present financial situation. The yield has been steadily increasing, and can be pushed much higher yet if the management can be improved. There is also a strong socialist party in France which would fight bitterly any attempt to return the monopolies completely to private operation, and they control enough votes to cause any government a great deal of trouble.

Sale of the privileges to private companies for limited periods, or improvement of government operation, seem the only alternatives. It would not be surprising later on, if the present government can survive, and can succeed in having its debt funding and new taxation plans adopted, that an attempt would be made to dispose of the monopolies to the highest bidders. The drift seems to be in that direction. But the government has enough fights on its hands now without undertaking another.

At the present time, cigarets, pipe tobacco, cigars and matches, are sold only in shops designated by the state. The right to operate a tobacco shop is supposed theoretically to be conferred only on a veteran soldier, or somebody else who has given the state service and who is now incapacitated, but as might be expected under a political system, the theory of service is very elastic. Tobacco shops are often "plums" given to political supporters of members of the government. It takes no great amount of intelligence to operate one because the prices are all fixed and there is little competition.

Cafe Bootlegging.

A system of bootlegging exists in restaurants and cafes whereby tobacco may be obtained, even though the place is not a registered tobacco shop. The management has on hand a stock of cigarets which it has purchased through regular channels, and which it retails to patrons at prices usually about half again as much as legal. The government seems to wink at the bootlegging as it is done quite openly.

The government tobacco is quite inferior to that sold in the United States or England—at least few Americans or English will smoke it. It is grown in France and the French Government tries to force it on the public irrespective of tastes, instead of trying to sell what its wanted. It comes in plain paper cartoons totally devoid of the decorative devices whereby commercial firms elsewhere entice purchase. The popular brand of cigarets now costs 2 francs for 20, or about 10 cents in American money. Pipe tobacco is priced accordingly. Few cigars are sold.

American and English tobaccos can be bought in many of the shops now, but the prices are quite high because of heavy import duties high cost of transportation, usually about double of the home prices Even with the high prices great quantities are sold. During 1925 France imported 106,018,000 francs worth of tobacco from the United States alone.

Matches are all of French government manufacture and are sold for 20 centimes, or about one penny a box for the ordinary pocket size. They are a scarce article and are not given away carelessly as they are in the United States. Their cost has led to the development fo numerous styles of patent lighters which are carried about by smokers.

Private companies would probably make great changes in the conduct of these government businesses. In the first place, they would undoubtedly improve the product. As it is now, in the case of tobacco, there is no incentive for the development of new blends. Smokers have to buy the government tobacco, spend twice as much for imported goods, or go without. There is no other choice.

The merchandising of the tobacco could also be greatly improved. If the sale were thrown open to all who cared to atke out a license it would improve not only the character of the sales machinery, but also remove the present political evil of distributing the tobacco selling privilge to political henchmen. Then if the tobacco could be dressed up in attractive packages, and backed up by intelligent publicity and sales campaigns, greater quantities would undoubtedly be sold. The history of the tobacco business in the United States furnishes an example. Greater sales and more efficient management would mean larger profits.

AIRPLANE CLUB FOSTERS FLYING

New London Organization Hopes To Build Up Nation of Airmen.

FIRST OF SIX.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—When the London Light Aeroplane Club was formally opened England's most expensive sport made its official bow. The membership of this unique club is restricted to 100, but the list, which runs the entire social scale from dukes to butchers, is already full and scores of applicants are clamoring to get in.

While the desire to learn to fly for its sporting possibilities no doubt prompted many to join, the British Government attaches much greater importance to the club, which is the first of six to be established in Great Britain. Sir Philip Sassoon, who officially opened club as Under Secretary of the Air, declared the ideal of the club is "to make a nation of air men" for any future emergency.

Mrs. Elliott Lynn, famous English athlete, who was the first member to take the air in a tuition flight, said, upon descending, that the women of England were equally determined to make Great Britain a nation of "air women" as well.

Sir Philip Sassoon called on the nation to build up a big reserve of air pilots and popularize flying by developing the "air senses" on necessary to the achievement of the club's ideal. "It is up to you," he told the assembled members, to help the Government to wean away the airplane from its association with war, by making it a powerful agent for civilization and peace."

Mrs. Lyons was enthusiastic over her first lesson. "I think this new movement will attract a host of women," she said, "and may quite easily lead to the establishment of a veritable army of women pilots Flying is very easy to learn and certainly easier than driving a car. I think women should make good as pilots of light airplanes, as they have made good as drivers of motor cars.

The opening of the club Wednesday was singularly appropriate, for it was the anniversary of the first British reconnaissance flight in the World War on Aug. 19, 1914. The club is equipped with little aerial runabouts or moths of sixty horsepower and fitted with every possible fool-proof appliance to reduce the dangers of flying to an absolute minimum.

The British Government is backing the light airplane movement, but has called on its wealthy subjects to lend their financial support in the interest of the nation. Sir Sefton Branckner, Director of Civil Aviation, who postponed an air trip to Egypt long enough to be present asserted the movement was "of greatest importance o Great Britain," being, as it is, a thoroughly organized campaign to train a vast army of airmen for any war which may come in the future.

WHEN IS IT A MUSHROOM?

Authentic Book Should Be Obtained on Dangerous Subect.

RULES VARY

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 21.—(Canadian Press).—This is the season when wild mushrooms are being gathered in large numbers in the woods and open fields. But the only safe way to avoid being poisoned through these is to get some good books on mushrooms and identify each specimen or have them identified. Some of the popular tests are dangerous. Although the number of species that cause death if eaten is not large, nevertheless a considerable number contain minor poisons that might prove fatal to children or those of delicate constitution.

One popular but very dangerous rule to ascertain the edibility of the varieties gathered is that if the skin can be peeled from the cap it is good. The poisonous varieties will peel. Another rule is boiling specimens in salt water. No amount of boiling in fresh or salt water will remove poison from the deadly varieties that are to be found in considerable numbers now.

Man Eating Mosquitoes Like Delectable Detroiters

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 19—Detroit, beleaguered by countless hordes of savage, bloodthirsty mosquitoes, was "digging in" late today in preparation for another all-night war with the pests. Large supplies of sulphur candles, oil of citronella and witch hazel have been laid in by housewives in the besieged districts. Many families living in the north end have been dryen from their homes by the pests, and Dr. Henry F. Vaughan, Commissioner of Public Health, today appealed to the Department of Public Works to aid him in ridding Detroit of the insects.

PEACE IN COAL PAID BY TAXES

British Public Pays N... But Final Settlement is Merely Delayed.

LONDON, Aug. 21. — For the moment Great Britain has settled the labor dispute which threatened to close the coal mines, tie up all industry and precipitate an industrial struggle with consequences too terrible to contemplate.

It is not a good settlement. No one seems to like it. At best it can be only temporary for nothing basic has been disposed of. Merely a breathing spell has been gained in the hope that real solutions may be worked out.

As always, the public is footing the bill, and about all the satisfaction the people can find must lie in the fact that almost anything is cheaper than a strike.

Very simply the situation is that the mine-owners gave notice that the agreement with the miners must terminate, and intimated that any new agreement which should be made would involve lessened wages and perhaps longer hours The miners promptly replied that they would submit to neither, and enlisted other labor unions to back them. If the miners were to go out, the transport workers would refuse to handle any coal. Even imported coal was not to be moved into the country, or within it.

No Discrimination.

There was to be no discrimination. Factories must close; public institutions could have no fuel for power or warmth; lights must go out for want of electric energy, and domestic hearths would go cold no matter what the weather.

The miners made their proposals; the mine owners made theirs. The government pleaded with both, and both remained obdurate. Then the government, representing the public, went down into the pockets of the public and paid the difference and business is to proceed as usual, while the government investigates. The investigation is expected to require until next May, and the bill to be footed by the people is measured accordingly. The treasury estimate is $50,000,000 "at present."

There is no question that coal mining in Great Britain is commercially in a bad way. It has been getting worse for more than a year. The proof of this is that a good many properties formerly prosperous have gone out of business. More than 500 pits have been closed and 1,300,000 miners are out of employment.

Flexible Agreement.

The mines that are working still are on agreement with their miners dating from June, 1924. That agreement was flexible and took into account that the mines of some districts could afford to pay more than those of other districts. The wage rates were to be determined by assigning to wages 87 per cent of the proceeds of the industry after deducting costs other than wages. The mine owners were to content themselves with the remaining 13 per cent. But to provide that wages should not fall below the living point, a minimum wage was agreed on, which in turn varied according to production and profits and a system too intricate to be described here.

The conditions in the coal trade long since became so bad that most of the miners were on the minimum. And in the case of most of those pits still working, the cumbersome machinery for calculating the minimum was interpreted pretty liberally— the proportions 87-13 obviously had become a dead letter. The whole business was just muddling along. This was the status when the mining interests called a halt. The plea was advanced that the whole business must be readjusted or there would be no proceeds and no wages for anyone.

The Miners' Federation did not deny that the business was not prosperous, but the leaders protested that the miners had reached a point at which they could suffer no further diminution of wages. And they held that there were other economies to be effected and perhaps reorganizations to be brought about which would enable the industry to carry on.

Pays the Difference.

The government decided that the only way to settle this dispute was by an investigation. Meanwhile, the mines must produce coal. Accordingly, the government agrees to pay the difference. The miners are to receive their minimum wage just as if the agreement of 1924 were to continue, and the mine owners are to receive as much as would have been coming to them if they had won their contention and had reduced the miners' wages. The basis of 87-13 is to remain. Only where the production is insufficient to give the miners the minimum wage the government is to make good out of tax money.

There are various estimates as to what it will cost the people. If the production of the month of June just past is taken as a basis for the entire nine months, the cost will amount to about $120,000,000. The probability is that so much will not be required, for allowance must be made for the June production for seasonal reasons.

Clear-headed men are inclined to think that the government has done the best for the country, all things considered. But the greatest regret is that the government did not do something of is own initiative. As it came about, the government has the appearance of working only under compulsion. The trades unions threatened the country with the dire calamity of a general strike, and then the government with hands up surrendered its cash.

EASTERN STAR LODGE'S PICNIC

Games and Races at Nicholls Oval With Refreshments· Large Attendance.

A very enjoyable picnic was held at the Oval yesterday afternoon when a large number of the members of the Eastern Star Lodge and their friends, gathered together for games and races. The sports were in charge of Mr. W. Bertrand and Mr. M. Sproats. Prizes for races were won as follows:

Gent's fast race, won by Mr. Harold Freeman.

Girls' race, won by Miss Marjory Harte of London.

Married woman's race, won by Mrs. Ada Huffman.

Girls' race, won by Miss Inez White.

Boys' race, won by Master Earl Huffman.

Little boys' race, won by Master Douglas White.

Gents' race, won by Mr. . Tate.

Married men's race, won by Mr. Bertrand.

Fast race for girls, won by Miss Flossie Brown.

A game of ball was then engaged in with Mr. W. Bertram as captain of the Fluff Duffs and Mr. Reg Tate as Captain of the Bull Dogs, with Mr. Lilly and Mr. George Foster acting as umpires. The game ended 18-7 in favour of the Fluff Duffs. The friends present had the pleasure of having with them in the ball game Mr. Eaton, owner of the T. Eaton store, Toronto. It is very much feared that a wholesale store in this city will be minus a stenographer and the street railway company will be minus a motor man for a few days owing to the severe falls and bumps received throughout the day.

Among the crowd the visitors were as follows: Mrs. R. Tate, Deputy Mistress of the Star of Bethlehem; Miss Marjory Harte, of London; Miss M. Anderson of Toronto; Mr. Geo. Foster, Peterboro; Mrs. Milburn, Peterboro; Mr. Fowler, Peterboro; Mr. Gilbert Wall and Mr. Jack Milburn, Peterboro; Mr. and Mrs. C. Brown, Peterboro; Miss Inez White and Master Douglas White of Peterboro; Mr. Billie Herd, also Miss Eva Andrus and Miss Helen Andrus of Colborne.

The refreshments were in charge of Mrs. George Sexsmith and Miss Edith Brown, also Mrs. William Lockie and Mrs. Staples.

The Eastern Star Lodge wishes to thank Mr. Oliver White Charlotte Street for his kindness in supplying them with a bat and ball.

DOMINION BEEF SHIPMENT SLOW

Faster Transport To Britain Recommended By Imperial Economic Committee.

LONDON, August 21. — Canadian Press. — The question whether British consumers shall be supplied with beef from the Argentine or from the British dominions has been thrown into renewer prominence by press discussions of the two reports published by the Imperial Economic Committee, first on August 10, and second yesterday, advising the study of a policy of quicker transport to bring Canadian, Australian and New Zealand beef to the British market.

The committee has come into conflict with a section of the Members of Parliament who are opposed to any course likely to injure the British farmer by its regulation in favor of the removal of all embargoes on cattle shipped from overseas dominions Great Britain; at present Canadian livestock is admitted, but not Australian or South African, and this discrimination is causing bitterness.

MISSIONARY TO TELL OF CHINA

Rev. Shantz To-Night Will Describe Great Interior Province of 60,000,000 Souls.

A splendid and interesting audience listened to Rev. and Mrs. W. G. Shantz in the first meeting of the missionary convention in Bethany Taberancle, last evening.

Rev. Shantz, a veteran of thirty years of missionary service in China gave a very instructive address, with the aid of a large map of China, on the physical features of China, comparing it in size and number of population with the United States and Canada. The speakmentioned the great advantages to the development of the country, the great river Yangtze affords. This river is navigable for eight hundred miles inland to ocean steamers and a thousand miles further to smaller steamers and Chinese boats. He touches other points regarding the geographical features of the country and the city and country life of the people.

Mr. Shantz made a strong appeal in the interest of the religious life of China. Quoting another speaker, Mr. Shantz said the only way to help China now was to teach the Gospel of Christ to the people. The present up-rising of the student class and the trades people in the port cities is making missionary work hard and more dangerous.

Mrs. Shantz, gave a very interesting talk on missionary work among the Chinese, using many beautiful lantren slides.

Rev. Shantz will speak tonight on his itinerary into the Province of Szechuen, a great province in China with a population of sixty million people where scarcely any missionary work is done. He will use the slides to illustrate this lecture. He will also give an account of his thrilling experiences in opening up a new station.

Miss Shantz will bring a missionary message also.

There will be a meeting Saturday evening at eight o'clock.

An excellent programme has been arranged for Sunday. Dr. and Mrs. W. M. Turnbull of New York City will be present and will speak at the morning and afternoon meeting. Rev. I. H. Pritchard of Hamilton will speak at the evening service.

The time of the Sunday Services will be 11.00, 3.00 and 7.00.

The public is most cordially invited to hear these splendid missionary messages.

Chicago Wheat Rallied In First Hour's Trading.

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—(Canadian Press).—With Winnipeg showing fair strength, and more favorable reports from the Canadian North-West, the wheat market on the Board of Trade to-day opened slightly under Thursday's close, but rallied during the first hour to about one cent above the opening. Trading was light, with local operators on both sides of the market. September seemed to show more strength than December. The opening was ¼ to 1 1-8 cent down, with September at 159 to 159⅜, and December at the same figures, 159 to 159⅜. Considerable activity was shown in May delivery, which advanced almost 2 cents over the opening figures.

Corn was listless and seemed to follow the course of wheat. Trading was light during the first hour, with no pressure of consequence on the market. After opening 1-8c down to 5-8c up, with September at 103 7-8 to 104, the market took a slight brace and then fluctuated within narrow limits.

Oats started a shade to 5-8c down with September at 40¼ to 40 3-8c and held near the opening figures.

Provisions were firm and higher.

United States Steel At Highest Since Last March.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—(Canadian Press). — New leaders for the advance were brought forward during the forenoon dealings in Wall Street, particularly representative food stocks comprising issues in packing, cereal and baking groups.

At the same time strong competitive bidding continued for high-priced specialties, resulting in several spectacular gains. U. S. Steel and American Can. were prominent in the upward flight of prices, Steel Common touching 124¼, the highest price since last March, while Can. quickly ran up six points after getting away to a slow start. General Baking scored 8 points before noon, Mack Trucks and California packing 7 points each, while advances of 3 to 5 points were registered by Postum Cereal, Otis Elevator, U.S. Cast Iron Pipe Preferred, U.S. Alcohol, Beechnut Packing, Fleischmann, General Railway Signal and Sloss-Sheffield.

Call money renewed at 4 per cent.

Goldale and Everett Set Toronto Mining List Pace

TORONTO, Aug. 21.—(Canadian Press).—In line with other exchanges, a sudden development of activity was shown on the Standard Mining Exchange to-day, and the easy trend of the past few days gave way to a general, though in spots moderate, advance. With trading passing more than 200,000 shares, more than 80,000 were transactions in Everett and Argonaut. Argonaut featured by its advance of 2½ points to 29 and Everett gained one at 6¼.

Goldale advanced 1 3-4 at 18, Tough Oakes 3 at 35, McKinley-Darragh 2 to 23, and Castle Trethewey 1½ at 96.

BOURASSA'S SPEECH.

Disapproves Canadian Imperialism in Hamilton Speech.

HAMILTON, Aug. 21—Electrifying his audience with the frankness of his statements, Henri Bourassa, leader of the French-Canadian good will party which is touring Ontario under the auspices of Le Devoir, laid before the people of Ontario tonight of what Canadian nationhood should consist. Urging the principle of no taxation without representation, he criticized in sharp, biting phrases the Imperial idea of Canada as a nation and the system of Dominion representation in Europe matters.

Mr. Bourassa declared that Canada should not be called upon to support any nation, even though it be the nation from whence Canadians originated, in its struggles for supremacy in Europe or Asia, though he agreed that this country should be ready at any time to discuss with Great Britain, the United States, or any other country, conditions upon which matters of trade and foreign policy could be settled.

C G E LADIES PLAY DANFORTH

All-Star Team From Fast Toronto League Will be Here on Tuesday.

PLAY AT RIVERSIDE.

Arrangements have been made by the C.G.E. ladies' softball team to bring an all-star team from the Danforth Ladies' League, Toronto, to Peterborough for an exhibition game Tuesday. This game will be played at Riverside Park at 5.30 p.m.

On Toronto Civic Holiday the C. G.E. girls went to Toronto and played a team from this league, and they were beaten out by an eighth inning rally after the game had been deadlocked for several innings. With a good bunch of supporters behind them they hope to reverse the result on Tuesday. The Danforth League is one of the senior leagues in Toronto and the team representing it will put up a fast brand of softball. The C.G.E. ladies, in common with the other teams of the local league, also play a fine game, and the meeting of the two should provide the best game of softball seen here this year.

CLEO SARLES WINS FEATURE RACE AT LOCAL AUTO MEET CAPTURING OLDFIELD MEDAL

Peterboro Gets Its First Taste of Motor Racing, And Likes It.

THRILL UPON THRILL

Fearless Drivers Give Fine Exhibition of Nerve and Skill Under a Handicap.

(By F. D. C.)

Cleo Sarles tooling a little Frontenac-Ford car, that looked a beetle and sounded like a hundred machine guns in action, won the feature race of Peterboro's first automobile meet at the Exhibition track yesterday, when he drove his car across the finish line, not much more than a foot ahead of a fast-moving Premier with Ray Claypool at the wheel, while "Puddy" Hoffman, driving a Hoffman Special with skill and nerve, almost beat the pair of them at the wire.

The race was a six mile event for the Barney Oldfield medal, and it gave the crowd more thrills than most of them have experienced in a long time.

Peterboro's introduction to motor racing was an unqualified success.

A bunch of famous drivers, piloting some of the fastest cars in the game, and taking great chances on a half mile dirt track with no banked turns, provided the crowd with a series of exciting moments, that were climaxed by the sensational fight for the Oldfield medal.

Neighbor, that was a real race.

Those boys out there were driving all they knew and the final battle in the last mile between the three cracks, Sarles, Claypool and Hoffman, was alone worth the gate money. There were six starters in this event and Eddie Dailey, who had won the elimination race with his French Puegeot, was fancied by many spectators as a likely winner. Dailey, however, seemed to have trouble with his machine in the race and dropped out before it was over, preceded to the pits by Claude Montieth, whose Peerless also developed a fit of the heebie jeebies.

But leaping lizards as Orphant Annie says, how those other four speed maniacs did burn up the track.

Bob Green, driving a French Buggatti that had behaved none too well earlier in the afternoon, jumped into the lead at the start and he gave the field a merry chase before he was overhauled. Ray Claypool gave him the first challenge, and then from back in the ruck came the little Frontenac-Ford, madly driven by Sarles. The Buggatti eventually dropped back and let Claypool and Sarles battle it out, while in the last mile Hoffman with his special, who had been trailing, opened out and shot forward to hook up with the flying leaders. Claypool and Sarles raced almost side by side for the final lap while the Hoffman Special roared just behind them, Hoffman trying in vain for an opening through which he could drive to victory. The three machines came down the stretch together and at the finish there was not a car length between Sarles, who finished first, and Hoffman in third position.

The time was 7.51, fast going under the conditions.

The Elimination Race.

Eddie Daley, with his Puegeot, won the elimination race from Claude Montieth and Joe Allen in spectacular style. After trailing most of two miles and one half Dailey opened his machine wide coming down the stretch and nosed Monteith out at the wire.

Ray Claypool, victor of hundreds of races, drove his Premier to a clean cut victory in the mile and a half race for the Herert King trophy, although Hoffman gave him lots of opposition.

Hoffman got his innings in the Australian pursuit race, in which the other three starters were Joe Allen with a Rex Special, Sarles with a Frotenac-Ford, and Monteith with a Peerless. Hoffman started from scratch and caught Monteith just at the end of 3½ miles, the other two entrants having been passed early in the race. The winners time was 4.46¾, showing that he was doing no loafing.

Mlle. Martens, billed as the champion woman driver, demonstrated to the crowd that she has the courage and ability to handle high powered racing cars. Driving a Buggatti she drove an exihibtion mile against time, but the test was spoiled because of engine trouble. Nothing daunted she climbed into a Frontenac-Ford and negotiated a half mile in 40 seconds, the last quarter in .19 flat. As the fastest mile done by the men drivers during the day was performed 1.16 4-5 seconds it will be seen that Mlle. Martens was losing no time.

The summary:

Elimination race, distance 2½ miles:

1. Eddie Dailey (Puegeot).
2. Claude Montieth (Peerless).
3. Joe Allen (Rex Special)

Time 3.26.

PETES HAVE AN EDGE ON PONIES IN THE TWIRLING

Belleville Ontario Thinks Kingston Wrong in Expecting Walkover.

A GREAT SERIES

Ponies Will Have Hard Time Downing Petes, Says Quinte Writer.

Here is how the Belleville Ontario sizes up the Kingston-Peterboro play-off series:

"The little world's series in the C.O.B.L. will soon be starting—in fact, Saturday will be the first day when the gladiators come together—and Kingston thinks that it will be just a mild walkover, pointing to the fact that last year they won both at home and away from the same team, Peterboro.

"This idea is all wrong from this angle, and Daley and his crew will have a hard time downing those fighting Johnstonites of the Otonabee River.

"Pitching will be a mighty big factor when the records of the games are hung out, and Peterboro looks to have a distinct edge in this respect.

"They have three, Heckman, Hardill and the southpaw, Whitehouse, who are ready to go right in and pitch a real game anytime, while Kingston has only one of any real class and that is Cairns, and this boy got his bumps quite regularly.

"In hitting the Ponies has a little on the Petes, but what they lack they make up in defensive play.

"It will be a great series, and no doubt many of Belleville fans will make the journey to Peterboro for the first game, which will be played in Peterboro on Saturday next."

SPORT GOSSIP AND COMMENT.

On their season's record and compared on paper, the Kingston Ponies and the Petes, who clash at Riverside Park tomorrow afternoon in the first game of the series for the Ontario championship, are very evenly matched.

* * * * * * * * *

The league record this season shows that the two teams are even in wins and losses, with 15 victories out of the twenty-three games played. The Petes played one home game less than the Ponies.

* * * * * * * * *

The teams have met seven times this season, the Ponies winning all four games played in Kingston, the Petes emerging victorious from all three games played in Peterboro. Had the fourth local game been pulled off the odds are that the series between the two would have been a fifty-fifty break. In the matter of scoring the Petes have an advantage over their opponents in the seven games played, having scored 50 runs, against 46 registered by the Ponies. That dope is given for what it is worth.

* * * * * * * * *

Coming to pitching, the Ponies have in Bruce Cairns, their left-handed ace, the leading performer of the Central loop, so far as the averages go, the southpaw having won 9 and lost 2 games this season. Gallagher, the veteran left-hander, has been of little use, except on a couple of outstanding occasions, while Young, the right-handed member of the staff, has failed to live up to early season predictions, and will not likely be seen in action in the series.

* * * * * * * * *

Against this trio the Petes have Al. Heckman, veteran right-hander, who stands second in the list of Central League pitchers in the season's record; Frank Whitehouse, young left-hander, who has toppled over the Ponies three times this season; and Jeff Hardill, a most promising young right-hander. Heck, who has rounded into his old-time form, has only pitched one game against Kingston this season, and will be in good shape for the play-off series, while Whitehouse has shown his ability to curb the Pony batsmen.

* * * * * * * * *

Summing up the pitching situation, it looks as if Cairns, unless Gallagher shows a new lease of life, will have to carry the whole burden for Kingston, while the Petes are fortified with three marksmen all fit and ready to go.

* * * * * * * * *

In other words, the Ponies are in the same position as Peterboro has been in other play-offs when Heckman had to assume the responsibility of doing all the twirling. The Petes, despite Cairns' good pitching, have the edge in the heaving department.

* * * * * * * * *

So far as the catching goes, the Petes have it their own way. Max Swanston stands out over Arniel, the Kingston backstop, in experience, throwing ability and batting.

* * * * * * * * *

Comparing the infields, it will be found there is not much to choose. The Petes have it on the Ponies at the initial corner where Hap Harrison has outfielded and outhit Lonnie Purvis, and the Kingston crew even it up at the red-light corner, where Harry Batstone's strength on the offensive stands out. Second base is well looked after on both teams, with Somerville at the keystone position for the Ponies and Rose for the Petes. Both are experienced ball players, fast fielders and good hitters. Honours will be about even at shortstop, too.

* * * * * * * * *

In the outfield, with Wolfe, Hall, Legon and Ash available for the Petes and Cherry, Teepel, Scott and Daley for the Ponies, there is not a great deal to choose.

* * * * * * * * *

The series should be full of exciting baseball, and tomorrow's game should furnish a fitting start.

* * * * * * * * *

The Lakeviews, twice Ontario champions, have been eliminated from the race in their attempt to make it three straight. Lew Lebarr has nothing to be ashamed of in that fact, for his team was making a gallant fight against odds with the 1924 champs wrecked by the departure of most of the players. It must be remembered that the Belleville team represented the pick of the junior players in the Quinte City, while the Lakeviews could only command the services of those players who were not being used by the Central Leaguers or were not signed up by the other Junior City League team, the C.G.E. Had Manager Lebarr the privilege of using all Peterboro players under the junior age limit, it can readily be seen that the addition of Frank Whitehouse, Jimmy Hall and Jeff Hardill, along with the best players of the C.G.E. juniors, to the Lakeviews would have given Peterboro a royal chance for three junior championships in a row.

* * * * * * * * *

Johnny Oulette, Belleville's former speed ball pitcher, twirled his first O.B.A.A. game for Lindsay against the Raybestos on Wednesday, and the East Peterboro winners showed so little respect for his reputation as to bump him for a 10-7 trimming right before all the Lindsay folk. Raybestos are playing good ball, and are worthy representatives of Peterboro in the O.B.A.A. race

GAME TOMORROW SHOULD PROVIDE FINE BASEBALL

Pony-Petes Clash at Riverside the Classic of of Year.

TEAMS IN SHAPE

Rival Outfits at Full Strength for Final Dash for Flag.

All roads will lead to Riverside Park tomorrow when the Kingston Ponies and the Petes will clash for the second year in succession in the play-off series for the Central Ontario League championship. "Play ball!" will be called at 3 o'clock sharp by Umpire Ken. Colling of Belleville, with the following line ups in action:

Kingston—Purvis, 1b; Somerville, 2b; Halbert, ss; Batstone, 3b; Cherry, Teepel, Daley, Scott and Quinn, outfield; Cairns, p; Gailagher, p; Young, p.

Peterboro—Harrison, 1b; Rose, 2b; Johnston or Holyman, ss; Helson or McPherson, 3b; Wolfe, Hall Legon, Ash and Ross, outfield; Heckman, p; Whitehouse, p; Hardill, p.

Tomorrow's game should be the best of the season with both teams in good shape and anxious to get at each other.

The crowd will be the biggest since the last play-offs, with a particularly large turnout of outside fans. Every centre in the district will contribute quotas of enthusiasts anxious to see the feature clash of the year.

SOCCER FANS IN SCOTLAND WERE RATHER UNEASY

Many Favorites Made Poor Showing in Opening League Games.

POOR FORM SHOWN

Spectators Hope to Witness Better Exhibitions in Second Encounters.

GLASGOW, Aug. 21.—(Canadian Press Cable).—With one game now tucked away and the season definitely opened, soccer fans are speculating on the contests slated for Saturday and are debating whether the strange turns of fortune that fell upon many of their favorites will be repeated or not. The games of a week ago produced some unusual results and injected a spirit of uneasiness into the minds of many club followers. It was not foreseen that Celtic, handicapped as they were by the absence of Gallagher, their International forward, and whose suspension by the association will not be removed until Saturday week, would inflict such an overwhelming defeat on Hibernians. Nor did the Airdriedonians fans imagine that St. Mirren—even at Paisley—would exact a no-goal draw. These are situations that both the Hibs. and Airdrie will have to clear up soon and it is expected that Saturday will see some manifestation of real form when the Hibernians entertain Kilmarnock at Easter Road, and the Airdriedonians play host to Aberdeen.

Kilmarnock gained a couple of points on their own Terrain last week at the expense of Queen's Park, and this may encourage them to believe themselves as more than a match for the Hibernians. On the other hand, the bad start made by the Edinburgh team may serve to inject a spirit of greater resistence into them than they displayed against Celtic.

Aberdeen, who travel to Airdrie, are a weaker side this year due to the transfer of Jackson, their twenty-year-old International forward, to Hudersfield Town, the English League champions. Playing at home last Saturday they managed to draw with Hamilton Academicals in a regular orgy of goal-scoring. The result was three-all. Their game against the Airdrieonians, who drew their initial encounter with St. Mirren, will be in the nature of a severe test.

Rangers, the league title-holders who have a three to naught win against St. Johnstone chalked up in their favor, are scheduled for a contest with Motherwell. It was the latter who assisted in celebrating Clydebank's return to the first string by trimming them the odd goal in three. Saturday's tilt with Rangers is down for Ibrox Park.

Heart of Midlothian were nothing brilliant at Tynecastle in their curtain-raiser when they had to divide the points with Falkirk, and they will have to infuse considerably more energy into their team if they wish to do better against Hamilton whom they engage tomorrow. To add to the Hearts difficulties, the game will be contested on the Academicals ground.

Not without interest is the game promised at Cowdenheath when the home team takes on Dundee United. This is Cowdenheath's second season in the first division, and it is the United's first, so that on point of calibre the teams should be evenly matched. Cowdenheath lost to Patrick Thistle away from home a week ago, while Dundee United dropped the points to Raith Rovers at Kircaldy. From this it can be noted that Saurday's game has all the elements of indefiniteness with regard to speculation.

Clydebank have formidable opposition to encounter when they play the Celtic. With a five-goal win to put on the ice, Celtic are unlikely to yield anything to Clydebank. They have already had an excellent start and they are disposed to retain their advantage. The game is at Clydebank.

Other scheduled encounters are: St Johnstone at Dundee; St. Mirren at Falkirk; Partick Thistle at Greenock (Morton) and Raith Rovers at Hampden Park (Queen's Park.)

GOLF GAME FOR MECHANIC SKILL

Tennis Cannot Be Adopted Successfully by Golfers.

LONDON, Eng., Aug. 21.—(Canadian Press).—The announcement made recently that Cyril Tolley and Miss Joyce Methered, British star golfers, (Miss Wetherd is the leading lady player) intend to take up lawn tennis "seriously", is discussed by the Sporting Life, which intimates that it is not possible for a golf player of some years standing ot become a "star" tennis player

"In the absence of any confirmation the news must be taken with reserve," the article is prefaced. "The mere fact that both Tolley and Miss Wethered have been playing a stationary ball on the links for some years will render it impossible for them to attain high honors at lawn tennis; on the court a moving ball will present difficulties to which the golfer is not accustomed.

"To play a game free from disturbance is one thing, but to match skill with skill and brain with brain is an entirely different matter. The golfer plays his own ball, and the superior mechanic must triumph. Provided that two golfers possess normal intelligence, the question of brain power hardly concerns the result. On the other hand, the superior stroke player does not always win at lawn tennis, at which courtcraft weighs heavily.

"Tolley already happens to be a fair lawn tennis player. That he will succeed as a player is quite feasible, but the idea that he will develop into an international is absurd. In the first place he is not young enough to mould himself into the perfect player. That requires a certain natural instinct, which Tolley had for golf.

"Several lawn tennis players have found golf a comparatively simple game; but no golfer has yet become a leading lawn tennis player, and that is not at all surprising. Golf is a peaceful game, apart from the amount of walking which it necessitates, and it imposes no real demand on one's physique. It is admitted that there is a nerve strain in championship contests in golf, but even that is not nearly so severe as the tension caused by 14 days play at Wimbledon.

"A long base line lawn tennis singles may mean that a man has to run a good many miles, but at golf the player walks. It is far less exhausting to walk ten miles than to run a mile, and in the matter of mobility Tolley will find the pinch."

INSIDE GOLF.

By CHESTER HORTON

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

The art of flattening down the blade for pitches out of sand traps when practiced changes one of the ugliest of golf shots into one of the prettiest bits of work near the green. The practiced player can so position his club that he can, if the shot requires it, make the ball jump almost straight up in the air—and most frequently the shot is called for when the ball lies in a trap and the pin is on the near side of the green, perhaps, too, with a down-hill roll toward the pin. To do this, the niblick blade is flattened down until it lies practically flat. It is then cut directly across and under the ball, the blade taking about a quarter-inch of sand. This lifts the ball high enough so that all its forward energy is changed to upward energy. You can readily see how the ball would act much differently, for instance, if the same shot were made with the blade taking its natural lie—the ball would go forward more and upward less.

OTTAWA, Aug. 21.—(Canadian Press).—Lt. J. T. Steele, of the 1st Wellington Rifles, Guelph, Ont., was this morning acclaimed Canada's premier marksman, and "chaired" with the honor. He won the Governor-General's gold medal, equivalent here to the King's medal at Bisley, with the score of 194 points out of a possible 205. Pte. W. J. Irvine, of the Governor-General's Foot Guards, Ottawa, with 193 points, came second.

SLUMP IN SALARY COMING TO RUTH

New York World Predicts Cut in Pay Next Year.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—(Canadian Press). — A despatch from Cleveland, Ohio, to the New York Evening World to-day says that Babe Ruth, home run king, may not receive his salary of $52,000 a year when his present contract expires and he signs a new one. A slump in his batting, which is now under .250 for this season, will result in a reduction in his pay, says the despatch. When the season ends Ruth plans a hunting trip to New Brunswick.

YOUNGSTERS WILL PLAY IN KINGSTON

KINGSTON, Aug. 21. — Mr. A. C. Kimmell of Peterboro in a 'phone message to W. L. Kennedy, of the Kingston senior club, asked permission for the playing off here of the Bantam and Midget finals between Ottawa and Peterboro on Monday next and the necessary arrangements were completed, Mayor Angrove granting permission for the use of the Fair Grounds for this purpose on Monday. This will be the playoff series between the two sections and Kingston fans will have a chance to see what kind of ball is played by these youngsters. Kingston was the choice of Ottawa and Peterboro.

SWEATERS FOR PONIES IF THEY BEAT THE PETES

Kingston Team Will Arrive To-Morrow Morning For Big Game.

The Kingston Whig says: The Kingston Central Ontario League team will leave early on Saturday morning for Peterboro where they will play the Peterboro team in the afternoon at three o'clock in the first of the finals for the championship of the Central Ontario League, the second game of which will be played here next Wednesday. The team will have a special Pullman car attached to the early morning train so that the players can rest properly on the way to Peterboro.

At a meeting of the local executive held on Wednesday evening it was decided to present the players with sweaters if they were victorious in the series with Peterboro. The players will have a double objective now and will have an incentive to work a little harder than ever, though there is no doubt that they will go the limit anyway, sweaters or no sweaters. Mayor Angrove dropped into the meeting and offered any assistance that he could give the local club.

The local executive is anxious that as many fans as possible shall be able to see the game next Wednesday and urges the merchants of the city to close up a little bit earlier on that day so that the employees and themselves can get to the game.

The executive has followed out the suggestion put forth by the Whig that the game should be started a little earlier, and has changed the hour of the starting of the game from 6 o'clock to 5.15. This will insure against darkness ending the game abruptly should extra innings be required. The price for the game will be the same with the exception that cars will be charged 25c. The league has control of the prices for the final games. Umpire Ken Collins of Belleville will handle all games behind the plate and Umpires Sulivan and Kay will handle the bases. Special policing will be the order of things at the game here on Wednesday next.

CARS WILL FLOCK OUT OF KINGSTON

Big Crowd Coming to Peterboro For To-Morrow's Game.

KINGSTON, August 21. — All roads will lead to Peterboro next Saturday morning, and if the weather is fine the cars will flock out of Kingston like going to a football game in the fall in Toronto. The interest in Saturday's game is at fever heat, the same as the weather, and there should be the biggest crowd of the season in the Lift Lock city when the umps. calls the first man up to the plate.

Cork Sports Crazed With Betting Frenzy

CORK, Ireland, Aug. 19.—(Associated Press).—At a hearing at which the defendants were bookmakers, accused of violating the law by accepting bets on horse races, the superintendent of the civic guard of Cork asserted that "the city has simply gone mad on the betting craze—men, women and children—and something ought to be done about it." Every part of the city was affected, more or less, he averred, and the craze had even penetrated into the pupils of the public schools.

Whenever a big race was scheduled traffic in the principal streets was often held up by the people who assembled to discuss the event and to make bets on their favorite animals. The crowds jammed the thoroughfares, said the superintendent, and stood about for hours with newspapers and racing papers in their hands discussing "form," and to make matters worse, he contended, "most of the people to whom I have referred could not afford to bet. When they do so they neglect their cares at home."

The three principal defendants were fined $100 each.

EAST AND WEST NOT UNANIMOUS ON YOUTH'S FATE

Toronto Paper Says Juvenile Delinquency is on Increase.

HOME DEMORALIZED

Vancouver Issue Says New Appeal to Outdoors Strengthens Character.

TORONTO, Aug. 21.—(Canadian Press).—An exchange says editorially:

"Juvenile delinquency shows a marked increase, in Canada, according to a bulletin of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, with the greatest increases in Toronto among the cities, and in Ontario among the provinces. This is not creditable to our social conditions, or to the influences of the home, and should receive the most thoughtful consideration. What is the matter with our boys and girls? Judge Dysart of the King's Bench, Manitoba, is quoted in the bulletin as saying 'It is not society but the homes that are at fault, and I am convinced that there is no need of the radical reformation suggested in our punitive system. Quite true the home may be so infected by general conditions of society as to be demoralized and slack, but for this condition the parents, I submit, are surely responsible and primarily to blame."

On the other hand a Western contemporary recently had an editorial in which a much brighter view was taken:—"No one who carefully observes Canadian youth of today ought to be pessimistic about the new generation that is growing into manhood and womanhood. The appeal of outdoor active life was never as strong as it is this summer.... As for the girls, their health and vigor is so far superior to those of the past generation that they are beyond comparison. The girl of the present day can hold her own with her brother. The Boy Scout goes to camp. So does the Girl Guide. Both learn to swim. Both have their life-saving medals Youngsters hike and learn the good lesson of self-reliance that life in the open teaches. Summer camps are entitled to a great deal of the credit for the strengthening of young Canada."

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

THE CANCER PROBLEM

By Chief Officer of Health for Ontario.

The recently announced discoveries relative to cancer made by Dr. Gye and Barnard, working in the Medical Research Council of England, have aroused great interest. The following statement is intended to describe in simple language what these discoveries are, and of what value they are likely to be in the control of malignant growths.

1. All cancer growth are shown by the research work of Gye and Barnard to contain a virus or group of viruses which can be grown. This applies to both the cancer and sarcoma of fowl, mice, rats, dogs and man.

2. The virus itself does not produce a tumor when injected.

3. But when injected together with virus-free extracts of tumors the virus produces a milignant new growth. The extracts contain, therefore, a substance which Gye calls the "specific factor" and enables the virus to attack the cells of the injected animal so as to transform them into cancer cells.

4. The virus is not specific since tumors can be obtained in one species of animal with the virus obtained from the tumor of another animal.

5. On the other hand the "specific factor" is strictly "specific." Thus in order to obtain a mouse tumor it is necessary to use the specific factor from a mouse tumor, while the specific factor of a chicken tumor is ineffective.

6. There is probably also a strict specificity of tissue for the specific factor. So far only sarcoma has been obtained and this only with a mixture of virus and the specific factor from a sarcoma and not from cancer.

The existence of a virus or infective agent has been proven by the microscope and by photographs of the virus.

In order to make clearer the relationship existing between the virus and the specific factor, definite examples may be given. The virus from a mouse tumor may be called "mouse virus" and from a human tumor "human virus" and so on. Similarly the "specific factor" from a mouse cancer may be called "mouse cancer specific" from a human cancer "human cancer specific" and from a fowl sarcoma "fowl sarcoma specific." The following results have been established.

(a) Any virus alone from any tumor into any animal: no effect.

(b)—Any specific factor from any tumor into any animal: no effect.

(c)—Mouse cancer virus plus fowl sarcoma specific: 1, injected into mice, no effect; 2, injected into fowls, sarcoma.

(d)—Human cancer virus plus fowl sarcoma specific:

1. Injected into mice—no effect.
2. Injected into fowls—sarcoma.

It follows then that the type of malignant new growth that is produced depends not upon the virus but upon the specific substances. There are, therefore, two factors concerned in the cause of cancer: 1, a living virus—the extrinsic factor and 2—a chemical substance produced by the cells—the intrinsic factor.

The extrinsic factor or virus is one common to all tumors. By itself it is incapable of producing a tumor. To do so it requires the intrinsic factor—a substance produced by the cells which enables the virus to attack the cells. The virus can be cultivated like other germs. The intrinsic factor varies from tissue to tissue and from tumor to tumor.

The fact that the virus cannot by itself cause the growth of cancer is a phenomenon which plays a part in many well known bacterial infections. Thus the bacteria of gas gangrene by themselves are non-infective but when certain simple chemical substances such as calcium chloride are also injected a slight lesion is produced in the tissues and then the germ of gas gangrene kills the animal. The same is true of tetantus and tuberculosis.

Of what value is this recently gained knowledge?

It has cleared the way for a rapid advance in the investigation of cancer along new but clearly defined lines which it is hoped will ultimately pave the way to a cure or means of prevention of this disease.

The new methods in the discovery of infective substances will be applicable to a number of diseases the exact causes of which lie undiscovered. Diseases like measles, smallpox, encephalitis, foot and mouth disease and dogs' distemper may yield their secrets to scientific workers armed with these new weapons.

BALL SCANDAL STRIKES SOUTH

Investigation Follows Offer to Nashville Players "To Go Rotten."

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 21.—John D. Martin, President of the Southern Association, came to Nashville Wednesday seeking foundation for published rumors that two unnamed members of the Nashville baseball team had been approached in alleged attempt to persuade them to "lay down on their team" while the "Vols" were in New Orleans.

President Martin said he intends to ascertain "who has made the charges, and upon what grounds and against whom," while officials of the Nashville Baseball Association and Jimmie Hamilton, team manager, early today maintained their silence over any discussion of the alleged "scandal," except to invite a complete investigation.

Indications were that the members of the "Vols," officers of the Nashville Baseball Association and Ralph McGill, Nashville sports writer and author of the story which revealed the rumors last Sunday, would be heard before the league President in executive session.

Accompanied by Clifford S. Parker, Secretary of the league, Mr. Martin was prepared to provide a transcript of the proceedings of the Nashville investigation.

While statements by J. A. G. Sloan, President of the Nashville club, and Manager Hamilton of the Nashville team expressed thorough willingness for the investigation to be made, they have declined to discuss the rumors.

Rumors that "two players on option from the major leagues" and this year members of the Nashville club, were approached with the suggestion to "go rotten" in order to be returned to the major league clubs with a possibility that they might come back in the Southern circuit for a share of "pennant money" were spreading rapidly, Mr. McGill said in a public statement.

While Jimmie Hamilton declared that he had not heard of the rumors from the players, he said he knew they had been going the rounds on the streets. "The effect of the rumors which were spreading and being enlarged on was undermining the confidence or the fans in the race," Mr. McGill said. "I considered it my duty to baseball to print them so that if there were any facts in them they might be disclosed. . . ."

A determination to deal with vigor "if anyone is found guilty of crooked work" was expressed emphatically by President Martin.

The idea he declared was that of patriotic inspiration. But a remorseless auditor cut the printer's charge from the municipal account, leaving the may or to pay the bill of $690. The incident has brought smiles to the faces of Hylan's critics.

SPITZBERGEN AIR HARD ON DOCTORS

Bucolic Natives Suffer Little and Leave Ward Cots Vacant.

LONGYEAR CITY, Spitzbergen, Aug. 19.—(Associated Press). — There are no old and very few elderly people in Spitzbergen. The great majority are husky, long-limbed lads from Northern Norway of any age up to 40, with a sprinkling of Swedes, Finns, Scots, Russians and Germans. They all stand squarely on their feet and have fists like hams.

There is practically no mortality here, the doctor in charge of the excellently equipped little hospital told an Associated Press correspondent.

The visitor was shown through the small one-story wooden building where ten spotless white beds had been awaiting occupants for months.

The doctor proudly displayed his operating room, replete with all modern appliances, his X-ray apparatus and his well-filled dispensary.

According to this medical authority, living in Spitzbergen is extraordinarily healthy and a doctor is rarely needed except in cases of accident such as happen in any mining or engineering industry.

While the doctor was holding forth to the correspondent about the salubrity of the Spitzbergen air, six or eight horny-handed fellows shuffled in, one after the other, and sat down silently waiting.

"But here are patients, doctor," the correspondent said.

"Huh, I'll soon fix them," the doctor replied. "They've only been over-eating."

"MY MAN" OFFERS STRONG APPEAL TO LARGE AUDIENCE

Novel Effects Furnish Spectacular Background to Story.

There is something about "My Man," the offering at the Royal Theatre last night, which seems to appeal to everyone. Perhaps it is due to the lifelike manner and consistency in which it is presented. Or perhaps it is the story which is an adaptation of George Randolph Chester's popular novel, "A Tale of Red Roses."

Speaking of situations one cannot help calling attention to those sequences in which large quantities of roses are used and to those beautiful sequences presenting a gorgeous display of fireworks in natural colors. All that was needed to make the illusion complete was the almost deafening explosion of the bursting rockets, the sizzle and sputtering of the set pieces; although at times the imagination was deluded by eyes and it almost seemed as though one could hear these noises.

Then there is the trick dog that has one sequence which stands out in bold relief against all animal sequences, the scene in which he puts his paw to his head in despair.

Patsy Ruth Miller is delightful as the daughter of the traction president and Dustin Farnum is convincing in the modern cave-man stuff. He would make any girl long to be carried away by a political boss of his calibre and we suspect that more than one girl in the audience became jealous of Patsy.

George Webb presents a new type of heavy, smooth mannered, gentle; but with something about him that convinces the spectator he is not sincere. He is the type that wins favor despite his overbearing qualities. All told the picture will furnish a pleasant evening.

IRISH NIGHT BIG SUCCESS.

Irish night went over with a bang last night at the Royal. Many patrons who came late were unable to get in. The program was the most successful of any of the recent novelty nights. The amateurs were all pretty fair, with some of them extra good. The surprise of the evening was the appearance of J. B. Ernest Sigouin, a professional singer, who arrived in Peterboro a few days ago. He has an exceptionally pleasing voice, and his singing of "I'll take you home again Kathleen," "When I'm Dreaming of Erin" and "The Trumpeter Song" was as good as anything ever heard locally.

The amateur part of the program was made up of: Marguerit Dunlop, "Come Back to Erin"; A. Thomas, clever card manipulator; Irene Foster, "Smile of Molly Malone" and "Anybody here seen Kelly?"; Jean Maconomy and Verna Huffman, an Irish Jig in a truly professional manner; and then the community singing with the old Irish favorites. Did they sing them? Well, you could hear them from Brock Street to King Street.

AT THE CAPITOL

COLLEEN MOORE IN NEW FILM TRIUMPH.

"The Desert Flower" Scores a Tremendous Hit in Local Premiere.

A moving, multi-colored drama of Western life is 'The Desert Flower,' which opened yesterday at the Capitol Theatre, bringing back to us, like a breath of springtime the eternally ebullient Colleen Moore.

It is, however, a more mature, serious-minded Colleen that we see in this latest First National offering. She has emerged, like a butterfly from its chrysalis, into emotional drama, giving us the highlights and shadows of the existence of a little waif in a desert camp of a railroad construction gang, who escapes from the persecutions of a brutish stepfather to make her own way in the world and provide for her baby sister.

Finding the only avenue open to her the rough environment of a mining camp dance hall, she yet remains untarnished and in the end wins the love of the prodigal whom she had inspired to try again and to conquer.

Next to Miss Moore's touching characterization of the little creature of drab exterior but golden heart is that of the wayward youth by Lloyd Hughes. Excellent support is rendered these by a cast among the most prominent of which are Frank Brownlee, Kate Price, William Norton Bailey, Monte Collins and Gene Corrado.

Conciliation Body Would Hear Disputes of Nations

GENEVA, August 21. Canadian Press. — The question of the establishment of a conciliation commission for the settlement of international disputes to be attached to the world court of justice, and the problem of slavery, were two prominent features of the supplementary agenda of league assembly issued last night.

Simultaneously the league made public the text of a proposal to create a conciliation commission as suggested by the Danish government whereby all disputes between States destined for the world court should first be brought before the conciliation body, which should endeavor to find a friendly agreement.

TONIC SUPPLIES DEBATE MATERIAL

Question of Vending Compound of Wine Before Court.

A Quebec tonic, St. Martin's wine, occupied much of the time of the Police Court this morning, when a local merchant was brought before Magistrate O. A. Langley this forenoon charged with a breach of the O.T.A., by having this wine for sale. J. F. Strickland conducted the prosecution; G. N. Gordon appearing for the defence. Judgment will be given next Friday.

The proceedings were undertaken at the instance of License Inspector Joseph Stewart, who took a bottle of wine from the store and sent it to the Government analyst. The analyst's certificate and a bottle of St. Martin's wine were produced as the case for the prosecution. A third exhibited was handed in by the defence, the invoice of the sale of the wine.

Eugene Martin, one of the proprietors of the manufacturing concern gave evidence as to the ingredients and proportions in the preparation. He said the proportion of alcoholic content was 13.49 by volume. He had not known of a single case of intoxication from St. Martin's wine during the five years it had been on sale in Eastern Canada. The wine had been registered as a patent medicine. Neither from the Federal nor Provincial Ministry of Health had any objection been taken to the placing of the wine on the market. He thought if a man drunk a whole bottle of the wine he would be sick rather than intoxicated. He could not say exactly how much would be required to make a man intoxicated. Some men got drunk on two glasses of liquor, others could drink five bottles before becoming drunk. The man who drunk five bottles of St. Martin's wine would die before he became intoxicated. He said the wine was pleasant to the taste.

Dr. T. W. H. Young gave professional testimony as to the effects of the wine, and as to the degree of medication. All the drugs used in the wine were the same as used by physicians in prescribing tonics. He thought it was sufficiently medicated to render it useless as a beverage. He said he would not drink half a bottle of the wine. Wine was used in such preparations because in itself it was a light stimulant and rendered the taking of the drugs a more palatable proceeding.

In answer to a question by Mr. Strickland, Dr. Young stated that there was a possibility that the medication would settle. He thought some of the medication might be strained off in these circumstances.

Dr. C. D. Hewett said the drugs in St. Martin's wine were similar to those used in accordance with the Pharmacopoeia. If a person sat down to drink a whole bottleful he would soon be effected by cramps and colic. The medicine would be dangerous to a fool, but the proportions were right for a tonic for invalids or convalescents. He had often recommended similar wines to people who could not afford to buy ordinary tonics.

Mr. Gordon read extracts from the Ontario Temperance Act, in defence of his position. His client was a recognized dealer in patent and proprietory medicines, had sold in the original and ungroken battles, a wine which was sufficiently medicated under the terms of the Act. The Board of License Commissioners had never sought to prohibit the sale of the wine. The evidence of the doctors was that the wine used in regular doses made a useful tonic. Evidence had been submitted which showed that the wine could not be used as a beverage by the average man.

Mr. Strickland thought that the evidence of the first witness as a member of the firm making the wine should be accepted. This witness had given evidence that the wine was pleasant to the taste. It was a dangerous wine to be offered to the public. Complaints had been received of its effects on some of those who were drinking it.

The Magistrate reserved his decision.

TOURIST TRAFFIC PEAK

C. N. R. Has Received A Full Share.

"The tourist traffic is now at its peak," said Alpine McNab, Canadian National agent, this morning, "and will soon be on the wane again."

Reports of heavy bookings from most centres indicate an unusually large movement of tourists this year, and an increasing number of American visitors, travelling by train and by motor. As records at the Chamber of Commerce and the tourist camp go to show, Peterborough has been a stopping place for no inconsiderable number.

BRITISH COLUMBIA HAS LOCAL OPTION IN BEER.

Vote May Be Taken on Petition of 40 B. C.

VICTORIA, B. C., Aug. 21. — (Canadian Press). — A provincial Order-in-Council yesterday gave British Columbia local option as to beer. In parts of the Province, beer is dispensed by the glass, and in other parts by bottle only. The Provincial Government is the only legal seller of alcoholic drinks.

The order decreed that any of the eight ridings in the Province shall vote on beer whenever forty per cent. of the registered voters petition for an election.

JAPAN LOOKS WITH SUSPICIOUS EYE UPON INTENTIONS OF GREAT BRITAIN AND AMERICA IN CHINA

Agreed With Doubts to Conference on Question of Foreign Property Concessions.

NIPPON WATCHING.

Believe Uncle Sam is Manoeuvring for Good Will of Chinese—Britain Isolated.

(By Moto Takata, United Press Correspondent.)

OSAKA, Japan, Aug. 22.—Japan is viewing with some suspicion, the intentions of the United States and Great Britain in China.

While Japan has voiced her decree for hearty co-operation with the United States and other interested Powers in an international conference on extra territoriality and other questions, she believes that China is not ripe now for abolition of extra-territoriality. And well informed observers learned of America's desire for an international conference with skepticism. It was held that the plan was inopportune unless America's underlying motive was to earn the good will of the Chinese, so as to secure a favorable position for America in China. Some observers even suggested that the United States in recent years had been too eager to take the leadership in world politics, and further they argued that this was sometimes done even at the expense of other Powers' interests and privileges.

Suspicious of Britain.

At the same time Great Britain is viewed here with a suspicious eye since she abrogated the Anglo-Japanese Alliance and put forth plans for the Singapore naval base. Many papers believe that Britain is in an isolated position, and that she has really lost the co-operation of both Japan and America as far as her Oriental position is concerned.

This leads some observers to conclude that Britain may seek stronger bonds with America for Anglo-Saxon co-operation, or may try to develop new bonds with Japan, or perhaps even play both courses.

Seeking Friendship.

Many newspapers warn that Japan should watch closely the future course of their diplomacy. As for the extra territoriality question, Japan feels that there should be a gradual abolition of the foreigners' special privileges. Her general policy toward China is to develop friendly relations and show China sympathy.

China has invited the Powers to a conference on tariffs and other problems, in October. This conference is provided by the Washington conference treaties, and has been advocated by the United States Government.

A frank picture of Japan's feeling in this situation is presented in the above by Moto Takata, United Press correspondent at Osaka, Japan.

AWAIT CHINA'S PROPOSALS.

TOKIO, August 22. Canadian Press —The powers are absolutely agreed that customs autonomy for China is unthinkable at present, it was said at the foreign office yesterday. Consequently a note to the Chinese is being sent immediately stating that the agenda sent forth by the Washington conference will be discussed first at the Chinese customs conference, then if China submits reasonable "proposals" these will receive consideration by the conference.

Codispoti's death is the third of a similar character in the city within the last fortnight of men of Italian nativity.

BARNARDO HOME ACTIVITIES END

Dominion Immigration Department Raises the Bars Against Children Because of Criticism.

TORONTO, Aug. 22.—(Canadian Press). — Activities of the Dr. Barnardo's Boys' Home in Canada have ceased, according to a statement made here to-day by John W. Hobday, superintendent of the Home in this city.

Influenced by constant criticism of irresponsible persons, the Dominion Government, without any investigation whatever, refused to allow immigration of young children," declared Mr. Hobday. "Our people then decided to stop bringing out children altogether."

The work of Dr. Barnardo's Boys' Homes has been going on steadily in this country for 40 years. The order of the Dominion Immigration Department prohibiting immigration of boys under fourteen years of age became effective in April last. A party of boys was brought out in the spring but it was decided not to bring out the usual summer party.

EDMONTON, Alta., Aug. 22. — (Canadian Press).—A special from Drumheller to the Journal yesterday says, in part:

"Forty Alberta Provincial police will be in barracks here to-day and all is in readiness for the re-opening of at least two of the mines Monday. Officials of the A. B. C. and Midland Mines believe they can run their mines with United Mine Workers of America men, and begin filling prairie coal orders if protected from assault from several hundred members of the Red Deer Miners' Union, which has broken away from the U. M. W. of District 18. It was pointed out that Provincial police cannot be drawn into the melee between the unions and operators except to preserve law and order."

REFUSE TO GRANT STAY OF EXECUTION

Counsel For Condemned Man May Ask For Session Of Appeal Court.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Aug. 22—(Canadian Press).—Stay of execution of Owen B. Baker, sentenced to hang on September 4 with his accomplice Herry Meyers, alias Sowash, for the murder of Capt. W. J. Gillis last September, near Sidney Island, was refused yesterday by Mr. Justice Morrison in the Supreme Court. The request was made on the gounds of an appeal before the British Columbia Appeal Court which sits October 6.

Permission has been granted counsel for Baker to apply for a special session of the Appeal Court to hear the case and if this fails counsel has been advised he may lay his request before the Department of Justice in Ottawa.

INDIAN POTENTATE DAZZLES LONDON WITH JEWEL DISPLAY FROM COLLECTION OF THOUSAND YEARS

Gems Worth $500,000 From Treasure Stored in 20 Steel Trunks, Each Separately Guarded.

LONDON, August 22. — Canadian Press. — Jewels valued at more than $500,000, have been brought to London by the Maharajah of Patiala, the wealthy Indian potentate whose lavish expenditures have dazzled the Metropolis.

The jewels, however, represent only a small portion of his Indian collection, which has been collected more than 1000 years by Indian princes and rulers. The collection is stored in the Maharajah's palace, in twenty steel trunks, each one of which interlocks one of a slightly larger size. To open each of these trunks it is necessary to have twenty different keys. Twenty servants keep these keys as their ancestors before them did, and when the jewels are needed they assemble in line before the trunks.

MUCH BUSINESS FOR CONFERENCE ON UNIFORM LAW

Representatives of Seven Provinces Are on Hand to Consider Legislation.

AT WINNIPEG.

Conference Precedes Meeting of Canadian Bar Association Next Week.

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 22. — (Canadian Press).—Representatives of seven provinces were present at the seventh annual meeting held here yesterday of commissioners conferring upon uniformity of legislation in Canada. The meeting is a preliminary to the convention of the Canadian Bar Association next week.

Sir James Aikins, Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba, read the presidential address. The conference was welcomed to Manitoba by Hon. R. W. Craig, the Attorney-General. Fourteen members were present.

A large agenda of business is before the conference, including a draft of a uniform devolution of the Estates Act and a uniform interstate succession, submitted by commissioners from Saskatchewan.

Sir James Aikins, in his address, referred to the commission's loss in the death of Dr. M. J. Teed, K.C., of New Brunswick, former president. He reviewed the work of the commissioners since the session of 1919, stating that 25 important legal subjects had been dealt with and illustrated the beneficial results with the example of the Uniform Life Insurance Act. The people of the provinces, Sir James said, should take greater interest in the work of this body, which was rendering an important service.

CHINESE STRIKE HITS CANADA

Refuse to Obey Commands of Captain While in Vancouver Harbor.

WERE ARRESTED.

VANCOUVER, Aug. 22.—(Canadian Press). — Propaganda against British ships and merchandise which is causing a serious situation in China, has reached this port. Sixteen Chinese sailors on the steamer City of Victoria, docked here, are in custody at the police station, following their refusal to obey the orders of Captain T. P. Blair.

The only explanation is that they had received instructions from Shanghai to stop work, but they refused to say who is giving them the orders to strike. When the situation developed late Thursday afternoon, Captain Blair had them arrested, charging them with refusing to obey lawful commands.

The Chinese appeared before Magistrate Jamieson in Police Court yesterday and were remanded until next Tuesday. Application for bail was granted in the sum of $250 each, but in addition to this they must furnish the regular $500 bond demanded under the immigration laws of Chinese entering Canada. At 2 o'clock the accused had not arranged for bail.

PICKPOCKETS AT FUNERAL.

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 21.—Pickpockets took advantage of the great crowds which lined the streets to watch the funeral of Sir Adam Beck to relieve many persons of their money, it was given out by the police yesterday. William Crawford, a jail turnkey, was one of the largest sufferers, losing a wallet containing $130, which he carried in his hip pocket and which was taken while he was standing on the platform at the C.N.R. depot.

DEFINITE CLUES OF GUNMEN WHO HELD UP CASHIER

Five Men Answering Description of Bandits Were Seen in Brandon.

NOT SEEN SINCE.

Detectives Expect to Learn Something From Finger Prints Left on Car.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 22.—(Canadian Press).—The first definite clues as to the probable whereabouts of the gunmen who held up the cashier of the Winnipeg Electric Company here last Friday and escaped with $87,000, reached the police yesterday with a report that five men answering the descriptions of the daring quintette were seen in Brandon on the night of the robbery.

Registering at a local hotel, the suspects disappeared again the following morning, and are presumed to have resumed their journey west. Nothing has been learned of them since. Meanwhile, local authorities are checking up all possible clues from this angle.

It is understood that local detectives expect to reveal something of a tangible nature from the fingerprints on the auto which the thugs commandeered and later abandoned.

MONARCHIST COUP IN VIENNA FAILED

Anti-Semitic Riot Cloak For Attack on Republic.

VIENNA, Aug. 22 (Canadian Press)—The police organ Korrespondenz Wilhelm presents confirmation that documents and letters found in the office and home of the legitimist, Dr. Schager, after the recent riots revealed that Dr. Schager's party was the principal organizer of Anti-Zionists disorders in connection with the party's conspiracy against the Austrian republic.

The rioting took place with the assembling of delegates to the fourteenth Zionist congress and it was reported that the anti-Semitic Hakenkreuster organization was determined to test its forces and use the congress to sway the masses against the present government and develop a monarchist putsch.

WEATHER

The temperature was down to 40 degrees this morning, and there was a decided coolness in the air. From 92 degrees on Wednesday afternoon to 40 degrees Saturday morning, or a drop of 52 degrees, is something that few countries can boast of, and even in this part of Ontario, where erratic temperatures are common, does not occur very often. The highest the temperature went yesterday was 74 degrees. It is also unusual for a week to pass without rain to some extent falling. This week there has been none. Speaking of dry spells, here is something that may interest you: At Greenwich observatory, England, weather records have been kept for many years. From June 1st of this year to the 23rd of the same month there was a continuous drought, with the exception of the 6th when a few drops fell on the lawn. This lengthy period of dryness has never been equalled for 110 years, since 1815. —W. P.

GETS PERMIT AT LAST.

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 21.—Thursday afternoon the license to manufacture and sell four-point-four beer in the Province was received by the Roy Wolf Brewery, which had been waiting for the authority for some time.

TAXI SERVICE TARIFF DIFFERS FOR CITY RATE

During War Rate Was Raised to Fifty Cents By Operators.

LOWER NOW.

New Services Go Back to 25 Cent Rate For One Passenger.

At the present day there is considerable rivalry among city taxi operators because of recent services instituted at the 25 cent rate for a single patron. J. Fontaine, when interviewed, released a burning indictment against all cabs in operation at that rate. He said that on the averages he had compiled, the majority of fares were for single passengers, and that it was impossible to make a trip for 25 cents, therefore every trip which the two-bit taxis made at that rate lost them money. He placed the actual trip cost at 27 cents. For more than one person, the older established services gave rates identical with those of twenty-five cent operators, with the additional advantages of a higher quality service.

Inspector Reid said that in 1906 a tariff was drawn up setting the rate for single passengers at 25 cents for conveyance from one part of the city to any other part of the city, but during the war the cabmen, realizing that they could not survive at that rate, sent a deputation to the Police Commission in order to have the scale raised.

Their representation at that time was unsatisfactory and they were advised to choose three spokesmen to present their plea.

When this was done a new scale was set which permitted a tariff of 50 cents for the first passenger and 25 cents for each additional member of a party. Children between the ages of 8 to 12 were to be carried at half fare, while children under 8 years were carried free.

Between the hours of 11 p.m. and 7 a.m. one passenger was to be taxed 75 cents, and each additional passenger 50 cents.

The card setting forth the rates was to have been carried by the taxi driver and submitted on demand to the patron. If unable to do so the passenger was not liable for the fare.

Those at present operating on the 25 cent basis report that they are receiving a substantial custom.

NORTH BAY, August 22. — Canadian Press. — Following the robbery of four North Bay houses on Thursday night, the police yesterday took into custody Kalistial Antonik, 28, a Russian, from Montreal, and another man is being held at Capreol in connection with the same offense. In Antonik's possession was found $312 and part of the money corresponded with that lost.

NO HABEAS CORPUS.

Application For Robbery Suspect Dismissed By Seattle Judge.

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 22. Canadian Press. — The habeas corpus application on behalf of Ernie Gambertolinn, one of the five suspects held in the forty two thousand dollar Nanaimo bank robbery of last December, was dismissed by Federal Judge Dieterich here yesterday.

Counsel for the accused announced that an appeal will be made to the Federal Circuit Court at San Francisco.

One Killed, 2,000 Ill Eating Sprayed Fruit

HAMMONTON, N. J., Aug. 22. — Over two thousand cases of "devil's grippe," as a new malady which has struck this section has been designated, have been reported by physicians in this part of the state within the last three weeks. Most of the cases are in Camden County.

Dr. A. S. McCallum of Barrington, said he had treated 500 victims and Dr. Russell S. Magee of Audobon, said he had treated 200. The complaint is laid to eating unwashed fruit which had been sprayed to combat the Japanese beetle.

Marion Lyons, 5 years old, of Audobon, who ate peaches which had been so sprayed, died on Tuesday night, and Earl Marshall, 11, of Mapleshade, is seriously ill in the West Jersey Hospital, Camden, after eating sprayed grapes

General Sir Richard Turner, V.C., who is trying to bring all veterans' associations into a new organization, probably to be known as the Canadian Legion. COAL DEADLOCK UNBROKEN WITH NINE DAYS LEFT Suspension of Mining Operations in Anthracite Field Assuming a Menace.

GOVERNORS ACT.

Plan Supply of Soft Coal in New England States For Public.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 22—(Canadian Press).—With August 31 and the suspension of anthracite coal mining operations looming up but nine days distant, the public this morning remained on the anxious seat, able to report developments, but with no progress toward averting a general tie-up.

In Philadelphia the deadlock in negotiations, broken off on August 4th at Atlantic City, continued with both Samuel D. Warriner, operators' chief, and John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, out of the city.

Seeing a slight chance of the renewal of the present hard coal working agreement before the end of the month, when it expires, governors and representatives of New England States, meeting in Boston, made plans to side-step a possible hardship by arranging for the use of Bituminous coal and other substitutes.

Alan T. Treadway, representative in Congress from Massachusetts, advocated Federal control of the entire anthracite industry.

Operators are now in Scranton to discuss developments. They issued no statement.

C. N. R. STATION

years, and in this my 1925 report I want to express to you, my compliments on the very able manner in which you have created enthusiasm amongst the citizens of Peterborough, to encourage the beautification of the home surroundings.

Where a few years ago, in several districts you had one garden for me to judge, I now find several bunched together, indicating that horticulture, like the fever, is catching. Your city is becoming famous not noly for its fine stores, and clean streets, but is beginning to be known, like St. Thomas and Toronto, as one of the flower cities of Ontario, your gardens and home surroundings compare very favorably with other towns, cities and villages, which it is my privilege to judge at.

In the open and amateur classes for home surroundings, you will find that the three winners are the same in each class. Mrs. Wood is especially to be complimented for the fine appearance of her premises, as also is the Derry family, and I know from experience, that those gardens in particular meant a lot of hard work, but when you have a love for the work in hand, it is not hard. Mr. Edgar should go into the market business, and I am sure he would make a success of it, the quality of his vegetables are second to none, although the Derry vegetable garden deserves commendation.

J. F. Convery, 63 Robinson street, expresses admirable sentiment in saying that if he can't grow much grass under shade trees he at least won't grow weeds.

The class for window boxes and hanging baskets, etc., was a move in the right direction, as some people have no time or inclination to delve in the garden, but still have the desire to make their homes look nice, and if you take a look at Mrs. Yelland's house, you will see the force of my argument, for if you took the window boxes, etc., away, the premises would look very flat and bare.

Praise For C.N.R.

The C. N. Railways deserve credit for keeping their station grounds presentable, and which is the first thing that catches a person's eye coming to your city by train. The Sanitary Ice Co., although only having a small frontage, have made the best of it by having a show of color in the flower beds, and keeping the grass in good shape.

As to church grounds, the caretaker of St. Peter's Cathedral was Johnny on the job, and ordered me off, before he knew why I was trespassing. He has a lot of work ahead of him, and certainly does his best to keep up the good reputation of the city.

In the school grounds, the caretakers apparently do not have sufficient time to put on the lawns as is necessary, they deserve credit, but there is lots of room for improvement.

The class which deserves a little more thought, is the children's gardens, there were only four entries, and I saw each of the contestants, who were very enthusiastic, but the competition is not uniform enough Each child should be allotted the same sized plot, and each grow some variety of flowers.

On the whole I find you are making very good headway, as in 1923 I had 28 gardens to judge, in 1924 there were 34 and this year 47. You should have at least 100.

Respectfully submitted.
GEO. BALDWIN,
Judge.

PIONEER ENGINE ROLLS TO BIG EX.

First Mogul to Draw Canadian Pacific Train Northward.

TORONTO, Aug. 22.—Lucy Dalton is coming to the Exhibition, where she will be on public view. As, however, she feels that the midway is hardly the place for a lady of her charms, she has been allotted a space in the general grounds near the Railway Building.

Who is Lucy Dalton? Lucy Dalton was the first of the feminine gender to roll into North Bay puffing smoke. A regular speed artist she was, and she rolled her own. Apart from all this, she was wood burning and had the honor of drawing the first Canadian Pacific train into the northern town. When North Bay became a city the other day, Lucy tried to forget she was old, but, as is the case with so many old ladies of to-day, it was necessary to put a Ford chassis under her before she could go very far. Not that she could not disguise the fact that she was not standing on her own wheels. She arrived in Toronto today, tender, caboose and all, determined to "see this world before the next."

ALLEGED MURDERER MAY HAVE ESCAPED BY SEA

"Dutch" Anderson Believed in Gulf of Mexico?

PENSACOLA, Fla., Aug. 22—Somewhere out in the Gulf of Mexico today, moving southeastward, sailed a small schooner yacht which authorities at Gulf Port, Miss., and a newspaper here believe carried George "Dutch" Anderson, mail robber and alleged killer of Ben Hance and his wife.

The "Idea" a little vessel on which the pal of Gerald Chapman is believed to have escaped from the United States, was stolen Tuesday night from its moorings at Gulf Port. It was sighted yesterday by the steamer Detroit-Wayne, 500 or more miles out in the Gulf.

WEDDING BELLS.

HAY—ARMOUR.

HASTINGS, Aug. 22.—On the eighteenth of August a quiet but very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Scott Fife of Hastings, when her sister, Elisabeth Frances Armour, youngest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Armour, of Campbellford, was united in marriage to Mr. James A. M. Hay, of Chatham.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. James Skene, of Norwich, assisted by Rev. D. A. Thomson of Hastings. The bride, gowned in white canton crepe, with bridal veil, and carrying a bouquet of ophelia roses, entered the room leaning on the arm of her brother, Mr. Jno. Armour, of South Monaghan, while the wedding march was played by her nephew, Master Robert Armour.

After a dainty wedding breakfast, the bride and groom started on a motor trip to the Adirondacks. The bride travelled in a sport costume of blue knitted silk.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Hay will reside in Chatham.

THE ONE SURE WAY TO GOOD HEALTH

In Keeping the Blood Pure By Using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Impure, weak blood is the cause of most of the troubles that afflict people. This is the cause of the wretched feeling of langour and faintness, pains in the back and side, headaches and breathlessness, that afflict women and make her daily life a torture. To get new health and strength the blood must be enriched. What Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do in cases of this kind is told by Mrs. Augusta Emery, Woolford Staton, Alta., who says:—"Living on the prairie, and knowing that there are thousands of women like myself miles away from a doctor, I want to tell them what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for me. After my first baby was born I seemed to have little energy. I felt weary and run-down and unable to do even the ordinary household duties. I felt I needed a tonic and as I had long seen Dr. Williams' Pink Pills advertised I decided to try them. I got a supply and carefully followed the directions and before very long the result was wonderful. Day by day I regained my former strength and energy. The pills seemed to give me a keen appetite and I gained in weight and soon was able not only to do my work about the house but to help with many chores on the farm. For this reason I would advise women, particularly those on the prairie or the farm, to keep a supply of these pills always on hand. One trial will convince you of their worth. I have recommended them to many of my friends and never have they failed to produce good results."

You can get these pills from your druggist, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

WHERE THE DOLLARS GO.

Some insurance statistician has been doing some figuring, the result of which Examiner readers should find interesting.

He has discovered that out of every dollar spent by the average man, 24 1-2c is expended for living expenses, 22c for luxuries, 14c is wasted on nothing in particular, 13 1-2c for sundries, 11c is invested, crime costs 8 1-4c, the Government takes 4 1-2c, the maintainance of schools is responsible for 1 1-2c and 3-4 of one cent goes to the churches.

That is the living man's dollar, while it is estimated 87c comes from life insurance and 13c from all other sources.

While only 3 per cent. of the country's income is spent for life insurance, from that 3 per cent. comes 87 per cent. of all that remains at death.

This is a rather startling comparison, and puts a new aspect upon the life insurance question to those who are willing to investigate the matter.

How many Examiner readers ever stop to ask themselves where their dollars go?

PETERBORO'S MOTOR CAMP.

Letters that have been received from motor visitors to Peterboro expressing appreciation of the local tourist camp at the Exhibition Grounds and of the courtesy and attention shown by Caretaker John Gillespie are gratifying to those who realize the importance of giving visitors a favourable impression of Peterboro in order that they may spread the good news among their friends.

Peterboro's motor camp, while lacking the picturesqueness of a site along the water-front, is nevertheless splendidly located, and, of course, commodious enough to take care of hundreds of visitors.

Toilent conveniences and a water supply are provided, and there is a special advantage in the fact that the Exhibition buildings are placed at the disposal of the visitors in stormy or wet weather, and this privilege has occasioned much favourable comment from tourists during the present summer.

The result of the impression made by this year's "motor gypsies" will undoubtedly lead to a larger influx of visitors next year, for every motorist who goes home satisfied is a publicity agent for the district that he has visited.

It is well, therefore, that Peterboro's camp has been pronounced satisfactory.

THE BOX-OFFICE TELLS.

There are many reasons why the people of Peterboro and district should support the Peterboro Industrial Exhibition, but to the Examiner the most potent of all is the fact that it is their own Fair and can be made exactly what they want to make it.

There is no reason why the Peterboro Industrial cannot go on improving year after year if the people show their confidence by their attendance.

Like every other business, the receipts must be greater than the overhead if success is to be reached.

The exhibits may be larger than ever, the attractions on a more lavish scale, but unless this growth is reflected in the box-office then a halt will have to be called.

For their 1925 programme the Directors have outdone every previous effort.

In the first place, the Exhibition will continue for five days, with every indication that before long the Peterboro Industrial will be known as a week's Fair.

More prize money is being offered, a much greater expenditure is being spent on amusement features, in every department progress is being made, but ultimate success or failure hinges upon the attendance.

The people of the city and district can make or mar the Exhibition, just accordingly to whether they go or stay away.

This year the ambition of the whole district should be to send the receipts up to a new high level.

PROTECTING THE TOURISTS.

The Provincial Board of Health is wisely making provision for the regulation of motor tourist camps in order that the army of summer visitors who pour into Ontario each year may be protected, particularly against unsafe water supplies.

That some protection is needed is indicated by the results of an inspection made of 127 motor camps in the Province last year and reported in the annual report of the Provincial Board of Health.

It was found that town water supplies were available in sixty camps, while wells were used in fifty-six, springs in nine, rivers and lakes in seven, and in four camps there was no provision for a water supply at all.

Fifty-four of the wells, springs, rivers and lakes supplies showed considerable contamination, sixteen were fair and nine in good condition, while even in the case of several camps where town supplies were furnished, contamination was found.

With conditions such as these existing the Provincial Board is doing its duty in endeavouring to prevent tourists from suffering as a result of bad water.

The suggestion made by the department's engineer, who made the investigation, that in camps where the water supply is not of good quality directions for the protection of the drinking water be conspicuously posted, and where the supply is good notices stating so be also posted conspicuously, is one that should be adopted.

Peterboro's motor camp, fortunately, need cause visitors no worry in regard to the quality of the water, inasmuch as the city's supply is available for the use of tourists.

REMEMBERED TOO LATE.

A "human interest" tale, with a little more merit than most of those that are daily worked up to satisfy the demand of the great American newspaper-reading public for a sob in the news, was made the most of by the big dailies recently, says the Hamilton Spectator. A Nebraska youth, Walter Gregor, pleaded guilty of slaying his sweetheart. It was a brutal murder, callously premeditated and cold-bloodedly executed. Gregor was given a life sentence. Before being taken to the state penitentiary he received permission to visit his aged mother, who was and is, according to the police, in ignorance of her son's crime. Editorially commenting upon the boy's thoughtfulness for his mother the Omaha World Herald had the follownig to say: "Gaily, with a smile in his eye and a word of greeting on his lips, the young killer tripped into the house and kissed his mother. For several minutes he chatted with her, told her he had a good job 'driving for a traveling man;' told her she was looking well. Assured her that all was rosy, asked her not to worry. Then turned, his eyes blinded by tears that the mother didn't see, back to the sheriff's car—back to the Black Maria. A little later the sheriff was bidding his prisoner a long goodbye. The penitentiary doors closed grimly between them. Number so-and-so entered his cell—a murderer and a man." It was a touching incident, but there was a better way open to this boy to show his regard for his mother. He wasn't so thoughtful of her when he planned his sweetheart's death. If he was the man the Omaha World-Herald declared him to be, he would not now be serving a life term in prison for the murder of the girl who trusted him. Like a lot of other boys he seems to have thought of his mother only when he was in trouble.

THE INDUSTRIAL ISSUE IN BRITAIN.

Talk of revolution in Great Britain, whether it falls from the lips of Communist laor leaders or of frightened reactionaries, need not be taken seriously. It is nothing more than froth on the surface of an industrial conflict which, unfortunately, has excited the passions and inflamed the imaginaton of extremists on both sides. British institutions are too securely founded, and British commonsense too deeply rooted to be disturbed by the threats of Mr. Cook of the Miners Federation or the editor of the Communist Daily Herald on the one hand, or by the gloomy forebodings of Lord Londonderry on the other; and it is as idle to conceive of smashng Capitalism and all it implies, or of overthrowing Parliamentary Government in a country like England, as it is to talk of smashing trade unionism.

But these heated imagings are not without significance as a symptom of the temper and attitude of the opposing parties in the industrial conflict which looms up in Great Britain. It is becoming ncreasingly evident that Premier Baldwin's tentative settlement by subsidy of the dispute in the mining industry, while ensuring peace for a time, has only postponed the inevitable; and that sooner or later, the forces of capital and labor will clash in real earnest over an issue much wider and deeper than one involving merely wages and working hours. For, though these happened to be the essential points in dispute between the mine owners and their employees, it is clear that they represented little more than a "feeler" in a contest of infinitely greater magnitude and moment.

Through what the report of the recent Court of Inquiry into the mining industry describes as "the unmitigated operation of economic forces," Britain finds herself confronted with a situation which not only seriously affects individual industries, and these the most important, but threatens the very foundations of her vast industrial structure. The falling off in trade caused by the war and the unsettled state of Europe; the closing down of mines and factories and the consequent curtailment of production; increasing unemployment, fluctuating rates of exchange, high taxation the lowering of wages and the decline of purchasing power are all correlated elements in a situation which is not black is, as Winston Churchill aptly described it, "motley, piebald harlequin."

But they are only phases of a problem the most sinister aspect of which reveals itself in the apparent irreconcilability of employers and employed, and the equally evident determination of both to force a "showdown." The differences are fundamental. The attitude of the employers, as expressed in the mining dispute is, "that more cannot be taken out of an industry that there is in it; that no industry can continue to be carried on unless it yields a return in profit; that the existing wages agreement is economically impossible as the financial results of its working have shown."

In the case of the mining industry; it was pointed out that while the domestic demand for coal had only fallen off by four million tons, the exports, compared with those of 1913, the year before the war, had declined to the extent of twenty million tons. It was further shown that out of a total of 3,000 mines, approximately, now fewer than 500 had been closed down, involving loss of employment to 110,000 workers and a cost to the industry, in reduced production, of seven and a half million dollars.

On the other hand, the miners insist and in this they are supported by the trades unions as a whole—that their wages must not be reduced beyond a point that will enable them and their families to live in decency and comfort; and that economic considerations apart, the national importance of the industry demands the recognition and maintenance of that standard.

In other words, the issue is one that not only touches the relations between employer and employed in any particular industry, but challenges the existence of the present industrial and economic system. The Socialists and Communists see in it the opportunity they have striven for to overthrow Capitalism and bring about a readjustment of industry, and even of society. The employers, if signs are not misleading, are equally determined to meet the challenge. Hence the talk of revolution.

The situation is a menacing one, but history shows that the British people have a way of their own of solving difficulties and dealing with national crises; and it is safe to say that their method of settling the present issue will not be that of Lenin and Trotzky. The rumble of the tumbril in the streets of London is yet a long way off.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

A lot of fuss is being made over the fact that Miss Agnes McPhail, M.P., danced at a garden party. Surely they don't expect her to talk all the time.

Apparently everybody in Canada knows about an early election, except the Premier.

Peterboro's Exhibition is drawing rapidly nearer and growing steadily bigger as the time approaches.

TORONTO CATTLE

TORONTO, Aug. 22. — Heavy shipments of cattle direct to the plants from Winnipeg, Calgary and Edmonton had a serious effect on trade at the local cattle market this week. Forty cars of these went direct to the abbatoir last wek. On Monday 1,669 head, mostly feeders and stockers came to the open market in Toronto. The best steers in this lot sold from $4.75 to $5.75 with poorer stuff from $3.50 to $4.50.

Export buyers took 1,700 cattle this week which featured the market and helped to relieve the situation. Speaking generally the export trade was about 25 cents lower than a week ago. Choice butcher steers and heifers on Monday and Tuesday sold around 25 cents lower. Wednesday was one of the poorest trades experienced for some time. Buyers were indifferent. Medium to common cattle were almost unsaleable at considerably lower levels than Monday and Tuesday.

Choice forward springers of promising types were selling from $70 to $90; good, $50 to $65; choice milkers, $65 to $70; good, $40 to $50.

Feeders of good quality were in demand and are expected to remain so. Farmers are looking for quality in making their selection.

Choice lambs on Tuesday and Wednesday sold from 13½ cents with good at 13 cents. Heavy lambs are begining to appear on the market. Yearling sheep and other butcher sheep remain about steady. There is good demand for choice breeding sheep.

Choice veal calves sold this week from 10 cents to 11 cents; medium 8 cents to 9 cents. The calf trade has been steady, due to shipments to Buffalo.

Hogs sold this week at $13.00 f.o.b., $13.60 fed, and $14.00 off cars with premium on selects $2.00 per head.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Aug. 21 (Canadian Press).—The feature of the export trade in Canadian grain here yesterday was the demand from New York houses for Manitoba spring wheat and sales of new crop No. 3 Northern were made at 8 cents a bushel over the Winnipeg October option, c.i.f. Montreal for first-half October shipment. They were also bidding 39 1-2 cents per bushel over the same future for old crop No. 1 Northern on spot, but as none was available no sales were made. There were also sales of American malting barley at 85 cents per bushel, c.i.f., Montreal.

Business in ocean freights here was reported quiet, there being only engagements of a few loads of heavy grain to Antwerp and Rotterdam at 12 cents per 100 pounds for August loading, and odd loads were booked to Liverpool at 2s. 7½d. and at 2s. 10½d per quarter, and to Avonmouth at 2s. 10½d. for September shipment.

There was little demand for coarse grains on the local market, but prices were unchanged.

The export trade in spring wheat flour was quiet and little improvement is anticipated until new crop wheat commences to come forward, when it is expected millers will be in a position to compete more keenly with the foreign millers. The domestic trade was inactive, but prices were firm.

The volume of business in winter wheat flour was small, but the tone of the market was steady.

The demand from United States buyers for all lines of millfeed for prompt and nearby shipment continues good, but as there were none offering, business in this direction was checked. The local trade was steady. The tone of the market remained firm. The market for standard grades of rolled oats was quiet and steady.

Prices for all grades of eggs were well maintained under a fair volume of business. The butter and cheese markets were inactive, but prices did not show any change.

ONTARIO CHEESE

MONTREAL, August 22 (Canadian Press).—At the United Dairymen Co-operative auction sale of Ontario cheese, held here yesterday, there were 1,448 boxes offered for which 21 1-4c per lb. was bid for 1,015 boxes of No. 1 white, and 21 3-8c per lb. for 433 boxes of No. 1 colored, with 21 1-2c per lb. asked for both grades, and it was reported that the latter prices was paid for some later in the day.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Aug. 22 (Canadian Press).—Wheat advanced here yesterday, the market moving forward in sympathy with strength at Winnipeg. A rumor that there was a concentrated move on foot for Canadians to withhold their wheat from the market received little credence here, and with the exception of a short period in the early trading did not affect the market.

Closing quotations for wheat were the high of the day, 7-8 to 1 3-4c over Thursday's close. September selling at $1.61 1-8 to $1.61 1-2 and December at $1.60 5-8 to $1.60 3-4. Corn's close ranged from 7-8 to 1 3-4 advance; oats from 1-8 to 5-8c up, and provisions from 10 down to 25 cents up.

Houses with eastern connections who had been active on the buying side of the market during the day, increased their business just before the market closed, and the values shot up fractionally for the high figure of the day. Strength had been shown, however, before this, hardly an hour passing that a small gain over Thursday night's close was not realized. Local operators were on both sides of the market. An absence of any reports of low temperatures in the Canadian northwest received notice, but this seemed to be offset when reports from Saskatchewan were received to the effect that wheat was filling slowly and the yield would not be large owing to rust damage.

Trading in corn was quiet, featureless, and confined to commission concerns. Leading local bulls in this market seem to remain firm in their views. Prices acted in accordance with the trend in the leading cereal. Oats showed a steady undertone but the range was narrow and the trade light.

Provisions worked higher under scattered commission house investment. A firm with eastern connections was a good buyer of October lard.

A THOUGHT.

WHAT IS SUCCESS?

Success is the accomplishment of some definite objective in life by which we benefit the world, command the respect of the envious and hold the true affections of our friends.

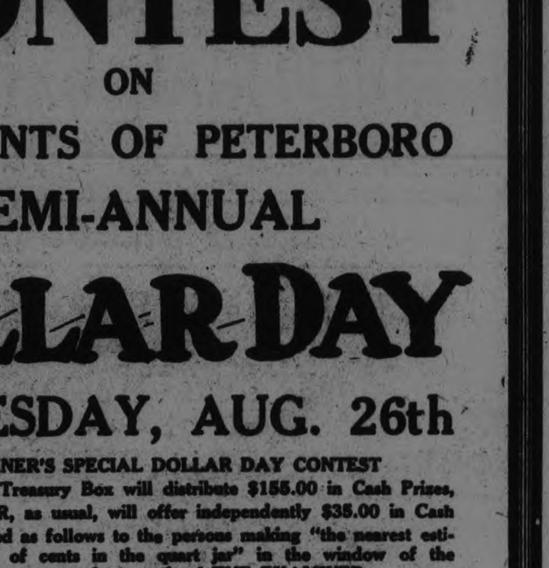
Here the thing we call "success" usually stops.

But the making of much money is quite another subject.

Every man should make considerable money so long as his plans and purposes do not interfere with the principles involved in the first paragraph.

There are two ways to get through life. One is the money-making route, and the other is the way that may or may not make so much money.

The real difference between what we call a failure and what is commonly called a success is all summed up in these two words—acquired or achieved.



Perils have not passed

HIGHWAY WORKERS ARE ENLISTED AS SPECIAL OFFICERS TO ENFORCE MOTORING LAWS OF NOVA SCOTIA

Officials Will Be Sworn in as Peace Officers to Protect Public.

SPEED LIMIT 35.

Intoxicated Drivers Will Be Prosecuted to the Limit of the Act.

HALIFAX, N.S., Aug. 22.—(Canadian Press).—Some five hundred divisional engineers, district superintendents and foremen of the Provincial highways will be enlisted in the enforcement of the Motor Vehicle Act, Hon. Percy Black, Minister of Highways, explained yesterday in announcing that the Motor Vehicle Department had been transferred from the jurisdiction of the Provincial Secretary to the Highways Department. These officers will be sworn in as peace officers for the enforcement of the Act, and it will be their duty in the words of instructions issued by the Minister "to protect the public, to protect the roads, to report promptly all motor vehicles that are operated without permits or proper number plates, to give courteous assistance to those requiring it, and to report all motor accidents in your district."

The instructions state that the Highways Board will consider a rate of speed over thirty five miles an hour under any circumstances "greater than is reasonable," and the officer is to warn the offender and send in a report. They further read:

"If a warning is not effective it will be the policy of this Department to prosecute vigorously without discrimination or favor, those who drive cars in an intoxicated condition must be prosecuted with the full rigor of the law under its criminal code, and to them no warning will be given."

The instructions also say:

"The people of Nova Scotia have an investment of fifteen million of dollars on the roads, and this investment, which is being endangered by reckless driving, must be protected."

Mr. Black also announced that four positions of inspectors under the Motor Vehicle Department will be abolished and advertisements are appearing in the press for persons qualified to act as motor cycle constables.

It is planned to have about a half dozen of these available for use in various parts of the province as required. Mr. Black suggested yesterday that men who had seen army service as despatch riders would be qualified.

Saskatchewan Spoils A Geological Survey

EDMONTON, Alta., Aug. 22.—(Canadian Press).—Shipwrecked on the North Saskatchewan River, lives nearly lost, and valuable cargo gone to the bottom, was the experience of Dr. J. A. Allan, Professor of Geology in the University of Alberta, and his assistant, R. J. Lamb, who have returned from an adventurous trip in the Foothill country. They were on a geological survey along the river, and on Wednesday of last week their boat struck a boulder and capsized. Neither of the men was injured but their outfit, including instruments, maps, and photographs, was lost.

ANTI-PROFANITY PLAN FOR HUSBANDS

"Free Service" Campaign in Connection With Home Furnishings Proves Popular With Peterborough Store — Draperies Hung, Rugs, Carpets and Linolelms Laid Free of Charge.

HOME FURNISHINGS.

The following is what the "Dry Goods Review" trade journal said of Cressman's Free Service Sale:

"Children Cry For It." So runs an often repeated headline of an advertisement of a well-known panacea for all the ills of infants.

"Husbands Fight For It," may become just as well known a slogan if an idea worked recently by the Cressman Company of Peterborough, Ont., becomes at all familiar. Lest the masculine reader be kept long in suspense reference is made to a "Free Service" campaign the Cressman Company put on in connection with the installation of home furnishings.

This "Free Service" consisted of the hanging of draperies, measuring and hanging of window shades, the laying of rugs and carpets, linoleum and oilcloth.

So there is to be no more hitting the wrong nail. No more profanity from the man of the house when putting down a carpet or an oilcloth. No more falling off chairs and stools when hanging curtains and draperies; and no more will the good wife complain about the husband leaving the hammer, tacks, screw-driver, hatchet and axe on the chesterfield in the front room—that is, of course, provided the "Free Service" idea is adopted generally the year round.

Windows and Cards Helped.

The campaign as put on by the Peterborough store was most successful. J. H. Cobb, who has charge of the windows and advertising, connected the former with the latter during the sale and told Dry Goods Review they both met with splendid response. Before and while the campaign was on, the window showed the various types of house-furnishings and displayed cards advertising the "Free Service," featuring especially the labor saving part of this method of purchasing on the part of the people in the home.

It didn't matter whether one wanted to put the drapery up or lay a carpet or linoleum at the time of the sale. As long as the article was purchased during the sale, the "Free Service" was given when required. At the time of purchase or as the home owner desired, the company sent a man to the house to measure up the windows; and at time of delivery an experienced man from the store was sent out to put the article or articles in their proper place.

NEW BRIDGE IS ALMOST BURNT

Fire in Lumber Pile Had Almost Reached Frame Work When Found.

NOTICED BY TOURIST.

DEPOT BRIDGE, Burleigh Township, Aug. 22. — A contrary wind and a passing tourist saved the old bridge and the framework of the new bridge from destruction by fire on Friday morning when an incipient forest fire started under a pile of lumber. Three or four hundred feet of dressed lumber was burned, and the 20 foot straight edge was destroyed.

It is supposed that some careless passerby threw away a lighted cigarette or a burning match, which smouldered in the carpet of pine needles and decayed wood until the middle of the night, when it burst into flame, fanned by a west wind. The fire ate its way under a pile of lumber and was not seen until a motorist passing at 1.30 gave the alarm. A party of men engaged during the day on road work, and camped nearby, turned out with pails and quenched the blaze. The fire was only three yards from the north end of the old wooden bridge and ten yards from the completed framework of the new structure. Some of the charred timbers were used for bracing, but the loss was considerable and further supplies are being pushed up to contnue the work.

Steel All Laid.

Although work on the new concrete bridge started only ten days ago, the steel has all been laid, weighing three and a half tons. R. Gordon, who is building the bridge for the county, expects to have it completed by the first week in September. With a fifty foot arch and a roadway 20 feet wide, the bridge will contain 1,490 cubic yards of concrete.

A little girl on arriving late at school for the third time was scolded by her teacher and told to write a composition on "Punctuality."

TWO DEAD, THREE SEVERELY HURT WHEN BIG AUOMOBILES CRASH AT INTERSECTION NEAR TILBURY

Car Was Crossing Highway When Struck Broadside By Heavy Car.

VIEW OBSTRUCTED.

Driver of Large Machine Had Wrist Broken—All in Other Car May Die.

TILBURY, Ont., Aug. 22.—(Canadian Press).—One person was killed instantly, another died about 20 minutes later, and three men were taken in a critical, and it is feared fatal, condition to a hospital in Windsor as a result of a collision of two motor cars about six o'clock yesterday evening at an intersection of the Windsor Highway near Tilbury. Mrs. Craven, of Delhi, was killed outright, and her husband was so severely injured that he died at St. Joachim, where he was taken in a passing 'bus. The injured are: Mrs. Bert McColl of Hamilton, Mrs. Mary Sheridan of Long Island, N.Y. and Muriel Craven of Delhi, granddaughter of the dead man and woman. All are bruised and cut.

Those who are dead as well as the injured were travelling from Comber to Stoney Point in the car of N. A. Craven of Delhi, son of the dead couple, who was driving. When crossing the Windsor highway their car was hit broadside by a large automobile driven by K. C. Lalonde, travelling salesman, of Toronto, who was on his way to Windsor. Lalonde's machine hit the other car with terrific force, carrying it fully 45 feet, and completely wrecking it. Lalonde escaped with a damaged wrist which may prove to be broken. At the corner where the accident occurred there is a corn field which obstructs the view, and this is thought to be largely responsible for the collision.

Mrs. McColl was picked up unconscious, while it was thought that the girl, Muriel Craven, was in a dying condition. Neighbors supplied cars for taking the injured to Windsor.

PARIS, Aug. 22.—(Canadian Press Cable). — Dr. Hubert J. Dr. Pocock claimed that in the cases of sciatica treated by him he cured 90 per cent. by moulding the pelvic bones.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Aug. 22.—(Canadian Press).—Arrested when he was found in a car which contained several bottles of whiskey, wine and beer, Harry Kline, Montreal, was fined in Police Court yesterday. His three companions, young men belonging to Harvestraw, N.Y., were allowed to go. The men were asleep under a blanket which also covered the liquor when they were arrested in King Street.

Bourassa's Paper Says He Wont's Enter Cabinet

MONTREAL, Aug. 22—(Canadian Press). — "Le Devoir," French - language newspaper, and organ of Henri Bourassa, comments as follows on the news item which appeared in the Toronto Daily Star apropos of a report that Mr Bourassa might be invited to enter the King Cabinet:

"According to a despatch from Toronto, the Star publishes the information, according to which 'Henri Bourassa, the Nationalist leader, may be invited to join the King Cabinet before the general election.' A long time ago, according to information equally exact, Mr. Bourassa was to enter the Laurier Cabinet, and then the Borden Cabinet. The news of the entry of our director into the King Cabinet is just as reliable as the preceding items were."

DISTRICT CORN CROP RECOVERS

Blight Prevalent on Potatoes Says W. H. Merrill—Wheat is Off a Little.

W. H. Merrill, who has been journeying through the agricultural districts of this and neighboring counties, says that the crops are well above the average in Peterborough, Durham, Northumberland and Hastings counties.

Fall wheat may drop a little below last year. A bumper crop of oats and barley seems assured, the grains being very heavy. Corn was somewhat backward, but has come on with leaps and bounds, and a heavy tonnage is looked for. Root crops are good generally; turnips and mangols especially. A promising outlook for good potato returns has been spoiled by the wide prevalence of blight. The second crop of alfalfa looks promising.

Taller Corn Stalks.

The following letter was recently received by Mr. Merrill:

Annandale Farm,
Tillsonburg,
Aug. 17, 1925.

Mr. W. H. Merrill, Peterboro:

Dear Sir.—I saw in The Examiner that there was a stalk of corn measuring 10 feet 7 in. in R. C. Heard's window, and grown by Geo. Stewart, Otonabee. I have a 22 acre field of corn and can pick out a number of stalks measuring 12 ft. 6 ins. It is the Pride of Niesha corn. Everyone says it is the best field of corn they ever saw. If you like, you can put this in The Examiner and let the people know what tall corn we grow up here.

CROW'S NEST PASS RATE FAIR; EXISTING RATE SYSTEM UNJUST

Pass Act and Manitoba Agreement Subsisting Statutes, Adds Submission.

AGREE ON TERMS.

Manitoba Government is Supported By Board of Trade and Farmers.

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 22. — (Canadian Press).—That the Crow's Nest Pass Act and the Manitoba agreement with the Canadian Northern Railway are still subsisting statutes, and that the agreed freight rates covered by the Crow's Nest Act on agricultural implements, binder twine, barbed wire, etc., are reasonable and fair, whereas the present system of rates is unjust, are main clauses in the submission of the Manitoba Government and supporting bodies to the Federal authorities re freight rates.

The submission was handed to the press yesterday by H. J. Symington, K.C., counsel for the Manitoba Government. Full agreement as to the terms of it has been reached between the supporting bodies, which include the Winnipeg Board of Trade, the United Farmers of Manitoba and others.

BIRCH ISLAND TO BE PRETTY PLACE

American Visitors Erecting Cottages on Beautiful Little Island.

MARMORA, Aug. 22.—Birch Island, situated in the centre of Crowe Lake, is a spot explored as yet by few of the residents of the Marmora district, yet it is not deemed too isolated by American visitors for summer occupation. The island takes its name from the fine specimens of white birch to be found thereon. It consists of eleven lots comprising 151-2 acres. A street of a hundred feet width passes through its centre. Three charming cottages of octagonal shape crown the island and are owned by Messrs. Wright, Lynn and Rhodes of Cleveland, Ohio. Each residence occupies one lot. It is understood that the eight vacant lots have been purchased so that it is only a matter of time before eleven dwellings will grace the isle. The place is almost cleared of underbrush so that when fully, occupied it will form a pretty picture. Communication with the mainland is, of course, by way of motor boat. Messrs. Sanford Lawrence's and Alphonse Shannon's services as the most trusty of guides are requistioned. At the present time, it is stated, there are eighteen persons sojourning beneath the birches. Adjacent by a few hundred fathoms, is the smaller Island known as Dark Point. This is unsurveyed as yet but there is the expectancy that it will be sought after as soon as the housing accommodation of the sister isle has been taken up. Mr. J. F. Bowen is the present owner of Dark Point.

BARREN AND SPARSELY SETTLED AREAS OF CENTRAL ONTARIO ARE HEALTH PROBLEM SUTTON SAYS

Agricultural Settlement Of This District Economically Unsound, He Points Out.

FIRST REPORT.

Territory in Peterboro, Haliburton and Hastings Counties. Suggestions to Dept.

Dr. N. H. Sutton's first annual report is included in the Provincial Department of Health's year book. It relates his activities in Peterboro and throughout the district each year.

At the outset Dr. Sutton refers to conditons in the northern areas of the district and continues:

The part to be considered in this is the County of Haliburton; the north-eastern three townships of Peterborough County and, roughly, the northern half of Hastings County. The basic reason for the presence of this problem is that agricultural settlement of this area is economically unsound. It will not adequately support an agricultural population. Such settlement having, however, been allowed to establish, it inevitably follows that it has suffered the steady loss of the best of its citizens to more promising areas, and those who have remained have felt the deadening influence and hopelessness of toil inadequately remunerated.

The sparseness of the settlement and distances from neighbours meant lack of real community life. We have therefore now to deal with problems of unattended or insufficiently attended sickness, lack of sufficient maternity care, lack of education, and the need for mental hygiene, social hygiene, and social service generally.

Bancroft Needs Hospital.

In January I visited the Hastings Medical Society and took up with them and their committee appointed to deal with this subject, the problem in so far as it obtained in Hastings County. The first step, in their estimation, would be the establishment of a Government-assisted small hospital in Bancroft Village, which is the centre of a forty mile area of more or less isolated small villages and neighborhoods, such hospital to be staffed with one or more nurses, one of whom would have the hospital under her charge and do a certain amount of public health nursing. The other to be specially in charge of public health nursing in the area and assist in the hospital when special need arose. Before arriving at this conclusion, various other plans were discussed; amongst others, the subsidizing by the Provincial Government of recent graduates to take up residence for a time in some of the isolated village which were strategically so situated as to serve a considerable area. It was noted that if a young man were subsidized thus, why should a subsidy not also reach the older men who were already in the area and had borne the burden already for many years.

Another plan suggested was, allowing those in their final years to engage in practice in the area under the supervison of neighbouring doctors, or in the alternative, the supervision of District Officer. It was felt by most of the committee, however, that the right type of student might not be obtained, and the last state of the people be worse than the first. Other suggestions offered did not have sufficient attraction to be seriously considered.

Later in the month I attended the meetings of the County Councils of Victoria and Peterborough and took up with them this problem, to see whether in their opinion—they being the elected representatives of these people—the problem existed at all acutely in their area.

Appeal to Government.

In Victoria County it was not extent to any great extent, and in Peterborough only presented itself in the northeasterly three townships. In Haliburton, the problem exists most specially in the southeastern part of the county in a range of townships above the northeastern part of Peterborough County and bordering the northern part of Hastings County. It was in this area that the Red Cross has had an outpost in the Village of Wilberforce. Later the County Councils of Hastings and Peterborough passed resolutions requesting the Provincial Government to examine the matter, with a view to establishing small hospitals at Bancroft for North Hastings, and Apsley for north-eastern Peterborough.

During the summer I have had one of the Provincial nurses allotted to my district, working in Bancroft and the surrounding area. She very early found that social service would have to be added to her nursing work, and has been carrying on on that basis with my hearty approval. When she has finished going over the area, she will have a very valuable report, throwing further light on this problem which has for a long time cried out for solution.

During the year, various demonstrations have also gone forward in my district by nurses of the Department, and gradually the ideal of public health nursing is being spread among the people and commending itself to them wherever demonstrations have been given. It is a period of rigid economy, and new expenditures, however much they might commend themselves, are simply not being indulged in by muncipal councils, where by any possible excuses they may be put off or vetoed; hence no new appointments of resident public health nurses have been made in the district.

The end of January saw the nursing demonstration in Lindsay completed, and in spite of a very large representation of all the women's organizations in the town, and of the Board of Education, the council refused to ratify any new expenditure and a nurse was not appointed. The Board of Health, under these circumstances, fought shy of exercising their power to appoint one, and it may take considerable time or the loss of some children's lives in an epidemic to bring things again to a head.

Demonstration in Campbellford.

The appointment of a Public Health Nurse in the village of Longford, a project fostered by an industrial concern, immediately followed a nursing demonstration at that place. The presence of a sharp outbreak of scarlet fever in Bowmanvlle, is, I am assured, to be followed by the appointment of a Public Health Nurse there at the beginning of 1925. The demonstration during the late summer and early spring in Campbellford met with very warm approval, but so far here also will the endeavor to reduce tax rate prevent the appointment of a Public Health Nurse, though it is intended if possible to extend this demonstration throughout the Township of Seymour surrounding the town of Campbellford, and it is expected that the two municipalities may combine for the appointment of a resident nurse.

During the autumn, another demonstration is in progress in East Peterborough, centred on the Village of Norwood.

In February I was able to go about with Dr. Brink to visit the medical men in the various towns and assist him in establishing visiting points for his travelling chest clinic at strategical points in the district.

In the month of March I undertook, in conjunction with the Canadian Social Hygiene Council and its local organization, to put on their Social Hygiene Exhibit. In this work we were indebted to the Provincial Board for the loan of the wax figures and the services of Miss Moore and Mr. Jones, together with the films and literature. The exhibition was held for a period of two weeks, and in that period was seen by over 4,700 of the adult population of Peterborough and surrounding townships, as well as some visitors from points further distant in the district. The membership in the local Social and Hygiene Council jumped from less than 50 to 350. That the interest is still keen amongst many people is evidenced by the fact that inquiries concerning this work are still coming in from quite a wide area.

In the autumn the local council had a tent at Peterborough Exhibition, with a necessarily smaller exhibit, but again a gratifying attendance and a keen interest was evidenced. Certain organizations in Belleville and other places are endeavoring to pave the way for a similar exhibit in their towns. I regard this as a work which promises great results.

Kawartha Lakes.

During the summer I carried on intensive work on the sanitary condition of the increasingly populous summer resorts of the Kawartha Lakes region. I found many things that were in great need of rectification and was able to accomplish a very gratifying amount of improvement. That this is needed is shown by the results of the examination of water taken at various points along some forty miles of lake and river. Not one of these failed to show pollution, which in some places was fairly massive. This throws an interesting light on the presence of a certain amount of annual summer diarrhoea in various parts of the resort area, and will assist considerably in finally tightening up the sanitation to the degree which should obtain.

Most of th autumn has been taken up with routine work, of which I only mention investigations into the typhoid epidemic at Belleville, the salient points of which were the necessity in urban areas of getting such facilities installed as will insure a muncipal water supply, which will be attractive as well as pure, and will allow the closing of the private wells which are always a source of danger in urban centres.

KING ALFONSO, INCOGNITO, DISCUSSES HIGH COST OF LIVING WITH WORKINGMAN

Hopped Aboard Street Car in Bordeuax and Received Light For Cigarette From Fellow Passenger.

PARIS, Aug. 22 (Canadian Press)—Recently, says the Cri de Paris, a tall man, elegantly dressed, swung himself upon the platform of a street car in Bordeaux and took out a cigarette.

His lighter failed to work whereupon a fellow passenger politely gave him a light from his own cigarette. Then the two men entered into conversation on the perennial topic of the high cost of living.

"I suppose you are a manufacturer?" said the workman.

"No, I have no business," replied the other. "I have an old house, which descends from father to son."

"Things are going well?" asked the workman.

"Why they might go better," replied his vis-a-vis.

The tall man, says the Cri De Paris, was Alfonso XIII, King of Spain.

WEDDING AT TEMPLE.

Popular Bandsman and Song Given Notable Wedding.

The wedding of Bandsman Watson Butcher and Songster Adelaide McIlooney took place in the Salvation Army Temple on Thursday night, at 7.30; the ceremony was conducted by Commandant A. Smith, and both parties were dressed in their full uniforms. Deputy Bandmaster B. Smith and Florence Butcher, sister of the bridegroom, accompanied them to the platform. After the ceremony was over Commandant Smith called upon each of the newly wedded party to speak. Both declared that their zeal for the Army duties should not be lessened in the future.

Bandmaster F. Robinson spoke as to what a good and efficient bandsman the bridegroom had been and wished them both every blessing. The Songsters sang an appropriate selection, also the Temple Band rendered a very fine selection for the occasion

The wedding party departed for Kingston, where they will remain for a few days, after which they will return to Peterborough, where they will reside.

WOMEN MATCH CLOTHES TO MARKINGS OF DOGS

Smart Set Fad Started at Richmond Show.

LONDON, Aug. 22 (United Press).—Women of the smart set have started a new style—matching their gowns to the colors and markings of their dogs.

This daring fad was first tried at the Richmond Dog Show, when a social leader, Mrs. Warner, exhibiting four blooded Dalmatian coach dogs, affected a costume marked with irregular black spots similar to those of the dogs. The new mode is the reverse of a fashion which prevailed a while last summer in Paris, when fashionable women colored their dogs to match their gowns.

Supreme QUALITY NEW CHRYSLER SIX

At the completion of the first history-making year of Chrysler Six—Walter P. Chrysler pledged himself and his organization to strive earnestly to keep the Chrysler Six as far ahead of the wasteful and commonplace as it stood at that moment.

The new Chrysler Six—at new and lower prices—is the answer to that promise—the result of his engineering and manufacturing genius which never rests satisfied.

While the motoring public acclaims the Chrysler Six as the most phenomenal car ever built, Walter P. Chrysler announces notable improvements in quality—of materials, of performance, of craftsmanship, of equipment, of design.

Greater Power—Increased cylinder bore, resulting in approximately 10 per cent more torque, giving 70 miles per hour with greater ease and quickness than ever before.

Faster Acceleration—5 to 25 miles in 7 seconds, power enough to climb the steepest grades and pull through deepest mud or sand, from refined power plant with a still larger crankshaft of 50 per cent greater torsional rigidity.

Remarkable Fuel Economy—Carburetion improved to deliver 24 and more miles per gallon of gasoline, notwithstanding increased power and faster acceleration.

Improved Rear Axle—Ring gears and pinions are larger; differential carrier heavier to handle increased engine power.

Distinctive Color Combinations—Body colors, in Duco, are the most attractive and tasteful ever offered. Chrysler-designed, Fisher-built closed bodies are further refined; attractively low and gracefully rounded.

Extraordinary Equipment—Chrysler equipment is of a quality and completeness rarely found on any car—even the highest priced. It includes Purolator, which filters all dirt from crankcase oil as the motor runs; Watson Stabilators, the most efficient and most costly device of its type to absorb the shock of road irregularities; air-cleaner, which removes all road dirt and dust from air entering the engine; thermostatic control of water heat for most efficient operation; Chrysler-Lockheed hydraulic four-wheel brakes which provide utmost safety of control; Spartan "SOS" electric horn; duco durable body finish; balloon tires.

Cold words fail to describe this new Chrysler Six—a car so far beyond any comparison with existing cars that you must know it personally to understand its unapproachable superiority. That is why we are eager to have you see and drive it for yourself.

A demonstration will prove conclusively to you why today's Chrysler Six strides far ahead of competition.

CANTON GOVERNMENT SEPARATE FROM PEKING AND IS INFLUENCED BY ACTIVITIES OF BOLSHEVIKI

Rev. W. A. Shantz, Returned Missionary in Peterboro, Explains Present Conditions in China.

SINCE REVOLUTION.

Chinese in Canada Were Mostly Farmers In Own Country.

The Rev. W. A. Shantz, who is in Peterboro with Mrs. Shantz, conducting a series of missionary meetings at Bethany Tabernacle, has spent more than thirty years in China and has a great insight into Chinese character and thought. Mr. Shantz, who was born near Kitchener, went out from this country under the auspices of the Christian and Missionary Alliance to China, where he met his wife, formerly Miss Minnie Davidson, of Peterboro.

"Canton, where the present trouble has originated, is not under the Pekin Government," said Mr. Shantz to The Examiner.

"Canton has been more or less independent since the Revolution and overthrow of the Manchu Emperors. The late Dr. Sun Yat Sen was the moving spirit of the Revolution, and after the expulsion of the old rulers he became the President of the Provisional Government, but was eventually superseded by Yuen Shih Kai, who had been in command of the Imperial troops, and going over to the side of the Revolution carried out the negotiations that led to the abdication of the Emperor, and established himself as President of the Republic. Sun Yat Sen was able to maintain himself in Canton and the government he set up has never been expelled and has added to the difficulties of establishing a single government for the whole country."

Labor Revolution.

The social and economic problems that followed the introduction of modern machinery into China are largely responsible for the present unrest. Undoubted grievances such as low wages and insufficient accommodation have gone hand in hand with an increasing cost of the necessaries of life. Labor unions of a kind have been in China for generations, but with the advent of Western industrial conditions these unions began to fashion themselves after the Western pattern. The Chinese, says Mr. Shantz, have a natural genius for organization and the unions increased greatly in strength. Canton alone is said to have 200 unions. The strike has become their natural weapon and several disputes tied up industry until the unions gained their point.

Mr. Shantz is convinced that Bolshevik agitators have fomented the present troubles. Britain, as the most strongly entrenched of the Western Powers and as a foe of the Soviet, has come in for much of the rancour directed against foreign nations, while there are many long-standing grievances against Japan. Memories still prevail of the preposterous demands made on China by Japan during the Great War. The students of China, imbued with Occidental ideas, particularly resented Japan's unjust demands, and instituted a "Kneel and Weep day" of humiliation. Japan's demands were put aside at the Washington Conference under pressure from Great Britain and the United States—a fact that is generally overlooked by the students to-day, who are indulging in fulminations against these two Powers.

No Government to Act.

One fact that militates against a treaty between the European Powers and the Chinese Government is that there is really no government which can speak for the whole of China. Theaties made by the Pekin administration are not honored by the Canton Government, and vice versa, while the situation is further complicated by the complete semi-independence of some of the other provinces which alternate between autonomy and submission to the Central Government. All the contending parties are more or less in touch with the Soviet; especially is this the case in Canton, which is largely supported by labor unions in close communication with Russia. An indication of this sympathy is shown by the fact that after the death of Dr. Sun Yat Sen, memorial services were held at Bolshevist centres all over the world. The labor conditions in the Concessions, says Mr. Shantz, are not of the making of the Western nations, although he adds the latter are certainly exploiting these conditions.

To Marshal Feng, the Christian general, the Canadian missionary gives great credit for the possession of a sincere desire to pilot his country out of its difficult impasse. Feng's contention is that the country would soon get into a normal condition if the warring military chiefs would still their feuds and retire to the background, leaving matters to be straightened by a civil administration. Feng has on several occasions resigned in the hope that others might follow his example but has invariably been compelled to take up arms again to defend the state from one or other of the military chiefs who threaten to sacrifice the entire nation on the altar of their own private interests.

Foreign Interference.

With regard to relations with the Western nations, China has both a credit and a debit balance. To those Powers she is indebted for protection from further encroachment and exploitation at the hands of Russia and Japan. But many other things have acted as irritants on the Chinese and have helped to bring on the present disorders. The import duty on all goods coming into China is collected by foreign officers who get a large proportion of the whole before the Chinese authorities get their country's share. China must get the consent of 13 nations before she can raise the import tax on a single article.

All these things have rankled in the minds of educated Chinese who have been awakened to national consciousness and long to see these injustices removed.

While there is often manifested a prejudice against foreigners in most parts, there have not been much interference with the missionaries. The students are often irreligious and communistic, and as such are opposed to religion of any kind, while there is a small minority which seeks to make an exclusively Chinese religion, incorporating beliefs from various religions. Practically all these students have as their motto "China for the Chinese." Bolshevism makes little headway among the peasantry of the interior, whom Mr. Shantz praises for the possession of the virtues of industry and love of peace.

Most of the Chinese seen in this country are Cantonese, says Mr. Shantz, and the average Chinaman is an agriculturist, not a laundryman or a restaurant man. These occupations are taken up after arrival on this side.

While the Chinese are by no means faultless in the present situation, Mr. Shantz thinks that the Great Powers could have done more towards bringing them to an appreciation of our aims and ideals by the exercise of some of the virtues that the religion which we profess inculcates. The Christian Church in China is now passing through a critical period, but in the Church lies the chief antidote to lawlessness and confusion that Bolshevism will bring in its train.

HILLIARD STREET.

George Hilliard was born at Dundas, Ontario, in 1827. His father was a British officer who made his home in this country. Hilliard came to Peterboro in 1847, when he was employed as a clerk with a lumber company. He left Peterboro for a short time and opened a store in Omemee, but soon returned to Peterboro to manage the lumber business in which he had been formerly employed as a clerk. He ventured into the lumber industry on his own account in 1862 and established a thriving business in the town. Some years later he added a flour mill to his interests. Entering politics he was returned as Conservative member for Peterboro in the Dominion Parliament in 1878 and again in 1882. He died on June 23, 1892.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

DICKY FINDS A NEW FRIEND.

Something bounded across the path in front of Dicky, dragging a tuft of grass behind it, and disappeared behind a bush.

Dicky scooted up the path, careful not to make any noise for fear of frightening the little fellow.

He peeked around the bush and there, as busy as a bee, stood the queerest little animal Dicky had ever seen.

He was just about as large as Dicky's pet rabbit, with a tail almost a foot long. He hopped around on his long hind legs poking sticks here and there in what looked to Dicky like a brush heap. He looked so very funny hopping around that Dicky forgot himself and snickered.

"Oh, that's all right," chuckled the animal, turning around quick and facing Dicky. "I knew you were there all the time. You see I can tell a friend of Happy Giggles or Squeedee any time I see him. Do I look funny to you, Dicky?"

"You certainly do, hopping around like that," laughed Dicky. "If I didn't know better, I'd say you were a kangaroo. But your hind legs sure do look like Mr. Kangaroo's hind legs and you use them about the same."

"Of course I do," laughed the little animal. "Why shouldn't I? I am a cousin to Bobby Kangaroo. Sure, I belong to the Kangaroo family, only they call me, Potto Potoroo."

"I'm mighty glad to know you, Mr. Potoroo," said Dicky politely. "May I ask why you are poking sticks and grass into that brush-heap?"

"Brush-heap, nothing," chuckled Potoroo. "That's going to be the home of my new wife. You see we are not like some of our friends. We don't live under ground, but when I get through with this house, it might just as well be twenty feet under the ground, for no one will ever find it. I have a great knack of hiding my houses. I first dig out a hollow place large enough to hold my family, then I build this clever roof of sticks, grasses and leaves. I made every bit of this myself," and he invited Dicky to peek into his little wigwam.

"But where did you find all the grasses and stalks you have in your roof?" asked Dicky. "How did you get them here anyway?"

Potto Potoroo laughed merrily, and raising his tail he wrapped it all around a large tuft of grass and lifted it into the air.

"Just that way," he chuckled. "Not a bad thing to have a long tail, after all, is it?"

"That's what I saw you dragging after you, wasn't it?" Dicky laughed.

"Just what I had," replied Potto Potoroo. "Now my house is finished and this tuft of grass and leaves you see here," pointing to a pile right near, "I use to stop up our doorway when my family are inside. Now I must go after my family. Come and see me again sometime," and shaking his tail so that the brush of long hair on its tip-end waved like a plume, Potto Potoroo bounded down the path. Dicky watched him out of sight. Then he turned and ran for home.

Making Use of a Long Tail.

The Extreme of Devotion.

"My husband's devotion is unique," the young bride said to a caller.

"How do you mean, unique?" asked the caller. Does he eat your cooking?"

"Not only that," said the young bride, and her voice, as she spoke, trembled with pride and emotion. "Not only that, but he refuses to let me eat it."

THE FIGHTING RANGER

By F. J. McCONNELL and GEORGE W. PYPER.

Almost transfixed with wonder, they kneeled in the midst of the treasure, picked up handfuls of it, and let the precious metal and gems slide through their fingers, in an ecstasy of greed. At last, when they had marvelled at the treasure for several minutes, Buck's thoughts returned to earth, and he cried: "Quick. Back to the car. Bring the boys to help move the stuff. I sent them up to the camp where you jumped with the parachute. You'll find them there by now. Rush them back here. I'll stay on guard."

"They'll want proof," said Stella.

Buck filled her hands with gold and gems, which she placed in her handbag, then started off.

CHAPTER 33.

The Crash in the Clouds.

Stella's car had been faltering. Suddenly it stopped dead on her. She got out to inspect.

"Out of gas!" she exclaimed.

She started to survey the region. Down the road, a short distance, her eye lighted on a white house. She darted toward it. As she came up she saw a sign: "U. S. Forestry Station." She approached the door and knocked. A woman answered.

"My car is stalled, out of gas," said Stella, pointing. "I wonder if I could buy a few gallons from you? I must reach Pico as soon as possible on a vital mission."

"Why, certainly," answered the woman, the forest ranger's wife. "I'll be glad to help you. My husband's out, but I guess we can manage."

The ranger's wife disappeared, returning in a few moments with two five-gallon cans. She helped Stella carry them to the car and fill the tank.

"You can't think how grateful I am," said Stella, and reaching into her purse to pay. She found she had no money, but withdrew a few lumps of the gold from the cave. "Oh, I've run out of cash, but an old Yaqui friend staked me to this—won't you take some of it?"

She handed several pieces of the gold to the woman, leaped to the car, still overwhelming the puzzled woman with voluble thanks, waved good-by, and sped away.

The ranger's wife returned to the house with the gold, perplexed and suspicious as to its origin.

* * *

Mounted on horses they had borrowed from a friendly group of prospectors they had run across during their hike, Terence, Mary and Bud were now rapidly approaching their destination. Joyfully Terence pointed to the sky where an airplane hovered.

"That must be my friend," he cried. "We're almost there."

They pulled up at the ranger's house at almost the same moment that he had, descended to his field in back. He came running from the machine to greet them.

"Hello, Jack. Surprised to see us?" asked Terence as they shook hands. After they had been introduced all around, the ranger's wife excitedly drew forth the gold she had received, and told of her strange visitor.

Understanding leaped to Terence's face.

"That must be Stella Montrose," he exclaimed, examining the gold. "Yes—it means they've found the treasure."

He explained briefly the situation to Jack.

"Take my plane to spot her," Jack cried. "We'll follow up in the car."

Bud went with Terence toward the plane, while Mary was led by Jack to the car. Terence mounted to the pilot's seat while Bud spun the propellor, then ran back and jumped in with him. They were off. As the plane took to the air, the automobile containing Jack and Mary, rolled swiftly out upon the road.

* * *

Stella became aware that a car, coming at a mad pace, was pursuing her. She was speeding her own machine to its limit, taking the most desperate chances, and defying death on every turn of the road, yet each time she looked back she noted with dismay that the pursuing car was gaining upon her.

At last, She was near the camp where Bud's men were to be. But as she came up to the familiar spot she saw no one was there. Something had gone wrong.

The pursuing car came on.

Ahead, dragged out on the road from the shrubbery in which it had fallen after she had leaped from it in the parachute, lay Bud's airplane. As she saw it, she resolved to make a last desperate attempt to escape. She drove furiously up alongside the plane and stopped. Abandoning her car, she feverishly swung the propellor of the plane over. The motor hummed. She leaped into the pilot's seat, and taxied down the road. She left the ground just as the pursuing car, with Mary, and Jack the ranger, drew up in a cloud of dust.

* * *

"She's taken to the air—in that lame plane," cried Bud, looking down from his seat behind Terence up in the air, and startled to see the other plane arising from the ground.

Terence looked over from the pilot's seat, saw Stella's plane coming up, and started to let his plane drop toward it.

"She'll kill herself sure—that plane, in its condition, will get out of her control any minute," Bud exclaimed.

He was intensely worried, for in spite of her treachery, there was still that warm spot in his heart for Stella, lingering from the memories of the old days.

"We'll get close up and see what we can do," said Terence, veering his machine in the direction of the other.

"If you'll drop close right over her, I'll do one of my old air changing stunts drop into her plane and take care of her," suggested Bud.

Terence agreed, and circled his plane about for the maneuver. Soon they were following close behind Stella's plane, flying at the same height. The plan was to rise just above her as they overtook her, far enough to let Bud swing by his hands above the other plane and drop in.

But Stella, seeing she was about to be overhauled, and desperate, almost hysterical, grimly set her teeth and decided upon a bold coup. She shifted her controls, and her plane swept around in a startling side spin, turning completely about into the very face of the pursuing plane.

"She's gone mad," shouted Terence, as the two planes swept crazily on toward each other. He shifted, trying to veer from the other machine's path, but Stella's machine followed his move—they were too close for another shift—it was a matter of only an instant before the crash now. Nothing more could be done—the two planes shot toward each other—and crashed.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

SUNDAY AND MONDAY, AUGUST 23-24.

Sunday's astrological forecast is not an important one, although it holds a warning against reckless or injudicious use of money. Avoid risk and sign all papers with precaution. Be careful in employment.

Those whose birthday it is should refrain from reckless and extravagant use of money during the year. They should sign papers carefully and guard the employment. A child born on this day should be trained to be conservative and frugal in the use of money. It should find happiness in its love affairs.

Monday's horoscope shows much activity in business and in employment, with good prospects of increase and promotion, provided rash acs and disputes be avoided. Heart and home affairs should thrive and be happy.

Those whose birthday it is may look for pleasant and profitable conditions in both business and personal affairs if they refrain from impetuous acts and quarrels. Employment is favored. A child born on this day may be versatile and accomplished, but will succeed best in the employment of others.

A NOVEL CAPE EFFECT IN CLOAKS IS THE MODE

Smart Variations of the Cape Idea Bid for Milady's Favor.

By ANNETTE BRADSHAW

The new cape treatment which is being featured so strongly for Fall is appearing in models for practically all times of day.

We have smart two-piece suits with jaunty cape backs. We have dainty dance frocks with filmy capes which float from the shoulders, and we have longer coats with attached capes.

Two versions of these Fall coats are shown in the accompanying drawing. One is for daytime and the other for evening.

The day coat, at the left, is developed in woolen material of tan, and tan barred with red. The plain red portion makes the plain lower section, and above this is the tan and red fabric, extending down on the plain lower part in vest formation. The flaring body of the coat and the sleeves are cut all in one, so that the wide cape almost hides the plain body section of the coat.

The evening wrap is made of crinkly silver cloth, shot with royal blue. This latter shade, by the way, is one of the newest for the Fall season. The facing and lining of the wrap is of coral colored velvet and the trimming is blue fox.

Cape treatments are also popular for the new Fall knitted models. We see numbers of these of brown and dark red and deep yellow and rose, made on straight lines with string belts, and with short capes dropping from the shoulders.

The pastel tints, which have scored for Summer frocks, will be repeated in the Fall in light weight woollen materials.

A Coat of White Wool Crepe Trimmed with Black and White Silk.

We are told that finely striped fabrics and the well-known shepherd's checks are coming in for their share of fashion prominence.

Certainly finely striped black and white silk is never more attractive than when it makes trimming bands for plain white, as in the coat above.

The wool crepe coat is cut on straight lines. The striped silk makes a double rever, the upper layer being much wider than the lower one.

Home-Making Helps

SALVAGING SUMMER CLOTHES

The end of vacation days means the careful consideration of summer wardrobe.

Linen dresses or suits should be washed. If they are colored, they may have a little dye of the same color put into the rinse water which will restore the faded places to their original color. If they have not been shrunk, they should have hems let down and be ironed before they are dried, never sprinkled as that is apt to spot them. A little salt dip before they are washed will set the color in most cases. It is all right to iron the suits unless they have to be crumpled in a trunk, then they may be put away in a blued cloth.

Bathing suits should be thoroughly washed, dried and mended before being put away, safe from moths if they are woolen ones. Silk ones need to have the salt water washed out of them just the same as the wools do.

Summer wash silk dresses ought to be carefully washed and ironed. Lace dresses should be cleaned, brushed carefully, and mended, then they may be hung over a tub of steaming hot water which will bring back their freshness. After this treatment, they may be folded away in tissue and put into boxes or trunks where they will not be crushed. Sweaters should be washed carefully and dried to measure, that is stretched on a padded table and pinned to measure, turned and dried on the other side in the same way.

Almost all the summer silk and crepe scarves wash if they are done carefully and after the pressing if they are folded in tissue in a box, they will come out fresh and new another summer.

Hats that have faded should have the trimmings ripped off, linings out, then the straws may be boxed until another year when they may be reblocked, dyed, or in some way used again. Trimmings that are still good may be cleaned and put away for future consideration. Coats and dresses of cloth materials it is best to have dry cleaned, as they do the work well, and you are taking no chances with home methods.

With children's clothing, it is wise to let down hems, remove ribbons and have them washed, then put them away rough dry.

Troubles you expect worry you more than troubles you already have.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a young girl in my teens and brother's pal says he loves me dearly. But he goes out with other girls.

Do you think it possible that he loves me? LOVESICK.

LOVESICK: This young man may be very fond of you and still choose to meet his other friends too. He realizes that it is his privilege to make new friends and to continue his old friendships since he is not engaged, and he is wise to take advantage of this privilege. I suggest that you, too, do not spend all your leisure time for one friend and limit your friendships only when you are engaged.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl in my teens and have been going with a young man of eighteen. He goes out with other girls, but he gets angry if I speak to any other young men. MAYFLOWER.

MAYFLOWER: I am sure you realize how unjust this young man's attitude toward you is, and it is up to you to convince him of his unfairness, my dear. Tell him quite frankly that since it is your privilege to see your other friends you are going to avail yourself of it. If he is narrow-minded enough to object I suggest that you discontinue your friendship with him. The only time you need limit your friendships is when you are engaged.

About Ourselves And Other People

By Winifred Black

HOW A LITTLE SICK GIRL SPREADS JOY

Dear me how delighted she was—the little sick girl.

Some one had brought her some garden roses, all fresh with the dew on them and there she lay in her narrow bed with a bed table across her lap, and on that table she had three vases—No, it was two vases and a bowl—a tall, slender vase of glass, a gray-green vase of pottery and a nice clear glass bowl.

She took the glass bowl first and in it she put one of those little "frogs" that the Japanese use when they want to make flowers look as if they were growing.

She arranged the pink roses with their green shiny leaves in the glass bowl, and how she did love the work. She put her little flaxen head on one side and smiles at the roses as if she were looking into the eyes of some dear friend.

Then she took the gray-green vase and in it she put the crimson roses. What a time she had making them look "just so!" And, in the tall glass vase she arranged some white roses with little sprays of delicate buds. She hummed to herself as she worked and when she looked up she was so radiant with happiness that her face fairly shone.

"How lovely summer is," she said, "and the roses, how happy they make me."

Now let me tell you about that little girl She has never had a dress on in her life, nor a pair of regular shoes. She has never been out of the hospital grounds since she was eight years old and she is nearly 20 now.

She has not a relative in the world. The lodge to which her father belonged, when he was living, pays all her expenses at the sanatorium. She has pretty curtains at the windows and a flowered counterpane with roses on it and pictures on the walls and a little shelf of books and a gay little kimono and some bright red bed-room slippers, and the other day a friend brought her a silver filet for her head, and it is so pretty on her flaxen hair.

Her nurse is very proud of her lovely blonde hair and keeps it shining like gold, and there is hardly a day that someone does not come to visit the little girl who has been ill so long. The janitor pops in on his way through the hall, the head nurse brings in a friend to sit a while, the doctor's wife comes for half an hour's chat, and dear me, how much the little sick girl knows about everybody's troubles and everybody's joys! She rejoices with those who are happy and weeps with those who weep.

I believe if you asked her about it she would tell you that she is a very happy girl.

Who dares to say that a generous heart and a good disposition are not the greatest heritage in the world?

RAYBESTOS TEAM ELIMINATES LINDSAY FROM O. B. A. A. RACE COMES FROM BEHIND TO WIN OUT

Peterboro Representatives Scoring Thirteen Runs in Sixth Inning and Oulette Has to Quit.

A WOOLLY EXHIBITION.

Lindsay Led By Seven Runs at End of Third, But Raybestos Kept Fighting Until They Finally Won.

(By F. D. C.)

The Intermediate O.B.A.A. clash between the Lindsay Big Four winners and the Raybestos team at the Exhibition Ground last evening was one for the book.

The Raybestos crew won 20 to 12 in a six innings game, thus eliminating Lindsay from the Ontario race—but wait, "you ain't heard nothing yet."

Peterboro's representatives with "Shag' Shaughnessy as the first pitching choice carrying into the box with him nothing but a sore arm, tried to make a harvest-tide gift of game to the visitors in the first inning, when they threw four juicy errors in with their Lindsay hits to net the invaders six runs.

Spotting any team with Johnny Oulette on the rubber six runs and then beating them would ordinarily be considered about as easy a task as giving Nurmi a hundred yards' start in a mile race.

At the end of the third frame the Big Four title holders were sitting out in front with a 10 to 3 lead and Raybestos looked to have about as much chance to win as the Boston Red Sox have of capturing the American League pennant.

Then Bill Duggan was brought in from centre field to the heaving mound for the Peterboro gang and he put the clamps on the visitors' scoring efforts, holding them to two runs in the next three frames.

Meanwhile the Raybestos' gang were picking away manfully at Jack Oulette's offerings, picking up runs here and there until when they went to bat in the last half of the sixth, the score was 12 to 7 against them.

Then came the deluge that saw the disappearance of Oulette, the chasing out of the game of Brown, the Lindsay catcher, and a fine burlesque to end the proceedings, Raybestos scoring thirteen runs before the inning terminated.

Duggan, first up, got a life on McDonald's fumble; Moore dropped a single into left; O. Nicholls walked, filling the bases. Corrin bounched a hit over the box, scoring Duggan, and Rogers singled to 3rd, sending Moore in. H. Nicholls walked, forcing in O. Nicholls, and Shaughnessy singled to left to score Corrin and Rogers, the latter carrying over the tieing run, and with two balls and a strike on Batten the next batter. Oulette walked out of the box and the veteran Dooley Starr took up the twirling. He connected Batten's pass and then struck out Grose, but Duggan's long sacrifice fly to Langdon sent O. Nicholls home with what was destined to be the winning run.

The Raybestos were not nearly through for Moore, Nicholls, Corrin and Rogers came through with hits in a row and runs came thick and fast.

Brown, the Lindsay catcher, suddenly conceived the brilliant idea that if the side was not retired before the game would have to be called on account of darkness, the score would have to revert back to the previous innings, and he began to let every pitch from Starr go by, until finally Umpire Alex. Kay chased him out of the game and Richman took his place. He missed a few, too, but not intentionally and the Raybestos total for the inning had reached thirteen before Manager Coursey, batting for Batten, was called out for bunting foul on the third strike.

It was too dark to continue.

Duggan's good performance as a relief pitcher and the hitting of the Raybestos crew led by Rogers, who had a triple, double and two singles in five times to the plate and scored four runs were the chief Raybestos feature.

Oulette, whose arm had been giving him trouble did not look much like the speed ball artist of Central Ontario League fame. His control was bad when he tried to put anything on the ball, and when he eased up to get the range, the Raybestos socked the pill to all parts of the field. His pitching wing went to the bad entirely in the sixth, and after the game the ex-Belleville heaver expressed a fear that he had thrown it out at the shoulder.

Raybestos will meet Deloro in the next round next week.

KILLED IN RUNAWAY.

Farmer Dragged By Frightened Young Team.

PICKERING, Aug. 22 (Canadian Press)—Andrew Annan, farmer and life long resident of Dunbarton, was almost instantly killed yesterday afternoon here when a team of young horses which he was holding took sudden fright, dashed across the road and dragged Annan after them. He was pulled over the dashboard and dragged by the reins, receiving such severe injuries to his head that he died in a short time.

SPORT GOSSIP AND COMMENT.

Peterboro fans who saw last night's intermediate game at the Exhibition Grounds could not help but feel sorry for Johnny Oulette, Belleville's pitching ace last year, who toiled on the mound for the Lindsay crew with a lame arm and could not hold a seven-run lead. Oulette gave the best he had and may have permanently injured his arm as a result, and fans who remembered some of his brilliant Central Ontario League performances felt an element of tragedy in the spectacle of the Fenelon Falls boy walking out of the box in an intermediate game after the opposition had crashed through his delivery for five runs in the frame with nobody out.

* * * * * * * * *

Catcher Brown of Lindsay got his signals crossed when, after Raybestos had taken the lead in the sixth inning, he refused to catch anything Starr threw, evidently having the idea that if he kept it up long enough the game would have to be called on account of darkness, and that the score would revert back to the fifth, leaving Lindsay in front. He'll have lots of time to read the rules before next season.

Although he had a couple of fumbles, Buster McDonald, Lindsay shortstop, who formerly played in the Central Ontario League, showed last evening that he hasn't forgotten how to cover the territory between second and third.

TRENT JUNIORS LOSE LACROSSE

Campbellford-Hastings Won Three in Four Games From Havelock-Norwood.

GOALS COUNTED.

(Special to The Examiner).

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 22. — Campbellford-Hastings Juniors defeated Havelock-Norwood combines 6 to 5 in an O.A.L.A. game played here yesterday, but lost the round by 10 goals, after winning three of the four-game series. The Trent town boys won the first game in Norwood 9 to 7, and increased their lead in the second game played here to six goals on the round, winning 7 to 3. In these two games, Campbellford-Hastings looked all over the better team; then things began to happen; McArthur and Cochrane, two star defence men, left for the West. Gould and Cruickshanks, the Hastings boys, were playing ball for their home town last Wednesday when Campbellford went to Havelock. The Campbellford management could only muster eight men to make the trip. However, they went and played the full game with eight men against Havelock-Norwood's ten, and the railroaders piled up 17 tallies. Not much credit to their prowess or their sportsmanship, but it won them the group championship for after Cruickshanks was injured early in the first period, Havelock-Norwood looked just as good as the home boys. In fact their passing was perhaps better; they were playing a careful defence game, and took few chances on losing possesion of the ball.

McArthur and Cochrane were badly missed for while all the regulars played good lacrosse the inexperienced boys, who filled the gaps, were woefully weak, and it made it that much harder, for the regulars. The loss of Cuickshanks early in the game was another hard blow. H. Baker cut him down with a slash across the nose with his stick and the Hastings boy was unable to continue. The same player handed Gould a butt end near the close of the game, and the two dropped their sticks and staged a Dempsey-Carpentier exhibition but were soon parted.

Jack with three goals and H. Baker two were the Havelock-Norwood scorers and for Campbellford-Hastings Parsons scored two, Harry Ingram, Fred Ingram, Gould and Les Blake, one each.

The line-up:

Campbellford - Hastings — Fox, goal; Ingram, point; Bush, c. point; Bland, 1st defence; L. Blake, 2nd defence; Ibey, centre; H. Ingram, 2nd home; Parsons, 1st home; Cruickshanks, outside; Gould, inside; Comkell, F. Blake, subs.

Havelock - Norwood — Rathwell, goal; McGee, point; Darling, c. point; Scott, 1st defence; Laing, 2nd defence; centre, Kitchen; 2nd home, H. Baker; 1st home, C. Baker; outside, Plunkett; inside, Jack; subs, Russaw.

Referee — C. Holmes, Campbellford.

TOM CURVIN'S RINK WON MEYERS CUP AT CAMPBELLFORD TOURNEY

Local Bowlers Defeated Rev. D. C. Ramsay, of Belleville in Final Game.

SCORE SUMMARY.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 22. — Peterboro bowlers won the most valuable piece of silverware at the annual tournament held here yesterday, when T. E. Curvin's rink captured the Meyers Cup, which last year was held by the Bunting rink of Port Hope. The opponents of the Peterboro bowlers in the finals was the Belleville rink skipped by that doughty knight of the green, Rev. D. C. Ramsay, who in the semi-finals eliminated the rink from his home city, led by the no less famous player, Wray, who at the tournament a year ago carried off the Wiggins trophy. Curvin's players were John Howden, Martin Chenhall and John Bacon, who played in the order named. The first and second men did as much as any in the quartette to win the game. Howden, the oldest man on the rink, made some of the best shots of the entire tournament, and Chenhall more than once got his bowls so close to the kitty that he could not have done much better if he had placed them by hand without any rolling preliminary. Skip Ramsey, too, lived up to the reputation which he has established on every green in the district, and was ably supported, his players being F. Liberty, J. Galloway and T. Turley. The final score in favor of Peterboro was 16 to 9. The first prizes to the individual players in this event were Jaegar blankets, and the second cream and sugar sets.

Warkworth Wins Consolations.

The silver cup donated by Walter S. Wiggins, and which for the past year has been held by the Bunting rink of Port Hope, was won by a rink from Warkworth, skipped by Clayton R. Smith, of Toronto, and who for the past seven years has been secretary of the Dominion Lawn Bowling Tournament held every year in the Queen City. Warkworth in the finals faced the Port Hope rink skipped by William J. Oke, who in the semi-finals defeated Wray of Belleville. The men led by Skip Smith were Morley E. Smith, Dr. H. Allen and Bruce Thompson. This was one of the best games of the entire day, and the credit for Warkworth's victory in a large measure belongs to Dr. Allen, who pulled his rink out of many a close corner.

Besides Skip Oke the men in the Port Hope rink were W. B. Johnston, R. Hayden and L. Cann. Before the final game started, as the hour was late, the Port Hope men offered to flip a coin for the cup but Warkworth insisted on playing, and the contest lasted until 1 a.m. The score was 17 to 8, Port Hope giving up without playing their half of the last end.

Besides the cup which goes to the rink each player on the Warkworth team was awarded an electric lamp, which will add to the already brilliant Hydro illuminat'n in that village and help to swell the surplus which the commission finds upon its hands.

Each of the Port Hope runners up drew as prizes set of 1847 Roger spoons.

L. B. Glover, president of the Campbellford Bowling Club presented the prizes to the winners and the skip of each victorious rink made suitable acknowledgment.

Peterboro had four rinks at the tournament and Warkworth sent six, two-thirds of their entire membership

The following was the record for the day:

The Consolation

In the consolation the four skips whose rinks went through to the semi-finals were Wiggins and Smith. J Oke and Wray.

Wiggins and Wray were eliminated and then Warkworth defeated Port Hope. Neither of the winners of the cups at last year's tournament lasted to the finals. After both had lost out in the primaries, Bunting was put out of the running in the first round of the consolations Wray was eliminated in the semi-finals.

The I.O.D.E. served refreshments to the players during the day to the players, and the different events were carried on without a halt. The green was in splendid condition and the local bowlers, if they were unable to win either trophy or prize have at least the satisfaction of knowing that their annual tournament was a brilliant success.

PETERBORO HORSES AT COBOURG SHARED HEAVILY IN PRIZE MONEY

G. N. Graham, R. Denne and Mrs. J. S. Chandler Prominent Among Many Exhibitors.

ATTENDANCE LARGE.

(By A Staff Reporter)

COBOURG, Aug. 22.—Peterboro has been represented at the horse show here by nine equines. The exhibitors from the Electric City were George N. Graham who had his string of six in the competition, Roland Denne with his two beauties, Gipsy and Duke, and Mrs. J. Chandler who entered her chestnut mare, "Vmy Ridge".

The prize winning by these Peterboro horses started on the opening day of the show. On Wednesday each of the Peterboro exhibitors had an entry in the class for district ladies or gentlemen's single outfit. George N. Graham's horse took first rize, a handsome cup, Mrs. Chandler's, second prize, also a cup and Roland Denne's Gipsy was awarded the ribbon. On the same day all three were represented in the class for district harness horses over 14½ hands, and again Mr. Graham and Mrs. Chandler won first and second respectively and Mr. Denne took third with Duke and fourth with Gipsy. There is no city or town represented at the show which is winning so high a percentage of prizes of the number of its entries.

More Prizes Thursday.

The first event on the programme Thursday afteroon was the class for district horses suitable for a lady to drive. Mr. Graham in this class took first prze, Mrs. Chandler was second and Mr. Denne's Duke was fourth.

In the class for district runabouts, mare or gelding, Mrs. Chandler's "Vimy Ridge" won first and Mr. Graham's entry was third, Miss Gertrude Lewis of Port Hope taking second.

An Eye to Business.

Mr. Denne has an eye to business while he is here. He and the other Peterboro exhibitors had one purpose in view when they brought their horses here other than the winning of prizes. It is hoped that the horse owners of Cobourg and district will reciprocate and bring ther horses to the Peterboro Exhibition. Mr. Denne has a number of attractions in view which he hopes to be able to bring to Peterboro. Among these is the famous six horse team, the property of the Dominion Transport Company, a team that has been one of the features of the Cobourg show, and which were greeted by a thunder of applause every time they entered the ring either singly on the halter or in harness. No finer heavy horses were ever before seen at the Cobourg show. The pair of wheelers, the place of responsibility and honor in a strong team, are valued at $2,700. All six are of the same color and are both, in conformation and in gait. They were driven around the ring Thursday hitched to one of the company's heavy wagons and their action was as graceful as that of so many hackneys, their speed, too, being remarkable, considering their weight. The driver of the string handled them as easily as if he had only a pair of horses to drive.

Roseneath Horse A Winner.

The breeding of heavy horses of a fine type is not being neglected in Ontario and the Cobourg horse show always brings out the best of these. Thomas Carew of Roseneath got first prize for his Clydesdale Stallion "Remainder", the condition being that the entries should be three years old or over, imported or Canadian bred.

Allan B Mann, of "The Hawthornes," Bridgenorth, who has been a winner with heavy horses and hackneys at the Cobourg show in the past, was not here this year, the heavy harvest demanding all his attention, the ripening of the crops this season synchronizing with the big annual event in Cobourg.

A Financial Success.

The officials of this show have devoted time and money to make it a success which it has proved year after year since its inauguration. The amount of money distributed for prizes this year totals $16,000 and the only source of revenue is the gate recepts and what comes in the form of grants. The prospects are bright that this season there will be a surplus. On the opening day $600 more was taken in at the gate than was collected on the corresponding day in 1924. A fine musical programme is furnished by the Queen's Own Band of Toronto and a concert was given by this organization Thursday night to a large and appreciative audience.

RELIGIOUS FANATICS SLAUGHTER 50 NATIVES

Attempted Forcible Conversions in Belgian Congo.

CAPETOWN, South Africa, Aug. 22. — Canadian Press. — A despatch from Elizabethville, Belgian Congo, says that religious fanatics in the neighborhood of Sakania, attempting to make forcible conversions, slaughtered 50 natives in one village.

A small patrol of native police were driven off with a number killed or wounded. Troops have been sent from Elizabethville to quell the rising.

PUPILS TO CROWD THE COLLEGIATE

Two Hundred Will Apply For Seats When Term Opens.

"As the schools of the city reopen in ten days, it is time to call attention to some facts regarding the Collegiate Institute," said a member of the Board of Education to The Examiner to-day.

"This building is crowded to the doors, as many students, who have been turned away in the past, can testify."

"The South Central School, in which the Commercial Department of the Collegiate is housed, giving only a two-year course, had 172 students registered last year. A number of those who finish the two years would like a third year but are unable to get it, as we cannot make room for them. The full Commercial course is three years, and as we can give only two years of this course, the loss in Government grants in salaries alone last year was $5,500."

"This year 315 passed the entrance examinations, of which 240 are public school pupils. As all but one or two of these are under sixteen years of age, they must attend school somewhere, unless they obtain working permits. At least 200 of these children will apply for seats in the Collegiate.

"It will be a case of 'first come first served,' and parents will be well advised to have their children at the Collegiate on the opening day, September 1st."

INSIDE GOLF.

By CHESTER HORTON
Maker of 51 Golf Champions, "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

One of the most interesting studies in golf is found through observing the change of backspin on the ball into forward spin. We find this principle ever present in the putt. This is why the blade should always be caused to hit down on the ball rather than straight out through it in putting. The action is a good deal like a draw shot in billiards. The first tendency of the correctly putted ball is to start back-spinning and this causes it to start away for perhaps the first inch of its journey without any roll at all. It then starts rolling with a true forward spin because all its energy has been applied in one place and in one direction. When the ball is hit a straight slap or perhaps an upward blow its energy is scattered and the ball will wabble on its course. Hit down on it and its true overspin will cause it to run straight for the cup.

CARRICK ENTERS MATCH ROUNDS

Canadian Amateur Champion Qualifies in United States' Open Golf.

POOR SECOND ROUNDD.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Aug. 22.—(Canadian Press). — Despite a bad putter and a consequent eighty, Don Carrick, young Canadian amateur champion, qualified in the western open golf championship yesterday with sixty-four other golfers. The maximum score of admission, 151, was several strokes lower than that ever known before. Al Watrous, of Grand Rapids, led the field with a pair of seventies for 140, and but one stroke behind him came Densmore Shute, amateur champion of West Virginia, MacDonald Smith and William Klein, of New York, each with 141.

Carrick's fall for eleven strokes on the greens after his remarkable 69 Thursday, found him yesterday low down in the list, one of the four amateurs to qualify. The others were Shute, Eddie Held of St. Louis and Joe Wells of East Liverpool.

Individual honors of the day went to John Farrell, of New York, whose sixty-eight was the only score to break 70 yesterday. This with his 74 of Thursday, put him in third place with 142. Larry Nabholtz, of Cleveland, who led the field Thursday with a 67, yesterday required 76 strokes in the high wind, but tied for fourth at 143 with Francis Gallett, of Milwaukee, and Emmett French, of the home club.

CAPITOL THEATRE ENTERTAINMENT

Scrip Books on Sale Monday, August 24.

Of interest to motion picture theatre goers of Peterboro' and all of Canada, is the announcement that Famous Players' Canadian Corporation, Ltd., is placing on sale in fifty-seven of the theatres this company is operating in the Dominion, including the Capitol Theatre, "Capitol Entertainment Scrip Books," starting Monday, August 24.

These Scrip Books are of two sizes, the $10 book selling for $8.50, and the $5 book selling for $4.50. The books contain coupons of three denominations, 5 cents, 10 cents and 25 cents, and are to be accepted at the theatre box offices in exchange for admisson tickets in the fifty-seven theatres announced in the advertisements.

The company has decided to make the coupons interchangeable, detachable and transferable. A book purchased in this city not only can be used at the Capitol, but coupons from the same book will be accepted for admission in any theatre in Canada of the fifty-seven enumerated. One book can be used by an entire family, which is the advantage of the detached coupons.

The company expects a rapid sale of the books, not only for every-day use of the motion picture goer who can save substantially in the cost of such entertainment, but as seasonable gifts which can be sent to friends in other cities where Scrip Book theatres are located.

Placing on sale of the Scrip Books is the feature of the Famous Players' Canadian Corporation's fifth season of "Capitol Entertainment."

"Capitol Entertainment" has become a household word in Canada. It represents the best in motion picture entertainment, comfortable and well-appointed theatres and courteous service.

The Famous Players' Canadian Corporation has the pick of the best pictures from the world's largest studios, the most famous stars and directors, and the output of the foremost men and women who write and adapt for the screen.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

COLLEEN HERE AS "DESERT FLOWER"

Famous Screen Flapper in Delightful New Role at Capitol.

Colleen Moore was never more delightful than she is revealed this week at the Capitol Theatre in her latest First National attraction, "The Desert Flower."

The picture, an adaptation of the stage offering of the same name, recently presented in New York by Al Woods, teems with the action and color of Western life. It presents Miss Moore in the pathetically poignant guise of little Maggie Fortune, step-daughter of a brute of a step-father, section boss of a railroad construction gang on the desert, and whose inherent instincts for the better things of life seek to find expression through a baby sister, whom she sends away to enjoy the refinements of a real home and education, while she herself goes into a mining camp dance hall to provide the wherewithal of it all.

How in this rough environment she yet wins and retains the respect of all, and through her budding love for the errant scion of a fine Eastern family redeems the recalcitrant rolling stone and extracts her own reward from a world that yields happiness all too reluctantly, is compellingly set forth by the gifted little star.

Lloyd Hughes and a cast apparently chosen with special care for their peculiar qualifications for the roles entrusted to them gives Miss Moore excellent support.

AT THE ROYAL.

COUNTRY STORE NITE MONDAY.

Country Store Nite will be held on Monday as usual, in addition to the massive production, "The Mark of Zorro," with Douglas Fairbanks.

FAIRBANKS' LATEST PICTURE HIS BEST

Critics and Public Wonderfully Enthusiastic Over "The Mark of Zorro."

Never before has Douglas Fairbanks waxed so enthusiastic over the success and admiration of a picture than he has over "The Mark of Zorro," his fourth United Artists' production which will be the feature attraction at the Royal Theatre, beginning Monday.

The story is an adaptation of Johnston McCulley's novel, "The Curse of Capistrano," which appeared in the "All Story Weekly" magazine.

Those critics who have viewed "The Mark of Zorro," have proclaimed that Fairbanks has excelled any of his previous performances. This is due to some extent to the ingenious story and the opportunities afforded "Doug" to make the greatest use of his athletic ability.

The background of the story is centered around early Southern California of nearly a century ago when its destinies were zealously guarded by the Spanish settlers. History records the occasions when the Spanish emigrated to the southwest of North America in a climate somewhat similar to that of their native country. They brought with them not only their customs and art but always manifested an alluring spirit of romanticism, chivalry and glamour that has never yet failed to make a strong appeal to even those of another race. We have always known them to be a rollicking type, ever fond of their wines, their native dances and music, and strongly imbued with a love and adoration for those whose lot it fell to perform valiant deeds. Extreme courtesy under all circumstances was a virtue endeared to the hearts of all; hence their intense love for the chivalrous. As years passed, their posterity perpetuated their mode of life and though conditions may change their history will never remain extinct.

SCOTCH NIGHT AT THE ROYAL NEXT THURSDAY

The audience at the Royal next Thursday will be invited to join in all the favorite old time songs from Bonny Scotland. GASOLINE BILL OF $396,000 FOR PEAK OF SEASON

Peterboro's Outlay For Seven Months Reaches Huge Total.

1,200,000 GALS.

An Estimate of Gasoline Distribution From 45 Local Stations.

Peterborough and its immediate neighborhood, spends approximately $396,000 in gasoline during the seven peak months of the motoring season. It takes 1,200,000 gallons of gasoline to keep the autos going during that time.

If all Peterborough's "gas" was brought in at one time it would take a train of 150 tanks, each with a capacity of 8,600 gallons. Such a train would be nearly a mile long. Stored in one place, it would require a tank 20 feet in diameter and over 260 feet high. If this stream of gas was run down White's creek at the rate of 25 25 cubic feet per second, it would require 21 hours to pass a given point.

From Peterborough the revenue department collects $36,000 tax on the gasoline used.

Ten motor trucks distribute the gas from the oil companies' premises to the gasoline supply stations in the city.

Four companies have plants in the city, while a fifth—the Shell Company—distributes from Lindsay.

Within the city are the Imperial Oil Company, with a brand new up-to-date plant, opened this year, near the junction of Park and Romaine Streets, the Canadian Oil Company, on Hunter street, East City, McColl Bros. at the north end of the city near Nicholl's Oval, and the British American Oil Company, also in East City. All these plants are on the Canadian National Railway which derives a great revenue from the huge volume of freightage.

The Imperial Company has been 37 years in Peterborough, and is the oldest oil company in the city. Next in point of time comes Canadian Oils. McColl Bros. established themselves here 2 years ago and the British American Company opened in the spring of this year.

According to a competent authority on gasoline, curb pumps may soon be things of the past and will be replaced by up to date service stations. Recent development in Peterborough have all been in this direction. Cowan and Underhay have remodelled their building at the corner of Charlotte and Aylmer into a double draw-way service station. Storey and Webster at the corner of Stewart and Charlotte street built a new service station last winter which has been operating all season. At the corner of Smith and George streets a new and up-to-date station will soon be opened by an American firm, while also on Smith street, ground is being turned for another station which it is understood is being built by a Colborne man. The Robert Hicks Company, operating the commercial service station on Charlotte, have installed a large underground container, capable of storing a railway tank car load of Pennzoil gasoline direct from the refinery. From a reliable source comes the information that two additional up-to-date service stations will be built during the Fall.

Included in the larger supply stations are the older established Duffus Garage, A. Brown's, Gillespie's, Howden's, Selkirk and Elliott, and others.

Besides those mentioned, there are in the neighborhood of 40 curb pumps within the city limits, with several others just over the boundary.

SUDDEN STORMS CAUSE INSANITY

Sudden Pressure Changes Promote Strange Impulses In Organism.

JUMPS FROM WINDOW.

LONDON, Aug. 22. — (United Press).—The sudden change of barometric pressure accompanying a sudden storm changes a person's pulse rate and occasionally drives him insane.

Captain J. R. Muir of the Royal Naval Hospital at Haslar advanced this startling theory in connection with the death of a patient at the hospital who jumped to his death from a window during a recent storm.

"Impulses to do odd things are accentuated or brought about by sudden changes in atmosphere pressure," declared Capt. Muir in testifying at the patient's inquest. "When these changes are very marked and sudden the difficulty is to kee people sane. A sudden fall in the barometer produces impulses to jump or otherwise act rashly."

The patient, who was in the hospital for treatment of an injured toe, Capt. Muir said, he'd probably been upset by the barometric change caused by the storm and had jumped from the window quite unconsciously. The jury rendered a verdict of suicide while temporarily insane.

Man Almost Loses Life Trying To Rescue Cat

ST. CATHARINES, Aug. 22. —Trying to rescue an ordinary house cat, which had got up a power line pole and was evidently afraid to descend near the Beaver Board Works at Thorold last night, Peter Dulchewsky nearly lost his life. Dulcheswky in his rescue work climbed a ladder and came into contact with a live wire before he reached tabby.

Another man, Mike Kurvitz, seeing Peter was in distress, ran up the ladder and tried to assist him, but when he toucher Peter, Mike got such a shock that he was rendered powerless. Other men in the vicinity succeeded in pulling Dulchewsky loose after he had been severely burned. After it was all over the cat daintily descended the pole and departed for home with not even a hair singed.

Fire Leaps Across to Canadian Side.

NELSON, B.C., Aug. 22 (Canadian Press).—Fanned by a high gale, the small Washington state town of Boundary, just south of the international line, was destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon. The fire has spread to the Canadian side and is now sweeping towards Waneta.

Around The City.

The fire department was called out yesterday for a chimney fire at 617 Downie street. Another call was received this forenoon to 529 Weller street—also a chimney fire.

STATIONS DISMANTLED.

Two Large Wireless Depots Being Scrapped in Ireland For Junk.

DUBLIN, Aug. 22 (Associated Press).—The two great Irish wireless stations at Clifden, County Galway, and at Ballybunion, County Kerry, are being dismantled and sold in lots or broken up for scrap. Clifden, during the Irish fighting, was destroyed by the irregulars, and though compensation for the damage was made dependent on its reinstatement, the owners preferred not to reconstruct, and sold it to a Sheffield firm of iron merchants. The most conspicuous feature of the plant was four steel masts, each 325 feet in height, and each with its guy ropes weighing 100 tons.

The Ballybunion station was originally erected as a possible rival of the station at Clifden and was bought over by the owners of the latter and never used. Its masts were of wood and were 525 feet high. Difficulty in disposing of it is caused by the fact that there is no transport by rail. The monorail railway connecting Ballybunion with the general railway system at Listowel has been discontinued. When constructed it was supposed that its smaller demand for space for the track would lead to its general adoption throughout Europe but it found no imitators.

U. S. Terms To Belgium Are Hint To Other Nations

LONDON, August 22. — Canadian Press.—Considerable space is given over by British weekly newspapers to the Belgian debt settlement with the United States. The New Statesman regards it as important, because it says, it may be taken for granted that the terms of the report are the most lenient terms the United States is prepared to grant to any of her European debtors. This paper believes that they therefore report also the minimum standard which the British treasury may be expected to adopt in the forthcoming negotiations with France and Italy.

Voice Which She Herself Never Heard Spoke to Friends.

FIGIS LISTEN IN.

SUVA, Fiji, Aug. 22—(Associated Press).—Helen Keller, speaking at KGO broadcasting station at Oakland, Cal., was heard distinctly here on a recent evening. Miss Keller was introduced by her lifelong friend and teacher, Miss Annie M. Sullivan, who taught her to talk, read and write, helping the noted blind and deaf girl to form the basis of her remarkable education.

Miss Keller's voice, which she herself was destined not to hear, was heard on this occasion in Australia and New Zealand. Reports of the reception of the Oakland program in those countries have been received here.

GERMAN ADMIRAL LAUDS SUBMARINE

Calls It God Given Gift To Protect Against Blockade

BERLIN, Aug. 22 (Associated Press)—Vice Admiral Hollweg deplores the fact that the German submarine war was not started earlier and carried though ruthlessly. For then, he declares in an article in the Deutche Allgemeine Zeitung, all American armaments and munitions would have proved worthless and Hindenburg, and not Wlson, would have won the war.

The admiral speaks of submarine warfare as a "God-given gift" which had been entrusted to Germany in self protection against "the inhuman blockade which, though sanctioned by America was a violation of all precepts of international law."

The writer emphatically denies that it was the unrestricted submarine campaign which induced America to enter the war. Those Germans "who still adhere to that opinion, as Count Bernstorff," he refers to as "poor simple-minded cosmopolitan souls."

MODERN DOMICILE IS SHOCK PROOF

May Be Dropped And Upset Without Showing Results.

LONDON, Aug. 22 (By Mail to United Press).—Britain's crying need for more houses is giving inventors a wonderful opportunity.

The latest type of house marketed is guaranteed to perform circus-like stunts without detriment either to its weather-resisting properties or habitable qualities.

The promoter, Dr. G. Underdown, makes the following claims regarding the houses he recently built to the order of the Norwich City Council.

To lift a house two feet and drop it to the ground without a crack.

To turn it over on its side and re place it without a crack.

To lift and remove it bodily any reasonable distance after thirty days.

This so impressed the City Council that it ordered another thousand dwellings of a like nature.

ADOPTION OF BABY GIRLS MORE POPULAR THAN BOYS

LONDON, Aug. 22.—(By mail to the United Press).—There is a boom on in London in the adoption of baby girls.

Boys are a drug on the market but the demand for girls for adoption is way in excess of the supply.

"The demand for baby girls for adoption is so great that if we had 200 of them we could place them in good homes at once, declared the secretary of the National Children Adoption Association. "We find that most people prefer girls for adoption because they grow up to be a greater comfort in the home. Women who cannot have children of their own are eager for the companionship of an adopted daughter."

One three year old boy in the home was "snapped up" recently by an American milloinaire who came to London with his wife for the special purpose of securing an English boy for adoption. The family already had three daughters but no son.

RUM RUNNER RAMS PATROL

After Being Tied to Agent's Craft the Smugglers Wrecked the Craft.

MADE ESCAPE.

DETROIT, August 22.—A rum-runner hauling whiskey from the Canadian shore in a speed boat rammed a Government patrol boat on the Detroit River late last night, after his boat had been tied to the Government craft, and escaped. The Government boat had a big hole torn in the stern, and the Federal prohibition patrol put off to the American shore immediately. Their boat was rapidly filling with water, but they succeeded in beaching the craft before it sank.

The two officers were patrolling the river near the Canadian shore at Walkerville when they saw a man, known to them as Joseph ("Milk River Joe") Casprorticz, loading his boat with whiskey. Waiting until he put out from shore, they headed him off.

Although the rum craft, fitted out with an aeroplane motor, has a speed of 50 miles an hour, and the Government boat has only a 10-mile-an-hour speed, the agents criss-crossed in front of the rum craft, until they hemmed itin and came close enough to grab a rope trafling from the boat.

One officer fastened the rope to the Government boat, but the rum craft started to back up until it was head on. Then, with the motor wide open it rammed the Government craft and escaped. The agents had no guns, and with the hole in their boat were unable to give chase.

GOVERNMENT MANDATE DOES NOT EXPIRE UNTIL JAN. 1927, SAYS PREMIER IN POLITICAL REVIEW

Will Not Be Stampeded Into an Election to Please Conservative Party.

TRACES RECORD.

Believes Government Has Won Increasing Confidence of Electors—Is Non-Commital.

OTTAWA, Aug. 24. — (Canadian Press).—"Whether or not the present Government will call another session of Parliament is for the Government to decide. We do not propose to be stampeded into any dissolution of Parliament just to please the leader of the Opposition and his press." So declares Premier Mackenzie King in a statement to the Canadian Press last night.

Premier King's statement refers to public discussion which has been taking place with regard to the possibility of a general election this year. He proceeds: "The responsibility of carrying on the country's affairs has been given us by the people.

"We have exercised it, notwithstanding all the difficult circumstances with which we have been confronted, in a manner which, we believe, has won us a steadily increasing measure of public confidence. Under the circumstances, the responsibility of advising a dissolution would appear to be quite as great as that of continuing to carry on, despite the difficulties of government which we necessarily experience. When we have reason to believe that there are national considerations so imperative as to necessitate an appeal to the electorate, I shall not hesitate to acquaint His Excellency the Governor - General with our views and to press for a dissolution of Parliament. When that time comes, I shall be equally prepared to state the reasons to the public."

Is Non-Committal.

The statement deals in some detail with the political situation. While not making any specific declaration whether it is or is not the intention of the Government to call another session of Parliament before advising dissolution, Premier King observes that the Government first met Parliament with a majority of one before the Speaker was appointed. To-day, after four sessions, the Government had a majority of one without counting the Speaker. "This surely," he adds, "does not look like any lack of confidence on the part of the electorate such as would necessitate a general election before another session." He remarks that Mr. Meighen did not hesitate, when Sir Robert resigned in July, 1920, to form a Conservative administration and hold office for a year and a half without any authorization on the part of the people. "Of all people in the world," says Premier King, "it ill becomes Mr. Meighen to attempt to dictate the time of dissolution."

The text of Premier King's statement follows:

"It has been my custom each year, as soon after prorogation as circumstances would permit, to make a review of the work of the session the occasion of an address to my constituents. I have followed the further practice of making this the first of a series of political addresses in different parts of the province or of the Dominion. This practice I intend to follow this year, and I am at present in communication with my friends in North York as to a suitable date and place for a meeting. It has not been possible to arrange this earlier. The recent session of Parliament was a long and very arduous one. It was followed by the West Indies Conference and we were well on into the middle of July before there was opportunity to give consideration to numerous matters arising out of the work of the session, and which were held over to be dealt with when Parliament prorogued. There was, moreover, an accumulation of correspondence with which it was impossible to cope while Parliament was in session. It is only within the past few days that I have had opportunity of conference at any length with my colleagues in the Government and fellow-members of Parliament concerning a number of matters demanding careful thought

Temperance Drink Wanted To Taste Like Something

LONDON, August 24. Canadian Press. — United News.— Budding inventors who may have feared that with the coming of wireless telephony there would be nothing worth while left to tinker with, can set themselves to work on the following:

Flexible glass, that may be bent at will; unshrinkable flannel; a noiseless airplane; an easily cleaned tobacco pipe; simplified but not freakish clothing; an improved fog signal; a temperance drink that tastes like something and will keep for an indefinite time.

These suggestions, thrown out by the Institute of Patents, are part of a long list or requests from business firms, which declare that a fortune is assured inventors of any of them.

BRITISH GOVERNMENT IS SUED FOR INSANE EGYPTIAN PRINCE

Writ Claiming $22,000,000 Filed By His Princess Mother in Effort to Secure His Release — Attacked Present King Eight Years Ago.

CONFINED IN ENGLISH ASYLUM.

LONDON, Aug. 24. — (Canadian Press).—A writ claiming $22,000,000 has been filed against the British Government, it was learned last night—the latest chapter in the romantic story of Prince Saiff-Ed-Din of the reigning house of Egypt who for 23 years has been an inmate of a private asylum near here.

The suit was brought by his mother, Princess Newd Juan Kanem Effendi, in an effort to obtain her son's release.

Prince Saiff-Ed-Din's troubles began 27 years ago, when he was just out of his teens. His sister was married to a Prince, now King Fuad of Egypt. One day she told her brother some story that caused him to attack Prince Fuad. There was a struggle, ending in his arrest and sentence to seven years' penal servitude for attempted murder. He was later found insane, and for some unexplained reason transferred to an English asylum.

BODY OF AGED BROWNTON MAN FOUND IN HOUSE ON SUNDAY

John Taylor Had Been Dead Several Days, Authorities Think.

LIVED ALONE.

Neighbor Missed Recluse and Called on S. R. Pearson to Investigate.

The body of John Taylor was found yesterday at 2.30 in his house on New Chamberlain Street by John Barnes, who is a near resident. Mr. Barnes had remembered the occasion of George Taylor's visit to his brother about two weeks previous, when he had stated that he did not expect to see him again.

Mr. Barnes, thinking of this and remembering that he had not noticed John Taylor about, called on S. R. Pearson, and on investigation the body was found in a much decomposed state. Mr. Pearson is of the opinion that death had occurred about two weeks ago, but neighbors aver that Mr. Taylor was seen withing a period of a week.

A nephew, George N. Taylor, of Port Hope, has been notified of his uncle's death, and will take charge of the estate.

After a consultation of Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton, K.C., and Coroner Dr. T. W. H. Young it was decided that an inquest was unnecessary. The body was interred at 11.00 this morning in Little Lake Cemetery.

SEVERAL MISHAPS.

Tire Blows Out, Resulting in Temporary Loss of Control and Car Crashes.

The week end took its customary toll when one auto containing four plunged over a drawn bridge at Nassau on the iRver Road; two cars clashed on Sherbrooke and George; a child was bruised about the head when knocked down by a car at Hunter and George; a blown tire caused an auto to leap into the ditch and scatter itself against a pole; and a cyclist was knocked from his mount by a car coming out of the C.P.R. yards.

A Ford car driven by J. Martin of Campbellford and containing his 14 year old son and two others including a lady was being driven from Lakefield along the river road at from 15 to 20 miles an hour at about 2.30 on Saturday. The bridge was swung to allow a motor boat to pass and the bar was in its place across the read.

Apparently not seeing the opening Mr. Martin drove his car against the barrier and it plunged through the gap to the bank of the Trent Canal. The driver was taken to Nicholls Hospital with his shoulder dislocated and his head cut. The other three in the party suffered from minor cuts and bruises, but were not seriously hurt. Soft Hat With Unbound Rim Is Thing in London And Handkerchief May Be Same Shade As Necktie

LONDON, Aug. 24 (United Press)—The revolt is on today against Oxford trousers, double-breasted "Swallow-tails" and other extreme fashions in men's clothes. Conservatism is demanded for the coming season by the style makers of Bond Street, Oxford Street and Saville Row. The word for the moment is semi-fitting."

The dictates of fashion outlined by the editor of "Men's Wear Organizer" include "No suit may look aggressively new." Dark and light shades may be worn, but they must be neat. Derbies may remain, but the soft hat with the unbound brim is the thing. It should be worn turned in slightly down in front and up in back.

Opera hats are banned for all except the middle-aged and elderly.

Good stiff shiny "silks" are the thing for all formal wear, both day and evening.

Neck ties must be tasteful.

Handkerchiefs are of the same material as the neck wear are permissible. If in doubt about ties, wear brown, though dull red, —not crimson—is to be the general vogue in ties in Autumn wear.

ROTARY'S DISTRICT GOVERNOR DISCUSSES ROTARIAN IDEALS AT LOCAL CLUB LUNCHEON

"Drunk As a Lord" Loses Its Meaning In England

LONDON, Aug. 24.—(United Press).—The phrase, "Drunk as a Lord," has gone out of fashion in England.

A landlord had his tenant arraigned on charges of drunkenness. "Your Honor," said the complainant, "this tenant of mine regularly gets as drunk as a lord."

"As drunk as what?" queried the court.

"As a lord, Your Honor," replied the complainant.

"You need not say as drunk as a lord," retorted the Judge. "Nowadays, there are very few lords with sufficient money to get drunk on, and it is a meaningless expression."

Rotarian Sidney McMichael Delivers Eloquent Address on Rotary Principles.

INSPIRING MESSAGE.

Peterboro' Members Hear Head of Their District on Matters of Great Interest.

The Peterboro Rotary Club enjoyed a visit today from the Governor of District No. 27, Rotarian Sidney McMichael. The message delivered by the District Governor at the weekly luncheon being a source of inspiration to the large number of members in attendance.

President John Seels was in the chair, and before calling upon the District Governor, he thanked the members for their co-operation in making this year's Rotary club a success.

Rotarian McMichael, after outlining the activities for the coming year, discussed Rotary ideals and principles as follows:

Mr. McMichael's speech follows:—

I do not mind telling you that I find it rather difficult to crowd into the few minutes at my disposal all that I would like to say to you about Rotary, about Rotary International and about this International District.

We often hear the question asked, "What Is Rotary?" President Don Adams relates that when he was District Governor the President of one of the large New England Clubs introduced him to his Club with the confession that he had many times been asked but was unable to answer that very question so he had invited Don to come down to tell the whole Club what Rotary was.

Someone has said that Rotary is the milk of human kindness kept forever sweet and someone else has likened Rotary to the Alchemist who takes the grosser metals and transmutes them into the pure gold of love and service. By many Rotary is spoken of as a philosophy of life and only recently I heard Rotary referred to as Practical Idealism.

I like that term myself. I like it better than any other that I know of. It seems to fit. It seems to bring Rotary closer to the average business man. It seems to suit the majority of our professional men and as the Rotary Organization is made up of a world fellowship of business and professional men I for one, am satisfied to think of Rotary as Practical Idealism.

As I think of that term—Practical Idealism—I am reminded of the story of the shabbily dressed little woman who, passing along a busy crowded street, picked up something from the sidewalk and hurriedly concealed it beneath her cloak. A suspicious policeman ordered her to produce the things she had picked up and what do you suppose they were—four little jagged pieces of broken glass. "I was thinking of some other Mother's little bare-footed children" she explained, in trying to justify her action. Now isn't that the Rotary spirit, a mental attitude that makes us keen to apply the Gospel of service to the ordinary commonplace experiences of life.

Rotary Principles.

Rotary is essentially simple and without myth, mystery or miracle. It appeals to the common sense of the practical business man and that is why over one hundred thousand business men organized into over two thousand Clubs in thirty countries of the World attend Rotary each week. The principles of Rotary are as old a sChristianity itself and when we say that Rotary demand fair dealing and a high standard of business practice we are merely re-echoing the words of the great Master when He said two thousand years ago: "Do ye unto others as ye would that others should do unto you."

Rotary is the business of playing the game fairly and squarely. It is telling the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, whether it is our own goods across the counter or the products of our brain. It is rendering a day's work for a day's pay. It is the Golden Rule applied to business, not only because it pays but because it is right.

TRANS-ATLANTIC AIRMEN PLAN DISCARD MOTOR IN EMERGENCY

Provisions Carried For Fifteen Days and Plane Will Float Indefinitely—Apparatus to Distil Sea Water Obviates Terror of Castaways.

FLY FROM PARIS TO NEW YORK.

PARIS, Aug. 24. — (Canadian Press).—When Francois Coli and Paul Tarascon hop off for their flight from Paris to New York they will be prepared to float indefinitely in case their plane is forced down at sea. They will carry dried food sufficient for 15 days, and apparatus for distilling sea water obviates the traditional terror of castaways.

They are expected to take off during the first ten days of September.

The giant 420-horse-power Potez biplane they will use is being tested almost every day to find out the maximum weight it can carry. With 3,000 litres of gasoline it is expected to weigh about four tons at the start.

In case the flyers are forced down they will throw out a canvas sea anchor to steady the plane, pump fuel from the tanks, and perhaps even throw out the motor. The plane then will float indefinitely in ordinary weather.

AGED WOMAN BURNED TO DEATH IN CANNIFTON VILLAGE BLAZE

Large Section of Settlement Near Belleville Destroyed By Fire.

HELP SENT.

Mrs. Parliament's Charred Body Found in Ruins of House.

BELLEVILLE, August 24.—Canadian Press. — Fire, which yesterday afternoon destroyed a large section of the village of Cannifton, claimed the life of one person, Mrs. Louisa Parliament, aged 75, a housekeeper who was found in the ashes of one of the residences.

Mrs. Parliament had been outside and was helping to carry out the household effects from the home of Mr. Willit C. Farley, where she lived, and it is presumed that she went upstairs to her room to get some money, and was overcome by smoke. Her charred remains were found in the ashes under her bedroom.

About one o'clock a fire broke out in some outbuildings on the shore of the Moira River, and as a southwest wind was blowing the flames spread to the barn of Willet Farley, and thence to his house, a frame structure.

It crossed to the barns of Chas. R. Arthur Holgate and to his house and then turned south, destroying the residence of Charles Rosevear.

The buildings on the east side of the road took fire. All the incipient fires on the east side of the road were put out but the winds carried the sparks over the hill for some hundred yards to the large barns of Harry Boyce, which were soon enveloped in flames. His entire season's crop, with four large barns, was wiped out, with a loss of thousands of dollars.

Assistance in fighting the fire was sent from Belleville and Corbyville, which sent hose. An engine was used for pumping water from the river. Late last night the fire was still burning.

PROBABILITIES.

Light to moderate winds; fine and warm to-day. Tuesday—A little warmer.

John Fitzpatrick, 22, sustained serious injuries and had his leg cut off above the knee in the same accident.

Both men, conductors, were on Gorge route cars, collecting fares, walking on the running board on River Road when struck.

GIRL FOUND GUILTY.

Dorothy Ellingson To Be Sentenced For Killing Mother.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 24. — (Canadian Press).—Dorothy Ellingson, 17-year-old confessed matricide, was found guilty of manslaughter by a superior court jury on Saturday night.

The young defendant took the verdict calmly. Manslaughter carries a penalty of from one to ten years, eligible for parole after one year.

CAILLAUX AND CHURCHILL ARE IN SESSION ON DEBT FUNDING

Total Amount They Consider is £620,224,000—War Stores Additional.

DINNER TO-NIGHT.

French Finance Minister Will Entertain Bank of England Governor.

LONDON, Aug. 24 (Canadian Press).—Finance Minister Cailleux of France arrived here last night, accompanied by his secretary and Henri Rouyanne, financial expert, and will begin conversations at once regarding the funding of France's war debt to Great Britain with Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the Exchequer and Sir Otto Neimeye, controller of Finance of the British Treasury. To-night Cailleux will give a dinner at the French embassy at which Montagu Norman, Governor of the Bank of England, and other leading London bankers and probably Lord Bradbury, former British member of reparations commission, will be present.

Total Is £620,224,000.

When the finance ministers of Great Britain and France open their discussions to endeavor to arrange the basis for settlement of the indebtedness of France to Great Britain, the totat amount which they will have to consider will be £620,224,000, of which amount approximately £175,000,000 represent accrued interest and £445,224,000 represents the amount actually loaned. In addition to this sum France owed Great Britain on the first of April of this year £6,726,000 for war stores which she had purchased, but this sum does not form part of the debt under negotiation as it is regarded as a current obligation and is being liquidated in installments which are regularly paid as they mature.

Figured at par of exchange, the debt of France to the British Government amounts in round figures tM $3,008,000,000, of which amount $2,166,000,000 represents the principal of the debt and the remainder the interest accrued.

According to the Inter Ally Debts, published by the Bankers Trust Company of New York, of the principal sum about one billion or exactly $930,865,000 was borrowed from Great Britain prior to the entrance of the United States into the war. This loan from Great Britain was offset by a loan of gold to Great Britain equivalent to $375,900,000. This gold was lodged in the Bank of England to be returned pro rata as the indebtedness of France to Great Britain was paid. The reason for this arrangement was that, at the time, Great Britain needed gold with which to make purchases in the United States for the allied cause. The principal part of the remainder of the amount borrowed from England was loaned to Russia under an arrangement effected in 1915 between the finance ministers of the three nations, Mr. Lloyd George, representing England, Mr. Ribot, representing France, and Mr. Bark, representing Russia. By this agreement the three powers resolved to unite their financial resources equally with their military resources for the purpose of carrying the war to a successful conclusion.

France's Borrowings.

Notwithstanding the large borrowings of France in the United States after April, 1917, the borrowings in England steadily increased, rising from the $930,865,000 which she owed on April 1, 1917, to $1,934,632,000 at the close of 1917 and $2,390,305,000 at the date of the armistice. Even after the armistice, the advances continued until at the close of 1921 they amounted to as much as $3,089,351,000. Since the above date, some payments have been made by France bringing the present status of the indebtedness down to the figure of $3,008,000,000, first above given.

In addition to the money borrowed from the British Government, France borrowed large sums from the United States government, which with accrued interest now amount to upwards of $3,500,000,000; $2,933,000,000 representing the principal sum and the balance accrued interest. Leaving out of the calculation, for the time being, the accrued interest, the principal sums now due to the United States and Great Britain amount in round figures to $5,099,000,000. However, notwithstanding these large borrowings from her allies, France, on the other hand, made proportionately large loans to other nations associated with her in the common cause. These assets of the French treasury were estimated by Finance Minister Clementel in his inventory issued last year, at 15,133 million gold francs as of July 31, 1924, or, say, in round figures as equivalent to about three billion dollars, of which about one-third is due from Russia. Thus it is apparent that the monies due to France from foreign nations, if collectable, would cancel nearly 60 per cent of her total political debt, or say 50 per cent of the debts with accrued interest added.

MEIGHEN ATTACKS KING GOVERNMENT

Says Business Needs of Canada Placed in Secondary Position.

ST. CATHARINES, Aug. 24.—(Canadian Press.)— That the present conditions in Canada require more business and less politics in the administration of public affairs was solemnly declared by Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, in addressing the convention of the Conservative Association of Lincoln county in the Capitol Theatre here on Saturday afternoon. He charged the King government with putting the vital business needs of the Dominion in secondary place to party expediency and challenged the premier to give the people an opportunity to pass upon their record since the last election.

Wastefulness of public funds for the purpose of winning the votes of communities was charged by the Conservative leader against the government and the Belle River matter was held up as an example which he characterized as a criminal scandal. He credited the government with extraordinary effrontery in what he termed "fooling the people," in claiming surpluses and debt reductions by leaving out the railways in the reckoning of the debt" and they have even asked parliament to leave out the harbors," he added.

INOCULATE STRAW FOR FERTILIZER

Bacteria Produces Decayed Matter Equivalent to Garden Manure.

Discovery of great importance to gardening and agriculture is reported in the Gardener's Chronicle. It is a method of producing from straw by bacterial innoculation and decay a manure which is chemically identical with barnyard manure and fully its equal as a fertilizer.

In garden soil building nothing previously had been found which could equal stable manure, and this had become in the last twenty years almost unobtainable. Even on farms where stock was fed it was none too plentiful. The best substitute which had been found was a soiling crop, grown to be plowed under; but this was expensive, and occupied the land for a season.

Discovered in Britain.

During the war British agriculture, in which manure had always played a most important part, was previously embarrassed by its scarcity, especially because of a greatly increased area of plowed land on which grain was grown. The Rothmasted Agricultural station, the oldest in the world, worked on the problem. The increased quantity of grain which was being thrashed caused a great surplus of straw; and the experts set to work to turn this into manure without the aid of animals. They discovered a means of artificially inoculating the straw with bacteria which produce the desired changes, chemically and bacterially, and transform the straw back into a manure pile.

Straw, cornstalks, dried leaves, lawn cuttings, almost any vegetable matter, indeed, may be used. The inoculating material is known as the Adco reagent. In practice a stack is built up in layers, wetting each layer and scattering over it the reagent, until a flat-topped pile of about six feet high is created.

Within a week or so fermentation begins, as evidenced by the development of heat. Every three or four days the pile is again sprayed with water for the next two weeks. After that it needs no further attention, but in three or four months rots down into excellent manure.

Has Many Advantages.

This artificial manure is odorless, does not draw or breed flies, is free from weed seeds and disease spores, does not bleach out on exposure to the weather and introduces no acid into the soil.

Twenty state experiment stations are now a work testing this process for adaptation to conditions in this country and in another year it is predicted it will be in general use. It seems to be just what the home garden is in need of, as the greatest difficulty in building up soil has been in supplying humus, which comes from manure. Of straw there is an abundant supply, left beside every farmhouse after thrashing machines depart.

MYSTERIOUS EXPLOSION RUINS SEPARATOR ON ITS FIRST JOB

Havelock Farm Was Scene of Unusual Accident on Friday.

TWO SHEAVES DONE.

Some Say Dynamite Fell Into the Cylinder—Speculation Fruitless.

(By a Staff Reporter.)

HAVELOCK, Aug. 24.—About five miles from here out the Cordova road, a gang of men gathered late Friday afternoon to thresh on the farm of Fred Ellis. The machine, a modern separator built in London, had just been moved into the neighborhood and had been set for the first job of the season. The outfit belonged to Charles Dewey, chief of police of Havelock and county constable, and the men in his crew were Alfred Chard, of Cordova, engineer, and Joseph Newton, of Havelock, teamster.

There were only two sheaves of grain —fall rye—threshed. The machine had been running only a few minutes when a mysterious explosion in the cylinder, completely wrecked it and in the crash Dewey and a boy were painfully but not seriously injured. The cause of the accident is simply a matter of conjecture but the idea most favored is that a stick of dynamite got into the cylinder.

Purchased at Hastings.

Mr. Dewey, who is an experienced thresher, purchased the machine some time ago from James Moore, who owns a large farm on the outskirts of Hastings, and who kept the outfit to thresh his own grain and did not hire it to his neighbors. At about five o'clock Friday afternoon the outfit was set up in Mr. Ellis's barn and 10 or 12 men had gathered to help at the threshing. Two sheaves of rye were fed into the cylinder but the machine did not work right and itwas foundt hat the elevator was running backward as the belt that drives it had not been creased. The machine was stopped and climbing to the top of it Mr. Dewey adjusted the belt properly. He then told the engineer to start up again and to run slowly in order to enable him to see that every part was in proper working order.

Then the Explosion.

The machine had barely started when Mr. Dewey, who was still on top of it, standing directly over the cylinder, says he saw a bunch of something which he took to be dirt, drop from the elevator into the cylinder. Then came the explosion, with a report that was heard by neighbors over a mile away.

Mr. Dewey was blown up to the roof of the barn which is a low building, and when he fell he alighted on a scaffold built over the threshing floor. For a few minutes he was stunned but soon recovered. His right leg was badly bruised and he suffered from pains in his head but on Saturday he was able to sit up and to hobble about the house.

Ed. Dafoe, a young man who had come to help out at the threshing, was struck on the leg by a flying fragment of metal but was not seriously injured. The men in the mow and those who had gathered in the yard to take care of the straw, escaped injury.

George Solmes, who had been detailed to carry away the grain, had a miraculous escape from injury and probably death. Seeing that the machine was running empty and that he would have nothing to do at the time he went to the pump for a drink of water. He was half way back to the barn when the explosion occurred. Had he been at his appointed place he could hardly have escaped the flying debris of wood and iron.

The Machine a Wreck.

The heavy cylinder was blown to fragments that flew about in every direction. Nothing was left of it but the shaft and the box in which the shaft runs were loosened. The concaves were shattered and the band cutting knives also broken. The frame work of the machine around the cylinder was jarred and splintered. Wm. Davidson, a machine agent at Havelock, who looked over the wreck on Sunday, gave it as his opinion that the separator was past being put into working order again.

The Probable Cause.

The only plausible explanation that can be given of the accident is that dynamite or dynamite caps got into the cylinder. All sorts of wild rumors and conjectures are rife but Mr. Dewey, who is the most directly interested, financially and otherwise, has no suspicions that the affair was anything but an accident. He believes that some person had secreted dynamite in the machine as a safe place in which to keep it away from children, and then had forgotten to remove it. Only for the fact that the elevator was running backward when the machine started, the foreign substance, dynamite, or whatever it was, would have been carried sooner to the cylinder and the explosion would have occurred before it did.

Will Try Again.

Mr. Dewey's loss will be considerable but he says that he has the engine and tank left and that he would not sell these for the price at which he purchased the entire outfit. He has already begun to bargain for another separator and expects to be in a position to resume operations in a few days.

Peterborough Wins

There was a fine attendance at the show on Friday and exhibits were excellent. It is doubtful if any finer horse flesh has been ever seen in the ring. Again honors came to Peterborough breeders showing in competition with those from other cities. From the types shown here it is apparent that Peterborough has fine horses. Mrs. Chandler, Roland Denne ad Geo. Graham have won many prizes during the Horse Show and their exhibits made a fine appearance shown with other classy animals. In fact all of the horses shown from this district are a credit to the breeders.

PERCY MULLHALL

Percy Mulhall, 19, of Toronto, formerly of Peterborough, died in Toronto last night.

Mrs. Margaret Doughty, of Peterborough, is his grandmother, and he is also survived by one sister and three brothers.

S. J. DOLMAN

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 24.—S. J. Dolman, who was stricken with paralysis over a week ago, after a gallant fight for life, succumbed on Saturday afternoon, his passing marking the end of a public spirited citizen who for the past 40 years had been closely identified with the town life of Campbellford.

The late Mr. Dolman was born in the Township of Seymour, 62 years ago. When he was in his early twenties he came to Campbellford and learned the blacksmith trade in the shop of the late Robert Linton and became an expert in the business which at that time was more of a craft than it is today. Starting for himself, he opened a shop on the lot where the residence and office of T. S. Baker now stands. In this, as in all other business ventures that he took up, Mr. Dolman, always industrious and attentive to his duties, was successful.

When blacksmithing as an industry began to wane, Mr. Dolman turned his attention to other lines, and purchased the mercantile buesiness of T. J. Horkins at that time located in the store later occupied by Meiklejohn and Russell. Mr. Dolman carried on in that building for 10 years, when he purchased a residence a few doors west on Bridge Street. The lower floor he converted into a store which is now owned by his son, E. C. Dolman, the father retiring from active business life some years ago. He has since devoted considerable time to gardening and at his residence on Rear Street had every year one of the finest shows of vegetables and flowers to be seen in Campbellford. In everything that he undertook, the late Mr. Dolman showed himself the possessor of a cultivated taste and he was thorough in all his efforts.

In Public Life

The late Mr. Dolman served his adopted town as a councillor and at the time of his death was a member of the Public Library Board of which for some years he was secretary. He was interested in the work of this institution and devoted much of his spare time to promoting its welfare.

Enlisted in 1914

The late Mr Dolman was past military age when the Great War broke out but notwithstanding this fact he offered his services and was an officer in the 139th Regiment that was recruited in Cobourg and to which Campbellford supplied one company. On account of his age Mr. Dolman was not taken overseas but he rendered his country efficient service in every line of military effort until the armistice was signed.

Garnet, a son of the deceased, a former student in the Peterboro Collegiate, a young man whose academic attainments assured a successful professional career, enlisted in the war and made the supreme sacrifice. The father never recovered from the shock of the loss of his brilliant son. A few months ago he had, as noted in The Examiner at the time, sent from the military cemetery of Flanders the white cross that first marked the martyred young soldier's resting place and which he had intended to be set up in the family burial plot here.

The deceased was married to Catherine Carey, whose family were in business here, and who survives him. The only living children are E. C., who is carrying on the mercantile businesss tarted by his father and Miss Kathleen at home.

The funeral, under the auspices of the Oddfellows, was held Monday afternoon to Mount Pleasant Cemetery. Rev. C. F. McIntosh, associate pastor of St. John's United Church, conducted religious services at the home.

WILLIAM SAMUEL RUSSELL.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 25. — The late W. S. Russell, whose death occurred last week, was recently elected an elder by the congregation of St Andrew's church, of which for years he had been on the Board of Managers, but he did not live to be inducted into a higher office. Few men of comparative short residence in this community leave behind them so many mourning friends, as were shocked by the news of the sudden death of Mr. Russell.

Unassuming in his manner, and upright in his private and business life, he was a man who enjoyed the confidence and respect of all who in any capacity became associated with him. He served in the council—as Mayor was promoted to the highest office in the gift of his fellow citizens, and was a few years ago elected a member of the Water and light Commission. He dropped out two years ago, although he would have been returned without opposition if he had consented to stand. For Mr. Russell the holding of public office had little attraction.

The late Mr. Russell was born in Rawdon, but for some years lived in Seymour. Fifteen years ago he rented his farm and moved to Peterboro where he carried on business as a farm implement agent. Later he moved to Havelock where he was in business for three years. Fifteen years ago he moved to Campbellford, and formed a partnership with John A. Meiklejohn. The partners had been boyhood friends, and Mr. Meiklejohn's first teacher was Mr. Russell's mother, who before her marriage was Miss Ann McKeown, of Rawdon. The friendship formed in early life continued to the end, and none mourned the death of Mr. Russell more than the partner who had been asociated with him in business so many years.

The late Mr. Russell was married to Miss Annie Leach, of Rawdon, who survives him. They had no children. There are left of the Russel family, two sisters, Mrs. James Parks of town; Mrs. Alfred Blackwell, of Stratchtlair, Man.; and four brothers, Thomas of Seymour East; George of Havelock; James of Campbellford, and Harry of Trenton.

The funeral was one of the largest ever seen in the district, over 100 cars following the remains to the cemetery. Rev. James Grier of St. Andrew's Church, conducted religious services at the home, paying touching ttibute to the many virtues of the deceased. The funeral was held under Masonic auspices, and the pall-bearers were Dr. G. A. Hay, John S. Wallace, James A. Stewart, Fred W. Wood, C. W. Palliser and Thomas Locke.

Strong Soaps

No soap that is safe for toilet use will "remove" germs any better than Palmolive

If guarding a good complexion is your aim, use a soap made to protect it

THIS is to protect beauty seekers from some false impressions. Good complexions are too precious for experiments.

There's an idea, we are told, that some soaps combat germs; and others not. That for aseptic reasons certain soaps must be used.

Soaps to "destroy" germs should be used only on advice of a physician. All soaps "remove" germs to a certain degree. No soap suitable for toilet use will "remove" germs any better than Palmolive.

In your own interest, carry that in mind. For beauty's sake, take care. Would you gamble with the good complexion it has taken you probably years to attain?

In old days, women were told, "use no soap on your faces." For soaps were too harsh. Then Palmolive came . . . a soap made of cosmetic oils . . . a soap made to protect the skin.

Women tried it, and found amazingly improved complexions and charm. Palmolive became quickly the leading toilet soap of the world. In France, home of cosmetics, Palmolive is one of the two largest selling soaps. French women have found it their ideal of a soap.

That is because Palmolive is a unique creation, based on 60 years of soap study. It is made solely for the skin.

Palmolive is not intended for laundry use or even for fine fabrics. For to be good for those things, its cosmetic qualities would need be much reduced. And millions of good complexions be thus endangered. As a "germ remover" no other soap suitable for toilet use is more effective.

But Palmolive results don't come from those other soaps. They don't come from strong soaps. They don't come from medicated soaps. Don't expect them. And don't take chances. To protect your beauty, use a soap made to protect it.

Palmolive, we frankly grant, is not the only fine complexion soap. We know of two others. But they cost you 25 cents, while Palmolive costs but 10 cents—no more than ordinary soaps. Enormous production brings you this modest cost.

Wash, launder, cleanse with any soap you wish. But when beauty is at stake, take care. Use Palmolive, a soap you know is safe to use. It is nature's formula to "Keep That Schoolgirl Complexion."

No "Two-Purpose" Soap
Will Bring Palmolive Complexion Results

Palmolive Soap is made for ONE purpose ONLY—to guard your complexion and charm. It is not intended for laundry use, nor even for fine fabrics. To make it good for those things, its cosmetic qualities would need be much reduced. And good complexions are too precious to be thus imperiled.

Don't expect Palmolive results from common soaps. Don't expect them from "jack-of-all-trades" soaps—soaps claiming to be good for scores of different uses. Palmolive is a secret blend of rare cosmetic oils, a scientifically made soap to be used freely and safely on the skin—millions of clear, pretty skins prove Palmolive results.

(MADE IN CANADA)

Note carefully the name and wrapper. Palmolive is never sold unwrapped.

DECORATION DAY AT CAMPBELLFORD

Oddfellows Deck Graves of Brethren in Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 24—The Oddfellows held their annual decoration services Sunday afternoon, which headed by the Campbellford Band they marched in procession to Mount Pleasant cemetery and laid wreaths upon the graves of their departed brethren, 13 in all. There is one new grave since the decoration services of a year ago, that of the late William J. Meiklejohn who was a member of the local lodge and of Stirling Encampment No. 8. A freshly dug grave will on Monday receive the motal remains of the late S. J. Dolman, another member of the fraternity.

R. Dunk, P.D.D.G.M., was marshal of the parade and the address was delivered by Rev. James Grier, pastor of St. Andrew's church, who preached the annual sermon to the members of this society the first Sunday he was in Campbellford. Mr. Grier, in eloquent terms, spoke of the lasting example for good left by any member of the order who lives up to his obligations and whose influence will never pass away.

KILLED BY TRAIN.

SMITHS FALLS, Aug. 24.—(Canadian Press.) — Cecil Command, of Ferguson's Falls, was killed, and Richard Stafford, of Lanark, was seriously injured, when an automobile in which they were riding was struck by a Canadian Pacific Railway train at Welsh's Crossing, near here, on Saturday afternoon. Command died a few minutes after he was brought to this town on the train.

FREE EVENING TO OPEN EXHIBITION

Tuesday Will Allow Visitors To Look Over Attractions Offered.

"Make it 30,000 this year" is the slogan of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition, and it will not be the fault of the board of directors if the objective is not reached. Never before has such a collection of entertaining features been gathered together for Peterborough's big fair. The midway promises to excel all other years, and the grand stand performances will be in a class by themselves.

Tuesday, September 1st will be opening day, and the gates will be open from 6.30 with free admission. This is the shop window of the fair, when the directors show what they have to offer. There will be a band concert at the grand stand at 8 o'clock, with Alf. Sweet's Singing Band as the big attraction.

On Wednesday there will be the usual free admission to children up to 4 o'clock, after which they will have to pay 15 cents. The gates will be open at 9 o'clock in the morning this day, and the children should have a great day. The buildings will be open, and the band and vaudeville performances will be given. In addition there will be children's races.

The full evening performance will be given for the first time on Wednesday, ending with a big fireworks display. The admission fee for adults will be 35 cents, and an additional 25 cents is charged for grand stand seating for the performance.

Boy and Linderman are bringing and Jim Petric, fourth.

seven great riding devices in addition to the usual stalls and games that make up the midway. There will be whip, seaplane, merry-go-round, ferris wheel, over-the-jumps,

MAKE IT 30,000.

The Exhibtion directors have set 30,000 as the attendance figure at wihch to shoot this year, meaning by that, of course, 30,000 by actual count, not merely by enthusiastic guesswork.

That mark is not out of reach by any means, provided the weather conditions are favourable.

With a five day exhibition, offering the most ambitious programme in the history of the event, there is no reason why the people of this city and district cannot send the total attendance up even higher than the figure aimed at by the directors.

30,000 in 1925 is, however, a good slogan—why not a general effort to bring it from the slogan stage into an actuality and thus give Peterborough's Industrial Exhibition an impetus that will drive it ahead to still greater triumphs.

If the enthusiasm and optimism of those connected with the manager of the Exhibition could be passed on to the public generally, the attendance this year would be so large that there would be smiles at the faint-heartedness that set 30,000 as the mark to be attained.

30,000 in 1925—everybody together now and let us put it over.

DR. BARNARDO'S HOME.

The decision of the management of Dr. Barnardo's Homes not to bring any more child immigrants to Canada means the scrapping of a policy that has been in force for several decades, and despite criticisms sometimes expressed, has had good results.

To thousands of British waifs the Barnardo effort has meant the opening of the door of opportunity.

They have made good in Canada, the vast majority of them, and are to be found occupying responsible position throughout the length and breadth of the Dominion.

There were some features of course—and as usual much more has been heard of the few who failed than of the thousands who have become good Canadians.

Peterborough has been particularly interested in the Dr. Barnardo immigration because for many years the distribution of the young immigrants was made from this city and many of those brought out to Canada have located in this district.

The late Senator Geo. A. Cox presented "Hazel Brae", a beautiful residence and grounds situated in the north-western portion of Peterborough, to Dr. Barnardo's homes and this became the chief branch in Canada of the institution, being used as the distributing home for the boys and girls sent out from the parent home in London.

Afterward the distribution of boys was done from Toronto, the local institution being used as a home for girls alone, and a few years ago this property, then known as the Margaret Cox Home for Girls, was given up by Dr. Barnardo's Homes.

RE-STOCKING NEEDED.

From Jack's Lake, Eagle Lake and other well-known fishing waters in the Northern part of the country come reports of unusually large numbers of visitors this summer and the fear is expessed that unless the Government takes time by the forelock and restocks these lakes the day is not far distant when they will have to be placed in the "Fished out" column.

The Examiner believes the authorities should take cognizance of these reports and investigate the situation, with a view to action.

Conditions are altogether different now than they were before motoring became a general pastime.

Waters that were considered inaccessible even to Peterborough people are open to the continent.

The motor car covers in an hour or two a trip that used to be considered an all day one.

So along the Northern roads it is no novelty to read the license plate of a dozen or more States in the course of a few hours and this influx naturally will be reflected in the depletion of the supply of fish in the Northern waters.

If the reputation of these lakes, from a fishing standpoint, is to be saved, the re-stocking of them cannot be safely left too long.

ABOUT THE TOURIST TRAFFIC.

Apparently not much progress is being made this year in the campaign to boom September and October as most desirable months for tourists and holiday-seekers to visit Ontario for the exodus from the summer resorts is already showing signs of beginning and transportation officials say that the peak has been passed.

There are two phases of the tourist situation that The Examiner believes should be given earnest consideration.

First, the extension of the season as already suggested by intensively giving publicity to the delights of an early autumn vacation at one or other of Ontario's lake resorts.

And secondly, by devoting some attention to tourists other than those who come in motor cars and camp where their fancy dictates.

The value of the motor tourist is recognized. Yet at the same time there is another class of tourist to whom earnest efforts should be made to "sell" Ontario.

Ontario's summer hotels, and permanent hotels for that matter, receive but little benefit from the average motor tourist who carries his own camp outfit, and often brings his supplies with him.

To direct all our publicity toward bringing in motor tourists is to leave the summer hotels of the province half-filled, when intelligent propaganda might flood Ontario with the class of visitor who does not care about camp life but is willing to pay for service and accomodation.

THE DISAPPEARING TROLLEY.

Last week the Woodstock-Ingersoll Electric Railway Company announced its finis with a bus service to substitute in October. A day or so ago the management of the electric line from Hamilton to Oakville made a similar decision, and the explanation again was that motor bus competition on the highway had made operations between Burlington and Oakvill unprofitable. Recollecting the fact that in 1921 the Drury Government was considering the extension of this line to Toronto as part of a large radial system, the decision is specially significant. London's own railway to Port Stanley is in no danger of such fate, but undoubtedly one of its present difficulties, in common with the steam railways, is competition from gasoline carriers both in freights and passenger service.

Peterborough has received application for a twenty-year bus service franchise to replace the street railway. And now comes Hamilton with a controversial problem. Hamilton's street railways company, with a five-cent fare, contends that it cannot operate with a profit in competition wih jitneys charging a ten-cent fare. These jitneys are not organized as a company; they are merely nondescript automobiles operated by individuals, but the riding public in Hamilton appears to prefers them to a point where the street car has suffred a substantial loss in patronage and revenue.

Toronto has experienced similar tendency on the part of the public to a less extent. The report of its Transportation Commission for 1924 shows that street car passengers decreased by four millions during the year. The result has been that the Transportation Commission has increased its buses and gasoline coaches and is now conducting a study of the riding public's preferences in that respect.

There is material in the above to provoke serious thinking on the part of all people living in cities and towns. We have street railway systems that have been essential as part of the organization of the community Along comes a new factor that eats into the earnings of the street railway systems. Some of them are going out of business; others are trying to cut operating expenses to the bone.

The horse car gave place to the electric car. Is the electric car to give place to the motor bus The problem is of significance to the community as well as to the people who own street railway systems.—London Advertiser.

BREAKING THE LAW.

The Ottawa Journal believes that the way to cure reckless driving is to make sure that those convicted of it shall be kept from doing any more driving. It would have the license cancelled for a long period.

As one listens to some of the cases that come up in the courts, it is plain that one thing lacking is a certain way of securing definite evidence on which to convict, says the London Advertiser. This was demonstrated in a case heard a few days ago in a town near London. Two cars had collided at a cross road. The drivers of both cars swore they were not going over twelve miles an hour, yet both cars were more or less battered around. The case was apparently decided on the evidence produced by the plaintiff. One witness estimated that the car of the defendant, on approaching the intersection, was going at forty miles an hour; another placed the speed at at least twenty-five miles. As a matter of fact both of these statements were merely estimates or guesses, and it is very difficult for a magistrate to accept such as reliable evidence.

There are long stretches of roads where there are no motorcycle officers at all; in other places the "speed cop" has a great mileage of highway to patrol. His one chance of securing convictions is to hide at some spot and wait for a speeder, get in behind and pace him, and get his evidence that way. If he works that way he is held in disrepute, classed as a "spotter," and his position is not enviable. If he works out in the open, drivers know the speed cop is around, and they keep to a moderate pace until he is out of sight.

What is needed is a new conscience on the part of drivers, or an old dormant conscience brushed up and brought to light. The man who observes the traffic law as long as an officer is looking at him is not such a highly finished citizen as he may try to make himself believe he is. It is not possible to put enough officers on the road to watch all the drivers. The most of the time they are on their honor, and are supposed to observe traffic laws the same as they would any other law of the land.

Drivers of cars can prevent accidents or they can cause more of them. Courts can't stop accidents, for they only start to operate after they have happened. At best they can only drive an element of fear into the thick skulls of those who break the laws. Drivers can't scoff at laws and expect to be safe in so doing. There is a blemish on the citizenship of the man who breaks the law—even the speed laws of the country.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Guessing the name of the new Chairman of the Hydro Electric Commission has taken the place of guessing the date of the Federal election.

Peterborough's Exhibition is only three weeks away. Three weeks from tomorrow is the opening day and the programme looms up bigger and bigger as the date draws near.

The opening of the school term will undoubtedly furnish fresh evidence in support of the contention that more Collegiate Institute accomodation is urgently needed.

A THOUGHT.

TWO POINTS OF VIEW.

Dawn; how its first pale light puts to flight the dark dragons of the night.

When morning steals upon the night and sends it on its way, the rosy glow in the heavens casts a radiance that has power to warm a faint heart to quicker pulsation and to brighten a mind befogged by sleeplessness.

What new hopes are born, what new resolves are made, what courage loaned with the coming of a new day.

Or do you agree with the poet who wrote:

"How troublesome is day!
It calls us from our sleep away:
It bids us from our pleasant dreams awake,
And sends us forth to keep or break
Our promises to pay.
How troublesome is day!"

Two points of view; no matter which you take, there is this day to face and in which to endure or to conquer.—The Silent Partner.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

TUESDAY, AUGUST 25.

Although a very lively day is presaged from the active astral operations, yet it may not be without its hazards and disruptions. It would be well to defer journeys, change and removals until a more auspicious reign of the planets lest these entail loss or disappointment. The health should also be given sufficient attention.

Those whose birthday it is may succeed in wringing a favorable year from certain adverse conditions by postponing travel, change and removal and guarding against losses. The health should be safeguarded, also. A child born on this day may be particularly active, clever and versatile, yet it may encounter difficulties, mainly through a disposition to make frequent changes. With steadiness it may succeed in its undertakings.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

Peterboro Aug. 21, 1925.

The Editor of the Examiner,
City.

Dear Sir:

In Thursday's Evening Examiner I have seen a letter signed by "Old Timer." He says, we don't want our lads and lasses to get fond of strong drink. I might tell him, that since the introduction of the O. T. A. there are more lads and lasses fond of strong drinks, which during the time of the open bar, they would never have thought of drinking it. That's one of the blessings of the O. T. A. Then he goes on and says, that the German beer is one great cause of the coarseness and brutality of the German nation. Let him ask any Canadian soldier who was in Germany with the Army of Occupation in Germany, if the people there were coarse and brutes, they were even treated better there than in Belgium. There is no other nation whose people are so good natured than the Germans, if it were a tea sipping nation, it would be different. Mr. Ferguson made one big mistake when he allowed the manufacturing of this 4.4 wash, with all the fuss and work they could have made it, like in pre-war time. The sooner prohibition is abolished from this Province, the better it will be for everybody. Look at the Province of Quebec. The hotels in Montreal have to turn the tourists away, as every hotel is filled to capacity. Can you say the same of this Province? He asks what can be done about this? Well, for one thing, wipe out the O. T. A. for ever and prosperity will come again to this Province, so the people can breathe freely, as it is now, they are almost smothered with taxes.

Thanking you Mr. Editor for the main, Yours Truly,

PROGRESS.

IRISH SHOW INTEREST IN HORSES.

DUBLIN, Aug. 22.—(Associated Press)—Entries for the annual horse show of the Royal Dublin Society, the first week in August, created a new high record this year with 916. Despite the growth in popularity of the automobile, there has been a considerable increase in interest in harness horses. For the bloodstock sales more than 800 horses were entered.

A Sure Thing

Before Henry Bell passed away he made sure that Mrs. Bell would never be the victim of "get rich quick" schemes. He had seen too much misery caused by unsuspecting widows placing their mite in the hands of smooth-tongued promoters. He wanted a sure thing—and he got it.

Each month Mrs. Bell receives a cheque for $100. She will receive this as long as she lives, for Henry Bell was insured under the "Permanent Monthly Income" Plan of the North American Life Assurance Company.

This form of insurance provides no lump sum of thousands of dollars for grasping hands to dissipate, but a regular income which lives on through the years—a monthly income for life—a monument to your judgement.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Aug. 22 (Canadian Press).—Strength displayed in the nearby delivery was about the only feature in the wheat trade here today. Commission concerns believed to be acting for the milling interests were after September wheat in a free manner. The remainder of the deliveries showed a strong undercurrent, however, owing probably to the unfavorable weather reports from the Canadian northwest. The closing quotations showed wheat steady at 1-8 to 1 5-8 cents advance with September at $1.62 5-8 to $1.62 3-4; and December at $1.61 5-8 to $1.61 3-4; corn 1-4 to 3-4 cents lower; September at $1.03 5-8 to $1.03 3-4; oats 1-8 to 1-4 cent lower and provisions unchanged to 20 cents lower.

MONTREAL GRAIN

MONTREAL, Aug. 22 (Canadian Press).—The demand from foreign buyers for Canadian grain on the Montreal market Saturday was fairly good. Sales of odd loads were made, but the volume of business was small and the market quiet. On spot sale of extra No. 1 feed oats were made at 9 cents per bushel over the Winnipeg October option, and American malting barley at 85 cents per bushel over the October New York houses were in the market for No. 1 Northern wheat at 17 cents pr bushel over the October option for the first half of September shipment, and holders of No. 1 Northern on spot were asking 41 cents per bushel over, and for No. 3 Northern 35 cents per bushel over the October option, c.i.f. Montreal for prompt shipment. New York exporters were bidding 10 cents per 100 pounds for ocean room to Rotterdam, with agents asking 11 cents per 100 pounds for August loading.

An easier feeling developed in the butter market, and prices suffered a fractional decline. Extreme dullness marked the trade in cheese. The demand for eggs was quiet and steady.

BRITAIN FEELS TRADE EFFECT FROM REGULATIONS OF CHINESE

Request of Vancouver Business Men Influencing London—British Desire to Consult 16 Other Powers in Any Action.

LONDON, August 24. — Much prominence is given in the press here this morning to the request of the Merchants' Exchange of Vancouver, addressed to Premier Mackenzie King asking him to advise the British government as to the serious effect on British trade in the Far East of the Chinese boycott of British goods through the action of the Cantonese government in regard to coast shipping. The request is added to the already long list of reasons why it is considered desirable that Austin Chamberlain should interfere actively in the present crisis with China if the damage to British trade is not to be irreparable.

It is estimated that British trade is losing quarter of a million pounds daily in Hong Kong alone, which gives some indication of the enormous volume of trade which Britain and the Empire do with the Far East. It is quite obvious, therefore, that unless the situation is immediately and satisfactorily relieved the total losses will be enormous.

Act with Powers.

It is urged by the British government that any action taken must be in concert with 16 other powers, which must all be consulted before Britain can take any action, and this a most ponderous way of affecting a remedy to an intolerable condition. On the other hand the British do not want to make the situation any worse for their own nationals by taking individual action, which it is admitted officially might be a costly and most serious job. Such a course might mean the complete isolation and boycotting of Hong Kong and the paralyzing of this great nerve centre of Far Eastern shipping, since the Cantonese government so far as Pekin is concerned, and which is under the thumbs of the Bolshevists, might refuse to handle any ship which calls at Hong Kong. Britain is swiftly being driven to a point where she will be forced to take some action, only what that action will be is still a profound mystery.

CONFERENCE FAILS.

HANKOW, Aug. 24. — The Anglo-Chinese negotiations looking to the co-operation of Chinese police in the defense of the foreign concession collapsed abruptly Sunday when the native officials presented a demand for $75,000 indemnity for the killed and wounded in the riots of June 11th.

It is reported the Chinese Chamber of Commerce has been notified officially to intensify the anti-British boycott.

TRACTORS GROW IN POPULARITY

Good Farm Equipment Sales Throughout First Period of Year.

ELIMINATE HORSE.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24—(Associated Press).—Tractors lead farm equipment sales throughout the first half of 1925, as shown by the Research Department of the National Association of Farm Equipment Manufacturers, which surveyed its officials who are heads of most of the 200-odd firms making up its membership and selling through some 21,000 dealers to the farmers.

Plow and tillage tool makers report the first half of the year ahead of 1924, and the tendency towards bigger equipment to eliminate man and horse labor is more marked than at any time in the history of the tractor's development. Oliver Chilled Plow Works reports 20 per cent. increase. One great company estimates its two-row cultivator business 50 per cent. ahead of last year.

The American Seeding Machine Company reports 33 1-3 per cent. increase over 1924 in grain drill business.

The first half of 1925 has seen a 34 per cent. increase over the same period last year with Fairbanks, Morse & Company on farm scales, gas engines, windmills, water supply systems and feed grinders, the reports shows.

HERTZOG TOURS NATIVE AREAS

Reminds South Africans of Lower Civilization—His First Visit.

PROMISES LAND.

CAPETOWN, South Africa, Aug. 24. Canadian Press. — Premeir General Hertzog, Saturday began a tour of Transkeian and Ciskeian native Territorities with which he is making his initial acquaintance as Minister for Native Affairs.

Replying to an address by natives at Lady Frere, General Hertzog emphasized that, while as regards government there should be no difference in respect to color, what was good for the European was not necessarily good for the native. It was only by showing a desire for improvement that the native could expect profitable assistance from the government.

He wanted the natives to admit that they had not attained the same stage of civilization as the Europeans and as a race it was a mistake for them to aim at the same kind of education as the Europeans. They should rather seek a more practical and a more utilitarian education.

Referring to requests contained in their address General Hertzog said he hoped to some extent to be able to meet the demand for more land. He described the statement that the natives were being replaced by poor whites as wild exaggeration and declared that the policy of the government in native territories was to allow the natives to undertake whatever kind of work they showed themselves competent to perform.

BRITAIN CRIES FOR GASOLINE

Lacking It, Inventors Turn to Coal as Way to Solve Crisis.

LONDON, Aug. 24—Great Britain would like to escape the domination which gasoline holds over commercial and industrial affairs in so large a part of the world. The British supplies or petroleum are remote and for the most part in territory difficult to defend. Accordingly, thinking people in this country are apprehensive of the trend which makes oil the chief source of energy in transportation and manufacture.

There are vast stores of coal underlying these islands, and with this fuel were energized those industries which for many years gave Great Britain supremacy in trade and commerce. But in the last few years coal has lost out in the competition with oil, and this is one of the reasons why today British mining interests are in a slump, stagnation prevails in the country's industries, unemployment is serious, and discontent is rife among the workers.

Two ways out of these difficulties have been proposed by responsible thinkers. One is that oil or other forms of liquid fuel may be made from the coal; the other that steam produced by burning the coal may furnish the energy needed for the prosperity of the country.

Many Inventors.

There have been numerous inventions to these ends. A gigantic electrical power station in Birmingham is making use of coal economically by grinding it to a fine flour. This pulverised fuel is passed over magnets for the purpose of drawing out the metal ore. The advantages claimed for this method are the utilization of the energy to a much higher degree, together with cleanliness and abatement of the smoke nuisance.

The most recent authoritative pronouncement on the subject of coal conservation has been made by H. S. Haldane, President of the Institution of Mining Engineers, who believes the time is not far distant when the steam engine will be so improved as to make it preferable to the internal combustion engine for nearly all purposes.

"The steam engine," Dr. Haldane says, "can be made very much smaller than it is at present. We are still unfortunately using boilers and furnaces that waste heat. The boiler in its present form is very wasteful, but it can be reduced in size by making it of tubes, and this form will enable the use of high steam pressure. In using such boilers the fuel supplies must be mechanically controlled by the engine so that the moment the engine stops, combustion also will cease. This can be accomplished either with pulverised fuel, which is fed only as the engine works, or by burning coal in the form of gas supplied by a producer which works only as the engine blows air into it.

For High Pressure.

"High pressure steam engines are particularly advantageous, because they afford enormous pressure of steam without any great rise of temperature in the cylinders. A temperature of 300 pounds to the square inch can be used without harm to the steel or the lubricating oil. Such pressures in internal combustion engines require the use of water jackets.

"These improvements would have been made before but for the cheapness of coal. Steam boilers in use today are very much like those of a hundred years ago. With properly constructed boilers, we shall find our coal supplies becoming available for many new uses. Coal as a source of heat is much cheaper than oil. It is quite feasible to construct small, light steam engines suitable for use in motor vehicles, and even in airplanes. The present airplane engines, though very convenient, are extremely wasteful of fuel."

Somewhat the same conclusions are reached by A. M. Low, a British inventor, who points out the foolishness of developing heat in engines only to dissipate it by the use of water-cooled radiators. It is apparent that British inventive genius is directing its attention seriously to the discovery of means of using Britain's coal supply.

A CORRECTION.

A regrettable mistake was made last week by an Examiner correspondent during the absence of the Staff Reporter resident in Campbellford, in reporting the death of Thomas Iliffe, which had in fact not taken place. Mr. Iliffe, whose wife and family reside on the Meyersburg Road, Campbellford, was seriously ill in Nicholls Hospital, and an erroneous report of his death was carried to Campbellford.

KATHLEEN M'KANE VS. HELEN WILLS

British and American Girls in Tennis Battle To-day.

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Aug. 24—For the first time in the thirty-eight years of tournament history, Britain and the United States will have it out for the national women's tennis championship when 19 year old Helen Wills, titleholder for the past two years, matches her drives against the court-craft of Kathleen McKane, of England, in the final match today.

Both of these international rivals were forced to three sets in the semi-finals to reach the title round but the young United States champion's road to victory was the easier. She put Miss Eleanor Goss, of New York, to rout after losing the opening set, 3-6, 6-0, 6-2, while Miss McKane had the battle of her career to vanquish Mrs. Molla Mallory, seven times United States champion, by scores of 4-6, 7-5, 8-6.

Four Californians will fight it out for the doubles championship. Miss Wills, who won the title last year with Mrs. George W. Wightman, reached the finals with a new partner, Mary K. Browne, by eliminating the last British team, composed of Mrs. Dorothea Lambert-Chambers and Miss E. H. Harvey.

Their opponents in the title match will be the veteran combination of Mrs. May Sutton Bundy and Miss Elizabeth Ryan, who conquered Mrs. Marion Z. Jessup, of Wilmington, Del., and Miss Eleanor Goss in the other semi-final, 6-4, 6-3.

GENARO LOSES TITLE.

Flyweight Crown Passes To Los Angeles School Boy.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 24—Fidel Labarba, Los Angeles high school boy, knocked from the head of Frankie Genaro here Saturday night the crown which the New Jersey lad claimed as world's flyweight champion. Labarba won by waiting for Genaro to come and by left-handing him for nine rounds, then carrying the scrap to the easterner in the tenth. In the opening session the Los Angeles fighter spent much of his time backing away as Genaro played for an advantage. The Californian kept his left busy and earned the edge.

FORD TO SCRAP 149 STEEL SHIPS

River Rouge Plant Prepares to Cut Up Armada Bought From U. S.

AN IMMENSE JOB

DETROIT, August 24 — Preparations are being made at the River Rouge plant of the Ford Motor Company, for the gigantic job of cutting up most of the 149 steel boats recently purchased by Mr. Ford from the United States Shipping Board.

In about 30 days the first three of the 149 lake size ships will be brought to the Rouge docks in tow of one of the seven ocean-going tugs bought from the Government for this purpose. There after the other lake-size ships will be brought, three at a time, to the Rouge plant.

The Ford Motor Co., will organize a force of men from among its regular employees for the task of cutting up the 154 tons of steel in each of these lake-size ships. The men will have acetylene and electric torches used in steel cutting.

Outline Plans.

The methods to be used in cutting up the ships have been outlined, but the vastness of the local task is made clearer when it is known that the job is expected to consume 18 months.

Of the 50 larger ships brought by Mr. Ford, ocean going carriers, with about 2000 tons of steel in each, a few will be equipped with Diesel engines and put into service as part of the Ford Motor Co's ocean fleet. The others, too large to be brought through either the Welland or the Erie Canal, will be cut up at Chester, Pa., or at some other point. The cut steel will be loaded on some of the lake-size boats and carried in them to the Rouge.

The magnitude of the Ford purchase can be shown not only by the length of time it will take to scrap the ships, but also by a few figures on dimensions. The seven ocean-going tugs which will bring the doomed craft home are steel hulled, 150 feet long (the Britannia of the D. B. L. and W. Fleet is 164 feet long) with triple expansion engines and Scotch boilers. The tugs were bought for $42,500 each.

A Ten Mile Fleet.

Each of the 149 lake-size ships is 260 feet long or two feet longer than the steamers North West and North Land. Each has a capacity of 3500 tons. Each of the ocean-size ships is about 325 feet long, with a capacity of about 5300 tons. Placed end-to-end all the ships purchased by Mr. Ford would extend for more than 10 miles.

The lake-size ships which can be towed to Detroit, will be brought by different routes, according to the draught. Those of lesser draught can be brought through the Erie Canal, after they are lightened by cutting down the upper works. Those of heavier draught will be towed around up the St. Lawrence River and then through the Welland Canal.

When a few of the ships have accumulated in the Rouge the work of cutting up will begin. All will be done in the open so no special buildings will be needed. Each craft first will be cut down to the water's edge. The pieces will be picked up and carried away by travelling cranes. The remaining hull will be brought to a small dry dock and cut up there. In this way by a steady process ship after ship will be reduced to steel pieces. The steel can be remelted and prepared to serve any purpose required in the Ford industries.

Save Machinery.

None of the lake-size ships will be used by the Ford Motor Co., for carrying purposes. Neither will any of the machinery or equipment of the ships be used on the water or sold. The company is permitted by the purchasing contract to make any use of the machinery on land that it sees fit, but only on land. So parts of the internal mechanism may be added to the equipment in the Ford factories.

W. B. Mayo, chief engineer of the Ford Motor Company, has had charge of the arrangements for the purchase of the ships and the bringing of the craft to the Rouge docks, and will also arrange for the cutting up of the steel. Mr. Mayo has just returned from a trip to the East, in which he completed plans for the collecting of the far-scattered ships. The craft purchased are now at different points: the Hudson River, the James River, Hog Island, Staten Island, Mobile, Ala., Orange, Texas, and New Orleans.

The total price paid by Mr. Ford for the 199 ships was $1,697,470.

Princess Louise Also Finds Interest in Interchange by Teachers.

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 21.—(Canadian Press).— While in the city Mrs. E. M. Ord Marshall, C.B.E., a writer accompanying the British teachers touring the dominion, said: "I took 81 Canadian girls to call upon the Pope last year. This great man, with his learned and kind face, spoke to each visitor as a teacher to a teacher. Princess Louise is another person who is much interested in the interchange of teachers. When she wished us a very pleasant trip she said she had never forgotten the happy times she had enjoyed in Canada.'"

"Now I'll give the waiter ten francs," he told her, "and you listen carefully."

He handed the man a ten-franc note, and the reply was, "Thanks very much, sir."

KIWANIS CONVENTION.

Ottawa Gathering Promises to be Bigger Than Ever—Great Re-union.

The Kiwanis Convention at Ottawa promises to be even bigger and better than the one held in Hamilton last year, and those who attend are certainly going to have one of the best times they will ever have in their lives. Delegates and Kiwanis members will assemble from all over the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec and from the Maritimes too. It will be one big glad reunion because all will be Kiwanians and no introductions will be necessary. The committees at Ottawa are planning entertainments for the ladies, while the men will be in business sessions. There will be auto rides and excursions, teas and friendly social gatherings, where all will be welcome. All Kiwanians and their wives are expected as well as official delegates the more the merrier.

While a Club may be entitled to but two delegates, if all of it's members go, so much the better. If they take their wives or sweethearts with them it's better still. Entertainment is being provided for all. In addition to having the best time possible they will learn what a really big thing Kiwanis is, how it extends all over the provinces and all through the Dominion, in fact over all the Continent, with a membership of over one hundred thousand men. All roads lead to Ottawa. It's an easy ride by train. It's a beautiful trip by motor and all will be cordially welcomed and royally entertained while there.

The dates are September 21st and 22nd.

AT ROTARY CLUB.

G. B. McMICHAEL.

ROTARY'S DISTRICT

There are lots of folks who say that you cannot apply the Golden Rule to business. Two years ago some of you may have heard Arthur Nash speak at the 29th District Conference in Buffalo. Well, six years ago Arthur Nash started in business in Cincinnati in a little sweat shop. He had $50,000.00 capital, $40,000.00 of it borrowed. He determined to run his business according to the Golden Rule. Did he go into bankruptcy as was predicted? Not exactly. His first year's business was $125,000, his next year $375,000 and the next $900,000. The next nearly $2,000,000, and last year $6,000,000. That was the experience of Arthur Nash when he applied the Golden Rule to the Clothing business.

I know that some members and some Club Executives shy away from the Business Methods program because as they say, it is not interesting, not interesting perhaps because it does not excite our imagination or arouse our sympathies to the same extent as does work for Crippled Children or work for Boys. But may I ask, shall we do only those things in Rotary that interest us the most. I think not. While there is no condition attached to membership in Rotary, that is the cause of more discussion than the Classification requirement, that very unique feature of Rotary Membership presents to each member of Rotary an opportunity, an opportunity to be of real and lasting service to his trade or profession in carrying the ideals of Rotary to his business associates.

Membership.

Rotary is an organization of business men. Your right to remain in Rotary depends upon the service you render. Perhaps you have never analyzed your responsibility of membership or perhaps it has never occurred to you that attendance, fellowship, service to your trade or service to your community are responsibilities that you very definitely assumed with your membership in Rotary.

Membership in Rotary was not granted to the members of any Club for the sole purpose of enabling them to enjoy once a week an appetizing luncheon or an interesting program. It was not granted to them in order that they might by the mere payment of their annual dues, enjoy the prestige that comes to most Rotary Clubs because of the club's activities, service and ideals. Rotary membership was conferred upon those members because they expressly agreed to the six objects of Rotary But you say, what has all of this to do with attendance or membership? Just this—the fourth object of Rotary directs us to encourage and foster the development of acquaintance as an opportunity for service. Acquaintance leads to fellowship and fellowship can only be developed by regular attendance.

Regular attendance at Rotary meetings is just as essential to Rotary life as food is to the human body. Without food at regular intervals the body soon weakens and dies, and so it is with a Rotarian. Unless he feeds regularly on Rotary fellowship he soon weakens in Rotary faith, fails in Rotary service and dies, insofar as his Rotary life is concerned.

Club Objective.

Rotary demand of its members that they be loyal citizens, that they cooperate to uphold the laws and that they constantly strive to make of their community a better place in which to live. And these principles find expression in each Rotary Club in the setting up of a club objective. And let me ask, what finer objective can any Rotary Club have than some worthy service to the community.

Community service is a broad term and may include boys' work, crippled children's work, campaigns for better citizenship, the raising of funds for community chests and many other activities. There are a great many Rotary Clubs already engaged in some form of community service that is commendable, some that is truly wonderful. And I often wish that if I could do nothing more, I would like to get across to the members of each club that I visit, the desire to set up an objective in community service that would be really worthy of that club. In the last two years I have visited a great many clubs and have attended some ten district conferences. At many of thos club meetings and district conferences I have heard reports of community service rendered by Rotarians or Rotary Clubs that astonished me, reports that gave me a new and wonderful vision of what Rotary is accomplishing for the betterment of humanity.

As part and parcel of every club activity and backing up every club objective there is always the individual responsibility of its members. A Rotarian does not make excuses. He makes good. We must each share in the burden. Rotary demands of every man his best and a real Rotarian is not satisfied with anything less. In community service Rotary is constantly called upon to exercise leadership. This is an opportunity for Rotary and in exercising leadership whether individual or as a club, there is nothing like the power of example and example was never set forth eloquently than in these lines:

I would rather see a sermon than hear one any day.
I would rather one would walk with me than merely show the way.
For the eye's a better pupil and more willing than the ear.
Fine counsel is confusing but example's always clear.
For to see the good in action is what everybody needs,
And the best of all the preachers are the men who live their creeds.
I can soon learn how to do it if you will let me see it done.
I can watch your hands in action but too fast your tongue may run.
And the lectures you deliver may be very wise and true,
But I'd rather get my lesson by observing what you do.
For I may misunderstand you and the high advice you give
But there's no misunderstanding how you act and how you live.

The Fourth Object.

I wonder if you men all remember the fourth object of Rotary. But whether you do or not I will tell to you now that the essence of the fourth object of Rotary is "fellowship." Now there is something very practical about Rotary fellowship, practical because it brings us closer to each other, practical also because it enables us tht better to serve but ideal because there is no greater gift of God than the fellowship, the fellowship of man for man. And right here I came to say to you that if Rotary had no other objective than just fellowship, it would solve many of the problems of this old world of ours.

It was the unusual spirit of friendship that gave to each of us our first delightful introduction into Rotary. It is the fellowship of our Rotary Club that sets it apart as an organization that is unique, an organization to which we soon become more attached than to any other organization with which we have been associated.

And so if there is one thought that I would stress more than another this year, if there is one plea that I would like, it is the plea for greater fellowship in all our Rotary contacts.

If you would make boys' work one of your objectives, let us remember that necessary to our success is fellowship, real fellowship with the boy. Let us not forget also that fellowship is just another name for comradeship, and there is no greater boys' work or girls' work either that any of us can do than to be good comrades and good pals of our boys and girls.

If you would engage in the relief of crippled children let us remember that fellowship with the afflicted crippled child is the very first essential. And let us give to that crippled child quite as much of our friendship, real Rotary friendship as of our material aid.

And if any of us aspire to improve the relationships with our competitors or with our employees, again fellowship becomes the basis of any better or more permanent understanding. Without fellowship, our advances lead only to suspicion or mistrust. But with fellowship the barriers are quickly broken down that make possible that better and more permanent understanding.

We can perhaps even improve our Rotary meetings by injecting a little more good fellowship into those weekly gatherings. We can perhaps carry the spirit of Rotary fellowship to our Board of Trade, to our Chamber of Commerce, our Church and to the other organizations to which we belong. And if we do those organizations will be the better for our having done so.

And this reminds me of something that Frank Mulholland once said—"This is not a tough world, it is a beautiful world, a peach of a world, if you think right and live right, you will find out that happiness is the most important thing in life—and the way to get happiness is to create it—and the only way to keep it is to spread it around."

And now I wonder if you remember that little verse, "If I know you and you knew me?" It goes like this:

"If I knew you and you knew me,
'Tis seldom we would disagree.
But never having yet clasped hands,
Both often fail to understand,
With each intent to do what's right
And treat each other honor bright,
How little to complain there'd be,
If I knew you and you knew me."

Crippled Soldiers.

Not long ago the Rotary Club of Toronto entertained one hundred and ninety maimed and crippled soldiers from Christie Street Hospital. Christie Street Hospital is entirely devoted to the care of so-called incurable veterans of the Great War. Only half of the men at Christie Street could come, the other half were too weak or too badly crippled to be moved. Some of them must live on the roof to keep flickering the tiny spark of life that is still burning. Every little while one if these men makes the supreme sacrifice, quite as real and quite as noble in these times of peace as in the times of war. And now what do you think that the representative of those soldier heroes selected as his subject to speak at our Rotary meeting—"Fellowship, Rotary Fellowship." That was their interpretation of Rotary. That was the greatest service that Rotary could render those men, just plain fellowship. Isn't that very practical fellows, but isn't it ideal also? And when I looked at those maimed soldiers and when I heard their Padre speak, there seemed to lay before me a wonderfully fine example of Rotary as practical idealism.

But above all, fellowship leads to that greatest of all objectives in Rotary, the development of the individual, what one great Rotary leader had in mind when he said that the making of men and not the making of money is the primary aim and business of society. The aim of Rotary is to make each member a better man because he is a Rotarian, to help him think right, be right, do right, to seek that which is good in all men and to serve mankind cheerfully, faithfully, honestly and unselfishly.

It was George W. Curtis who said, "The end of man's human destiny is to be the best man he can be." And that applies in Rotary for if he is the very best men he can be then all else will be well." He will then see to it that the qualities of the finest manhood are carried into his family life, into his personal business or profession, into his club activity, into molding the ethics of his trade, business or professional organizations, into his political affiliations, into his church and social connections, into his national ideals and into world relations.

SAYS SPANKING

means of reformation such as probation parole, extra mural permit, and ticket of leave should by law be put in force in each province of the Dominion and that for motor car thieves and young or first offenders the law be amended to permit of the imposition of a short term of imprisonment and also corporal punishment with a strap.

Spanking Advocated.

"The cat o' nine tails and the lash as instruments of cruelty are out of fashion," he said. "Unfortunately, however, the impression has gone abroad that all corporal punishment falls within the scope of the cruel and inhuman. Those who are best qualified to know have concluded that a modified form of corporal punishment with a strap and usually called a spanking, produces in the offender a sense of humiliation and disgrace without any physical injury. A man doesn't feel heroic when he is being spanked."

Upon arrival of the Assiniboia at Fort William the party will be joined by other members of the association from the east and proceed by special Canadian Pacific train to Winnipeg.

ED. AND HELEN LA NOLE

It is very doubtful if there is a more versatile acrobat living than Ed. La Nole, for he has been with numerous circuses and had many partners and there is not a known act in acrobatics that he has not, at some time or other, played in, so his middle or first name should be "Versatile," instead of plain "Ed." In his long experience with fairs and open air events, he gradually settled on the two entirely different acts he is now doing—his canny knowledge of the business determining that both his acts must contain the three positive essentials—sensation, comedy and of course, a pretty girl! There was and is, for Ed, but one, in all the wide world so clever. Helen La Nole now appears in both performances and is a perfect foil for Eds foolishness and extreme daring.

Their principal number contains three kinds of acts—the comedy bounding trampoline, horizontal bar and cradle—all worked to a climax during their long series of original thrilling stunts and uproarious nonsense.

Their second act is far in the lead of any similar or so-called revolving ladder act, for they not only take more risks and work faster and longer, but they include plenty of clean new comedy, and the finish is a very sensational break-away ladder, in other words, the entire ladder flies to pieces when they are going their fastest, and it leaves them whirling dizzily in the air on one single pole.

The La Noles appear at Peterborough Industrial Exhibition.

BISHOP BARNES AS WESTMINSTER DEAN

Birmingham's Bishop May Receive the Appointment.

LONDON, Aug. 24 (Canadian Press Cable).—A correspondent of the Sunday Observer says that church opinion in the city is inclined to think that Bishop Barnes of Birmingham is likely to succeed Rt. Rev. Herbert E. Ryle as Dean of Westminster. The report is extremely interesting and there is nothing in it inherently improbable. The appointment of Bishop Barnes to Birmingham seems to many to have been another instances of the Church of England's one time frequent facility in placing a round man in a square hole.

The Bishop of Birmingham got his present appointment in July, 1924. He had previously been Canon of Westminster Abbey. He preached fearlessly on the modern theological outlook before the British association and declared that "a faith which is tied to bad science has no driving force." His position in Birmingham has been uneasy because his modernist views have incurred the implacable hostility of the Anglo-Catholics who, it is understood, even petitioned the Arch Bishop of Canterbury for his removal. Of his profound scholarship there is no question and if returned to Westminster would again fill the abbey as Liddon used to fill St. Paul's. It would be curious if two successive Deans of Westminster step down from the Episcopal Bench, but Bishop Barnes assuredly has no thought for worldly honors.

INDIAN ACCLAIMED.

Swarajist President Greeted By Simla Crowd.

SIMLA, India, Aug. 24 (Canadian Press Cable via Reuters).—The election of V. G. Patel to the presidency of the Indian Assembly was greeted with wild cheers by the Swarajists. Before the assembly opened great excitement was caused by the discovery of a crude bomb in a drain near the entrance to the chamber. The bomb exploded in the hands of a gardener who was taking it to the sergeant of police, and slightly burned his clothing. The affair was regarded as a practical joke in official circles. Mr. Patel, interviewed by Reuters' correspondent immediately after his election said that he fully appreciated the great honor conferred upon him by his countrymen and the great responsibilities of the high office.

He said that he would earnestly endeavor to maintain the high traditions of popular assembles.

DISEASE OF EAST ANALYSIS SUBJECT

Medical Conference Will Attempt Solution of Peculiar Ills.

TOKYO, Aug. 24 (Associated Press). The sixth congress of the Far Eastern Association of Tropical Medicine, which corresponds in the Orient to the International Medical Congress of Europe, and which was organized in 1910 to promote the science of art and medicine in general in the Far East, will be held in Tokyo from October 11 to 31, under the auspices of the Imperial Government.

Problems that affect every foreigner living in this part of the world will be discussed, and the results of years of research by numbers of scientists will be brought forward for elaboration and approval. Among the more important items, which the association has made its special subjects up to the present and the practical results of which have been observed, are the prevention and extermination of malaria, the diganosis of amoebic dysentry, the control of beri-beri and the compilation of statistics concerning tuberculosis.

Since the majority of the members have been health officers they have urged the various governments to put into practice to a considerable extent the results of the society's scientific research and discussion. In 1923 at the last Congress in Singapore, the council of the society recommended that each of the governments interested be invited to nominate a representative on a beri-beri committee, the report of which is to be heard at the coming session, in conformance with the policy of the association to have government representatives discuss particular problems at the general meetings.

It also has been decided to hold an exhibition relating to medicine and hygiene at the October conference to display home-manufactured instruments and apparatus for medicine and surgery, various drugs, many kinds of serum and vaccine, various species of parasites, medicinal plants, statistics of various kinds and materials relating to the medical history of Japan

CAR TOOK DIVE

The smash was witnessed by Frank Lockington the lock keeper.

On George Street

Two cars were proceeding south on George street when the driver of the first auto started to turn his car at Sherbrooke street. The car following them grazed it damaging the paint and fenders of both.

Child Hurt

Arthur Bickersteth was knocked to the pavement and suffered bruises about the head when a car coming from Hunter east hit him.

Car Smashed

George McCullock was crossing the tracks at Wescott street when a tire blew out resulting in a momentary loss of control during which the auto leaped into the ditch and was halted by a large pole.

Bicycle Collides

John Elliott of 83 Lansdowne was riding south along George when he was intercepted by a car coming out of the C.P.R. yards. The crash which followed resulted in a broken bicycle wheel and a bent fender but no serious damage was occasioned the cyclist or occupant of the car.

Other minor accidents occurred, one of which was on the Chemong Road when a car overturned.

Simpson took his wife with him on a visit to Paris. As neither had been to the French capital before, they promised themselves a good time, and they began by treating themselves to a good dinner.

GARDEN PARTY WAS A GREAT SUCCESS

Large Sum Was Realized at Annual Event of St. John's Church.

LAKEFIELD, Aug ... 24.—St. John Church annual garden party, held on Thursday afternoon and evening, was an unqualified success in spite of numerous counter attractions. The weather conditions were ideal and there was a large attendance, including a number from Stoney Lake and Peterboro'. The social was held in Riverside Park and pavilion and the beauty of the surroundings added not a little to the attractive aspect of the scene. The park was easily accessible by boat or motor and out of town visitors used both means of transit. The various stalls were in capable hands and all did a thriving business, far in excess of the anticipation. Mrs. Laurence N. Grahame was the convenor of the central committee and received many congratulations on the success which attended the undertaking.

Tea was served in a decorated marquee by Mrs. C. E. Strickland, Mrs. Stenner, Mrs. Sanderson, Mrs. O. FitzGerald and Mrs. Wood, during the afternoon. It was a most inviting retreat, shaded from the afternoon sun. A stall, under the direction of Mrs. T. Waldon, Misses A. Watson and G. Summers, at which ice cream and soft drinks were sold, did a splendid business both afternoon and evening.

Miss Gwendoline Simpson, the convenor of the flower stall, had a corps of pretty little girls selling fragrant blooms, viz—Misses Maxwell Hamilton, Lileon and Constance Stuart and Mary Strickland.

The wheel of fortune was an irresistible attraction during the afternoon and evening, and was in charge of Messrs. J. C. Strickland, C. E. Strickland and E. R. Tate, made up as Jews of the veritable "sheeny" type, and doing a highly successful business.

Mrs. Mahood and Misses S. Hetherington and Georgina Everett were in charge of a table of delectable home cooking which found a ready sale. The candy stall was as popular as ever and was well stocked with a bountiful supply of dainties to tempt the "sweet tooth." Mrs. O. A. Langley and Misses Kate Simpson and Mary Hampton were in charge.

Mrs. Stroud and Miss Ogilvie were fortune tellers and satisfied many anxious ones as to what fate held in store.

Master Gordon Strickland was the presiding genius at the tent which was labeled "feed the duck," and which was the mecca of the juveniles.

Mrs. E. M. Grier, Miss Constance Stuart and Master Jack Strickland did a thriving trade with peanuts, which were taken round on a pushcart.

Aunt Sally, perennially popular lady, was a strong attraction and was taken charge of by Messrs. C. C. Stenner and S. White.

Mrs. (Rev.) W. Cox was in charge of the hidden treasure which was a source of speculation and wonder to old and young. Miss Margaret Strickland assisted Mrs. Cox.

A guessing contest as to the weight of a tempting layer cake made and decorated by Mrs. E. W. Bailey was another of the numerous attractions.

A bevy of pretty young girls assisted in various ways during the afternoon and evening and contributed their quota to the success, both financially and socially, of the event. These were Misses Winifred Payne, Muriel Strickland, Angela Osborne, Agnes Stroud, Frances Merson and Barbara Dench.

In the evening from 9 till 12, a well-attended dance was held in the pavilion with Follis' orchestra supplying first class music. Prizes for the lucky number dance were won by Miss Pearl Young and Mr. Glen Wannamaker.

With receipts which totalled more than $300, and the happy memory of a pleasant social gathering, the committee in charge may feel well repaid for the effort which was made.

LOSING A GREAT EDITOR.

(Ottawa Journal.)

Mr. John Lewis has resigned acting editor of the Toronto Globe because his political views disagree somewhat with those of its proprietors. Mr. Lewis' announcement of his adherence to the two-party system affords scope for speculation as to the views of the proprietors of the Globe. Mr. Lewis is one of Canada's ablest editorial writers. He hopes he "will not be described by those who know him as a rabid or bitter partisan." He is not and never has been. His personal conclusions have always been based on careful thought, and his method of expression has been calm and unexceptionable. The Toronto Globe is losing a great editor.

SAILORS ACCEPT TERMS.

LONDON, Aug. 24 (Canadian Press Cable).—Havelock Wilson, president of the British Seamen's Union, interviewed before sailing for Canada said that the new wages for sailors had been accepted by 50,000 men without protest. The trouble at the East India docks, London, he said, was engineered by Reds and the strikers were unemployable non-unionists.

QUICK RELIEF FOR RHEUMATICS

Local Druggists Sell Rheuma on Money-Back Plan.

If you suffer from torturing rheumatic pains, swollen, twisted joints, and suffer intnesely because your system is full of uric acid, that dangerous poison that makes thousands helpless and kills thousands years before their time, then you need Rheuma, and need it now.

Start taking it to-day. Rheuma acts at once on kidneys, liver, stomach and blood, and you can sincerely exclaim: "Good riddance to bad rubbish."

Many people, the most skeptical of skeptics right in this city and in the country hereabouts, bless the day when McDermid & Jury and other good druggists offered Rheuma to the afflicted at a small price and guaranteed money refunded if not satisfied. If you have rheumatism get a bottle of Rheuma to-day.

GRANDMA LUNGE ON TOLEDO MAN'S HOOK

Mart Manley Caught 20 1-2 Pounder in Little Mud Lake.

What is reported to have been the largest 'lunge taken from Little Mud Lake this year was caught by Mart Manley, of Toledo, Ohio, on Monday, August 17. The 'lunge weighed 20½ pounds and was 45 inches long.

Mr. Manley was guided by Wilbert Northey, of Lakefield, R.M.D. No. 1, and was trolling in front of Mr. Northey's "Lakeland Cottage," just at sundown, when the big 'lunge struck. Fearing that the light tackle would break, Mr. Northey paddled around until the fish was tired.

Mr. Manley has been an ardent fisherman for a number of years and until last year had been satisfied with Michigan fishing. Last year he ventured into Canada and was a guest at the Northey cottage. He was so delighted with the fishing that he became an enthusiast over Little Mud Lake.

Before he left for home, Mr. Manley remarked that he had taken "grandma" 'lunge this year and that he expected to come back next year after "grandpa."

TORONTO, Aug. 24.—(Canadian Press).—The body of a man apparently about 75 years of age, was found in the bush south of Thorncliffe Race Track yesterday.

From a letter found in the coat pocket of the deceased it appears that his name was G. Gilyeart. The letter was from Rotherham, England.

According to the statement of County Coroner Dr. R. H. Fleming, there were no marks of violence on the body, which was lying flat on its back with a bundle under the head and an overcoat drawn over the face. In the pockets were found a sum of money amounting to $135.88. In the breast pocket was a deposit book showing a credit balance of $1,041.

OTTAWA, Aug. 24 (Canadian Press).—Heartily sick and tired of travelling, and despondent over the failure of their attempt to gain an audience with King George in London, the four Indians who some ago went to England to petition the King to present to him certain grievances which they nursed, arrived in Ottawa last night on their way to their home near Kamloops, British Columbia.

2.—Good food materials.

When we know a very little about what wild life is near at hand, we have a far better time of living.

This past week, while going along a woodland road, much to my surprise I came upon a girls' camp. They were almost as surprised to see me as I was to be among them. They were further surprised when they found out that my rambling was without rhyme or reason, beginning or end.

The idea that any sane man in these times, could start out for nowhere, not knowing when he would get there, and with nothing particular on his mind, was too much of a novelty for them. They were suspicious at once and went and brought the camp director, who put me through a cross-examination.

When the girls found out that I might be able to tell them about some birds they had seen around the camp, they took me into the barn, which was fixed up into a dining hall.

A barn swallow's nest was pointed out. The bird was there too. Well, we went out to the telegraph wire and saw one stretch and spread its tail and so on, and the girls were surprised that they had not noticed these little things before.

We went over to the edge of the woods, to a spot where tall spruce, pine and cedars grew. There, almost before we had time to get started, a pair of myrtle warblers flew about in an alarmed manner. We had walked almost into the tree where the nest was. The young were about ready to leave the nest and this sudden flock of girls, led by an aimless man, so upset the parents, that they called the little ones out of the nest in haste and out they all flew, with downy fluff still on their heads. I said flew, but I should have said fluttered.

Everyone Worried.

One young one fluttered down into the lake, landing on a floating stick, where it might have been safe, had the girls accepted the situation, but they worried about it, which worried the parents, which worried me, so that we all worried the poor little thing into thinking it was in a dangerous place and it hopped off

The girls were surprised to see it paddle with its wings and get over to another stick, but the water began to wet the little thing's feathers and it could not land on the stick and, with the parent birds about my head and the din of girls' voices yelling seventeen different kinds of orders in my ears, I went into the water and picked it up.

All the girls had to hold that little thing for just a moment or two, to make sure it was not dead and that each had helped to rescue it, then it was placed upon a dry stump in the sun for a few minutes, then removed to a spruce twig, where we left it with its scolding parents

"Do you think the mother and father birds appreciated our saving their little one?" asked one of the campers.

I had to explain that I couldn't explain such things. It is possible that the parent birds might understand human help in time of trouble, but we must remember in this case, that the birds were not in trouble until we arrived, so I very much fear we got nothing but blame and scolding.

"Why, there must be about a dozen different kinds of birds near our camp, aren't there, Mr. Nature-man?" said another girl camper.

"If you can guess within fifty per cent of how many different kinds of birds there are near this camp," said I, "I will give you a fine coloured set of bird pictures for the dining hall, and will give the correct guesser one fine special bird picture, taken by myself."

The highest guess was fifteen. When we sat down and began to count, we found that there were about ten times that many. The tree and bank and barn swallows were much more interesting, since the girls could actually see the differences.

The myrtle warblers, however, came in for special notice, due to the exciting spill we had with them, so we looked them over again. The girls seemed to like the myrtle warbler, as it seems easy to identify, with its yellow rump, crown and side spots. The outer colouring is grey and white, with black markings on side of head and on sides. The yellow rump is the marking to go by, especially in Autumn, when the other markings are not so clearly defined.

The myrtle warbler is with us early in Spring and is about the last bird about our camp in the Autumn, away up in the hills, so we like it very much. The warblers are very hard to learn and very confusing, so, with a good start on an easy one, we feel like trying to learn more.

Oh, I nearly forgot to tell about the boy scout who was at the camp. He had come over to see his sister, and when he learned about the strange rambling visitor who had entertained the girls, he came running after me, through the woods.

And here is what was on his mind: He is a boy scout in Montreal and there is a special badge for scouts who take pictures of 15 different kinds of birds and he wanted to know how to go after that badge. At least, that is the way I remember his object and the details.

When I asked how many of his fellow scouts had obtained the boy scout badge for bird photography, he said, "None, Sir, as far as I know, and that is why I want to win it."

What I told him about how to win it, will be told later, so watch for it.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

CAPABLE MOTHERHOOD IS NO IDLE TASK.

Across the aisle of the Pullman in which I am riding is a bridal couple. It does your soul good to see how happy the young folks are. They are absolutely unconscious of the presence of the other passengers.

The groom is a playful, boyish, handsome lad. He looks as proud as a peacock.

The bride looks the part. She appears to be just the sort of young woman who should be a bride. Her skin is clear and plump, her lips are red, her eyes are sparkling, her hands are the capable kind. She is the picture of physical perfection, with no need of cosmetics to camouflage health.

The future of the nation depends on the girls of to-day. If they are physical wrecks, combinations of headache and backache, flat-chested and stoop shouldered, they cannot be expected to make desirable mothers. They cannot be expected to be good citizens.

I regret to see a growing sentiment against motherhood. Fortunately, it is not a widespread conviction, even though it is a very noisy one. There are those who turn up their noses at what they call "the breeding mission of women."

The greatest privilege God gave the human race is the privilege of motherhood. It has been well said that "God couldn't be everywhere, so He made mothers." The mother-job is the greatest job in the world.

But whether a girl is destined for motherhood or not, it cannot be denied that her part in the world's service will be determined by her state of health. It is not wealth or social position or accident that fixes her place. It is the quality of her tissues, the purity of her blood, the power of her heart and the texture of her brain—these are the things which will decide her fate.

Not alone does the young woman require a perfect body to fit her for motherhood, but she must know how to live and the "whyness" of things, so, in turn, she may teach her children how to live. Every girl is at the apex of a great social triangle. Reaching out from her is an ever-widening group of persons who will look back in joy or sorrow to their progenitor.

It is the duty of every girl to cultivate health and physical vigor. They owe this not only to themselves, but to generations yet unborn. It is a responsible undertaking. It is more than an adventure—it is fraught with serious obligations.

Happiness, good nature, companionship, personal magnetism and success depend on good health.

THE FIGHTING RANGER

By F. J. McCONNELL and GEORGE W. PYPER.

CHAPTER 34.
Revelation.

Mary, watching the sky from the speeding automobile, uttered a shriek of horror as she saw the two planes shoot head on for each other, crash, and locked together, start dropping, a mass of shattered, smoking debris.

"They'll all be killed," she screamed.

Jack, the ranger, crowded the car to its last inch of speed, and headed for the spot where the planes were falling.

When they reached it and jumped out, they found Terence and Bud bending over the unconscious form of Stella. They had dragged her out of the wreckage and were trying to revive her. Mary ran and threw her arms about Terence.

"What a miraculous escape you boys had," she cried. "Oh, Terence, I'm so glad."

"Her plane broke away as we neared ground, and fell under us," explained Terence. "It saved Bud and I—but she, poor thing, is in a terrible shape."

They all bent over the injured woman. She was recovering consciousness, but was writhing in great agony from her injuries.

"I guess—the game's up—I guess I'm done for," she quavered.

"Stella Montrose, why have you been aiding the enemies of the Marshalls?" Terence asked.

"The love of adventure—and riches promised as a reward—Taggart"—the suffering woman muttered.

"But the treasure is on the Marshall land—these men are wolves—merciless pirates robbing Mary of her one chance to save her father and his ranch," said Terence.

Mary's arm encircled Stella, and she was trying to assuage her suffering.

"Forgive me—if you can," she murmured. Mustering her strength, she went on with an effort: "It is not too late. The treasure is in a hidden cave near the trail that winds up the face of Sierra Diablo. The secret of its location was written on a tiny slip of paper—concealed in the topaz—the topaz that Buck McLeod stole from Taggart. That was the secret of the topaz."

Terence drew from his pocket the copy of the map he had made.

"Here, can you show us where on this copy of the map?" he asked.

"There, at the letter D—that is the cave, said Stella pointing. "McLeod is waiting for me there now—for me to bring back his gang—"

The woman fell back in a swoon.

"She has over-strained herself," said Mary sympathetically. "We must get her to a hospital at once."

Poor Bud had been watching the scene with pain, torn between his loyalty to the Marshalls and Terence, and his love and sympathy for Stella.

They carried Stella to the car.

"Rush her to Pico for medical aid," said Terence. "Then bring the sheriff and a posse to Sierra Diablo with all possible speed."

"But aren't you coming with us?" Mary asked.

"I'm going to the cave of the Yaquis," Terence answered. "I have sworn to get Buck McLeod—alone!"

They tried to dissuade him from his solitary, dangerous mission, but their pleas were unavailing. He was determined. Mary made Stella as comfortable as possible in the car, taking her place beside her to care for her, the others boarded the machine, and Terence watched them off on their way. Then he strode off for his lone man hunt.

* * *

After a hike of more than two hours Terence came to the base of Sierra Diablo. He took out his map, studied it.

"At the letter D," he muttered.

He followed the trail indicated by the map, and finally stumbled upon the narrow winding passage between the rocks leading to the cave. On he strode, into the cave.

He found Buck, lifting and dropping handfuls of the treasure, still gloating with miserly joy over the piles of marvelous gems and glistening gold. As Terence appeared, he gave a cry like a trapped animal, then whipped out his gun. Terence made a leap for him and knocked it out of his hand. The men rolled about in the treasure in a mad rough-and-tumble.

"I've licked you before, and I'm going to get you again—with my bare hands," Terence threatened, as they lay, temporarily separated, after a whirlwind of wild blows.

The two men jumped at each other, and the combat was on in earnest. Buck, realizing he was no match for Terence, and in fear, was maneuvering for a break to the entrance and escape. But Terence blocked the way. At each attempt Buck made to run for it he was met by a row of hard knuckled which sent him flying back into the cave.

Buck gave up that alley of escape finally, and retreated back into the cave. Terence followed. He was dazed and startled by the untold heaps of glittering treasure that lay about him, so far surpassing even his wildest expectations, but he kept his mind nevertheless to the business at hand—to get Buck!

Finally, as Buck fell farther and farther back in the cave he noticed a hitherto unseen crevice through which the daylight streamed, leading up and out of the cave. He darted for it and started to climb through, but Terence, close behind, seized him and pulled him back. Seeing he must fight his way out, Buck started for Terence. He was knocked down by a crashing blow to the jaw. Coming to his feet, he picked up a handful of the gold and jewels and flung them at Terence.

"Can't use your hands, eh?" muttered Terence.

He made a flying leap for Buck, battering him mercilessly as they went down together, Terence on top.

Both men were torn, bleeding, disheveled. Buck struggled, managed to shake Terence off, and both staggered to their feet again. They met head on. Terence delivered a terrible thrashing, and after several minutes of fierce fighting, Buck went down again and lay still—licked—beaten—broken—cowed. Finally he scrambled to his knees, raised his hands supplicatingly. Terence seized him by the throat, his face set sternly, and with grim menace gasped:

"Buck McLeod—if you want to live—answer me—one thing—QUICK!"

Buck, begging for mercy, nodded and stammered that he would answer anything.

"Who killed Michael O'Rourke, my father?"

Buck, breathing hard, gasped:

"Spade Sinclair—his partner—shot him down in cold blood—for the topaz—"

"Tell me the whole story."

"They were hunting the Yaqui gold from an old map," Buck went on. "Yer dad found how to read the signs. We wrote the secret down—and sealed it up in the topaz with wax. Sinclair knew the stone had something to do with the loot—but didn't savvy what was in it.

"An it was this Sinclair—the same man—as killed Black Benwell. But old Marshall was driven from his ranch, hunted for years, and finally convicted fer it. Sinclair fired the shot from hiding while Marshall and Benwell grappled—jes' when Marshall's gun barked by accident. Sinclair wanted Marshall's ranch—fer the treasure he knew was on it."

"Who is this Sinclair?" Terence demanded. Where is he?"

Buck snarled, with hate:

"The snake—he changed his name—an' his looks. The double-crosser. He is—"

Buck paused. Terence's hand, clenching his throat, tightened, menacingly.

"Speak—quick—who is he?" he demanded.

"He's—Topaz Taggart!"

SUGGESTIONS FOR SOLVING CROSS-WORD PUZZLES

Start out by filling in the words of which you feel reasonably sure. These will give you a clue to other words crossing them, and they in turn to still others. A letter belongs in each white space, words starting at the numbered squares and running either horizontally or vertically or both.

The solution will appear in to-morrow's paper.

YOUR GARDEN

BRICK WALKS

The chief merit of brick walks for the garden or approach to the house lies in their beauty and attractiveness. One has not only the soft velvety lines to choose from, which may be made delightfully harmonious with the colors of the garden, but also patterns in great variety may be worked out as the material is in such small units.

The bricks may be laid flat or set on edge in various squares as well as herringbone patterns, though the latter do not lend themselves well to curved walks and should be confined to places where straight lines predominate. An attractive border may also be added by placing the bricks on edge, lengthways or sideways, or half bricks on end, all raised just a little above the general level.

As to the actual laying; bricks may be laid on either a concrete or a cinder base. The latter should consist of six inches of clean cinders, with one inch of bar sand as a cushion. The concrete base, which will prove more expensive but more permanent ,should consist of five inches of concrete with one inch of sand for a c ushion. This base will prevent upheavals and preserve the true alignment, and is no doubt safer for our northern climate. A slight convexity to shed water and keep the walk dryer is an advantage. When the bricks have been laid in place, the joints should be filled with bar sand or grouted and pointed with cement mortar. Again, the mortar joints will be more expensive but more lasting and have the advantage of preventing grass and weeds from growing between the bricks.

Those interestd in improving the texture of their walks should apply an occasional coating of boiled linseed oil.

STREET NAMES

DALHOUSIE STREET.

George Ramsey, Earl of Dalhousie, a scion of an old Scottish family, was a soldier by profession and commanded the 7th division of the British Army in France and the Pennsula during the Napoleonic Wars. With the peculiar fondness of last century administrations for thrusting military men into all kinds of political appointments the Government of that day made Dalhousie, Lieutenant Governor of Nova Scotia in 1816. Three years later he became Captain General and Governor in Chief of Canada, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Prince Edward and Cape Breton Islands, and filled the position creditably for nine years after which he was appointed Commander in Chief of the East Indies. He died in 1838.

BY JOHN MAC ELHINNY

The international congress of dentists recently held at Vienna adopted a resolution asking official recognition of their business as a "profession."

They want to be given diplomas and receive degrees. We are in favor of giving them "third degrees."

They ought to have no trouble in getting what they want. All they have to do is to exert a little pull.

It has often been remarked that American dentists are the best in the world, and the explanation is simple. They are natural-born Yanks.

In fact, the brass bands in Vienna, during the dentists' convention met all incoming trains playing "The Yanks Are Coming."

Dentistry, like medicine, is getting highly specialized. Some just pull teeth, others just fill them, while others are simply diagnosticians. And the fewer things they do the more they charge

This is natural, as the fewer things they do the more time they have for golf and the more time they have for golf the more money they need.

The diagnosticians have the easies time of it. A man comes in with a swollen jaw and an expression of agony on his face. "You are suffering from a toothache," says the great man.

"Is that so?" says the surprised patient. "I thought that it was a boil on my left elbow."

"No," says the dentist, "it is a toothache. Go down to Dr. Blank and have him pull out Nos. 4 and 5. You really only need to have No. 4 pulled out, but I owe Blank $10 and I might as well pay it this way."

"All right," says the patient, "but I'm glad that you don't owe the state executioner any money."

Yes, dentistry is really a great profession. Far be it from us to say anything against it. Not until the dental work we are having done now is finished, anyhow.

Referring to the Women's Peace union, Rear-Admiral Bradley A. Fiske states that it has always been the women who have caused wars.

He said in effect that women supply the inspiration and men the perspiration.

In other words, he believes that "the hand that rules the cradle rocks the world."

War, to the admiral's mind, is a good institution. For one thing, it does away with unemployment.

In the second place, it gives men an opportunity to see the world.

Also it helps the promotion of officers in the army and navy.

He also intimates that if women were half as smart and capable as they think they are they would still be pretty competent.

There is no denying the admiral's courage. He made these statements in a speech at a meeting of the National Society of New England Women.

He was even so revolutionary in his remarks as to hint that he did not consider man to be the lowest form of animal life.

The women laughed heartily at this, under the impression that he must be joking.

However, it gives us a great deal of pleasure to see a rear-admiral come to the front in this manner.

It is a matter of history that Helen of Troy's face launched a thousand ships and that Fraulein Krupp's factory turned out enough guns to sink them.

Catharine of Russia, she of the No. 12 shoes, took active charge of all her armies. Some feet for a woman, we'd say.

Our old friend Carrie Nation got into more fights sober than most men do when they're blotto.

Even Mother Eve was the cause of the first rumpus the human race got into.

An apple a day didn't work out so well with her.

Adam certainly didn't want the apple. He was perfectly satisfied with a peach like Eve.

From Admiral Fiske's remarks it is easily seen that he is not running for any public office.

A Modern Musician.

"My daughter has a splendid musical education."

"Yes?"

"Yes, indeed. You've only got to give her the name of any record and she'll tell you straight off what's on the other side."

I'm The Gink.

I'm the gink who always has some one for you to "look up" when you go away on a business trip. You don't ask for them, but I come right out with them. I insist that you take down their names. When you return I am sure to ask if you looked them up. Usually I don't know them well myself. They often have no recollection of me. I just like to appear well-travelled and acquainted. "Say, I want you to look up Bill Brown when you go over there."

I'm the ginkette who changes my order at the restaurant just when it is about ready to be delivered. I just must change, because I thought of something else I wanted. Of course they will do it, because they want to retain their trade. They lose the food they prepared for me, but that's all right. I just flutter over the menu and change my mind when I want o. I'm a pain to all restaurants and to all waiters, but I get what I want.

I'm The Gink.

I'm the gink who never returns a borrowed article to the place from where I got it. I may get something from your desk or your room. I go ahead and use it and then put it where I choose. If you ask me for it, I am rather careless and forgetful about it. If you insist, I may act as if I'm "hurt." Of course I am selfishly careless, but then I like to feel that what I do is all right.

I'm the ginkette who says, "Let mother do it." Some folks talk about letting George do it, but I let mother. I know she won't refuse. That's why I take advantage of her. She's patient and considerate and I'm just downright lazy. I leave my things around and never tidy up. Let mother do it. I sleep late and hurry away, leaving things all mussed up. When I come home I know things will be all right. I have a good time. That's all I think about. I just let mother do it.

About Ourselves And Other People

By Winifred Black

A TEACHER WHO FIGHTS BRAVELY ON!

There she was in her little apartment way up at the top of the second or third rate family hotel.

The Old Teacher who is so beloved at the old school.

They say she was very handsome once and very stately.

She's stately now, with an old-fashioned dignity of her own, but the years have made lines in her face and her clear eyes are no longer lustrous.

The Old Teacher never married. She couldn't very well do that. She had a delicate mother to look after and two little sisters and a brother to educate—and by the time her sisters were educated—and the brother had gone through college and poor mother was through with her years of suffering—at last—the Old Teacher had passed the marrying age.

And the one or two admirers who had hoped and waited—had given up hope and had waited no longer.

So she had to go on through life—alone.

The two sisters who were so carefully "educated" are both married. The musical one hasn't touched a piano for ten years and I wonder if the Old Teacher's money was wasted in all those piano lessons.

The artistic one hasn't touched a paint brush in fifteen years—she never even goes to see art exhibits—though she used to be so keen about pictures—she just stays at home and looks after her husband and the children and she really hasn't time to visit the Old Teacher.

And she isn't so very well and she can't teach as many hours a day as she did and her salary isn't very big and so she is economizing even a little more than usual.

That's why she's living in the stuffy little "light housekeeping" apartment, and whisper, I'll tell you a secret.

She does her cooking in her bathroom and she keeps her ice box there, too.

Poor—neglected—alone? Not she.

She's comfortable and cheerful and perfectly contented and she dares you to think anything else.

She belongs to a little club and they subscribe for four magazines and take turns at reading them. Twice a year in the winter she goes to a good concert.

She's lived alone all her life and she'll die alone when her time comes.

Every time I think of her I feel like standing—as if I were in the presence of royalty.

It is such stout hearts and high souls as these that make this world a tolerable place.

Let's Talk It Over

WHY AN IN-LAW MAY CAUSE TROUBLE

We have with us today the Mother-in-Law Question. The Mother-in-Law Question, like the Mother-in-Law Joke, is never out of season. Any woman with a married son or daughter is fair game for the joke-smith. She may be possessed of all the usual virtues and a few unusual ones, but we feel sure that it's camouflage—under the silvery pompadour horns are sprouting. We'd rather have a mortgage on the property than a mother-in-law on the premises. We'll bet our new hat that she'll Make Trouble if given a chance to mix in the domestic affairs of her-in-laws.

We rarely lose our bets. She makes trouble all right. But So Would Any One Else If Given The Same Opportunity. Mother-in-law gets the rep because no one else gets the chance to raise cain that she does. The young married couple lets "Mother" into the circle. She has the password, "Mother Love." She lifts up the latch and walks in. Why go into the painful details? You know what happens as well as I do.

There's a time and place for everything, even mothers-in-law. Take China, for instance. The young Chinese wife coming into the family as the "new woman" takes her place in the long chain of dutiful daughters and unquestionably accepts mama's dictation. However, there's a reason for this. In a land where the family counts more than the individual, and where a single "family" under one roof may consist of several generations, all related by ties of blood or marriage, it follows that there must be a Head.

The Head of a family of such size could hardly be a young, inexperienced lot of the older, matured woman whose years of training as "daughter-in-law" have fitted her for it. Little Minnie Sing King inwardly considers mama a fossil and a frump, but she knows that mama is having her day, and in the course of time She'll have Her. It's part of the scheme.

No such consolation for our Minnie. This is her day, right now, and if mama-in-law horns in on it she loses out on her only chance. It's a cinch she'll never get an invitation from her, daughter-in-law to run Her home. Naturally, she wants to hang up a record now We've got no room for Managing Mothers. That's why we have no room for Managing Momas-in-Law in the U.S.A. They ought to be as extinct as the Dodo Bird.

I have been following the column with interest, and failing to see this question discussed I write to ask your views. I am a young woman to be the mother of a married daughter—I am forty-three, but could pass for thirty-five.

My mind is as young as my face, and having had to interest myself in business since my husband's death eight years ago I have kept myself in touch with the world, and there can be no question of my ideas being old fashioned or out of date, like those of the old-fashioned mother who wanted to keep her daughters away from life.

No, I gave my daughter trust and freedom, and she justified them. She chose an upright, "coming" young man, and ought to succeed in marriage. say "ought to succeed" because just now success is dubious.

The point is, they quarrel all the time. They quarrel over nothing, and then Babe is indignant because I try to explain her mistakes. Far from being the proverbial mother-in-law, I often sympathize with Henry, and Babe resents it.

What I want to bring out is this: In the case of a mother, young and up-to-date, isn't it her duty to guide them a little? Am I supposed to retire and knit socks when my daughter marries? If she would only listen to me I could save her many mistakes.

NEW-FASHIONED MOTHER.

Listen, Sister. How many mistakes were you saved by the advice of others? Not Many. As you bring out in your letter, you kept young because you were busy, and busy because you kept young. Evidently ou made a good job of your life.

Well, give your daughter that same chance. Let her learn by her mistakes, just as you learned by yours. Give her a chance. Lay off!

Checquered Tweed Makes This Mannish Coat and Simple Skirt.

Checquered tweed suits have been appearing in large numbers at the smart European resorts whenever the weather was cool enough to permit.

This indicates the vogue of checquered tweeds for Fall, and above is shown a typical suit of this inspiration. The skirt is short and straight and the slightly fitted coat extends almost to the hem of the skirt.

With this model is worn a white crepe blouse with the straight neckline and long sleeves. Both are finished with deep fagotting.

INDIAN GIVER

By Juanita Hamel

Long, long ago one of the poets sang—

Ere we part, give, oh, give me back my heart!"

When you were young and gave your chum your much prized knife, or ball and then had a quarrel, you immediately demanded the return of your gift, whereupon all the 'gang' started the cry of "Indian Giver." Remember? And somehow you never seem to get over the habit. Now that you're grown up and think you have found the most wonderful girl in the world, and then you decide that she only wants your heart to add to her already long chain, you beg and plead with her to return it. She'll return all the rest and keep yours. And you'll be ashamed that you begged for its return and proud that your heart is to occupy the place of honor. But be careful when you give it that it is to the one whom Love whispers is the right one.

IN THE KITCHEN

By Jeanette Norton

NEW WAYS OF USING YEAR-AROUND FRUITS.

The most dependable fruits that are all year around standbys are the citrus fruits. These fruits recommended for children as supplying the mineral salts that help build bone and tooth structure.

Savory Orange Toast.

Make as many slices of toast as are needed, after cutting off the crusts. Allow a small orange to each slice of toast. Peel the oranges and remove all white skins, and the seeds as carefully as possible, after dividing the oranges into segments. Lay them neatly on the toast, which has been lightly spread with a mixture of a little anchovy paste and unsalted butter. Mask with white mayonnaise, which is of course made without mustard and has whipped cream added to it.

Orange Custard Pudding.

Make a boiled custard, using a pint of rich milk, a half cupful of sugar, a quarter saltspoonful of salt, beaten yolks of two fresh eggs. When cooked and thick enough to coat the spoon, remove and cool. Take four oranges, peel, remove all white skin, separate into segments removing the seeds carefully without destroying the pieces. Arrange the oranges in a glass serving dish and sprinkle with powdered sugar. When the custard is cold, pour over the oranges. Set to chill. Whip the egg whites stiff, adding a little powdered sugar and drop onto a baking dish, very lightly smeared with butter and bake in the oven a delicate brown. With a sharp knife, transfer the meringues to the top of the custard.

Lemon Marmalade.

Wash two dozen large fresh lemons and place them in the preserving kettle, covering them with cold water. Boil gently for two hours and change the water three times while boiling. Let the lemons cool slightly, then slice them thin with a stainless knife, removing all pips. To each pound, add two pounds of sugar and a pint of the water they were boiled in last. Boil the sugar and the water to a syrup, then add the lemons and cook until a little jells.

His Wish.

Restaurateur—"Are you fond of music with your meals, sir?"

New customer—"Well, not particularly, but I think a little jigtime music for the waiter would hit me all right."

Towards the end of the meal Simpson was telling his wife that her French pronunciation was all wrong, and that she shouldn't say "merci" as if it were our English word "mercy."

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

DAVID MAKES A DISCOVERY IN NEW MEXICO

"Did you see that." David exclaimed out loud. "As sur as I'm a live, I saw that ground open up and a head peek out! Oh, oh, wish—"

"At your service," chuckled a merry voice, and Happy Giggles poked his head out from behind a stone where he had been hiding. "What's the trouble, David?"

"Goodness, Happy Giggles," laughed David, searching over the ground, "I'm mighty glad to see you. I just saw the ground in this section raise up and a tiny head peek out. Now I can't find the opening. I know I wasn't dreaming. Now wasn't that funny?"

"Not so funny that I can see," said a tiny voice, and the ground lifted and out popped a hairy little head and sparkling black eyes. "Hello there Happy Giggles. Who's your friend?"

"Why, Mrs. Ecteniza," laughed the elfin. "David, meet the little lady who had you bluffed."

Mrs. Ecteniza crawled out of the tiny doorway, which she lifted with her feet, and shook hands with David and the elfin.

"Guess you're not the first one I have fooled," she laughed. "Pretty clever, don't you think?" pointing to the piece of dirt she used for a door. "Very few people can find my doorway when it's closed. I don't suppose you've ever been inside of a trap-door spider's house, have you?"

"You Are Pretty Clever."

"No, I've never had that pleasure," replied David politely. Then he began to shrink until he was no taller than Mrs. Ecteniza herself. "I'd love to take a peek at your house. Come on, Happy Giggles," and they stepped through the open doorway into a narrow tunnel.

About two inches down the tunnel was another doorway and through this Mrs. Ecteniza led her guests.

"Clever idea," said Happy Giggles. "When someone opens Mrs. Ecteniza's outside door she shuts and holds this door closed, and the intruder, thinking no one is at home, goes away."

"I'll say you're pretty clever," said David. "But how in the world do you hold them shut?"

"Why, by my jaws and my first two pairs of feet," replied Mrs. Ecteniza. "Then I brace my other two pairs of feet firmly against the walls of my tube, and believe me, it has to be a strong fellow who can get in. Did you notice how I lined my house?"

"With cobwebs of course," laughed David.

Just then they heard a shuffling noise and before David knew what was happening he and Happy Giggles were pulled into the second doorway and the door closed and held tightly in place. Whoever the intruder was, glancing down from the first doorway, and thinking no one was at home, he moved away.

Mrs. Ecteniza lifted her door and cautiously peeked out. Seeing the coast clear they all ran up to the ground.

"Serves me right for forgetting to close my door after me," she said. "No harm done. Come and see me again some time," and down went the trapdoor. Neither David nor Happy Giggles could find just where it was, so cleverly was it hidden amongst the leaves and mosses.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

Dear Annie Laurie: I am a girl seventeen years of age, and lately have been going out with a young man two years my senior. This young man had been very friendly with one of my best friends for nearly two years. This girl does not know that I am going with him. The young man also continues to see the other girl. I would not like to deceive her but I like him very much.

Please advise me whether or not to continue seeing this young man.

—Worried Brown Eyes.

Worried Brown Eyes: Since this young man is not engaged to your friend it is his privilege to see you and any of his other friends as often as he chooses. You must not feel, therefore, that you are "deceiving" your friend because you are sharing the attention of one of her friends. On the contrary, this mutual friend should be another bond between you.

Dear Annie Laurie: I am a girl seventeen years of age. Last Summer I became engaged to be married. In about three months my fiance began going with another girl, but still said he loved me and intended to marry me. Then in about four months he started goin about with another girl and stopped calling on me entirely. It has been about three months that our relations have been unfriendly. I go with other boys and pretend it does not worry me.

Please advise me what to do.

—Blue Eyes.

Blue Eyes: I would advise you to have a frank discussion of the situation with you fiance, Miss Blue Eyes. Since he is engaged to be married he has not the privilege of inviting other young ladies out If, however, he considers the engagement broken he should be honest enough to ask your permission. At any rate, have a heart to heart talk and thresh the thing out calmly.

When a fellow says money isn't everything, just try to borrow some of his and see.

This new way works wonders on cloudy teeth

Modern science, by perfecting a new way of combating the stubborn film that covers teeth, now opens the road to whiter teeth, safely.

THAT cloudy teeth, yellowish, discolored teeth can be made whiter is now an accepted fact. Foremost dentists of the world are widely urging this new method. You can have cleaner, prettier teeth if you will start today.

This is accomplished by combating a viscous film that covers teeth. A stubborn, hard to remove film that old type dentifrices do not fight successfully.

Run your tongue across your teeth and you can feel this film. Under it are the clear, attractive teeth you envy in others. Combat it, and your teeth become many shades whiter—more glistening. This offers you a 10-day test free. Mail the coupon.

The great enemy of teeth

Film is the great enemy of teeth beauty. And a chief cause, according to world's dental authorities, of most tooth troubles. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. Germs by the millions breed in it. They, with tartar, are the common cause of pyorrhea. It holds food in contact with teeth, inviting the acid that causes decay.

You can't have prettier, whiter teeth; you can't have healthier teeth unless you combat that film.

Ask your druggist or mail the coupon for Pepsodent. Don't expect the same results from old time dentifrices. Begin beautifying your teeth today.

Kingston 2, Peterboro 1 - Pittsburg Win 3 Out of 4 From Giants - Senators Hold Margin

PETES' LACK OF FINAL PUNCH FATAL IN FIRST PLAY-OFF TILT LOSE 2-1 TO PONIES SATURDAY

Cairns Victorious Over Whitehouse in Game That is Undecided Until Last Ball is Pitched.

A HARD ONE TO LOSE.

Brilliant Fielding and Clever Pitching Feature the Central Ontario's "Little World's Series."

(By F. D. C.)

The ability of Bruce Cairns, Kingstons' left-handed ace, to weave a magic spell around the bats of the Petes when a hit would have spelled victory for the talent enabled the Ponies to win the first game of the play off series for the Central Ontario League championship, at Riverside Park, Saturday. Joe Daley's gang winning after the hardest kind of a battle by 2 runs to 1.

The Petes could get men on the bases, in fact there was one or more Johnstonites on the runways in each one of the nine frames but when it came to a question of the final punch that would send in runs the local crew could not break through Cairns' service.

It was a tough one to lose.

Frank Whitehouse, given the pitching assignment by Manager Johnston twirled a brand of ball that would have won nineteeen out of twenty games.

The Petes' southpaw held the Ponies to seven hits, three of them lucky, did not issue a solitary complimentary, pitched to three batters only in five of the nine innings, blanked the invaders in eight frames, drove home the only Peterboro counter of the day—and yet lost because the Ponies punched three hits and a sacrifice in the second to score twice and his teammates could not get the runs back for him.

Although Cairns secured the verdict and must be given credit for a masterly exhibition of cool pitching he was not greater in victory than was his young Peterboro rival in defeat.

He allowed one less hit than did Whitehouse but on the other hand he jeopardized his own cause by walking no fewer than six of the Petes as against no passes from the Peterboro left-hander while the strike out honors were even with three each.

A Real Game.

With 2000 fans in attendance, representing fandom from all parts of Eastern Ontario, perfect weather conditions, the diamond looking green and trim as in early season and the League championship at stake, the conditions represented a challenge to the teams to give the best they had—and they arose to the occasion.

Glittering work in the field was done by both outfits, the pitching as already intimated was of very high standard and the result was a game worthy of two senior clubs clashing in the final series.

Jimmy Hall, the Petes young leftfielder, who was one of the outstanding figures of the day, both on the attack and the defense, contributed two running catches that were gems. Herb. Wolfe and Red Legon covered acres of ground to pull in a couple of flies each while in the infield the feature work was done by Tommy Holyman, who handled seven chances perfectly at shortstop. The only Peterboro error of the day was a technical one, a matter of pure bad luck when Jimmy Hall's good throw to third base took a crazy hop over Helson's head to give Batstone an extra base.

Kingston's stellar plays were contributed by Somerville, the veteran second baseman, and by Harry Batstone. Somerville made two beautiful catches, on the run, of hard hit drives, his second effort resulting in a double play, while Batstone robbed Rose of a hit by a circus back-handed stop of a torrid roller.

Kingston's two counters were registered in the second. They got but four men to first base after that frame while the Petes getting somebody on in every inning were continually threatening until they finally bunched two hits with a wild throw by Batstone, to hang up a run in the seventh.

The biggest thrill came, however, in the ninth when it looked as if the Petes would pull out a last minute victory and when they filled the bases with two out, only to have Legon fly out to Cherry to wind up the game.

How It All Happened.

The Ponies were easy in the first. Holyman tossed out Teepel, Halbert splashed an easy roller at Rose and Batstone's high fly to right centre was grabbed by Wolfe.

Cairns 'control was none too good in the Petes' half. Wolfe, first up, drew a pass. Legon attempting to sacrifice bunted a fly which Arniel took and Wolfe had to scramble back to first. Swanston lofted one to Scott in left. Wolfe stole second and Harrison worked the Ponies' southpaw for the second walk of the inning. Rose's best effort was a fly to Teepel.

The game was won in Kingston's second frame. Somerville stabbed one to centre for a single. Cherry raised a harmless looking fly down the left field foul line which Hall might have got but Holyman tried to make the catch and couldn't get back far enough, the result being a lucky hit for Cherry. Purvis put the pair into scoring position with a sacrifice and Scott, not usually regarded as a batting menace, made himself one of Kingston's heroes by whipping a single to centre on which Somerville and Cherry carried across the Kingston count for the day—and enough to earn the verdict as it ultimately developed. Scott took second on Wolfe's throw to the plate but the run getting ended right there, for Legon made a fine running grab of Arniel's fly to right, Scott going to third after the catch and Helson handed Cairns' roller in good style to retire the side.

In the Petes' half Cairns made a lucky stop of Helson's hard rap. Hall singled to right, the first hit off Cairns, but Teepel absorbed Holyman's fly and Somerville tore off a pretty running catch of Whitehouse's drive which started off like a sure hit.

Whitehouse tossed out Teepel and Halbert in the third. Batstone crashed a double past Helson and reached third when Hall's throw in took an erratic hop over Helson's head. Whitehouse did his stuff in the pinch by stiking out the dangerous Somerville, leaving Batstone where all he had to do was pick up his glove and start in playing third.

Wolfe flied to Cherry. Legon was passed. Swanston again flied to Scott. When Legon attempted to steal second Umpire Sullivan first called him out but reversed his decision when he saw Somerville had dropped the ball. Harrison popped to Purvis.

It only took three balls to retire Kingston in the fourth. Cherry lifted the first one down the left field line but Hall sprinting desperately over the turf gathered in the ball on the dead run for one of the feature plays of the day. Purvis hit the second one at Holyman, whose throw beat him to first, and Scott raised the third one to Holyman for an easy out.

A sensational stop by Batstone featured the Petes' end. Rose slammed one at the third sacker for what looked to be a sure hit, but Batstone made a back-handed stop, came up with the ball and tossed the batter out. Helson's roller to Halbert resulted in the second out, a close play. Hall rapped a single between Purvis and Somerville but Holyman was called out on strikes.

In the fifth Arniel expired on a foul fly to Harrison, Cairns grounded out to the same player and Hall made a beautiful catch of Teepel's liner to left.

Whitehouse cracked a vicious drive right into Somerville's hands. Wolfe beat out a roller to Halbert for the Petes' third hit but was caught off first, and Legon flied to Scott.

For the third inning in a row the Ponies perished in order in the sixth. Holyman threw out Halbert and Batstone on fast plays and Somerville rolled weakly to Harrison.

Swanston's roller bounded over Cairns but Somerville recovered the ball and got the verdict at first, Swanston slid into the bag and the play was very close. Harrison slammed a hot one out of Halbert's reach for a single but Rose popped to Somerville and Helson lifted an easy foul fly to Purvis.

Cherry, first up in the seventh, got his second easy hit of the game when he dribbled one down the third base line and beat out Whitehouse's throw. Swanston shot him down at scond by a perfect throw to Rose, when he tried to steal second. Purvis popped one which Holyman took near the box. Scott got the second fluky hit of the inning when his roller bounded over Helson's head, but was forced at second a moment later when Arniel rolled to Holyman.

The Petes' Run.

The home talent got their only marker in this frame. Hall started things going by singling off Cairns' glove, his third hit in a row, and when Batstone made a needless and wild toss to first after recovering the ball, the Petes' left fielder scurried down to second. Manager Johnston sent Ash in to bat for Holyman and while he was being tossed out on his slow roller to Batstone, Hall reached third. Whitehouse made a notable contribution to the Petes' cause by slamming a single past Purvis to score Hall. Another hit right here would have meant much but Wolfe and Legon were too anxious and both struck out.

In the eight for Kingston Cairns was thrown out by Whitehouse, Teepel flied to Hall and Halbert fanned.

Swanston was retired on a slow roller to Somerville. Harrison walked but Someville made a circus running catch of Rose's hard smash toward right and Harrison was doubled off first.

Batstone opened Kingston's ninth with a high fly which Wolfe took on the run. Somerville singled to right and advanced on a passed ball but Cherry struck out and Legon gathered in Purvis' fly to right in fine style.

A Hectic Frame.

The Petes' ninth was crammed full of excitement.

Heckman, sent in to bat for Helson raised a sickly by to Purvis and right here it looked as if the luck had turned, for the Ponies' first sacker dropped the ball, putting the tieing run on the bases.

A good start.

Jimmy Hall popped a foul fly to Purvis, who caught this one.

Not so good.

Johnston, who had replaced Holyman at short after Ash had batted for the latter in the seventh, drew a pass and Heckman carried the tieing marker over to second.

Whitehouse cracked a roller to Purvis who threw Johnston out at second but Whitehouse beat Halbert's return throw, averting a double play.

Two out.

Next moment there were two more out for Halbert claiming that Johnston had prevented a double by blocking him, started a pugilistic encounter with the Petes' manager, and the pair were chased out of the game, Quinn replacing Halbert at short.

Heckman, of course, had galloped to third on the play at second and the million dollar run was just one station from home.

Amid wild excitement, Wolfe worked Cairns for a pass, filling the bases.

Thus "Red" Legon arrived at the plate with the sacks all populated, two out, a run needed to tie and two to win.

A pass would mean a sewed up game; any kind of a clean hit would mean two runs and a Peterboro victory.

Cairns' first offering was a called strike, then two balls in succession, then another called strike.

With the count two and two Legon's bat connected with the next one but the only result was a long high fly to centre which dropped into the big hands of Del Cherry—and with it dropped the ball game.

INSIDE GOLF.

By CHESTER HORTON

Maker of 61 Golf Champions, "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

It is a fact that the average golfer invariably swings the club back farther than he really intends to—always. That is, if he wants to take what to him means a full swing he will invariably take a swing and a half. For what he calls a three-quarter swing he will invariably take a full swing. I have seen hundreds of golfers do this continually. Knowing this to be true, I know that players can aid themselves greatly by determining henceforth always to swing just a little short of what they intend to swing. Make it your rule—and a fixed rule—to always be just short of the swing you intend to take back. No damage to your game can possibly result from this. The opposite more likely to be your good fortune.

AUSTRALIANS WIN.

Eliminated Japanese in Davis Cup Tennis.

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 24. — Canadian Press. — When the little men from Japan and the big men from Australia who come to Brookline to dispute the American zone Davis Cup tennis final, had laid away their racquets, Australia had won from Japan four matches to one. The result of the three days' play was to qualify Australia to meet France, the European zone winner, in a struggle to determine which may continue the quest for the international trophy by metting the United States.

The Australians won the first two single matches, and then the doubles. But the last two single matches Saturday were divided. John B. Hawkes, Australian left handed star, carried the Antipodeans to their 4th straight victory by defeating Masanosuke Fukuda 6-1, 6 6-0.

The Aussies suffered their first set back, when Takeichi Harada, Japanese singles title holder, sent Gerald Patterson down to defeat in four sets 6-2, 3-6, 6-1, 7-0.

SPORT GOSSIP AND COMMENT.

The result of Saturday's ball game was a bitter disappointment to Manager Johnston and his Petes who were not willing to concede defeat at any stage of the battle until Del Cherry's mits encased Legon's fly for the final out in the ninth. But the equad are not disheartened—not in the least. They declare that they were out-lucked rather than out-played, and that they did not get a break that was of any value to them. Line drives that might have gone for hits being slammed right at somebody. Wednesday will be another day, and the Johnstonites are determined to even up the series by beating the Ponies on their own diamond.

Whitehouse's pitching and the Pete's great defensive work on Saturday would ordinarily have earned victory. But the record of ten Peterboro men left on bases as against only three of the enemy stranded on the paths tells its own story. On two or three occasions, one hit might have changed the whole complexion of affairs. It was not forthcoming.

The umpiring left little to be desired. Colling got by with a minimum of complaints as to his work behind the bat, while Geo. Sullivan of Kingston, who made the decisions at first and second, gave the team an even break in the matter of close ones. Alex. Kay, at third base, did not have a play to call. In Wednesday's game, Kay will work at first and second, and Sullivan at third.

Had all the Petes hit like Jimmy Hall, the home crew would have won by a city block. The youngster cracked out three hits in four times up, thus getting half of his team's blows. Somerville, Cherry and Scott were the only other players in the game to get more than one safety. It was a real pitchers' battle, and the twirlers had a big edge on the batters all the way.

The Petes got fourteen men to first base; six on hits; six on passes; one on an error and one on a force out, while the Ponies only had seven runners reach the paths.

It is more than certain that Joe Daley will send Cairns right back at the Petes on Wewnesday, while Manager Johnston is expected to use Al. Heckman as his gunner. Kingston expects the biggest crowd in its baseball history for this battle.

Saturday's big crowd was orderly and sportsmanlike, and it was noticeable that good fielding plays by the visitors did not fail to get a hand from the fans.—F.D.C.

DE LAVAL DEFEATED YOUNG VETS 2-0

Separator Boys Now Winners of City Juvenile Soccer League.

The DeLaval Juveniles added another victory to their credit on Saturday afternoon at the Young Vets' expense by the score of two to nil. This win gives the DeLaval boys the Juvenile championship.

First Half.

Opening stages were spmodic visits to the goal keepers, where erratic shooting prevailed, although the citadels went under bombardments that should have brought goals, but the forwards always shot into the goalies' hands. Throw-ins were the next order until the DeLaval left wing gained possessios and finished strong, when Downer opened the scoring. Half time arrived with no further scoring. DeLaval 1: Vets 0.

Second Half.

On resuming O'Toole made the DeLaval defense hustle to prevent the equalizer, and Hope took the ball away from him in the act of scoring. Then Breadman tested Parkins with high rockets that were easily cleared. After twenty minutes' play, a break-away by Jones resulted in the sphere going over Coleman's head into the net. The Vets retaliated into DeLaval territory but gained nothing. Final, DeLaval 2; Vets 0.

GAME CALLED OFF.

Thistles and Quaker Oats Unable to Play Scheduled Soccer.

The scheduled senior soccer game did not take place on Saturday afternoon between the Thistle and Quaker Oats owing to the latter team having a number of their eleven employed and could not get away. They notified the secretary the day previous but the press were not informed, otherwise the public could have received notice accordingly and allowed them to go elsewhere.

The Thistles had ten men present, and the Quakers had five players. A pick-up match was played to fill the bill.

GOVERNMENT MANDATE, ETC.

and consideration at the present time.

Meighen's Demand.

"Mr. Meighen is saying we should have a general election this year. He was very careful not to introduce into Parliament any motion to that effect, or any formal expression of want of confidence in the administration. He was particularly quiet when the results of the Provincial elections in Saskatchewan were announced, and he recalled that, under the new re-distribution, Saskatchewan would send the third largest representation to the House of Commons, to be followed also by larger representations than at present from Alberta and Manitoba. The changes of Government in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick is also responsible for. Mr. Meighen's change of attitude and outlook, not any change in the policies under which, or the manner in which Federal affairs are being administered. The leader of the Opposition fails to reflect that these Provincial elections were fought out on purely local issues, and have no significance federally beyond the fact that our past political history has shown that where the public comes to believe that one party is about to have a lease of power in the Federal arena, it is inclined to balance matters politically by giving its support for the time being in not a few of the provinces to the other party. This was the case in the days when the Conservatives under Sir John A. Macdonald were in power at Ottawa, and most of the provinces became Liberal; also after Sir Wilfrid Laurier came to power, when not a few of the Provincial Governments become Conservative. It will be recalled, it was while the Conservatives under Sir Robert Borden and Mr. Meighen were again in office at Ottawa that the Progressives first gained power in the provinces. Another noticeable feature of political tendencies in Canada is that third parties have come into being almost invariably when the Conservatives were in office at Ottawa and have as invariably disappeared under Liberal administrations. Witness the rise and decline of the patrons of industry movement prior to and succeeding 1896, also the rise of the Progressive movement between 1917 and 1922 and its gradual decline ever since. Should I be alive after a Liberal administration has been continuously in office at Ottawa for 43 years, as was the case with the Liberal administration in Nova Scotia. I shall undertake to do my part to see that Mr. Meighen or his successor in the leadership of the Opposition is given a chance, by way of change, to form a Conservative administration, I believe the public will be with me. I do not believe, however, that the record of Mr. Meighen's brief administration is as yet sufficiently forgotten to cause the public to wish to see its many errors repeated, for a while at least.

No New Policy.

"In asking for an election now that Parliament is no longer in session and because he believes the Government has this step in contemplation and would therefore have it appear that he had forced the situation, Mr. Meighen forgets that the only alternative in the way of governmental policy he has to offer is the programme of 1921, on which he was so roundly defeated, not having carried a single seat in six provinces out of the nine, and that it was this identical programme he put forward anew in the form of a manifesto when Parliament assembled at the last session, and which when presented in the House of Commons on June 2nd as an amendment to go into supply, was voted down on a division of 147 to 32, the largest majority recorded against any motion declaratory of party policy in many years, if not in the history of the Parliament of Canada. It was noticeable that on that particular division Liberal, Progressive, Labor and Independent members, including the one lady member, joined together to declare their opposition to the platform that Mr. Meighen now offers to the country in the name of his party. In these circumstances, what can there be in anything Mr. Meighen has to offer the country which would justify the bringing on of a general election at this time, to say nothing of a possible change of Government?

"There have been four sessions of the present Parliament. The leader of the Opposition prophesied of the administration when formed that it would not survive a single session. It began with a majority of one before the Speaker was appointed. It was to-day at the end of four sessions, after some 41 by-elections a majority of one, without counting the Speaker. This surely does not look like any lack of confidence on the part of the electorate such as would necessitate a general election before another session.

Has Five-Year Term.

"Under our constitution the term of a single Parliament is fixed at five years, unless, in the opinion of the Ministry of the day, or of His Excellency, there exists substantial reasons for a dissolution before the expiration of the full term. Having regard to the provisions of the constitution, the present Ministry — so long as it is supported by the House of Commons—has the legal right to continue in office until January, 1927, this being five years from the date at which the last of the writs of the election of 1921 were returned. I see no reason to believe that such support as we have all along been able to command in Parliament will not continue to be accorded at another session.

"Conservative administration have not hesitated to continue in office to and even beyond the full period time for which they were elected. The Conservative administration of 1891 to 1896 held office to the last hour of the last day of the full legal term, notwithstanding that during this period of time there were no fewer than five different Prime Ministers: Sir John A. Macdonald, Sir John Thompson, Sir John Abbot, Sir Mackenzie Bowell and Sir Charles Tupper. Those were the days when knighthood was in flower. The Conservative Government of Sir Robert Borden, elected in 1911, held office until 1917, a year beyond the term provided by the constitution. The extension of that year beyond the Parliamentary term was brought about by an amendment of constitution during a time of war. Notwithstanding that the Unionist administration was elected only as a war administration and that a general election should have been held once the war was over, or at the very latest, at the completion of demobilization, Mr. Meighen did not hesitate when Sir Robert resigned in July, 1920, to form a Conservative administration and hold office for a year and a half without any authorization on the part of the people. Of all persons in the world it ill-becomes Mr. Meighen to attempt to dictate the time of dissolution."

British Lord Submits a Bill To Curtail Court Publicity

LONDON, Aug. 22 (Associated Press)—With the idea of "regulating the publication of reports of judicial proceedings in such manner as to prevent injury to public morals," Lord Darling has introduced a "proceedings bill" in the House of Lords. The bill makes it unlawful to "print, circulate or publish any indecent matter or medical, surgical, or physiological details calculated to injure public morals, in relation to divorce or separation cases."

The penalty is imprisonment not exceeding three months or a fine not exceeding $2,500, or both. The measure does not apply to the publication of matter in separate volume or series of law reports, or in technical publications intended for the legal and medical professions.

BRITISH CLASS WARFARE TALK IS ONLY PIFFLE

Secretary of Trades Union Congress Denounces Rumors—Deprecation by J. R. Clynes.

SERVICE TO LABOR.

Anti-Communist Leaders Anxious to Reassure Public "Reds" Negligible.

LONDON, Aug. 24 (Canadian Press Cable).—Anti-communist Labor leaders appear just now almost anxiously nervous to assure the public that the "Red" influence is practically negligible. J. R. Clynes, well known Labor leader, in an interview in the Sunday Times declared that the Communists have really done Labor a service by publishing their historical demands fo have really done Labor a service by a campaign of sedition and disaffection among the soldiers and sailors which makes it easy for responsible leaders to repudiate the entire Communist conception of working class action.

Russia, adds Mr. Clynes, contemplates placing an order of £5,000,000 sterling for textile machinery here. The difficulties surrounding trading with Russia, he declares, are largely created and certainly intensified by communists.

Fred Bramley, secretary trades union congress, asserts that the talk of class warfare and the arming of the proletariat is so much piffle. Despite such assurances there are grounds for believing that the authorities headed by the Home Secretary are quietly but steadfastly preparing for possible emergencies. Rumors concerning preparations and the strengthening of the special volunteer constabulary are not without foundation. However, it is not probable that definite plans will be revealed for some little time as the coal armistice assures a breathing space before possible trouble is likely to eventuate.

AIRPLANE INVADES OLD SWIMMIN' HOLE

Dozen Boys Had Time to Reach Shore Before Crash.

READING, Mass., Aug. 24.—(United Press.)— Diving in a swimming hole, an airplane imperilled the lives of a dozen boys in North Reading.

The boys were bathing in the Ipswich river when the plane, carrying two men, dropped from a 1,500 foot altitude. The swimmers had been watching the plane, however, and had time to get ashore before the machine crashed in the water.

George Pigeon and Nathan Davis, the flyers, escaped with minor bruises.

A. Halnan, an official of the Fisher Body Co., Detroit, was drawn by the suction beneath the propeller of the launch and instantly killed. Her body was practically cut in two at the waist.

Mrs. Halnan was on the launch with a swimming party.

MEDICAL STUDENT BEATEN TO DEATH

Gangsters Set Upon Young Man Because of Fancied Insult.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24 (Canadian Press).—A University of Chicago medical student was beaten to death and his companion slugged by gangsters yesterday following a fancied insult to three sisters, which was resented by the escort of the girls. The slain student was John Henry Klassin, 25, of Mankato, Kansas, junior in the school of medicine, and in his company was James R. Mitcham, son of A. T. Mitcham, the wealthy oil operator of Fort Worth, Texas.

Eight men, including Archie Carlini, 21, named by police as leader of the attack are under arrest, confessions having been obtained from four of them.

KING DEFENDED BY G. N. GORDON

Says Premier Would Have No Difficulty in Carrying the Country.

AT TORONTO.

TORONTO, Aug. 24.—(Canadian Press).—A vigorous defence of the King Government, coupled with a prediction that Hon. Mr. King would have no difficulty in carrying the country a second time when the moment for a general election arrived were the key-notes of an address delivered by G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., Deputy Speaker in the House of Commons, who was the chief speaker at the annual picnic of the Toronto Centre East Liberal Association at Scarboro Beach Park on Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Gordon declared that in reality Mr. Meighen represented but one fifth the members in the House of Commons, but to hear him talk one would think he represented 95 per cent. Referring to the hue and cry raised against the suggestion to establish a Canadian flag, Mr. Gordon stated that in 1911 the Tory party had hauled down the Union Jack, and planted thereon a maple leaf, declaring that this flag should hence forth serve all merchant marines. Rejoicing in the passing of the Canteen Bill, the speaker emphatically declared that it was a marvel that it had survived the Senate, which killed almost everything it got its hands on.

Arguing that prosperity had visited Canada during the King Government administration, Mr. Gordon stated that the trade balance up to the present month showed a total of $285,000,000 in Canada's favor, with the Canadian dollar the only dollar in the world above par. The year 1924 recorded only 23,019 failures—the least number since the war, he said, while the King Government had financed on a 4 per cent. basis. Mr. Gordon recalled the financing of Sir Thomas White and Sir Henry Drayton, which he criticized. Representing a steady, economical Government, the King administration, he said, had reduced the cost of government 25 per cent., as compared with the expense incurred by the Meighen Government in 1921. Mr. Meighen, he declared hadn't a Chinaman's chance to return as Premier.

Immigration Problems.

Dwelling on immigration problems, Mr. Gordon argued in favor of a selective immigration policy, and declared that the movement of bringing in thousands of immigrants from bankrupt European countries would prove most disastrous to Canadian organized labor. He pleaded that work be preserved for Canadian people before inviting men from other countries to come to Canada, and referred to men benefiting by the dole system of Britain, losing their initiative, and suffering from its demoralizing effect. "We want no more people from other countries till we have absorbed all the people now located in Canada into its industrial life," he contended. The enforcement of the law excluding Chinese, except prospective students, he contended, was ridding Canada of a menace, and the King Government had sought to avoid an inrush of hordes from bankrupt Europe into Canada. He deemed it an excellent policy that Canada should require men and women from other countries to secure a permit.

One thing the speaker believed was cramping Canada, and that was the vast investment in automobiles, with citizens buying motors instead of homes, and hindering the progress of building trades and railways.

Toronto is entitled to, and should have, Liberal representation at Ottawa, declared Mr. Gordon. He said the Conservative party had fooled for eight years with the viaduct problem, with Hon. Mr. Graham finally settling the project. Rousing cheers greeted Mr. Gordon as he finished his speech.

THEATRES

AT THE ROYAL.

"COUNTRY STORE NITE" TO-NIGHT.

To-night is the Night they give the Prizes away at the Royal—Doug. Fairbanks in "The Mark of Zorro" is the Feature Presentation.

WONDERFUL STORY FOR FAIRBANKS' PICTURE

Full of Action, Heart Interest and Suspense, Story Gives "Doug" a Great Chance.

In keeping with the letter of the sagacious critics that the supreme test of a successful photoplay should be characterized in the first instance by a good story replete with action, Douglas Fairbanks in "The Mark of Zorro," a United States production that is to be shown at the Royal Theatre beginning to-day has certainly among other things fulfilled that requirement.

This story adapted from Johnston McCulley's "The Curse of Capistrano," that was featured serially in the "All Story Weekly" magazine, can be safely said to surpass all of "Doug's" previous screen productions and to establish a new record in expansive film creation. The main action of the story has as its locale early Southern California with its colorful, picturesque, indolent life as existed before Americans migrated to its borders. Indolence reigns in the picture play until the agile Doug enters the scenes and hence all become inured to the greatest amount of activity as usually transpires wherever he makes his appearance.

Full of swift, bristling action there is a strong love interest quite different from that attempted by Fairbanks heretofore. We also find a relieving touch running through the entire picture that buoys up one for the startling events that are in all details gripping, impassioned and mystifying. Every detail of setting and acting has been given the greatest care in presentation, thus creating a harmony of art that is distinctly superior.

It is fundamentally a drama showing the salutary influence. As such it contains something that always causes us to focus our attention throughout a force which has made all of Fairbanks' pictures so notable and compelling an entertainment. Much more can be promised for this feature picture without the slightest danger of misapprehension.

"The Mark of Zorro" is an exceptional feature and has created the greatest sensation in every locality in which it has appeared. It is not therefore a matter of speculation as to why people flock in such large numbers to view "Doug" upon the silver sheet since it surely is in excellent keeping with the policy of producing the best for lovers of amusement.

AT THE CAPITOL

"THE MIRACLE MAN," WITH THOMAS MEIGHAN, LON CHANEY, BETTY COMPSON

Published originally as a novel in Munsey's Magazine, from the story by Frank L. Packard, and later dramatized by George M. Cohan, and presented on Broadway, the Paramount picture, "The Miracle Man," comes to the Capitol Theatre to-day, Tuesday and Wednesday.

As a motion picture this absorbing story has been hailed by the critics as one of the finest productions ever seen on the screen, with scenes laid in the haunts of New York's Chinatown in a little village on the side of a giant mountain and on the shores of a roaring ocean, the opportunity for wonderful photographic effects has been realized to the limit.

But the chief interest is in the striking story which centres about the venerable figure of an old patriarch, who is credited with the power to heal the sick and make the crippled limbs whole again. To him comes Tome Burke and his band of crooks from New York's Chinatown with the idea of asking in on his powers. But it doesn't work out as they calculated, for hidden away in each of them is a heaven of good, which slowly comes to the surface, under the influence of their wholesome environment, in a most marvelous way the criminals are reclaimed from the paths of crime.

A cast of unusual ability enacts the important roles in the picture, headed by Thomas Meighan, a well-known leading man, and including Elinor Fair, Betty Compson, Lon Chaney, Joseph J. Dowling, W. Lawson Ruth, I. M. Dument, Lucille Hutton and F. A. Turner.

MUCH INTEREST IN NEXT O.B.A.A. GAMES

Deloro Meets Cobourg in Intermediate Series Next Week.

MARMORA, Aug. 24.—Interest centers in the first meeting of the Deloro and Cobourg intermediate teams in the O.B.A.A. semi-finals at Deloro next Wednesday afternoon. A keener tussle than has been witnessed for some weeks is contemplated by the Blackcaps and their supporters. It will not be surprising if the attendance eclipses past records. The second game is to be played at Cobourg on Saturday, August 29.

OLD SINGLE "G" STILL WINNING

Added Another Free-For-All to Long String.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 24. — Any belief that Single G., the 15 year old son of Anderson Wilkes-Little Gyp, is through was dispelled here Saturday when he added another free-for-all pace to his long string.

The event, the feature of the Grand Circuit card, brought out one of the largest crowds that ever visited the historic North Randall track, and although the champion pacer was second choice to Margaret Dillon in the betting, he was given one of the greatest ovations ever witnessed on a race track when he won the final heat.

The three heats, the first of which went to Single G. and the second to Margaret Dillon, produced some of the fastest quarters of the year. The last halves of the two heats won by the old campaigner were paced in 59 seconds each, and the final quarters of these miles in 28 2-5 seconds.

ATMOSPHERIC PROLOGUE TO FAIRBANKS' FEATURE AT THE ROYAL.

NO HIT GAME FOR DERRY OF COBOURG

Veteran Blanks Deloro 2-0 in O.B.A.A. Play-Offs.

COBOURG, Aug. 22. — Cobourg, fresh from their victory over Oshawa Mets., champions of the Oshawa church league, won from Deloros here this afternoon 2-0 in probably the best game of ball seen here since Central Ontario League ball ceased to exist in the Horse Show town.

"Punch" Derry, the idol of Cobourg fans in Central League days, pitched one of his finest games today and let the Deloro bunch down without a hit or run, and not walking a batter or hitting one. Only 28 Deloro men faced him in the 9 frames. Shea, the Deloro box artist, was good in pinches and fanned 8 Cobourg players. Cobourg's first run came in the 3rd frame, when Butler, first up, doubled to centre, went to third on a bad peg of Catcher Quinn, to catch him of second, and stole home after Drumm and Boundy had fanned, and Rollings walked. Their second run was scored in the fourth when Derry walked, Bowen walked, Markey was hit by pitcher, Drumm walked, forcing Derry across. Score by innings:

Batteries: Shea and Quinn; Derry and O'Grady.

Umpires: Gerow and Nurse, Belleville.

Mike McTigue and Jimmy Slattery Score Victories.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Two light heavyweights regained prestige lost by defeat here several weeks ago when Mike McTigue, former champion, and Jimmy Slattery, of Buffalo, Saturday night scored impressive victories. The erstwhile titleholder won a judges' decision over the rugged New Orleans fighter, Young Marullo, in a 12-round bout, while Slattery gained an easy verdict against Maxey Rosenbloom, of New York, after six lightning fast rounds.

CELTICS GAIN STRONGER HOLD

Rangers Also Add Another Victory in Scottish Soccer League.

SATURDAY REVIEW.

GLASGOW, Aug. 24 (Canadian Press Cable).—The second games of the Scottish Soccer Football League played on Saturday saw considerable lost ground regained by those clubs whose curtain-raiser a week ago had been disappointing. This was particularly the case with regard to the Airdrieonians and Hibernians, while Hamilton, Coudenheath and Queen's Park all brought about an improvement of their situation. The Hibernians, whose count against Kilmarnock at Easter Road Saturday totalled eight goals, staged a great rally following their heavy defeat by Celtic in the opening game. The large number of goals scored was one of the features of the various scheduled encounters, and indicated a desperate desire on the part of the winning teams to accumulate a favorable balance in the working out of the averages.

The Celtic established themselves more firmly in the position into which they jumped at the beginning of the season, by defeating the late second division club, Clydebank by a score of two goals to one, in a contest that was staged at Clydebank like the Rangers, who defeated Motherwell by an orphan goal at Ibrox Park, the Celtic have salted a couple of vicrories away, and to all appearances their wins have been somewhat more impressive than those of the present title-holders. Rangers rang up their first victory at Perth in the first game of the season, and followed this up by obtaining the smallest margin over Motherwell, a club that had gained an initial two points at the expense of Clydebank a week ago.

SKI-ING IN AUGUST LATEST OF SPORTS

Jasper Park Party Enjoys Winter Sport in Mid-Summer.

JASPER NATIONAL PARK, A 24 (Special to The Examiner).—Skiing in August is the latest in the way of novel sport to be undertaken by modern youth. The recent rains that drenched the Athabasca Valley left a thick coating of snow on the higher parts of the mountains and some of the younger visitors of Jasper Park Lodge decided to undertake the unusual and demonstrate to visitors from other lands the glorious mountain winter spor of Canada.

Where the glacier on the side of Mount Edith Cavell, slopes gently into the Astoria Valley was picked out as the ski slide and at eight Saturday morning, August 22, when the frost lay on the ground, a party consisting of the Misses Flora and Marie Macdonald, of Edmonton, Miss Peggy Armour, Perth, Ont., Miss Mariam Green of New York, and Miss Marjorie and Doris Neale of Toronto, and Messrs. Donald and Denzil Skiles left the lodge wrapped in multitudinous sweaters and armed with skis to demonstrate the population from Missouri that it could be done.

The laugh was on the unbelievers. The glacier slope afforded perfect skiing and offered also the unusual thrill of ending the half mile slide off into the glorious long green grass that grows at the foot of the mountain of ice.

For five hours the party enmoyed the sport, returning to Jasper Lodge in the evening to revert to summer sports and to enjoy the beautiful dance music and the congratulations of their friends.

"Ah!" returned the tramp. "Your sweetheart perhaps?"

"What's that?"

"He was accidentally drowned while bathing."

After all had partaken of the good things to eat a game of ball was engaged in until darkness came on, when all returned home after a very happy reunion and outing.

The maid had given the tramp some food, and stood watching him eat it.

Dr. Hobday was reported in Quebec papers a month ago as having said that during the season of 1924 his society had brought 2,500 boys to Canada.

The Department points out that the total number of juvenile immigrants sent to Canada through all societies during the fiscal year 1924 was 2,080, of which the Barnardo agency sent 497 of both sexes, all ages. The number over 14 years of age was slightly over 150.

Chicago Grains Inactive.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24 (Canadian Press).—The wheat market on the Board of Trade opened in rather listless fashion here today. An easier tone abroad accounted for some selling of deferred deliveries. September showed strength over December as September market acted tight and advanced on moderate buying. Commission houses were buying September and selling December wheat. Opening unchanged to 7-8c up found September 163 1-4 to 163 1-2, and December 161 1-4 to 161 5-8. Both months fell off fractionally after opening, but later steadied and moved within narrow range. There was little action in corn which seemed to sympathize with the movement in leading grain after starting unchanged to 3-8c down, with September 103 1-4 to 103 3-8, there was a brief rally and then fractional reaction, with prices moving in narrow limits.

Oats opened 1-8c up to 1-8c down, with September at 40 to 40 1-4, and then sagged with other grain.

Provisions were inactive and lower.

Bear Traders On Wall Street

NEW YORK, Aug. 24 (Canadian Press).—Wall Street market went through temporary reaction around the end of the first hour, when bear traders renewed their attack in an apparent effort to test its technical condition. Nash Motors broke 9 points, U. S. Cast Iron Pipe 5 1-2 and some of the other steels, motors and public utilities sagged a point or so from their early high mark. Good buying support quickly developed, however, and the market was headed upward again around midday.

There appeared to be a dearth of railroad news, but the usual dividend and merger rumors again gained widespread circulation. General Railway Signal was bid up over 12 points to 327. Chrysler Motors 5 1-2 to 121 1-2; Sears Roebuck to 207 3-4, and Allied Chemical 3 3-4 to 99 1-8, all at new 1925 peak prices. Call money renewed at 4 per cent.

TORONTO, Aug. 24. — (Canadian Press.)—Trading on Toronto Stock Exchange this morning widened to take in the broadest list in some days, while the strong tone of the past week gave way to an irregular upward movement with soft spots. Brazilian, leader, also led reactionaries, and sold down to 66 3-4, a loss of 3-8. B.C. Fishing lost 3-8 at 47 and Canada Bread common 3-4 at 61. Smelters sold down 3-8 at 119. On the other hand Maple Leaf experienced a sudden climb of two points to 90 and Industrial Alcohol in fairly active dealings improved about a point at 16 1-4. Steel of Canada and Dominion Canners were fractionally stronger.

BRITISH JAILS PORT OF HOPE

Drifting Humanity Made to Feel a Better Life Waits Outside.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—Prisons are no longer to be foul, pestilential places of despair. Persons who picture British jails as they were described by Charles Dickens must revise their ideas to fit modern conditions.

The international Prison Congress, recently in session here brought prison officials and other penologists from all over the world to compare notes and study the problems incident to their work, and the reports presented and the speeches delivered showed how revolutionary are the ideals which prevail in modern prison management.

Something of the progress achieved in Great Britain was reported by Sir William Joynson-Hicks, British Home Secretary. The population of Great Britain has increased a great deal within the last 50 years but the country is getting along with fewer prisons. Fifty years ago, the Home Secretary said, there were more than 20,000 persons confined in local jails; now there are but 8,000. To these figures, however, must be added 1,100 young persons now detained in industrial schools, who 50 years ago would have been confined with mature criminals in common prisons.

Even more significant, he said, was the fact that 50 years ago there were 10,000 prisoners undergoing penal servitude while today there are but 1,500. This notable change in conditions has enabled the community to get along with much fewer prisons. Half a century ago there were in the country 113 local prisons and 13 convict or penal servitude prisons. Now there are but 31 of the former and two of the latter, besides the institutions of the Borstal type designed for the instruction and correction of youthful delinquents.

In the olden times the emphasis was placed wholly on the responsibility of the individual towards his government, and when he broke the government's laws he forfeited his rights. But Sir William pointed out that this theory had been entirely replaced. It is now recognized he said, that a man does not lose his rights as a human being because he has broken the laws of his country. On the contrary, the responsibility is shifted to the government when it takes away a man's liberty.

"The time long since has passed," said he, "when executive governments conceived that they had done their duty to society when they had arrested an offender and placed him in custody. They now recognize that at that point the chief duty of the government begins."

Its Responsibility.

In depriving a man of his liberty the government has undertaken a responsibility of the gravest kind. The State has not done its duty if it releases the man in a condition of mind and body which renders him unfit to take his place as a citizen again. And the State is entitled in the interests of the community to experiment on the prisoner with physical, mental and moral forces with a view to his restoration to a standard of normal citizenship."

The Home Secretary detailed some of the changes which have taken place in treatment of prisoners. Separate confinement has been all but abolished in English prisons. It is limited to 14 days in certain cases of imprisonment at hard labor. It is never imposed on women.

Workshops, in some cases provided with mechanical power, have been provided. There has been continuous advancement in provisions for education of prisoners. Formerly this was confined to elementary instruction for the young, but now there is offered opportunity for education to all who will accept it.

Educators of standing give assistance in each prison in working out the educational plans. Last year between 6,000 and 7,000 prisoners voluntarily attended classes. These were in charge of teachers only and no wardens or prison officials were regularly in attendance.

Point Of Honor.

There has been no difficulty with discipline, for the prisoners seem to make it a point of honor to behave well. In one case a number of public school teachers traveled backward and forward a distance of 25 miles to give instruction to prisoners offering their services without remuneration.

Prison libraries are increasing in numbers and prisoners are encouraged to read. Visitations of friends are permitted: these take place in comfortable reception rooms and not through bars. The entire purpose of all these changes in regulations is to lessen the tendency to degredation through prison life and to make easier the restoration of the offender to good citizenship.

The aim has been to create an atmosphere of hope, rather than of despair; to influence prisoners to regard officers as friends rather than as enemies.

"I am firmly convinced," said Sir William, "that short prison sentences are absolutely useless. They leave the stigma of the prison and are not of sufficient severity to deter from future offenses. I hope that the system of probation and fine, combined with putting on good behavior, will be so extended that only in very serious cases will first offenders be sent to prison. When it is necessary to detain, the sentence should be of such length as to give prison authorities opportunity to apply mental, moral and spiritual remedies."

ENGINE KILLED HARVEST HAND

Identified By Papers in Possession as Ontario Resident.

BADLY MANGLED.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 24.—(Canadian Press).—Joseph Sweeney, of Merkdale, Ontario, his address, according to papers found in his possession, having been "P.O. Box R. R. 1," of that town, was killed at the Canadian Pacific Railway depot at 5.30 last night. He was 21 years of age. Sweeney was in company with a friend, James Matthews, of the same town. The two men were standing on the platform in the vicinity of track No. 7. They noticed a number of companions standing on another track. They were about to join them, apparently unaware of the fact that a switch train was backing from a westerly direction. Matthews escaped, but Sweeney was caught, and falling beneath the train, two coaches and a half of the third coach passed over him before the engine could be stopped. His body was badly mangled, and he expired a few minutes after the accident. He was on his way to the harvest fields.

KING GOVERNMENT HAS RUN ITS ALLOTTED COURSE, REPLIES HON. ARTHUR MEIGHEN TO PREMIER

Accepted Term of Parliament is Four Regular Sessions, Says Conservative Leader.

RIGHT OF PEOPLE

Has the Government the Courage to Consult the Country Now?

OTTAWA, Aug. 25.—(By Canadian Press).—"The usual and accepted term of parliament in Canada has been four regular sessions. These four sessions are completed and what the country wants to know is—has this Government the courage to go to the people, or has it not?" so stated Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader, in a statement to the Canadian Press last night, replying to Premier Mackenzie King's recent declaration that the Government will not be stampeded into any dissolution of parliament.

"The time for an appeal to the people came not while the session was on, but after the session's work was done—the time is now," declares Mr. Meighen later on in his statement.

The Conservative leader characterizes as "untrue" two statements by Premier King, one that Mr. Meighen had prophesized four years ago that the present administration would not last one session and the other that the Conservative leader had changed his mind as to his desire for an election. Mr. Meighen declares that he made no such prophesy, and, furthermore, that he did not express an opinion against an election in 1925.

In commenting on Premier King's declaration that the members of his Government had been exceedingly busy, the Conservative leader enquires what have they been doing. He states, in this regard, that immigration is diminshing, while the exodus of citizens from the country continues. "Is another Petersen contract coming," asks Mr. Meighen.

Mr. Meighen's Statement.

The text of Mr. Meighen's statement follows:

"What the purpose of this long emanation can be it is hard to conjecture. The usual and accepted term of parliament in Canada has been four regular sessions. These four sessions are completed and what the country wants to know is—has this Government the courage to go to the people, or has it not. Mr. King has given us two thousand words but no decision.

"There are two statements regarding myself—one that I prophesied four years ago the present administration would not last one session—the other that I have changed my mind as to the desire for an election. These are hardly subjects on which a Prime Minister would be expected to launch a controversy—but his statements on both subjects are untrue. I made no such prophecy nor did I ever express an opinion against an election in 1925. The time for an appeal to the people came not while the session was on, but after the session's work was done—the time is now.

What Has Government Done.

"The members of his Government has been exceedingly busy, says Mr. King. Perhaps so, but what have they been doing? Mr. W. T. R. Preston has been busy too. Is another Petersen contract coming? Meantime the exodus continues. Immigration diminishes. It is over a year since that famous pronouncement to reform our Senate was made and nothing yet accomplished. Even the Provincial conference for this purpose has not been called. It is one of the badges of incompetence to be exceedingly busy and get nothing done.

"The remainder of this curious contribution of Mr. King's is divided between boasting of his Government's majorities in parliament and complaining of the peculiar difficulties he has in governing. These two observations would look better in two separate documents. They do not hang well together.

"A Prime Minister alone can advise His Excellency to dissolve parliament; that is true. But there was a time when Mr. King talked loudly of the right of the people to be heard. Can he not listen now? They were heard from in 1921 on his promises and with some justice he boasts of the verdict. They would now like to be heard on his record."

SOLDIER WHO SELLS HIS BLOOD IS WARNED OF PATIENT'S DEATH

Develops Pain in Arm When Subject of Transfusion Passes Away.

PUZZLES PHYSICIANS.

Never Sees Persons to Whom His Blood Goes—Strange Telepathy.

By Keith Jones
(United Press Staff Correspondent).

LONDON, Aug. 25.—Physicians and phychologists throughout England to-day are interested in a strange telepathy by which Frederick George Lee, professional supply source for blood transfusions, gets death messages from those his blood should save.

Lee, who is an ex-army sergeant, is employed at the Middlesex Hospital. He has given his blood 24 times since 1922 for transfusions. Seventeen of the patients have lived; the other seven died. In each of the seven cases, at the exact instant of the patient's death, Lee has felt a severe pain in his arm, and has immediately been overcome with illness. By these symptoms he knows that the patient has passed on.

What makes his case all the more strange is the fact that Lee never sees the patient to whom his blood is given.

Lee started his career as blood "transfusioner" three years ago. Applying at a labor bureau for work he was asked if he would give his blood to save the life of a ten-year-old girl at the Middlesex hospital.

"I've kiddies of my own at home," he replied, "and if you think it would help her I'll do it."

Since then he has been providing his blood for patients in the hospital.

Lee is 34 years old, and has had no serious inconvenience from his sacrifice of 36 pints of blood, beyond the pains and nausea at the time of a patient's death.

The scientists are puzzled at the strange phenomenon.

Major Sutcliffe's Body Brought From Germany

LINDSAY, Aug. 22.—(Special).—The remains of the late Major Charles Elliott Sutcliffe, son of Mr. F. W. Sutcliffe, merchant, of this town, arrived here today from New York, and were placed in the vault at Riverside cemetery.

The late Major Sutcliffe was a member of the Royal Air Force, and was killed by the Germans while manoeuvring with his plane on the western battlefront in the early stages of the war. His remains were laid to rest on German soil, but were afterwards transferred to French soil.

A handsome vault is being constructed in the Riverside cemetery by the Sutcliffe family and in this will repose the body of the dead officer.

HAMILTON FIRE MENACED LIVES

Patients in Sanitarium Narrowly Escaped—Origin a Mystery.

LOSS $10,000

HAMILTON, August 25. — Canadian Press. — A fire which for an hour imperilled the li s of scores of patients at the Mountain Sanitarium, near here, broke out at seven o'clock this morning. The blaze was controlled two hours later after damage amounting to $10,000 h' been done.

The origin of the fire remains a mystery. Fifty members of the hospital staff were at breakfast in the original farm house of the Macklem farm in the Orchard House section of the tubercular colony, when a patient in a near by building observed flames in an upper story of the building and gave the alarm.

Apparatus was rushed from the Hamilton fire department, and after two hours of strenuous work the blaze was controlled.

The firemen succeeded in preventing the blaze from spreading to the nearby buildings, where a large number of the most serious cases were located. The patients preserved remarkable coolness in the face of danger, although the spread of the blaze would have spelt death to many of the "bed cases." They were not removed from the building but the patients on the verandahs were taken inside.

CHIEF NEWHALL HAS SUNSTROKE

Confined to Bed in Feverish Condition—Not Paralysis as Rumored.

ILL SINCE FRIDAY.

The Examiner has received information contradicting a rumor which gained considerable currency in the city last night and this morning, to the effect that Chief of Police S. Newhall had been laid aside by a stroke of paralysis. The Chief is indeed ill, but is suffering from the effects of sunstroke. He complained of feeling unwell on Friday night, and on Saturday and Sunday was very much exhausted, being compelled, much against his will, to confine himself to bed and receive medical attention.

Inquiry this afternoon elicited the fact that the chief is highly feverish and is still somewhat delirious.

PLOTS OF REDS IN BRITAIN ARE FALLING SHORT

Attempt to Tie Up C. P. R. Liner Proved Failure — Cook Still Talking.

PROUD OF REDS

Australia Will Expel Bolshevist Agitators, Cabinet Announces.

LONDON, Aug. 25.—An attempt to hold up the Canadian Pacific steamer, Empress of Canada, with Havelock Wilson aboard, bound for Canada, was attempted on Saturday by striking seamen, "failed miserably," says Wilson, in a wireless despatch to the London press Monday morning. "The attempt was laughed to scorn by the crew," he added.

Revelations that Communists are going about dressed up as able-bodied seamen, breaking up anti-Communist meetings, and giving the impression that the army and navy are solid for the Communists, are the latest developments of the mock revolution which A. J. Cook appears to be doing so much to foster.

In his latest tirade, Cook declared that he is going to prepare a food fund for the miners in preparation against the days when the labor crisis re-occurs.

Counts on Army.

Referring to the army and navy, he says that "our own boys" will not turn against their own people and this has given those who are anxious that strong measures be taken to stamp out communism in England a new cause for their protest against what they regard as the present inaction of the Government.

There have been several anti-red scares during the last few days, but they fail to create any great interest outside a limited circle affected. The only people who seem to be alarmed are Mr. Joynson-Hicks and Lord Rothermere, although undoubtedly the Reds are more active than before and even the sanest Britishers are becoming annoyed at them. Trade union leaders like Thomas Clynes and Bramley denounce the "froth-ings" of the Communists.

Proud of Reds.

Cook says he prefers the Communists to royalty and tells the miners they ought to thank God for the Reds is "your movement." Cook is still receiving front-page publicity, but he is speaking so frequently and is so obviously determined to exploit his recent success to the full that his utterances are beginning to pall, and the press, in printing them, is doing little more than damning him with his own mouth.

Joynson-Hicks seems to be the Cabinet Minister most anxious to suppress the Communists, but at present he cannot find the government very enthusiastic, declaring that the Communists are only a small, if a very noisy, minority of the movement. The attempt to infiltrate the army and navy with Communist doctrine has not the smallest chance of success, although the extent of the movement is being probed by Scotland Yard.

To Deport Agitators.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Aug. 25—After discussing the strike called by British seamen in Australian ports, the Cabinet yesterday issued a proclamation of its intention to deport those responsible for any industrial disturbances.

SILVER CUP TO HEROIC CAPTAIN

British Board of Trade Recognizes Bravery of Trawler's Skipper.

SAVED SIX LIVES

SAINT JOHN, N.B., Aug. 25.—(Canadian Press).—Lieut.-Governor W. F. Todd Monday afternoon, on behalf of the British Board of Trade, presented a solid sterling silver cup to Captain A. L. Greenlaw, of the tug Ocean Eagle, in commemoration of his heroism in saving the lives of six of the crew of the steam trawler Mikado, wrecked off the coast of Nova Scotia in May, 1924.

Presenting the cup, Governor Todd said that the spirit of self-sacrifice shown by Captain Greenlaw on that occasion was the spirit which was going to bring the world through its present trouble state and restore it to sanity and prosperity.

The British Government had presented to the mate of the Ocean Eagle a pair of binoculars.

NEW TONG WAR BREAKS OUT IN CITIES OF U. S.

Two Leaders in New York Chinatown Reported Murdered.

TELEGRAMS SENT.

Police Forces of Several Cities Are Rounding Up Suspects.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Aug. 25. — (Canadian Press).—A new Chinese Tong war broke out early to-day in various United States cities. The murders of the leaders of the Hip Sing and On Leong Tongs were reported from New York's Chinatown, Washington, Chicago, Pittsburgh and Boston.

Immediately after the killing of the On Leong Tong man here, officials of rival tongs sent telegrams to their respective headquarters in other cities, informing them of the slaying. The police learn that more than 75 telegrams were sent.

Police forces of several cities are rounding up suspects. Thirty-three Chinamen are under arrest in Washington.

300 MILES AN HOUR.

LONDON, Aug. 25.—(Canadian Press.)— The super-seaplane, one of two British entries in the Schneider Cup race in Baltimore, is believed capable of a speed of 300 miles an hour as the result of trials now taking place in Southampton waters. Particulars of these trials are a close secret.

OLD ACCOUNTS ARE ADJUSTED

Bills of Years' Standing Written Off Books of Health Board.

OTHERS WILL PAY.

The Board of Health met this morning in the committee room of the City buildings and a number of deputations were in waiting regarding outstanding hospital accounts. The board dealt with the matter in a forceful but lenient manner, in some cases obtaining promises of weekly payments, while others were to be given further consideration.

Communications were read by Mr. Armstrong dealing with the same matter.

On consideration by the board those who contracted to pay the bills on the installment system would do so, while others who were obviously hard pressed would be relieved of the onus of their accounts.

Sewage Disposal Plant.

Mr. Parsons, City Engineer, reported to the board that work on the sewage disposal plant was progressing favorably and that an excellent grade of cement was being formed. He reported that while progress was inclined to be slow, it was nevertheless of an effective and conscientious nature.

A resolution was adopted to wit, that City Solicitor Wearing should be given authority to proceed against those whose accounts had not been considered.

Mr. Armstrong read accounts and reports relative to the isolation hospital.

Communications from Boards of Health of other cities relevant to securing government grants for isolation hospitals, were deferred to a subsequent meeting, when more reports shall have been received.

Dr. T. W. H. Young advocated that the board express to Miss Price a feeling of regret that she had contracted diphtheria while attending a patient at the isolation hospital.

Sanitary Inspector Stapleton reported on the condition of various houses in different parts of the city regarding sewer connections and was authorized to notify owners to have connections installed.

Members of the board present were: Chairman M. McIlnyre, His Worship J. J. Turner, Medical Officer of Health T. W. H. Young, Dr. J. M. O'Brien and C. H. Rogers.

Steeplejack Leaves Perch To Be Hit By Motor Truck

LONG ISLAND CITY, L.I., Aug. .25 (United Press).—For hours, John Farnsworth, a steeplejack, had sat near the top of a 150 foot chimney swishing his paint brush. Five o'clock came and Farnsworth descended to the sidewalk. He bent over to arrange his paint cans and was hit by a motor truck, sustaining a fractured hip.

Five Cent. Glass Of Beer Would Have Benefitted Entire Province As Well As Hotelkeepers, Said

TORONTO, Aug. 25 (Canadian Press). — Hon. W. F. Nickle, Attorney General, is today quoted as expressing the opinion that it would have been greatly to the advantage of the Province "to say nothing of the hotel keepers and brewers, if they had been able to sell a five cent glass of beer and a 10 or 15 cent bottle," when asked for his opinion as to complaints about the price of 4.4 per cent beer. It is said that it is not unlikely that the question of price will receive government attention now that Premier Ferguson has returned.

Premier G. H. Ferguson today said there was not a word of truth in the statement that about twenty Conservative members of the Legislature would wait this week on the Cabinet to protest against the manner in which Attorney - General Nickle has been issuing permits for the sale of 4.4 per cent. beer in their ridings.

NICKLE TO HYDRO CHAIRMANSHIP IS REPORTED DEFINITELY PASSED

Delay in Appointment Due to Search For Means of Transfer.

NEW MINISTERS.

Someone to Replace Hon. James Lyons is Also Sought By Premier.

TORONTO, Aug. 25 (Canadian Press).—A Toronto report today says:

"That two members of the present Ontario Cabinet will be dropped before the Government goes to the country after its first term in office, is learned from most reliable sources.

"The most important office for which a new incumbent will be sought is that of Attorney General. It is confidently believed by several close in touch with the Premier and other members of the Government who have enjoyed their confidence on former occasions, that the true reason for the delay (in the appointment of the new Hydro Commissioners) is that means might be discovered to effect the transfer of Mr. Nickle from his present post to the Chairmanship of the Hydro Commission. Consequently the rumor gained strength today that Mr. Nickle's appointment to the Board has passed beyond the stage of mere likelihood.

"The elimination of a second cabinet member has nothing to do with Hydro matters, but is of only family significance within the government. He is said to be the Hon. James Lyons, Minister of Lands and Forests."

Net Revenue Shows Increase of 76.29 Per Cent. Over 1924 Figures.

UPWARD MOVEMENT.

Favorable Showing Should Be Accentuated, Thornton Indicates in Statement.

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, Ont., August 25. — Official figures issued here to-day on the arrival of Sir Henry Thornton, show that the Canadian National Railways have made a notable advance in net revenues during the seven months period ending July 31 and that this improvement has been made in the face of decreased gross receipts.

The gross receipts were $8,934,871, or 6.63 per cent. below the corresponding figures for 1924, but operating expenses were reduced by $11,387,477, or 8.65 per cent., so that the net position stands at $5,667,287, an increase of $2452,606, or 76.29 per cent., as compared with the first seven months of 1924, and an increase of 84.59 per cent. over the 1923 figures.

The favorable showing that has already been achieved should be accentuated during the balance of the year as an upward movement of gross earnings is now proceeding.

During the month of July, 1925, the gross increased by $383,444, or 1.92 per cent., over July, 1924.

Operating expenses were decreased by $955,746, or 4.93 per cent. The resultant increase in net revenues for July is $1,339,699, or 228.91 per cent,

In the first three weeks of August, 1925, gross earnings have shown an increase of $1,778,594, or 14.5 per cent., as compared with the gross earnings for the first three weeks of 1924.

King May State His Case Inside Next Fortnight

OTTAWA, Aug 25 (Canadian Press).—Premier King is expected to lift the veil on the political situation when he addresses his constituents of North York at Richmond Hill, Ont., on Saturday, September 5.

Indications are that his speech will be a political pronouncement of prime importance, and that he will then announce the Government's intentions in regard to the dissolution of parliament.

The probabilities favor a general election in the fall.

Premier King will be accompanied to Richmond Hill by Hon. G. P. Graham, minister of railways and canals, and Hon. Charles Murphy, postmaster general.

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., Aug. 25 (Canadian Press)—Further indications that the federal government will make no move to prevent a suspension of the anthracite operations next Tuesday were given today at the summer white house. President Coolidge has been assured that there will be sufficient fuel to meet all the needs of the public even if th mines should close down and it was indicated that the government would confine its activity to assisting in the provision of an adequate supply.

ACCIDENT FATAL

SHERBROOKE, Aug. 25.—(Canadian Press).—The automobile accident near Waterloo on the night of August 15, in which Mr. and Mrs. Alhonse Thibodeau, and two other adults and several children, all of Eastman, were injured, yesterday claimed its first death when Mr. Thibodeau, 28, died at the St. Vincent De Paul Hospital here. WEATHER

Monday was another warm day. Although I did not hear many people complaining, yet the temperature rose to ninety degrees in the shade. The air was dry, therefore the heat was not oppressive. Long range weather prophets are already at their work, and I give a few of their forecasts for the information of the reader. Weatherwise specialists of the Smithsonian Institute, French savants and others of the scientific ilk, have been predicting that during the latter part of 1925 and in 1926, the world will experience unusually bad weather. Such predictions are based on the recurrence of the sun spots in one of their long cycles, reaching the maximum of their activity in these two years. Now comes a story from Banff, B. C., confirming a much older and a very old-fashioned theory of a hard winter, being indicated by the wild animals coming down from their mountain retreats and walking friendly-like with the tourists in the streets there. We are told that elk, bear and antelope are seen on the streets, and that a huge cinnamon bear has been calling daily at the back doors of some of the houses. The protection from firearms afforded wild animals in the Banff National Park has caused them to become less afraid each year of humans, but such familiarity as that recorded has never been known before, and surely betokens something. If it does not forebode a hard winter, it may on the other hand, herald a time more blessed when the lamb and the lion will lie down together. —W. P.

Wall Street Oligarchs Fear Thornton Success

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (Canadian Press)—Labor, the official publication of the organized railroad employes of this country, in its latest issue devotes attention to the movement in Canada for a merger of the Canadian National railways and the Canadian Pacific. It looks on this movement with distrust and takes the view that it is desired by Wall Street because U.S. financiers, who are interested in private railroads, view with apprehension the success of Sir Henry Thornton in managing the Canadian National Railways.

"It has been an open secret for some time that the financiers who control the railroads of the United States were observing with some anxiety the progress Sir Henry Thornton was making with the Canadian National," the paper says.

"For the first six months of this year, the net income, or profits, of the National, shows an improvement.

Adding that it cannot be denied that Thornton is making a success of the Canadian National, Labor observes:

"What Wall Street fears is that Thornton will demonstrate that a government owned road properly handled can compete with the best managed of the privately owned roads."

Such a demonstration might give government ownership of railroads great boost and, naturally, Wall Street doesn't grow enthusiastic over such a prospect."

Not only Labor but members of Congress and officials who are interested in the railroad problems of tthe United States and realize something must be done to solve them are following the Canadian railroad development with the utmost interest.

"BRINGING UP FATHER" - Geo. McManus

EIGHT-HOUR DAY WILL BE MATTER OF LEGISLATION

That Together With Other Unsettled Matters Subject for Active Consideration.

UP TO PROVINCES

Subject Has Been Mooted for Long Period and May Not be Settled.

OTTAWA, Ont., August 25. — Canadian Press. — An eight hour day enacted by legislation will be urged at the 41st annual convention of the Trades and Labor Congress in Ottawa during the first week of next month. The Trades and Labor Congress represents in Canada the international labor movement, and the Congress convention call indicates the eight hour day, old age pensions, immigration and unemployment as among the matters of national and international importance which still demand "active consideration."

The eight-hour day is at present extensively in force in Canadian industries, but by agreement rather than as a result of any legislative action; and it is here that the bone of contention lies. Back in the days of the Paris peace conference, labor peace treaty recognizing the eight-principles were incorporated in the hour day or a 48-hour week as the "standard to be aimed at."

Subsequently at the international labor conference held at Washington under the auspices of the League of Nationals a draft convention was adopted providing for an eight hour day in industry. In that convention representatives of the Canadian government of the day concurred.

Now, under the League of Nations Covenant, members of the League are merely required to submit the conventions to competent legislative authority for such action as may be deemed necessary to give them effect —and which is the competent authority in Canada? Is it the Dominion Parliament or the legislatures of the different provinces?

Question up to Provinces.

Dominion law officers held that the eight hour day was a question for provincial and not Dominion legislative action and the convention went over to the nine different provincial governments. Only one (British Columbia) took any action, and its action was contingent on the rest of the Dominion following suit. For all practical purposes therefore the situation remained as before.

Labor men then pressed for a reference to the Supreme Court of Canada to determine whether the ruling of the Federal law officers was sound. The reference was made and the Supreme Court decided that the only authority of the Dominion Parliament to legislate on the eight hour day is in regard to servants of the Dominion government and to territory not within the bounds of any province, such as the Far North. For the rest, which comprises the industrial districts, authority to legislate lies with the provincial legislatures.

It is expected that when the Trades and Labor Congress meets in convention next month the stand taken will be that the Dominion government should bring down legislation for an eight hour day ruling. This, it is argued, would be "setting an example" to the provinces. In the meantime an eight hour day by legislation in all Canadian industries seems a little nearer than when the International Labor Conference met at Washington in 1919.

MILLBROOK WINS BETHANY FIXTURE

Game Not Up to Previous Standards Abounds in Hits and Errors.

BETHANY, Aug. 25. — Ideal weather conditions prevailed last night for the deciding contest between Millbrook and Bethany ball teams, which the former won by the score of 14 to 11. Alex. Kay of Peterboro and J. Rosevear were arbiters and held the game well in hand at all points.

Millbrook got 4 runs in the second, and Riley relieved Staples in the fourth. Russell, a Millbrook player, stopped a bounced ball with hiseye, and Rex. Dawe, Bethany second baseman, had a finger smashed. Hits and errors were plentiful, but the game was by no means the finished article usually put up by the teams.

Millbrook will play Nestleton on Friday night, that team having won the other section of the league.

Reeve Hess Has Economy Down To a Science

HASTINGS, Aug. 25—Reeve Hess believes in economy whether the village or the county is required to pay the bill. The Reeve is overseeing, on behalf of the county, the re flooring of the bridge here, which is a part of the county provincial highway, and offered to rent the new steam roller from Campbellford to press down the surface of the bridge here. The Campbellford Council asked $25 a day for their machine the county to pay in addition the wages of the operator and his assistant, besides the cost of the fuel. The time required to move the roller to and from Hastings was to be reckoned in with the cost.

The machine would not be required here for more than one day, and Reeve Hess considered that $50 would be a fair charge for the outfit. When his offer was refused he secured a giant pulley from the foundry, fitted it with a frame, loaded it with stones, and achieved his purpose, using men as the motive power.

New York Socialist Leader Addresses Congress on Monroe Doctrine.

MARSEILLES, France, Aug. 25 (Canadian Press).—Morris Hillquit, New York Socialist leader, addressing the International Socialist Congress of the Second Internationale, yesterday, said that the Monroe Doctrine of "America for Americans" has come to mean "America for United States" in the hands of imperialistic governments.

He said that he foresaw war for the United States, particularly with Mexico, because, he asserted, United States magnates want Mexican Oil. United States people dominate the Western hemisphere economically "and they are showing impatience to become masters of the world," Hillquit declared.

STRIKING SCENE AT DECORATION

Rev. J. Grier Recalls "White Comrade" of War Days.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 25—When the Oddfellows were decorating the graves of their departed brethren in Mount Pleasant Cemetery Sunday afternoon, as they designated the resting place of each, they did not use the term "late" before the names of those who have passed away. Rev. James Grier, pastor of St. Andrew's church, who was the speaker of the day made this circumstance the keynote of his address, saying that it implied the doctrine that death could not sever the fraternal relationship. The deceased brother is still a brother. Death does not really break the family circle when the memory of the departed is cherished. The child in Wordsworth's touching poem could not think that the family was less than seven although two of them were laid at rest in the churchyard.

In honoring those who have passed away we are honoring ourselves. In life we do not care to associate with vagabonds and failures. To those worthy of it this tribute of esteem is paid.

The surroundings, the speaker said, remind us that we, too, belong to the present order of things. We may strive to outlive the natural forces at work in our bodies and by the help of medical skill may succeed for a time until we reach the age of three score and ten but the natural forces are greater than we are.

We belong to the perishing order, Will our lives deserve a decoration day will men who have known us gather to lay floral tributes on our graves. The only way to leave behind us anything of permanency is to have a personal relationship with Christ who came to make this life more abundant.

The vision of "The White Comrade" gave strength and courage to many a man in the trenches during the Great War. That comrade is still ours in life, to confront and uphold us in the more ordinary conflicts.

SIXTY FAMILIES MADE HOMELESS BY RAGING FIRE

MONTREAL, Aug. 25 (Canadian Press). — Sixty-one families were driven from their homes when an apartment house, twenty dwelling houses, an ice house and a stable were destroyed by fire which swept a portion of the east end of the city last night, and which at an early hour this morning was still burning furiously. Unverified reports were to the effect that several persons had been trapped by the flames, but early this morning the firemen had fire and smoke to ascertain the truth fire and smok to ascertain the truth of these reports.

No one was seriously injured, but two men were cut by flying glass, when a hose wagon crashed into a tobacco store on St. Denis Street while three fire fighters were overcome by smoke.

The flames spread rapidly in a high swirling wind, over an area of about one quarter of a square mile, and was one of the largest conflagration that had taken place in this city for many years.

B. R. Dryden, was united in marriage to Herbert Willson, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. R. Montgomery, of Montcrest Boulevard. Rev. Mr. Copeland officiated. The bride, who was given away by her father, looked charming in white beaded crepe, with veil and orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of sweetheart roses and lily of the valley. Miss Jennie Frederick of Peterboro, the bride's cousin, was her only attendant, and wore a heavily beaded gown of green canton crepe and black picture hat. The groom was supported by his brother, John D. Montgomery. The ushers were Messrs. Montgomery, Brimson of Newmarket, H Dryden, Jr., and Herbert Dickie. During the signing of the register Miss Audrey Richardson sang.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents received the immediate relatives at their home, after which the happy couple left to spend their honeymoon in Detroit and the Middle West. The bride travelled in an ensemble suit of rosewood and biege with hat, shoes and fox fur to match.

On their return they will reside on Millbrook Crescent.

The bride, until her removal with the family to Toronto, was one of Campbellford's most popular young ladies, and has a host of friends here, who extend congratulations.

OBITUARY.

MRS. EARL REEDS.

OMEMEE, August 24. — The sudden death of Mrs. Earl Reeds, nee Olive Calvert, occurred at the home of her brother-in-law, Mr. Reuben Reeds, on Wednesday morning and the sad news came as a shock to those who knew her. The deceased lady, who was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elias Calvert, of Peterboro, had been ailing for years, but during the past few months had become much improved in health, and intended with her husband to take up residence in Lindsay in the very near future, he having secured a mail route there, but death came very unexpectedly.

The late Mrs. Reeds had just arisen and dressed, and while her husband walked to the barn to let the horses into the stable, he walked a few steps to pick up a pile of cedar, to kindle the fire, and upon her husband's return she lay beside it all life being extinct.

Deceased was only in the prime of life, being 26 years of age. She leaves to mourn her loss besides her sorrowing husband and parents, one sister, Mrs. L. Soles of Peterboro, and one brother, at home.

The funeral was held from the home of her parents, on Friday afternoon. Interment took place in the Riverside Cemetery, Lindsay.

H. T. LAMBERT

HASTINGS, Aug. 25.—The funeral of the late H. T. Lambert, who passed away Saturday evening after three months' illness, was held Monday morning from the Lady of Mount Carmel Church, Requiem Mass being sung by Rev. Father Bretherton. Members of the Catholic Order of Foresters, to which the deceased belong, marched in the procession, and with them were the members of the village council, the late Mr. Lambert having some time ago served as a member of the latter body.

The deceased, who was 66 years old, had been in the hardware business in Hastings for over 20 years. He is survived by his wife, two sons and a daughter, the children being Carl of Toronto and Louis and Mary at home.

The pallbearers were W. Louderville, T. A. Coughlan, T. J. Crawley, J. F. McArthur, W. M. Turner and R. J. Walsh.

FUNERAL OF LATE S. J. DOLMAN

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 25—The funeral of the late S. J. Dolman which took place on Monday afternoon from his residence to Mount Pleasant Cemetery was very largely attended and was under the auspices of the I.O.O.F. No. 248 of which the deceased was a member. Following the members of the lodge who turned out in large numbers to honor the memory of the deceased was a long cortege of cars..

The service was conducted by Rev. C. F. McIntosh, associate pastor of St. John's United Church of which church the deceased was for many years a faithful member.

The many and beautiful floral tributes bore a silent tribute to the respect in which the deceased was held.

The pallbearers were, Messrs. John Gay, John S. Wallace, Chas. H. Davidson, Harper Shaw, A. L. Riendeau, A. H. McKeel.

ARRESTING "SPIRITS."

Toronto police interrupted a spiritualistic session in the Queen City the other night and arrested one of the "spirits."

This kind of thing is going too far.

What has become of our personal liberty?

If a bunch of people with the mentality necessary to believe in such things want to gather together and have a delightfully shivery and "spooky" time listening to messages from "shades" and "spirits", why should the representatives of the law crudely crash in and interrupt the proceedings?

Of course, there may have been a little inter-city jealousy at play because the arrested "spirit" hailed from Hamilton, and possibly the Toronto police felt that he ought to confine his activities to the vicinity of the mountain—where there ought to be plenty of ghosts, judging from the number of murders that have taken place there.

BEAUTIFYING PETERBORO.

When it comes to a question of beautifying Peterboro and making this city a prettier place in which to live, Mr. Reg. H. Turner comes close to being a whole horticultural society in himself.

Every time this enterprising citizen takes over a piece of property an immediate improvement is noticed.

The corner of Westcott and George street is one example, Mr. Turner providing an attractive looking business block there, consisting of a grocery, barber shop, drug store and cobbler shop.

Peterboro's monument corner, Charlotte and George street, over which visitors used to indulge in ribald amusement at our expense, has been completely altered.

So, too, is the corner of Donegal and Hunter streets, where Mr. Turner's new residence is located.

And the spac eon George street, south of Bethany Tabernacle, and the corner of Aylmer and Hunter streets have been very much improved by the decorative scheme arranged by Mr. Turner.

And now he comes along with a reward of second place for his lawn and flowers at the Sanitary Ice plant; incidentally, he is no novice in winning prizes, for he carried off first premiums for many years for the condition of his flowers and lawns at his former residence on Gilmour street.

Mr. Turner has been a real benefactor to the city and congratulations are in order.

RE-OPENING THE SCHOOLS.

Peterboro's Public and Separate Schools will open on September 1st, and the public generally will agree that this earlier opening is preferable, even if Toronto has decided not to throw her schools open until a week later.

The majority of people undoubtedly believes that the holiday idea is overdone in our schools.

When the Christmas, Easter and summer vacations are taken out of the year, it means that our expensively maintained school system is functioning only nine months each year and but five days a week.

The September 1st opening provides for two clear months' holidays, which surely is an ample allowance, and there does not seem any logical reason why that date should not be adopted permanently for the re-opening.

The bill each municipality has to pay every year for school maintenance is a heavy one, and it is no wonder that there is a tendency to make more use of school property for community purposes.

The idea is beginning to sink in that it would be good business to make more use of a school plant that has cost the ratepayers a large amount of money, and that at present is being used only a few hours a day, five days a week and nine months a year.

An extra week at school will hurt neither staff nor pupils, and the earlier re-opening is a step in the right direction.

THE FEDERAL SITUATION.

Premier King has made an announcement in regard to the election situation that leaves the public no better informed about the matter than before his statement was issued.

Whether the campaign will take place this autumn or not is still, therefore, an open question—because the Premier is very careful not to definitely say that there will not be an appeal to the country before Santa Claus and his bells are heard on the house-tops.

He points out that he does not propose to be stampeded into an election merely because Mr. Meighen demands one, and he adds the following statement:

"Under our constitution the term of a single Parliament is fixed at five years unless, in the opinion of the Government of the day, or His Excellency, there exists substantial reasons for a dissolution before the expiration of the full term. Having regard to the provisions of the constitution, the present Ministry—so long as it is supported by the House of Commons—has the legal right to continue in office until January, 1927, this being five years from the date at which the last of the writs from the election of 1921 were returned."

In short, the Government can remain in office until the year after next if it can continue to secure the support of the House—but it may go to the people this year.

So that's that.

CUTTING TAXATION.

From many sides complaints have been heard concerning the size of our Canadian Legislatures and House of Commons. There is a general belief throughout the country that, in proportion to population, altogether too many men are sent to Parliament. Not only does this make for unwarranted expense, but it works seriously against efficient deliberation and legislation.

In an interesting editorial commenting on this very situation, the Detroit Free Press says that the apportionment of seats in the Canadian House of Commons must before long be put on some new basis. Already Canada, with less than one-twelfth the population of the United States, sends to its Federal Legislature a number of representatives considerably more than half the American total. "By the time the Dominion reaches the 1920 census total of the United States," the Free Press points out, "its quota of representatives for its popular House of Parliament will be so huge that nothing short of an enormous convention hall would hold them all, and anything like deliberative action by the assembly would be out of the question. The present unit of representation at Ottawa is one member to about 36,000 people. It would yield about 3,000 members to a population of 110,000,000, and on this side of the line there is a strong opinion that we have too many for practical results with our 435."

If anything were needed to prove the frequently repeated statement that Canada is seriously overgoverned it is found in the above paragraph. We have less than a twelfth of the American population, but more than half as many Federal representatives, and "there is a strong opinion that we (the United States) have too many for practical results with our 435."

Cost of government is a serious proposition in this day and age and particularly in Canada with only a small population over which to spread the bills. While the whole country cries aloud for reduced levies, Ottawa goes right on spending money as if there were no limit to it, and quite as if the people were actually asking for the privilege of putting up more. Overmanning at Ottawa and in the Provincial capitals constitutes one of the important items in our annual governmental expense account. In addition, this very overmanning makes for inefficient administration and consequently for expenditures far in excess of the country's needs or desires. If ten men do the work that only three are really required to do one doesn't have to be much of an expert to figure out that costs are going to be far too high.

Lower taxation is one of the crying needs of Canada today, even if those who sit in the seats of the mighty do not seem to have grasped the point. Lowering taxation is one of the things that has made President Coolidge solid with the American people. Mr. Coolidge said he would cut the cost of government and he has. Mr. Coolidge promised that he would reduce taxation and he has. Canadians, naturally, are wondering why they have not had leadership of the same kind from Ottawa.

Nothing would give the Border Cities Star more pleasure than to say of Mr. King as the Kansas City Times says of Mr. Coolidge, in the attached sentences: "It is no longer a matter of finance. It is a question of leaving with every family more of its earnings to use for the comforts of life, for education, and for larger opportunities generally. The reduction of taxes thus treated become a human subject of concern to every family in the land. This humanizing of taxation is one of the great achievements of President Coolidge. It gets results!"—Border Cities Star.

WILD ANIMALS GROW FRIENDLY.

Weather-wise specialists of the Smithsonian Institution, French savants, and others of the scientific ilk have been predicting that during the latter part of 1925 and in 1926 the world will experience unusually bad weather, says the Ottawa Journal. Such predictions are based, as has been explained, on the recurrence of the sun spots in one of their long cycles, reaching the maximum of their activity in these two years. A series of former observations has confirmed the theory that this climax in the sun spots' career is invariably accompanied by unusually low temperature and disturbing climatic conditions.

Now comes the story from Banff confirming a much older and a very old-fashioned theory of a hard winter, being indicated by the wild animals coming down from their mountain fastnesses and walking friendly-like, hand in hand with the tourists, on the streets there. It is, of course, common knowledge that in unusually cold winters wolves and bears will appear in settled districts where they may have been practically unknown for years. That is understandable, because of what if applied to human beings would be known as economic pressure, the spur of hunger. It has long been a theory of old hunters and woodsmen, however, that wild animals have an instinct of coming events casting their shadows before, but omens of that character have been regarded as doubtful if not generally discredited. Nevertheless, we have the extraordinary fact that bear, elk and antelope are seen on the streets of Banff fraternizing with human beings. We are even told that a huge cinnamon, a variety of bear even more dreaded in his native haunts than the grizzly himself, has been calling daily at the back door of Sir James Lougheed's house begging for food, and literally eating out of the Senator's hand. After such an experience Sir James need not fear being attacked in his stronghold of the Senate by any one so ferocious as Mackenzie King. A curious fact is that this cinnamon, seven feet in his "stocking soles," stands up in his attitude of suppliance and spurns to eat meat thrown to him on the ground. Several large bull elk have been hanging about the C.P.R. station and licking the hands of others loitering there, while children playfully tug at their huge antlers.

The protection from firearms afforded wild animals in the Banff National Park has caused them to become less afraid each year of humans, but such familiarity as that recorded has never been known before and surely betokens something. If it does not forbode a hard winter, it may, on the other hand, herald a time more blessed when the lamb and the lion will lie down together. Other premonitory symptoms of severe climate have been observed by trappers and mountaineers. The summit gophers and ground squirrels are already "caching" their winter supply of pine burs, a sure presage, they say.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Only three weeks away. What? Why, the Peterboro Industrial Exhibition.

Rotary's District Governor defined Rotary as practical idealism in his local visit yesterday. The local club's work demonstrates the aptness of the definition.

There may not be an election this autumn, but you notice they are nominating candidates everywhere.

It is undoubtedly true, as expressed by a contemporary, that the boyish bob is the unkindest cut of all.

Premier King leaves it somewhat uncertain as to whether the boys will still be in the trenches at Christmas or not.

Chicago reports earthquake tremors. Perhaps the disturbance was only the rumbling of the Illinois water-stealing machine.—Border Cities Star.

A THOUGHT.

IGNORANCE ALWAYS A CRITIC

Every citizen must pay his part toward the public schools, therefore it is within his own power and personal right to knock the public schools all he likes.

And in order to encourage this idea of knocking, why not offer a sum of $5,000 or $10,000 in counterfeit money to the most persistent and vicious knocker of public schools?

If this knocker knows of some boy or girl who has failed in school, probably on account of home training, here is an excellent chance for him to pin the responsibility on the schools.

If the knocker has no specific case in mind, why not let him or her manufacture, by imagination, some trouble with the school, and then have the knocker spread the news of the poor training in schools by word of mouth and, if necessary, write to the papers over an assumed name?

The knocker helps pay for public schools, therefore he should have a right to help paralyze them.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

DRUGS v. ALCOHOL.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir: When you are ill or beginning to feel a bit weak and tough, what do you do? 1. If you are a woman. 2. If you are a man.

If you are a woman you will start for drug bottle such as spirits of ammonia (mostly alcohol), and if that or some other of the drug uplifters don't do you will go the doctor and get a big bottle of drugs. And because it is "drugs" and not good beer, wine or whiskey, you think you are a first class prohibitionist when all the time you are a drug addict. If you are a man you'll look out for a glass of beer and if you can't get that you will let it go probably. It is estimated that women take as tonics, &c., &c., thirty times as much drugs as men but that men excel in beer, etc. Now be truthful for once. Are you doing right when you take drugs? Are you not first a hypocrite and soon to become one of that long procession of women who haunt drug shops and doctors' offices. —Be Honest.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Aug. 24.— The export trade in Canadian grain on the market to-day was again dull, there being little or no demand from foreign buyers. There was some enquiry from New York exporters for No. 2 Canadian western oats at 17 cents per bushel over the October option, and for No. 3 grade at 9 1-4 cents per bushel over, C.I.F., Montreal, but as there were none offering they could not fill their wants. Some ocean freight was booked to Rotterdam for heavy grain at ten cents per 100 pounds for August loading, and to London at 25-30 per quarter.

There was some No. 1 Northern wheat offering on spot at 35 to 36 cents per bushel over the Winnipeg October option, C.I.F. Montreal which shows a decline of 5 to 6 cents per bushel as compared with the prices asked by holders at the close of last week. The trade in car lots of oats was quiet but steady.

The flour market was without any new feature to note, business being quiet and prices unchanged.

A firmer feeling prevailed in the millfeed market but prices failed to show any change, although this is expected in the near future. The market for standard grades of rolled oats is quiet but prices are steady.

Prices for all grades of eggs were well maintained under a quiet demand. The feature of the butter trade was the stronger feeling and prices were advanced 1-4 to 1-2 cent per pound. Prices for all qualities of cheese were marked up 1-4 to 1-2 cent per pound.

BUTTER AT 36 3-4c.

RIVERE DU LOUP, Aug. 24.—At the meeting of the Board there were 600 packages creamery butter offered and all sold at 36 3-4c. per pound.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—Local operators dropped large quantities of wheat into the grain pit of the Board of Trade to-day when the visible supply figures became available and prices dropped sharply. The heavy offerings were poorly absorbed by scattered buying and a commission house with extensive Northwestern connections pressed the market on the way downward. Closing quotations were 1 3-4 to 3 cents net lower than Saturday's close for wheat, Setpember $1.60 5-8 to $1.60 7-8, and December at $1.58 3-4 to $1.58 7-8, with corn 3-4 to 3 1-4 cents down, oats 3-4 to 1 1-4 cents loss, and provisions 10 to 30 cents lower.

The wheat market was unsettled, but showed a little strength early in the session on the buying of September and the selling of December by commission houses and on the report of a severe storm in the Northwest. Trading, however, at that time was light and the market was easily influenced.

BELLEVILLE CHEESE AUCTION.

MONTREAL, Aug. 24.—At the United Dairying Co-operative auction sale of Belleville cheese held here to-day the offerings amounted to 2,101 boxes, of which 1,474 boxes No. 1 white sold at 21 3-16c. per lb., and 627 boxes No. 1 colored at 21 1-4c. per lb. f.o.b. Belleville for shipment to Montreal.

Cows were steady at $4 to $5 for the best. Good bulls sold up to $5.75 a hundred. Store cattle were fairly active at $3.50 to $5.50 a hundred.

Heavy shipments of cattle from the western provinces are still coming through with the consequent lower tenor of the market.

The calf market opened steady at $11 to $11.50 for tops.

Hogs are a quarter higher at $14.75 off cars for thick smooths and $15.75 for selects.

Lambs were slow with prospects of $13 for choice. Sheep were firm at $7 to $8 a hundred for the best ewes.

SUNDAY NIGHT FROST REDUCES THE ESTIMATE OF ALBERTA'S WHEAT CROP TO LESS THAN 80,000,000 BUS.

Damage Cannot Be Appraised for Several Days, Minister of Agriculture Says.

THREE DEGREES

District From Calgary to Lethbridge Escaped—Rain in South Country.

EDMONTON, Alta., Aug. 25—Alberta's wheat crop will be under the previous 80,000,000 bushel estimate, it is now stated by the Department of Agriculure. Hon. Geo. Hoadley will have a new estimate to announce in the course of a day or two, but it is practically certain that it will be less, not more, than the figure he gave out earlier in the season.

Frosts Sunday night and yesterday morning are partly responsible for this further reduction. Reports received by the Department Monday show that a light frost occurred at Leduc, Rimbey, St. Paul de Metis, Seba, Stony Plain, Morinville, St. Albert, Lacomme and Wetaskiwin, while heavier frosts were reported from Vegreville, Fort Saskatchewan, Bon Accord, Cooking Lake and Red Deer. A long distance phone call from a Vegreville farmer said there had been from one to three degrees of frost in that district.

The news from Calgary and Lethbridge is that there was no frost in those districts. Some parts of the south country had rain during the night.

Mr. Hoadley says that it will be impossible to estimate the damage from this first frost of the season for at least forty-eight hours. In a considerable part of the territory affected, very little, if any, harm has been done, but in other cases there is reason to believe that the crop has suffered more or less seriously.

Terrill, of Wooler auxiliary as convener of the programme. The first number was a responsive answer to questions prepared on the interests of the United Church. The next number was an address on the work at Coqualeetza Mission among the Indians by Mrs. (Rev.) Neal, who had been a teacher in this school. Mrs. Alma Mitchel rendered a solo in her usual pleasing manner. A missionary dialogue was much appreciated, given by Arthur Putnam and Doris McColl. Another missionary recitation by Arthur Putnam. The gathering closed the programme by singing the hymn, "Speed Away."

The Carmen ladies served a very tasty lunch to over forty that were present. The unity of the meeting and social intercourse was much enjoyed and promises to continue.

A FREAK EGG

Shell Tapered Into Tail-Like Formation at Marmora.

MARMORA, Aug. 24.—Yet another phenomenal egg has come to light in Marmora. Mrs. William Narrie has a small flock of hens which are principally of the Plymouth Rock breed. Amongst the yield of Saturday was a normal sized soft shelled egg with a tapering shell substance stem attached measuring 6 1-2 inches in length. This stem had the tendency to curl up in tail like manner. Nothing has been seen like it in the experience of the many viewing it.

Sunday, Sept. 13 is being observed by St. Paul's Anglican parish as "Foundation Day." Archdeacon Beamish, Dr. Boyle and Rev. C. J. Young are amongst the clergy to take part in the special services of the day.

MAYOR TO HELP APSLEY CHURCH

Help to Defray Cost of Renovating St. George's Church.

APSLEY, Aug. 25—Saturday was a red letter day for the children of Apsley when they were given a picnic by the Revs. J. W. Ogden and C. A. G. Spence, the event being held at the grounds of the Methodist Parsonage under ideal weather conditions. About 65 children were entertained to dinner and tea, the afternoon being devoted to sports and games. Mrs. Ogden, sr., and jr., Mrs. Maybank, Mrs. V. Windsor, Mrs. H. Reid, Mrs. W. Carr and Misses Ella Brown, Amy Lean and Rena Lane assisted at the tables. Mrs. Spencce donated ice cream, Mrs. Maybank, Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Stephens gave prizes for the sports. After dark a display of fireworks was set off by Mr. Spence, a feature which was quite a novelty, most of the youngstes seeing this form of entertainment for the first time. The whole affair went off very happily and was thoroughly enjoyed. The races resulted as follows: Tots race, Doris Windsor; Little Girls' race, Helen Wilson, Phyllis Reynolds; Girls' race, Vera Young, Marjorie Wilson; Girls' Consolation race, Francis Stephens; Boys' Tire race, V. Earnshaw, Geo. Wilson; Small boys' Tire race, Glen Taylor, Gerald Carr; Women's race, Mrs. Ogden Jr., Amy Lean; Obstacle race, Howard Johnston. A softball game between girls and boys resulted in an easy win for the girls, the girls from the Apsley school being superior both in fielding and batting to any boys in the district.

Among those who left by the Harvesters' Excursion to the West this week were Thomas Tanner, George Tanner, Alex Woods, Ronald Woods, Wilbert Johnston, Albert Johnston, E. L. Blackwell and Tom Trotter.

The mayor of Peterborough and Mr. Perry motored to Apsley on Sunday morning with the intention of attending service at St. George's Church, but as there was no morning service at this church they went on with Rev. C. Spence to St. Stephen's Church, Chandos. On their return they visited St. George's church, and Mr. Turner noticing the need of renovating the interior, expressed a desire to assist in this respect and directed Mr. Spence to obtain an estimate of certain much needed repairs with a view of helping to defray the cost, his sentiments being reciprocated by Mr. Perry. Needless to say their kind offers were much appreciated by the Rector, which were referred to by him at the evening service.

CANADIANS' HERITAGE

Great Wealth Useless, Minister Says, Unless Home Sanctity is Maintained.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 25.—The morning service at St. John's United Church was conducted by Rev. Mr. Lawson, Field Secretary for the Lord's Day Dominion Alliance, in the absence of Rev. Mr. McIntosh who was conducting anniversary services at Hubble Hill on the Stirling circuit. Rev. Mr. Lawson, who is a forciful speaker, referred to the great heritage possessed by Canadians, such as extent of country, fertility of soil, great mineral wealth, but a nation could only be great and endure in so far as the sanctity of the home, the church and the Sabbath was maintained. He urged his hearers to assist in the preservation of the Sabbath in every way possible.

At the evening service the pulpit was occupied most acceptably by Rev. Mr. Joblin of the Stirling United Church circuit, his text being I. Cor., chapter 10, verse 12: "Take heed lest ye fall."

SUIT INVOLVING $1,750,000 SUM WAS DISMISSED

Action by the Leaside Engineering Company of Toronto Disposed of.

HEARD IN QUEBEC

Plaintiffs Claimed Stock in Pulp Company Had Not Been Delivered.

QUEBEC, Aug. 24.—(Canadian Press).—The action and attachment taken by the Leaside Engineering Company of Toronto against the Bayless Pulp and Paper Company was dismissed with costs today by Mr. Justice Stein. The suit involved $1,750,000. An appeal will probably be entered against the judgment.

The suit instituted by the Leaside Company opened here on July 23. It centred on an allegation by the plaintiffs that shares in the Ste. Anne Pulp and Paper Company and the Beaupre Pulp and Paper Company, controlled by the Bayless Company, had been sold by the Bayless Company to the plaintiffs, but had not been delivered.

The defence of the Bayless Company was that only negotiations for sale had been entered into and that no decision as to sale had been reached. They also took the stand that the directors who conducted the Pourparlors did not officially represent the company.

The action was entered on May 25.

Co-defendant in the case was the First National Bank of Binghampton, N.Y.

The action of the Leaside Company was taken following intelligence that the Bayless Company had entered into negotiations with the Mead Investment Company, which is associated with the Spanish River Paper interests, regarding the organization of a corporation to build a new pulp mill near Beaupre, to cost between $3,000,000 and $5,000,000. It was to prevent delivery of the necessary shares from the Beupre and Ste. Anne Companies that the Leaside Company instituted the litigation.

Meanwhile, the Leaside Engineering Company have taken action for damages against the Bayless Company and the First National Bank of Binghampton for $550,000 on an issue arising out of the case.

CRIME INCREASES

OTTAWA, Aug. 25.—An increase of 7,778 in the total number of criminal cases throughout Canada is shown for the year ended September 30 last, as compared with the corresponding twelve months ended September 30, 1923, in a report just issued by the Dominion bureau of statistics.

The number recorded for the twelve months ended September 30, 1924, totalled 171,909.

Convictions for indictable offenses during the year in question increased by seven per cent., as compared with a similar period ended September 30, 1923, while acquittals decreased by six per cent. Convictions for non-indictable offenses increased by 4.7 per cent.

PREPARING FOR MINERS' STRIKE

Workers Already Being Laid Off Until New Agreement Reached.

WORK STOPPING

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—New and disturbing reports came from the anthracite coal fields yesterday, where miners and operators, with lines drawn tight, are preparing for a strike to settle the dispute over a new wage scale.

The Mount Carmel district in Pennsylvania reported that many mine workers were being laid off by the operators, and told to go home until a new wage agreement is reached.

Practically all the "gangway" work around the mines already has been stopped, it was said. The order caused a feeling of unrest among the miners. President John L. Lewis, of the United Miners Workers, at Philadelphia indicated that the situation was unchanged despite the activities of the Anthracite Business Men's Association, which met in Wilkes-Barre to devise a program of arbitration. Lewis has been holding frequent conferences with subordinates, but declined to discuss the nature of the meetings. There will be no announcement before August 31, when the present wage agreement expires, he said.

At the offices of the Anthracite operators in Philadelphia, it was reiterated unofficially that the mine owners would reject the miners' check-off demand, and any proposition from the miners that would increase coal production costs. The miners ask a ten per cent. wage increase.

Meanwhile informal "corridor meetings" were reported between members of the operators and miners without apparently any indication of their getting anywhere in the controversy.

Governor Pinchot at Harrisburg continued his official silence on the situation. "I have nothing to say," was his reply to all queries asking if he would make any arbitration move.

STUDENTS KILL BOY COMPANION

Thought He Insulted Girl—Beat Him To Death.

EIGHT ARE HELD

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—Youthful vigilantes, organized for the purpose of making their neighborhood "safe for girls," beat a University of Chicago student to death here on Sunday, to avenge the honor of one of their sweethearts.

John Klasinn, 21, of Mankato, Kansas, and a pre-medical student at Chicago University, is the victim. Eight of the vigilantes are under arrest, charged with murder. Four have confessed, police said.

Archie Caplini, one of those who confessed, told police he was standing with Miss Inez Parise on the front porch of her father's home, when Klasinn and his friend, James R. Mitcham, son of a wealthy Fort Worth, Texas, oil man, passed. Noting Miss Parise and her two younger sisters, who were in the background, Klasinn called out in the free style of the campus:

"I say, that's not fair. Three girls for one man. Let's make it a party."

"These are decent girls" retorted Caplini. "Get out of here."

Klasinn apologized and said he meant no harm.

But the young lover's anger was aroused. He believed his sweetheart and her sisters had been insulted by "morons."

Calling several of his friends, Caplini pursued Klasinn and Mitcham. Klasinn fought off the attack with a razor, but it was wrenched from his hand in the struggle, and he went down, his skull crushed. Mitcham escaped. Klasinn's skull was crushed, apparently, by a piece of concrete. Victor Bassa has confessed to throwing the concrete, police said.

A coroner's inquiry will be held later.

Miss Parise and her sisters will testify. According to the girls there was nothing offensive about the remarks of the two boys.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 25.—The Young Ladies' Mission Circle of St. John's United Church kindly accepted the invitation tendered them by the Young Ladies' Mission Circle of St Andrew's Presbyterian church to join them at their annual picnic at Dam No. 8, on Friday afternoon.

The place chosen proved an ideal one for bathing, ball games, etc., and all joined in these sports and report a very pleasant afternoon.

The presidents, Misses Verna Hay and Stella Keir feel most grateful to all who contributed to the day's outing by placing their cars at the disposal of the girls in conveying them to the grounds.

Political Weather Vane Uncertain In Movements

OTTAWA, Aug. 2 — (Canadian Press).—Premier King's statement on dissolution has left political prophets guessing. The prevailing impression here still is that there will be a dissolution of parliament with general elections either late in October or early in November, but Premier King's declaration that he "does not propose to be stamped into any dissolution of parliament" has left considerable uncertainty as to his plans.

One interpretation placed on the statement is that Premier King, from the seclusion of his summer home at Kingsmere, is planning a reorganization of his cabinet and that if his plans succeed, there will be a dissolution of parliament.

SCREW IN LUNGS FOR FORTY YEARS

Massachusetts Woman Undergoes Successful Operation.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 25.—Mrs. Ida Ferguson of Canton, Mass., has recovered from a bronchoscopic operation at the Jefferson Hospital here, where a small screw that had been lodged in her lungs for more than forty years was removed.

Mrs. Ferguson accidently swallowed the screw when a child, but, fearing parental chastisement, failed to tell her mother. For the last several years, she said, she suffered regularly from colds in the lungs, but doctors were unable to discover the cause.

At the hospital it was said that Mrs. Ferguson's operation broke all records for the length of time foreign objects had remained in undesired "captivity" prior to their removal by the bronchoscope. Until now the record was held by a man in whose lungs a tack was imbedded for thirty six years.

FLIVVER FAILS DESTITUTE MEN

Three Pooled Resources of $75 and Bought Car to Go West.

IT BROKE DOWN

OTTAWA, Aug. 25 — (Canadian Press).—A recent news item from Hamilton, Ontario, stated that three Australians who were picked up by the police of that city destitute, on their way to the harvest fields, were to be deported because they had no passports. The Department of Immigration here states it has had nothing to do with the case, which, owing to the reported deportation, drew comment from several daily papers.

The Department has learned that the following are the facts of the case:

An Englishman and a Scotsman who were stokers on a ship from Australia deserted their ship at Montreal. They went to Toronto, where they met a Canadian, and all three pooled their resources, which totalled $75.00, and purchased a second-hand car in which they planned to reach the West and make some money harvesting. The car broke down near Hamilton, and the police of that city, after hearing the story, allowed the men to go without keeping a record of their names. The car was sold for junk for $20.

SILENCE OF CHRISTIANS OFTEN DUE TO LACK OF MORAL COURAGE

Rev. D. O. Lavis in Millbrook Sermon Discusses Loyalty to Christ.

CAUSES OF SHAME

MILLBROOK, Aug. 25.—"I can understand how one might have been ashamed to own allegiance to the Man of Galilee, with His obscure birth and lack of influential followers, in the days of His earthly ministry, but it is not so easy to comprehend why anyone to-day should be ashamed of the Christ enthroned in glory."

"It is not unbelievers who lack courage to confess the Saviour, since we cannot be ashamed of that which does not exist."

Preaching from the text, Luke ix., 26: "For whosoever shall be ashamed of Me and My words, of him shall the Son of Man be ashamed when He shall come in His own glory, and in His Father's, and of the holy angels," Rev. D. O. Lavis, of Peterboro, in a brief but impressive discourse in Grace Presbyterian Church on Sunday evening, began his sermon with the words quoted above.

Three reasons were discussed in detail explaining the manner in which shame betrays itself. First by concealment — one may pray in secret, and attend the church services, and yet be ashamed to make personal, public acknowledgment of acceptance of Christ. In solitude, or amid the throng of other worshippers, the glory, or shame, of the heart is not detected, but if the real life purpose is to honor God the soul's friendship will not be hidden.

Betrayed By Silence.

Again shame betrays itself by silence. There is a close and mysterious tie between shame and silence. The name of son, or daughter, who has done some disgraceful thing is not mentioned by the family, though there are secret prayers and heart yearnings every day for the straying one. There are times when it is dignified and right to keep silence as we move among holy things, yet he who dares not avow his religious and moral principles is truly a coward.

Avoidance reveals shame. Who among us has not some places in life desecrated by sin which the memory desires to shun? Lest we be thought peculiar we avoid the word, or deed, by which loyalty should find expression.

Whence do these roots of shame spread? Through fear — like Nicodemus, "who came to Jesus by night for fear of the Jews." His followers of this age fear lest business suffer, or les welfare of wife or child be threatened, lest ridicule, or unpopularity, be our portion.

Social Pressure.

Social pressure also may cause the tragedy which befell Peter, as he stood and warmed himself at the enemies' fire, to be re-enacted in our lives. Intellectual pride, too, is responsible for the shame which keeps lips silent when they should speak bravely. We are not willing to "be a fool for Christ's sake." The great offence of the cross lies in the fact that it offers a puzzle which the greatest minds cannot solve, yet the common man may live and die by it.

Wherein lies the remedy? Pray for a vivid realization of who Christ is — Wonderful, Counsellor, the Mighty God, the Everlasting Father, the Prince of Peace—and for a keen understanding of what He has done for us. "The fear of God swallows up all other fears, and is the principle of all true courage."

Miss Ethel Richardson presided at the organ, and the solo, "Pilot of Galilee," sung by Mrs. L. C. Russell added much to the musical part of the service.

Rev. Mr. Lavis preached in Centreville Presbyterian Church on Sunday morning. The Millbrook and Centreville pulpits are not yet supplied by a permanent pastor, and a number of ministers are being heard before a call is extended.

It takes a good many shovelfuls of earth to bury the truth.

SUCCESSION DUTY ACTS CONSIDERED

Uniformity of Laws Sought at Conference in Winnipeg.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 25.—(Canadian Press).—The conference to promote uniformity in succession duty acts for the nine provinces of the Dominion opened here yesterday afternoon. Hon. R. W. Craig, K.C., Acting Premier and Attorney-General, delivered an address in which he emphasized the need of adopting measures to do away with the imposition of multiple taxation in connection with the levying of succession duties.

"Succession duties," said Mr. Craig, "may be considered from three different standpoints—social, legal and interdependent." He stated that the problems for consideration at the present time were largely economic. He pointed out that the manner of raising revenues by the Government of the Dominion and its various provinces was governred by the terms of the British North America Act, which permits both the Federal and Provincial Governments to levy succession duties or inheritance taxes.

"Of recent years," he continued, "there have been suggestions in the Federal budget debates that the Federal Govrnment should enter the field of taxation. Up to the present time it has not done so. Each of the nine provinces, however, imposes succession duties, and in so doing it frequently occurs that two, and on occasions perhaps more, of the provinces, claim duties with respect to the same property."

THE FIGHTING RANGER

By F. J. McCONNELL and GEORGE W. PYPER.

CHAPTER 35.
A Round-Up.

"Well, Taggart," said the sheriff, "here we've spent most of the day around Sierra Diablo on the trail you give us, and we haven't picked up your man yet."

"He's probably around somewhere near," replied Taggart. "We'll get him yet."

The men of the posse had become restless. They had spent too many hours on the fruitless quest.

Taggart himself was becoming increasingly irritable and nervous. On the one hand he felt that Buck would get ahead of him and get the treasure, and he was beginning to despair of his last desperate effort to secure it for himself by enlisting the aid of the sheriff. On the other hand, he began to feel that perhaps he had made a mistake—he was beginning to have a premonition that something would happen to queer his game. He was becoming panicky with fear that his own deeds would be shown up, and he wanted to break away from the sheriff's party, and flee. He was even ready to forsake all hope of the treasure, and would have been content to simply escape, if he could only think of a reasonable excuse for quitting the sheriff.

The men at the head of the posse shouted, and spurred their horses. Ahead of them they saw a group of horsemen. They started in pursuit. Taggart hung behind, then turned tail, and fled back in the other direction.

He had scarcely started when his way was blocked by a racing automobile. It was the ranger's car with Mary, Bud and Jack. Taggart turned white with rage and fear as he confronted them. Bud and Jack drew their guns on him, forced him to halt, turn about and go on with them.

The horsemen the sheriff's posse had gone in pursuit of proved to be Buck's gang of rustlers, belatedly on their way to join their leader. As the car came up, the men of the posse had them all covered with guns, and secured their lassoes.

Further down the road two men were coming toward them on foot. One trudged before the other, who had him covered with a revolver. The posse, with their prisoners, were waiting the arrival of these two.

"Sheriff, make these people let me go," Taggart cried, almost hysterical, cowering at bay under the revolvers of Bud and Jack. "What right have they to hold me up—what' the idea here?"

The two figures on foot, now running, came up. The one behind with the revolver, hearing Taggart's miserable whine, shouted:

"Hold that man Taggart, sheriff—he's the man you want above all."

It was Terence, marching his prisoner, Buck, before him.

Taggart shivered in fear, but dared not move under the menacing pistol muzzles pointed at him. Two of the deputies now flanked him.

Terence pointed accusingly at Taggart and shouted:

"There's your arch-criminal, sheriff—rustler—robber — forger — MURDERER—Spade Sinclair, who calls himself Topaz Taggart."

All listened in amazement, as Terence went on:

"He drove John Marshall from the Bar M, and persecuted his daughter in the hope of possessing the Yaqui treasure found on it.

"Years ago, with the same lust for this gold, he—he killed my father.

"And it was Taggart—Spade Sinclair—who murdered Black Benwell. This girl's father, John Marshall, is innocent!"

"It's a lie—it's a lie!" Taggart was shrieking.

"No it aint'—I saw you do both the killings," yelled Buck McLeod. "An' if you think I'm not goin' to turn state's evidence now and try to save some of my own hide—you double-crossin' cur, after the way you figured to trim me—well, ye gotta another think comin'."

"Lies, lies, lies," Taggart continued to wail.

"Come on, Sinclair-Taggart," shouted the sheriff, "you'll have a chance to prove what's lies and what's truth before a judge and jury."

"If there's anything left of Taggart when you get through with him here, sheriff," Terence put in, "Uncle Sam wants it!"

From a battered card case Terence drew a card and handed it to the sheriff, who read, aloud:

"Terence O'Rourke, U.S. Government Ranger—Texas."

By this time Mary had jumped from the car and came to Terence's side. The sheriff shook hands with him, and said:

"Of course Mary's father will be released at once, but we'll have to take this Stella Montrose woman."

Mary saw a look of anxiety come over Bud Hughes' face. A wave of compassion swept her.

"Stella was—was playing the game in our cause—all the time," she cried.

Bud gave her hand a hearty squeeze of appreciation, and turned away to wipe a tear from his eye with his coat sleeve.

CHAPTER 36
A Perfect Day.

Terence and Mary rode in from town at sunset. They were both all smiles as they came in the gate of the Bar M, and received a cheery greeting from Bud Hughes, as they dismounted.

Mary leaned against Terence joyfully, and his arm encircled her waist as Bud came running up.

"Hello, Bud," Mary hailed him. "Have you seen Stella today? How is she getting along?"

"Yea, I saw her," Bud answered. "She's getting along fine. She wasn't nearly as badly hurt as it seemed at first, and they say at the hospital she can come out in another week. An' then we're going to forget all the past, and begin things over again. She's really all right, you know—down at bottom, only she got mixed up with the wrong kind of people. When she comes out, she and I are going to hit for new territory and try to remold the sorry scheme of things, as old Omar would have said it."

They were walking toward the ranch house.

"We'll be awfully sorry to lose you, Bud, but of course we want you to be happy."

As they came up to the porch of the ranch house, Mary asked:

"Oh, say, Bud, is Daddy in?"

"Yes, he's in there," Bud replied. "Well, listen," Mary whispered into his ear. Bud's eyes grew big, and his lips broadened in a huge smile.

"What!" he cried. "Do you mean it."

Terence stood smiling embarrassedly, and nodded his head, and Mary said: "Yes, really," and sunk back into Terence's waiting arms.

"Well, I'll be blowed," said Bud, the great benevolent smile on his face growing wider. "Sure, I'll tell him—be glad to tell him."

As he stalked into the house, Terence rocked Mary in his arms, and bent his head over toward her face till the magnetism of her lips became irresistible, and his own were drawn against them.

"Terence, that's the eighty-seventh time today," she protested, but her eyes sparkled with happiness.

"And not the last either," said Terence with an enchanted smile.

Inside the house old Marshall was sitting at his desk, working over the ranch accounts, straightening them out after his long absence and the manipulations of Taggart. He had been a free man, back as boss of his own outfit, for two weeks now.

"Mr. Marshall," said Ben, entering, "Mrs. O'Rourke wants to see you."

"Who?" asked Marshall, looking up from his books.

"Mrs. O'Rourke, sir."

"And who is Mrs. O'Rourke?" Marshall asked, puzzled. "I don't know any such person."

"Oh, yes you do, pardon me, sir," Bud contradicted.

A smile of sudden comprehension crossed Marshall's face.

"Oh, perhaps I do," he said.

He stroke out on to the porch and found Mary still in Terence's arms, the two of them gazing rapturously into each other's faces.

"Mary," Marshall called, in a stern voice, and frowning upon her as she responded.

"Am I to understand that, without even asking my consent or advice, you have run off and married this young fellow?"

"Well, Daddy, dear, I was sure you would approve of Terence," Mary pleaded.

"Then you HAVE married him, have you?"

"Yes."

Marshall's frown changed to a smile, and he stepped forward with outstretched arms to both of them.

"I'm glad you knew I would—"

But the last words of his sentence were smothered by Mary, drawing both father and husband to her in one loving embrace.

MANY PRESENTS TO MILLBROOK BRIDE

Miscellaneous Shower at Grace Presbyterian Church.

MILLBROOK, Aug. 25.—A pleasant social gathering was held in the parlors of Grace Presbyterian Church on Monday evening, the event being arranged in honor of Miss Kathleen Thorndyke, whose marriage to Mr. E. A. Hill, B.A., of London, took place the following Wednesday.

The girl friends of the bride-to-be, assisted by the ladies of the church, planned the details of the occasion. No formal programme was arranged, but music was furnished by Miss Ethel Richardson, who played a number of piano solos, while Miss Anna Hawthorne contributed some vocal selections.

A miscellaneous shower was the chief purpose in view in holding the gathering, and midway in the evening's festivities, while Miss Richardson played the wedding-march, two little girls, Ruth Ball and Dorothy Gilmour, daintily clad in light dresses, drew in a small waggon, beautifully decorated with white ribbon bows, and pink asters, which was piled high with gifts. Three other small girls, Dorothy, Mary, and Jessie Armstrong, followed immediately behind the laden waggon, carrying other parcels for which room could not be found in the tastefully arranged selection which preceded them.

Miss Thorndyke was taken by surprise, and deeply touched by the tangible tokens of regard which were literally piled around her. Mr. Hill, on behalf of his bride-to-be, and himself, made a suitable reply, thanking the donors for the kindly thoughtfulness which prompted the gifts, and the pleasant occasion for presenting them.

Opening the many-shaped parcels, and reading the host of good wishes expressed on the enclosed cards, is always a delightful feature of such a gathering, and with the singing of "For she's a jolly good fellow," made an appropriate closing for the happy event.

BAND CONCERT IN LAKEFIELD

Weekly Programmes Appreciated—Salvation Army Band Also Played.

LAKEFIELD, Aug. 25.—The weekly band concerts provided this summer by the citizens' band have proved very popular, each week a large number of people, both from the village and outside points congregate in the vicinity of the municipal band stand and enjoy the music. The band, re-organized a year and a half ago has progressed rapidly in efficiency and is now an institution which is a credit to the community. The summer's concerts have marked a forward step in the history of the organization and plans are being made for greater things in the near future.

The annual masquerade dance is being held on Thursday evening in the Riverside Pavilion and promises to be even more successful than previous events of the kind. Follis' orchestra will provide the music.

Messrs. Thomas Hampton, Wm. Hamblin, Kenneth Junkin and Cecil Wingett left this week to join the harvesters' excursion to the West.

A contingent from Lakefield attended the motor races in Peterboro' on Thursday and also the social held under the auspices of St. Martin's Church, Ennismore.

A large number from the village motored to Cobourg to attend the horse show this week. Each year this event draws larger crowds from the village and vicinity.

The Salvation Army band of Peterboro' paid a visit to the village on Wednesday evening and gave an open air concert in front of the Commercial House. A large crowd turned out and enjoyed the music.

PETHERICK'S CORNERS.

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, Aug. 25.—The members of Sentinel Lodge at Petherick's Corners and Stanwood Lodge held a most successful picnic at Crow River Bridge on Friday, there being a large crowd in attendance.

Bathing and swimming was indulged in and two games of softball, the single ladies vs. married ladies resulted in a victory for the latter. A game, single men vs. married men, resulted in a victory for the single men.

Well filled baskets contributed to the day's pleasure, a corn roast being enjoyed at the evening meal.

All feel grateful to Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Dalgleish, who assisted in making the outing a pleasureable one for all.

BAKERS MERGE IN WEST UNION

Have Capacity of 1,400,000 Loaves Weekly in Scattered Cities.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Aug. 25. — Following negotiations covering a period of several months a deal was completed here Saturday whereby several of the leading bakeries of Western Canada, including Shelly Bros., of Vancouver, Namaino, New Westminster and Victoria, together with other plants at Calgary, Lethbridge, Edmonton and Moose Jaw, will be merged, the company having been re-organized here under the name of Canadian Bakeries Limited.

Each plant will continue to operate as formerly under its own local management, the policy to be followed by each bakery being largely left to the local managers.

"The amalgamation of the various interests represented in the merger," explained Mr. W. C. Shelly, "is in conformity with the tendency of the times. By this merger we hope to facilitate the purchase power of all the plants and increased efficiency. To the degree that organization benefits, the public will also benefit."

The plants in the new organization already are producing 750,000 loaves of bread weekly. They have a capacity of 1,400,000 loaves. Each firm entering the merger has invested heavily, taking in the aggregate approximately $1,000,000 worth of stock. For this reason the bond issue which will be shortly raised through A. E. Ames Co., Limited, will not exceed more than $800,000. In addition, there will be $2,000,000 in accumulative preferred stock.

FIND RADIO ROOF AROUND WORLD CAUSES FADING

Experts Locate Ionized Region 100 Miles High, Deflecting Waves.

THEORY CONFINED.

One Wave Horizontal and Other Vertical, Says Report.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25 — The existence of a radio deflecting roof in the higher levels of the earth's atmosphere, accounting for 'fading' and 'skip distances' in broadcast reception, has been established by investigations conducted by the Naval Research Laboratory.

Secretary Wilbur, in announcing the results of the experiments, also brought out a second point: the demonstration that there are two waves in broadcasting and transmission.

One of these waves, known as the "horizontal wave," arrives by way of the earth and the other, the "vertical wave," by way of the sky "layer" or "ceiling," an ionized region varying in height above the earth, according to atmospheric conditions, and generally over 100 miles high.

The horizontal waves moves along the earth's surface till it slides off tangentially into the ether. The vertical waves, striking the undersurface of the sky ceiling, are deflected downward, hitting the earth at distances which depend upon the eagle of impact upon the ceiling.

After striking the earth again, these rebounded waves are deflected upward at an angle, again strike the sky ceiling, rebound and continue this process around the world. It is this process that creates the so-called "skip distance."

Secretary Wilbur said that the Navy Department was not yet ready to announce in detail the result of the experiments, but that with the confirmation of the "radio roof" theory he felt, because of its importance to the radio world, scientists and radio engineers should have the benefit of a preliminary announcement immediately.

"Skip Distance" Quest.

Secretary Wilbur's announcement was as follows:

"Investigations conducted by the Naval Research Laboratory, in association with the Department of Terrestrial Magnetism of the Carnegie Institution at Washington, have resulted in confirming the theory of an ionized region in the higher levels of the earth's atmosphere.

"From observations made, it appears that the plans of maximum density, in popular language, the ceiling of the sky, lies at a varying distance above the surface of the earth, rising and falling as atmospheric conditions vary.

"This layer, the conception of which originated independently with Heaviside in England and Kennelly in the United States, is known in the scientific world as the Kennelly-Heaviside layer. It acts as a deflecting surface to electro or magnetic waves, under which they are guided around the world in a similar way to that in which whispered sound waves run under the domes of the Capitol at Washington and of Saint Paul's Cathedral in London.

"The results attained are based upon an analysis of the phenomenon known as the 'skip distance,' checked by a simple mechanical device by means of which the effective distance of the deflecting layer may be actually measured.

"In the pioneer work of short wave length transmission, it was the experience that signals could be picked up at distance forty or fifty miles, after which they disappeared. They were again picked up at points hundreds of miles distant. The intervening of dead space of non-reception became known as the 'skip distance.'

"In seeking to account for this, a theory was developed at the research laboratory that there was a relation between the earth's magnetic field, the frequency of the waves used, 'skip distances' observed, and the height of the Heaviside Layer.

"This relation could be, and was, worked out mathematically using data contributed by the members of the American Radio Relay League, and their co-workers in foreign countries.

"The joint experiments with the Carnegie Institution of Washington approached the solution of the problem from a different angle, demonstrating definitely the existence of two waves, one of them arriving by way of the earth and the other by way of the layer. From these experiments estimates of effective height of the layer were made, these estimates being essentially in agreement with the estimates derived from observations on the 'skip distance.'

"Other peculiaries of the action of the layer have been investigated by the Carnegie Institution of Washington in collaboration with the Radio Corporation of America and the Westinghouse Manufacturing Company. The knowledge now gained will play an important part in further advancing the radio art.

"The Naval Research Laboratory is now in communication with practically every country using short-wave length and high frequencies. Understanding of the principles involved has progressed to the point where it can be definitely stated that a high frequency transmitting station can be built at a cost of $60,000 that will give better and longer range than the present high power stations costing $2,000,000, and the cost of operation will be correspondingly reduced."

Measure Distance to "Layer."

In the experiments at Bellevue, which have been conducted under the direction of Dr. A. H. Taylor, a simple mechanical device has been used by means of which it has been possible to easily and accurately measure the effective distance of the "deflecting layer" or ceiling from the surface of the earth.

This has determined that the layer generally speaking, is more than 100 miles high.

In confirming the radio roof theory, the laboratory has been communicating great distances by short wave length transmission, reaching countries throughout the world. It has demonstrated its ability to talk with the American fleet in Australia, Samoa and New Zealand and send messages to the MacMillan Arctic expedition in Greenland the same day.

It was in these experiments that proof was developed that the ionized region in the upper air strata acts as a deflecting surface to the electromagnetic waves, under which they rebound downward and reach all parts of the earth.

BOTH LEADERS FINISH AT HOME

Advantage Inclines to the Pirates and the Senators.

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—Precedent now points a wobbly finger toward Washington and Pittsburgh as the dramatic contenders of the 1925 world's series baseball classic, but the schedule-makers may stage a clash of influence over the major league pennant aspirants before the victors are announced.

Of the 12 clubs playing in the last six world's series, seven were leading their leagues on Aug. 22, but only one of these had as microscopic a lead on that date as either of the leaders now possesses.

The club at the top of the percentage column in the National on Aug. 22 has won four pennants in six years, while in the American some runner-up has snatched the decision at the wire three times of the six.

Senators Did It.

New York won American League flags in 1921 and 1923, after being in front one and one-half and 13 games respectively on Aug. 22. Chicago, five games to the good on that date in 1919, breezed home a winner. On the other hand, Washington overcame a one and one-half game lead of the Yankees to win last year, and Cleveland grabbed the victory in 1920 after the "Black Sox" scandal wrecked the White Sox.

New York's domination of recent National League races has served to steady the averages in that loop. For the last three years the Giants have come home a winner after holding leads when six weeks from the wire.

Pittsburgh staged its famous "bust" in 1921, dropping a six and one-half game lead of Aug. 22 of that year to trail the New Yorkers past the Judges' stand and Brooklyn overcame a single game lead of Cincinnati in 1920. In 1919, Cincinnati eased into first place on the strength of a six and one-half game margin.

Behind Last Year.

New York, struggling desperately to play in a fifth consecutive world's series, is eight and one-half games worse off, as far as the league's leadership goes, than it was a year ago. On top of this situation, which has its tragic element in a battered pitching staff, the Giants have only 35 more scheduled games and four postponed games to play, while Pittsburgh is to participate in 40 more regular contests and six postponements. The break on scheduled home games is about even, Pittsburgh having 19 more and New York 17.

This apparent balance, however, is given a rude jolt by the schedule makers. The Pirates have 18 more games with Boston, Chicago and Philadelphia, the weaker National League teams, while the Giants have only 11 with the tail enders.

Connie Mack's youngsters get slightly the better of the American League schedule reak, as far as number of home games is concerned, and both Philadelphia and Washington finish the season with long home stays broken only by occasional single day forays. The Athletics have 37 more scheduled contents and six postponed games, while Washington has 35 and five delayed contests.

The balance on calibre of opponents in this circuit favors the trailing Athletics slightly. They play New York, Cleveland and Boston in 13 more games, while Washington meets these clubs in only 11.

ARTIC PARTY .... MAY SPLIT UP

MacMillan Reported To Be Considering Plan of Sending Part of Force Home

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—Early approach of the Arctic winter has forced the MacMillan expedition to abandon its effort to fly over the unknown Polar Sea, and may even lead one of the two ships to return ahead of schedule.

Although officials of the National Geographic Society say they have received no communication indicating that the party might split up, and one of the vessels precede the other in its return, they, however, admit that this is a possibility.

When informed of a report to this effect, it was said that if Commander Donald B. MacMillan had or should decide upon such a plan, it probably would be to enable the Navy flying unit with the expedition to leave the far north before the closing in of winter weather.

Might Split Party.

It also was pointed out that the scientific work still to be attempted in Greenland, Labrador and Baffin Island would not necessarily require the efforts of the entire party, and, in view of this, a part might return in advance. They were of the belief, however, that if this were done, there would be only a matter of 10 days or two weeks in the time elapsing between the arrival home of the two ships.

The decision to call off the attempt to fly over the Polar Sea was taken by the Society, which is sponsor of the expedition, with the assent of the Navy Department, which contributed the planes and personnel.

The unusual Arctic weather responsible for the change in plans has led some scientific opinion to the belief that the MacMillan expedition may have been in part a victim of abnormal world-wide weather conditions which have been noted by the Smithsonian Institution as an outstanding development of the last three years. The British expedition which attempted to scale Mount Everest encountered similar abnormal weather difficulties.

Plane Damaged.

Notwithstanding the failure to complete its entire program, the Navy believes the expedition has had a considerable degree of success in its efforts, as the knowledge gained from navigating the Arctic by air will be of great value, especially in the matter of establishing bases in that region.

The Navy Department, Secretary Curtis D. Wilbur said Thursday, will continue to co-operate with the expedition and no orders will be issued to govern Commander R. E. Byrd in flights yet to be made. The program, he indicated, will be worked out by Commanders Byrd and MacMillan and reported to Washington.

Word was received from MacMillan Wednesday of additional difficulties through virtual destruction by fire of one of the wings of the NA-3. The NA-2 previously had been damaged by rough weather, and thus only one plane was left in service. The speed with which the wing can be replaced will determine largely the extent of subsequent flights planned for regions farther south, since it has been the policy to send out none of the planes alone.

KING BORIS III. HEIR TO STRIFE

Bulgarian Monarch Charming Personally Despite Gloom of His Position.

SOFIA, Aug. 25—Some little time ago a woman reporter gained access to Boris III, King of the Bulgars, and as a result of the incident gave the world the impression that Boris goes to his room every night and has a good cry. She further revealed her impression that the unhappy youth never, never, never intends to ask any little woman to share his miseries. This last may or may not be true; the first certainly is not. And King Boris deeply resented the indiscretion (?) of the woman reporter.

Hence it is now virtually impossible for women reporters to get near Boris.

Boris is now in his thirty-second year. He is a slim, well-featured man, dark-haired and of pale complexion (for a resident of these parts.) He carries himself as a man who spends a lot of time thinking and alone. In repose his expression is quiet and even gloomy; but it is the gloom of burdensome problems and not of despair. He smiles too easily to be a man given to faint-hearted regrets. One imagines he would have been well pleased had fate given him some other mission in life, but he accepts with firm loyalty the job and I have not heard in all Bulgaria one word against him personally, although there are many of course who blink at the existence of the kingship.

He is, at least for the present, a very carefully guarded young man. He represents for the government and for the bourgeois of the old epoch their anchor to windward; he is the symbol of the status quo. If one of these numerous bombs reaches his chamber who knows what might happen in a country where everything is fragile and nothing has foundations.

Like Motor Cars.

Had Boris been given his choice he might have made a useful motor car manufacturer, for tinkering with cars is one of his two hobbies. It is said that he is a pal of all the chauffeurs and calls them his colleagues. On one occasion he got stuck in the snowdrifts about 25 miles out of Sofia, with some friends, and could not get clear. He and his friends worked in the drift for some time, the king knee-deep in the snow, and thoroughly wet. Finally he spied an approaching car, hailed the chauffeur by name and asked him to pull them out. This the chauffeur succeeded in doing, and both cars proceeded towards Sofia. A few miles from the city the chauffeur in turn got stuck, whereupon the king towed him out.

A young American told us over the tea-table that while driving out one night he had trouble with one of his wheels. A car approached through the darkness and he hailed it. A voice answered in good English offering help. A man, dressed as a chauffeur, got out, assisting in changing the wheel and helped locate some lost articles on the ground. He was accompanied by two ladies. The American thanked him; thought him a Frenchman, and had some idea of offering to pay him for his trouble. He was glad he had restrained his impulse when, after the car had driven off, one of his own companions broke the news to him that his assistant was Boris.

The veteran American newspaper man who represents the Associated Press here, a cultured gentleman who hailed many years ago from Harvard, was walking along the street, accompanied by his wife, when the king drove up, hopped briskly out of his car and spoke to the correspondent. The latter presented his wife and the three chatted on the sidewalk for several minutes

Botany His Hobby.

The king's other hobby is botany, and he pursues it with the same passion and thoroughness as Cecil Billington of Detroit. Boris has the advantage of the royal gardens where he has introduced all manner of plants and it is said that at his country place the garden is a very remarkable show-ground of species, native and imported. He also has a good collection of butterflies.

Stambulisky, I am told, treated Boris with scant consideration, styled him "the little king" and occupied his country castle for weeks at a time without so much as "by your leave." It is said that it was Stambulisky's announcement to the king that Boris was through that precipitated the Velkoff coup and Stambulisky's death.

Boris, unlike his father, interferes very little, but is quietly influential just the same on the strength of his good sense. The common people hold him in high regard, and that, perhaps, is why he is willing to continue on the most restless throne in Europe.

PARTRIDGE ARE SCARCE

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. Aug. 25.—E. W. Paice, who has been an employe of the Ontario and Fisheries Department for the past four and a half years, received the appointment of game warden in charge of the district of Algoma. The department is considering the question of closing the partridge season in the district this year as has been done in the Port Arthur district. The birds are scarce.

CHANNEL SWIMMERS

Above are four figures, representing as many nations, who are now prominent in connection with attempts to swim the English Channel from Gris Nez, on the French Coast. Left to right they are Jabez Wolffe, English swimmer, who has made 20 attempts; Gertrude Ederle, American girl champion, whom Wolffe is now coaching; Isiak Holm, Egyptian, and Madame Jean Sion, French contestant, who made a vain attempt last week.

An Invitation from Toronto

The Ryrie-Birks store is not part of the Canadian National Exhibition, but it is part of Canadian enterprise. During the Exhibition weeks (Aug. 29 to Sept. 12), the Ryrie-Birks firm extends a cordial invitation to call at the store and there to inspect, appraise and enjoy, as freely as if it were a part of the Exhibition itself. You will not be asked to buy. You are simply invited to inspect at close range one of the fine jewellery houses of America.

During the Exhibition a replica in diamonds of the Great Exhibition Gates valued at $100,000.00, will be on view in our show-rooms.

Coming down the stream, the other night, after a big days fishing, we saw a Bittern making off with a big frog dangling by one leg. We watched the bird and returned the next day only to find that there had been a nest, but we were too late in the season. However, things take queer turns.

A man from the village informed me that a storekeeper in the place had three young but full-grown bitterns on hand for sale. We delivered notice that we would release the birds.

Now, the man had a white elephant on his hands and, as we generally keep our word, and the law says Bitterns are made for freedom and not for selling, he proceeded to get rid of his trouble by shipping the captive birds to a public Zoo in Quebec. When we arrived and inquired for them, we were told of the trick to outwit us, so after delivering several talks on the folly of trying to sell our wild life, we proceeded to the tracing of the birds.

To make a long story short, the superintendent of the Zoo refused to take them, due to unpaid express charges, so we had to put the expenses up to the would-be bird seller and ask the Zoo man to take them. It thus happens that the man really fined himself in express charges, still has the safety of the birds on his hands until we know whether they arrived at the Zoo alive or not, and got in bad all around, just in order to outwit an honorary game warden, who, at the most in this case, intended to photograph the birds, release them and deliver a warning and some copies of the laws.

The express book shows these birds as Cranes, but they should be called Bitterns. They are also called Stake-driver, Thunder-pump and Marsh Hen. Sometimes, from a boat or from the train window, they may be seen, standing among the rushes of a bog, head pointed up, their yellow and brown lines making them look like a part of the rushes.

YOUR GARDEN

PLANNING THE BACKYARD FOR EFFFICIENCY.

Although planning advice is usually given in the winter or early spring months, this is also a seasonable time to consider improvements and also to start some of them.

In the first place, much might be said about the placing and orienting of the house on the lot, but space will not permit. This placing and the relation of the principal rooms of the house to the sun is often the cause of much difficulty in the later arrangement of walks, drives, garages, etc., and should be carefully considered first.

Th backyard should be made to contribute very definitely to the daily comfort and recreational needs of the family and still satisfy the natural desire to live in beautiful surroundings. If these objects are arrived at the area can be made an asset rather than a detraction. The first consideration in planning is orderliness and avoidance of waste space. If small buildings and features are carefully placed, there will be none.

The garage is most often the worst offender and it should be considered as to its position for service, usefulness and accessibility. Note if it detracts from or improves the general appearance of the place as a whole, if it can be directly reached by a walk from the service or kitchen door and its relation to the public alley or private drive. It should never be placed so that the walk must cut up a desirable stretch of lawn into two small areas, neither of which are of great enough extent to be usable.

Walks are very often built without any particular consideration, but care should be taken to see that they give access to the drying yard or garden areas so that one might walk dryshod when the dew is on the ground or after rainfall.

The various areas should proferably be laid out rectangularly and made to fit with one another without, of course, giving an appearance of stiffness, which can be overcome by the planting. The vegetable garden and poultry yard will naturally go to the back, while the drying yard and service area should be placed near the kitchen or side door. (A private, shrub-bordered lawn may be made the chief feature or a small formal flower garden which should go on some axis of the house. By axis is meant the direct central line from verandah steps, a window, door, etc., of the building. These various rectangular area of different sizes may be made to fit into one another so as to leave absolutely no waste space and awkward-shaped area and give the desired effect of beauty with orderliness.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES
By Blanche Silver

BY BLANCHE SILVER.
Dotty Has a Chat with Mr. and Mrs. Hornbill.

When Dotty first spied the queer looking bird she thought that something had fallen on the top of his head, but when he flew down closer, she discovered that the queer flat-looking thing was really two wings there.

"My goodness!" laughed Dotty. "How in the world can you fly with that heavy thing on your head? Why I should think it would tire you to death. Your bill is such a heavy-looking thing, too."

"Fooled you, too, didn't I?" chuckled the bird merrily. "Most everyone that sees me says the same thing. But this horny crown on my head, and my beak, are both made of very light shell. I don't mind showing you if you promise not to harm me."

"Goodness no! I wouldn't harm you," replied Dotty. "I'm a friend of Happy Giggles and Squedee."

"Then I know you are safe," smiled the bird and he flew down so Dotty could get a better look at him. "I'm Daddy Hornbill. There's only one time I find my big beak any trouble to me and that's in nesting time."

"I should not think you could have very good luck building a nest with that beak," said Dotty.

"I don't even try," chuckled Mr. Hornbill." We just find a hollow tree and use that. The wife is sitting now. Come along and I will introduce her to you," and he flew down, took Dotty on his back and sailed to a hollow tree. He rapped on the tree

"The Wife is Sitting Now."

trunk at the side of a very tiny hole, and out popped the tip end of Mrs. Hornbills beak." Dotty, this is my wife, Mrs. Hornbill. You see I take no chances of anyone stealing her eggs," he laughed. "I get her in there and seal her up so she can't get out until the young Hornbills are ready to fly. Here alone," and he handed his wife a sack of fruit. "But she cannot complain about ill treatment for I see that she gets plenty to eat."

"Yes and he even makes the sacks that he carries the food in," piped Mrs. Hornbill. "He grows them. They are the inside lining to his stomach and as fast as I need them he can grow them and fill them with fruit for me."

"But you can't come out when you want to?" asked Dotty.

"I don't want to," replied Mrs. Hornbill. "You see when it is nesting time I pluck all the feathers from my body to line the nest and if Hornbill ever saw me the way I'm looking now he'd leave me."

"I guess not!" laughed the husband. "Im mighty proud of you, mdear, and I'll be just as glad to greet our offspring as you will. I don't crave being alone so much, but it's the safest way. Well, I'll take Dotty back now; I hear someone calling her," and away he flew with Dotty on his back.

Sure enough, Dotty's mamma was calling her. So bidding Mr. Hornbill good bye, she ran to join her mama.

DE'LIBERT O BROTHERS

De'Liberto Brothers and Company with Willie, a foreign combination, two ladies and three gentlemen, in their version of the sensational "Teeter-Board" act, are booked to appear at the Peterborough Fair. A more appropriate name would be "Jump Board" or, better still, human pop-corn acrobats, for most of the strange performance is done from a pedestal and tetter-boards.

One of the boys stands on the pedestal with another boy standing on his shoulders. Beneath them is a teeter-board with another boy standing on its opposite end. The topmost boy leaps high in the air and ends by jumping down on the empty end of the teeter-board—WOW! Up goes the fellow on the other end, circling and somersaulting with tremendous added force of the impetus and his own strength combined. There is a long series of these startling stunts, each one different and more difficult.

The finish jump is a wonder, Willie going straight up in the air, doing a double somersault, and landing on the shoulders of the man still on the pedestal, changing places with the man who has just left there.

The ladies are here, there and everywhere, on the spring boards, tumbling, somersaulting, doing pretty contortion stunts, and are a complete foil for the foolish Willie who, in addition to being a first-class acrobat, is easily the world's greatest in the teeter-board line.

FAMOUS "FIRSTS"
By Temple Manning

ORIGIN OF THE ROSE OF ENGLAND.

Hasn't there been a time when each and every one of us wished that we could turn back the universe—at least one century—and live again as leisurely ladies and gentlemen of the Victorian age?

When you have spent an especially frantic twenty-four hours rushing to business, rushing home and rushing out again, only to climb wearily into bed at night, haven't your thoughts wandered back into the days when ladies wore thirty-two yards of silk and five lace-beribboned petticoats, and men were courtly gallants in knee-breeches?

Discussing Rival Regal Claims

Instead of counting fleecy sheep over a mythical fence, you indulged your fancy in watching stately attired, slow-moving ladies and gentlemen. Down the broad tree-lined avenue came this gorgeous parade headed by two young striplings on snow-white chargers. Followed two ornate ladies carriages, the vehicles themselves as fair as their occupants.

You leaned back and allowed your mind to rest a moment on the most fantastic feature of the carriage—the be-jewelled coat-of-arms. How the crown sparkled in the sun, and how the lion, his claws caught in the folds of a band of ribbon, glowered at you!

With a sigh, you turned over and determined to forget lovely mid-Victorian ladies and sparkling crests. But hold! You remember that coat-of-arms are still in use in England and you wonder how the heraldic sign of England originated.

If you remember, the coat-of-arms has several roses interwined in it. The origin of these roses dates back to the civil wars between the York and Lancaster factions.

A group of noblemen were discussing the merits of rival claimants to the throne, in Temple Gardens. During their debate, Richard, Duke of York, approached and begged to earn the subject of discussion. Noting the silence which followed his query, the Duke said: "If you are reluctant to give me your opinion in words, why not give me a sign? Let my friends follow my example and pull a white rose."

Thus the friends of Richard were known by the white rose, and his enemies by the red rose. War raged between the rival factions until the two houses were united by marriage, years later. The roses, then blended, became the national flower of England, emblazoned on her arms and on the coin of the realm.

YOUR HEALTH
By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

ORGANS OF ABDOMEN MUST FUNCTION.

Nature has done wonderful things in building the body and planning for its safety and preservation. If man would do his part in guarding a gainst disease by proper treatment of this wonderfully constructed mechanism, the span of life would be materially increased.

The abdominal cavity is an important region. It is divided from the chest cavity, containing the heart and lungs, by the diaphragm. This is a firm muscular wall which you never think of till you have the hiccoughs. Then it takes on a violent spasm and makes you painfully aware of its existence.

Within the abdominal cavity are the organs which have to do with digestion, notably the stomach, liver, gall bladder and intestines. The spleen is here, too, and just outside the main cavity are the kidneys.

Immediately connected with the abdominal cavity and really a part of it, is the space bounded by the pelvis, the bones of the middle of the body. In this cavity is the bladder and, in women, it contains the generative organs—the uterus and ovaries.

The mere recital of this list of vital organs show how necessary it is to protect this region against neglect and abuse.

Man has a posture different from the lower animals. He stands upright. This places a peculiar strain upon the tissues which hold the organs in place. Some of the organs are heavy, notably heavy at times. This makes them liable to sag and to become displaced.

The "colon" is the name given the large intestine, the most dependent part of the intestinal tract. Since a part of the colon runs upward and another part runs downward, we need not consider these portions in connection with sagging, but the middle part, called the "transverse colon," runs crosswise of the body. This position renders it peculiarly liable to sagging or drooping and even to rolling upon its axis, producing a kink in the intestine. Since the colon is frequently quite filled with the waste products of digestion, it may become so heavy that the supports give way.

There is a general term applied to the condition and to the symptoms resulting from relaxation and stretching of the natural support of the digestive organs within the abdominal cavity. This is "enteroptosis," or dropping of the visera, as the organs are called. Prolapse of the kidney or of the uterus may be met. Indeed, any of the organs may become displaced through neglect, disease, or as the result of accident.

Discomfort is the chief symptom. There may be dragging pains in the back. Sometimes there are no apparent symptoms, but, of course, a misplaced organ is not an efficient organ. On this account any form of enteroptosis requires the attention of your doctor.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE
By Genevieve Kemble

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 26.

Although this may be a day of change and unrest, according to the lunar transits, yet certain aspects point to perplexities and complications. The trine of Uranus to the moon may precipitate a sudden stirring of affairs, inciting to change or removal, or an unplanned journey. However, new projects should be espoused with hesitancy and new contracts or agreements entered upon with every precaution, especially in the affixing of the signature. Shun all speculative enterprises.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of change or travel, and while some benefits may accrue from these, yet it might be wise to shun speculative enterprises and sign all agreements with caution. Be careful with writing. A child born on this day may be original and inventive in thought, but may not be disposed to give accuracy of statement and general integrity their proper value. It may have a restless nature and will doubtless travel much.

About Ourselves And Other People

By Winifred Black

THE DANGER IN LIVING ON EXCITEMENT.

Sir Thomas Horder, a distinguished Englishman, is making a campaign in his own country for "the simple life."

He says we are thinking too much about germs and diseases, and symptoms and cures, and not enough about preparing the human body and the human mind to resist these things.

"We doctors must not only point out more clearly and insistently the importance of hygienic rules for the conduct of the bodily functions," said Sir Thomas. "We must urge moderations and simplicity in living and especially moderation in the emotions.

"We have new diseases in place of the old these days, but the doctor's function remains the same—to study closely his patient."

Good for Sir Thomas and long life to him.

Thats' the sort of men we want in the splendid profession of medicine.

The simple life. We are always talking about it and never living it, especially when it comes to the emotions.

Which tires you out most, a long day of good hard work ,or half an hour of a good hard cry, or an hour of real anger?

I can get up at seven in the morning and keep going like a steam engine until six o'clock at night, dress to go out to dinner, have a perfectly lovely time and never think of being anything but comfortably tired when it's time to go to bed.

Excitement Tires One Quickly.

But let me get into a bitter argument, let me find myself disappointed ,let me get "mad" and I'm through for the day.

My head aches and my eyes burn and I'm so tired I can hardly stir, and what's it all about?

An idea—an emotion—what's the sense in it?

Do you live on excitement? Let me tell you, my friend, excitement is the poorest diet in the world.

No, nobody wants to be a human oyster and live in a shell, but isn't there such a thing as having an hour or so to yourself once or twice a week, an hour or so without the radio and without the phonograph and without the telephone, and without some chattering nobody who just drops in not because she really wants to see you but because she doesn't know just what else to do to "kill time."

The simple life, let's not talk about it so much, lets live it. Let's have a cookie and a glass of milk for lunch in the garden —and if a friend comes in to share it, don't fuss about it.

Let's sit and watch the sunset and stop talking for half an hour. Let's think and plan and hope and remember.

I believe we'd all live longer if we would simplify the way we dress and the way we eat and the way we entertain and the way we work and the way we amuse ourselves. After all, life is only worth living when the one who lives it is well enough to enjoy what life has to give.

TWO NEW PARIS CREATIONS

Canadian buyers back from the formal openings in the Paris salons predict that black will be the predominant color in milady's toggery this coming autumn. Here are two smart creations in black that are expected to gain much local favor. At the left is a new design with long straight pleats at the front. The coat-like lapels meet at the waist under the narrow self belt. At the right is another straight-line design piped with white satin in an interesting manner. The embroidered motif, which is flame in this case, adds the necessary touch of color.

A FASHION MODEL'S DIARY

By Grace Thorncliffe

SHE DESCRIBES A SMART SATIN DRESS.

Pam and I decided to go to tea together to-day, as we had not had our teatime dissipation for a long while.

"I think it's high time we had a glass of iced tea together," Pam said by way of accepting my invitation.

Accordingly we set out together shortly after five.

"Where shall we go?" I asked.

Pam suggested a smart hotel that was not far away, and we were soon entering the cool lobby.

"This is an excellent place to forget the day's worries," I exclaimed as we sank back in comfortable seats on one of the small divans beside a tea table.

"I should like to forget clothes for a while," Pam said.

"Well, I'm afraid you should have picked a less lively place, then," I told her. "I saw a dress now that you must look at."

"Where?" asked Pam, all interest at once.

Her eyes followed the general direction of my gaze, and I directed her to the right frock.

"I mean that brown satin on the young girl just coming it," I told her.

"What an interesting way the two materials are combined!" Pam remarked.

The two materials she referred to were brown satin which made the dress and the embroidered ecru batiste which seemed to make a slip beneath it, and which was revealed at the front by a clever cut-out treatment of the brown satin.

"That's what I thought," I returned.

"Do you suppose the entire slip is made of that beautitfully embroidered material?" Pam asked.

"Surely not," I returned. "I think the back of it must be of plain batiste."

"Clever way the satin girdle is laced through," Pam added.

"Stunning hat!" I commented.

That hat with a big one of brown satin faced with ecru colored satin, and there were tiny orange flowers made into a design at the side of the brim.

"Now that we've observed that costume closely enough to talk about it, yet's order some tea," I suggested, and Pam was eager enough to follow my suggestion.

This Brown Satin Dress Is Charmingly Set Off by Embroidered Batiste.

Glass for the windows of electric street cars is one of the big items of upkeep. Investigation shows that such window glass does not have a "life" of more than six years.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a young woman almost out of my twenties and considered very nice looking. I don't claim to be a typical flapper, but I dance and try to take part in any wholesome amusements when invited out or when entertaining at home.

I have met two nice young men of late and would like very much to gain their friendship and have them call some evening. Should I invite them to do so?

LONESOME.

LONESOME: Even though these young men have not evinced especial interest in you, it is your privilege to invite them to call on you, my dear. They will probably be delighted to accept your invitation and a cosy tete-a-tete at your home will do much toward establishing their friendship. I suggest, however, that you invite one of them at a time, or else invite a girl friend to join you if you ask both to call the same evening.

PETHERICKS PERSONALS.

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, Aug. 25.—The Zion Ladies' Aid will hold their September meeting at the home of Mrs. J. A. M. Thomson.

Miss Nettie and Elsie Forde and Reta Hutcheon spent Wednesday the guest of Miss Gladys Simpson.

Mr. Richard Pierce is visiting friends at Petherick's Corners.

Mr. William Forde left Tuesday for the West, with others, who went from Campbellford.

CRICKETS LOVE SONG.

The plaintive love song of the cricket and all the other insect sounds that are heard on a summer night, may have no meaning at all to the insects themselves.

Judged by human ears, the best insect musicians of to-day belong to rather primitive orders. The more advanced groups, such as ants, beetles, flies and butterflies, make no sounds that we can hear, or else, at most, only sounds that seem to us to be nothing more than faint squeaks, buzzes, hums or clicks. Whether the insects themselves hear these sounds has not been determined beyond doubt. It should be remembered that, in man's affairs at least, many sounds are made without intention, and even contrary to desire—for example, sneezing and snoring.

Home-Making Helps

TURNING AN ATTIC INTO A USEFUL STUDIO.

The daughter of artistic tendencies needed a studio. The house was old-fashioned and boasted no room with north light that filled the bill. There was a commodious attic that ran over the entire house with two dormer windows to the north and to small windows on both the east and west side.

The dormer windows were removed entirely and a large window of correct portions filled the space. A convenient device opened one or more sections of the window, and the steady north light flooded the room. The windows at either side were removed and one large one took the place letting in more light and air, east and west.

In the southeast corner of the attic a small but perfectly appointed bathroom was built in. A long narrow window was cut in, which gave ventilation and even sunlight. Wallboard was used for partitions needed. The ceiling and side walls of the room were also finished with wall board and wooden mouldings. The board was attractively tinted, then stenciled. The floor was evened, cleaned, the cracks filled, then it was painted a soft walnut brown. The woodwork was stained and finished to match.

The furniture was painted in the same soft brown. On one side there was a wide couch with a lot of pillows in pastel colorings with yellow predominating. Tucked behind a fourfold screen with a brown frame and Japanese gold cloth panels was a quaint little dressing table.

There are cheaper ways of fixing an attic room for emergency, for the extra guest, a play room, or even a nursery. Cheaper, that is, if the windows do not have to be changed, a bathroom added, or partitions built. If an attic has a good tight roof with rafters exposed, it may be ceiled and side-walled with unbleached muslin held in place by deep thumb tacks. The floor may be cleaned, painted or stained, or covered with linoleum. What woodwork there is that shows may be painted also. Homemade and painted furniture may be used and made at small expense.

Another way to fix the room is to use blue denim for the ceiling, and the side walls may be panelled by using the light and dark side of the color chosen. Denim lends itself very nicely to this sort of decoration if it is tacked on firmly to the wall or the frame. Burlap is also a favorite material and it may be purchased in the natural color, then painted after it is fastened on the wall. A still newer covering is the awning cloth in rust color. It is heavier than the other materials and requires some one who understands handling it to put it on smoothly. This cloth is particularly pretty with black paint and floors.

If the attic has a boxed stairway it is wise to alter it to an open stairway as it makes a better entrance. Window seats, attractively placed shelves and good lighting adds much to the attractiveness of the studio room.

Let's Talk It Over

WHEN SANITY COMES TO A FEVERED SPIRIT.

When little Johnny comes home with a rash which you know from experience to arise from measles, you follow the treatment prescribed for measles. You do not treat the rash. You treat the fever that caused the rash.

Here's another kind of a rash. But because we know very little about this fever we view it with alarm. This womans' spirit was as truly poisoned as Johnnie's body. Space forbids printing the letter in full, but in her enumeration of the repressions of her girlhood, the iron discipline and the stored-up hatred of it, one sees the steady growth of the poison.

All these childish resentments sunk into her consciousness and into that great storehouse of impressions which we call the sub-conscious mind. The idea of children was associated in her mind with such horror that it blocked the normal mother love, and all the great accumulation of resentment and irritation against them had to be taken out on the husband and the children.

Here's hoping that the rash has gone for good, and all honor to the brave little Pal that fought it until it was gone

Can I tell you the story of what has happened to me? My mother was left a widow at thirty with seven children to raise. The youngest was thirteen months and the oldest fourteen years. I was the only girl—I was six. Of course, you can realize what mother had to do outside of earning the livelihood for us. After a hard sturggle she married again after four years.

The boys left home when they were old enough. There were lots of beatings, which did not do any good as far as I could see. I know mother couldn't find time to cultivate what I have cultivated through your little talks, patience and explanation.

Now, can you imagine anything more inhuman than my behaviour before I read your good advice and your opposition to child beating? If any of my children would ask a question or make a request I would "holler" at them and slap them and send them out of my sight. Sometimes I wished they had never been born.

Thy had been brought into the world through ignorance on my part. I fed my mind with that thought. My mother had threatened my life if I ever got into trouble before I was married, and said that she would rather know I was dead than to have such a thing happen. I kept on feeling that way and took my revenge on my babies. Sometimes I would get so mad at them I would dress up and leave them for my stepfather to take care of.

I went so far as to tell my people my husband was not making enough for us to live on. I said I had to work. My mother believed it and cared for the babies. I treated my husband terribly.

Now, since I have applied your advice, I have worked wonders. I used to detest to have my husband put his arms about me; now I am glad that he is here to do it.

Now I rejoice that I am the mother of such fine kiddies and that I have such a good husband. This is no fairy tale. I do not think I was insane. But what do you think possessed me to act the way I did?

HAPPY WIFE AND MOTHER.

Isn't it wonderful to get a letter like that And aren't you glad, Pals, that our experiences help someone else to find her happiness? Here's wishing you luck and happiness, Happy Wife, and three cheers for your pluck from Me and the Pals.

FURNISHES BOOKS FOR MISSIONARIES

Old Reading Matter Put to Good Uses by Church Organization.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—The Church Periodical Club, a unique co-operating agency of the Episcopal Church, has prepared an appeal to the General Convention of the Church at New Orleans next October for books, magazines, pamphlets, even newspapers—old and new, and on every subject,—to carry on the work which it voluntarily assumed 37 years ago.

This organization's task is to keep the mission workers of the church, especially in the out-of-the-way places of the world, supplied with reading matter. A globe-trotting lady, entering the hut of a missionary in one of these waste places some years ago, found him perched on a ladder, his head bent back, scanning the columns of an old newspaper which had been pasted over a stovepipe hole. It was the only thing he had to read. That was the inspiration for the founding of the Church Periodical Club.

In the intervening years its work has extended to every part of the world. It supplies not only Bibles, prayer books and hymnals, but scientific works, fiction, magazines, newspapers, picture cards and calendars, games, sheet music and phonograph records, all free. It maintains a score of "travelling libraries" and is practically the sole support of half a dozen well equipped permanent libraries in various parts of the world.

The particularly appealing feature of the club's work is in supplying reading material to those who are isolated in the far-off places.

The children of the missionaries are not neglected, for to them are sent the latest children's books and games.

During the past year 31,761 current periodicals from 13,009 friends of the club all over the world; 2,188 Bibles were distributed, 8,866 prayer books, 63,399 books of theological or secular character were supplied to institutions or individuals; and 521,188 old magazines and papers, 212,029 Christmas and Easter cards, 33,052 pictures and games and 9,254 pieces of music and records were put into the hands of workers all over the globe who otherwise would have had little, if any, of these diverting agencies of civilization to beguile their leisure hours.

NEW P. E. ISLAND.

A glance at a map of Canada will show two important islands, one on the west coast and the other on the east, each fitting snuggly into a space as though reserved for it, and separated from the mainland only by a narrow band of water. On the west coast Vancouver Island forms a portion of the Province of British Columbia, having united with the mainland in 1866. On the east coast, however, Prince Edward Island retains its identity and individuality as one of Canada's nine provinces, and the smallest of the group. The island is insular only in situation, however, and its aims and ambitions are on a par with those of the other portions of Canada. Its people are aggressive and determined in what they undertake, as is evidenced in the progress being made in fur farming and the growing of registered agricultural crops, the farmers of the island, by intensive operation, making the most of the limited areas at their disposal.

There is a lamentable lack of knowledge of our Island Province by the people of the other portions of Canada, however, and this condition does not lead to the homogeneity that is essential to the country's greatest progress. To promote a greater interest in Prince Edward Island and that information concerning it may become more widespread, the Natural Resources Intelligence Service of the Department of the Interior has issued a new map of the island and also an illustrated folder, the latter giving a brief outline of the province. The map is on a large scale and shows the motor roads, recreational resources, etc., and will be of great assistance in the rapidly growing tourist traffic which is making Prince Edward Island its mecca. Copies of the map and folder may be obtained from the Natural Resources Intelligence Service of the Department of the Interior at Ottawa.

Places and people connected with the early life of Sir Adam Beck are shown above. In the Upper Left is the humble home at Baden, Ont., where the late Sir Adam Beck was born in 1857. No. 2 shows Sir Adam in his younger years addressing a meeting on the Hydro power project. No. 3 shows a pond with history—a pond made at Preston by Jacob Beck, father of Sir Adam, who built a dam and a sluice gate (indicated by the arrow) through which the water poured to an overshot wheel which operated the machinery of the Beck foundry. It was here that Sir Adam got his power project inspiration.

COFFEE TASTER SELECTS GRADES FOR EACH CITY

New Position Finds Counter Part in French Wine Sipper.

DISCRIMINATING.

Regular Procedure Includes Mastication Rumination And Expectoration.

By HENRY WOOD.
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

SANTOS, Brazil (By mail to the United Press).—Thanks to the combination of the greatest coffee producing nation in the world, Brazil, and the greatest coffee consuming one, the United States, an entirely new profession has been created.

This is the job of the professional coffee taster.

While the professional coffee is purely of American origin, he can only be found in his haunts of activity here at Santos, the greatest coffee exporting port of the world.

Although the profession of "coffee taster" is no less than three years old, yet the job has something of a proto type in the professional wine taster of France, whose highly refined taste is the sole judge as to the qualities of the various wines of France.

The technique of the two, however, differs greatly.

Chews the Coffee.

The professional wine taster of France takes a small sip of the latest vintage, lets it ooze gently about the interior of his mouth, and then smacking his lips, curling his mustache, and rolling his eyes in the ecstacy of heavenly enjoyment declares:

"Que c'est bon! Que c'est exquis! C'est un vin pour les dieux."

The professional American coffee taster acts a little differently.

He dips his fist into a sack of green coffee in one of the great warehouses of Santos; takes a mouthful; chews it in a manner that makes one think of the bombardment of Verdun; ruminates a bit; and then expectorates the whole thing in very much the same manner as caused the tobacco chewers on the Ohio river steamboats to get on the sensitive nerves of Charles Dickens at the time of his American tour.

Once the masticated coffee has hit the ground with a certain "ker-floop," the American coffee taster pronounces his judgment; and his judgment is as irrevocable as those of Solomon and as unchangeable as the laws of the Medes and the Persians.

"That coffee will go for Missouri," he declares.

Then he dips in another sack; masticates; ruminates; expectorates.

"That coffee is what is wanted for San Francisco," he announces oracularly.

"And that is good for Chicago."

Coffee Loading.

Then after the professional American coffee taster has selected the quality of coffee that goes in every city and every part of the United States, according to the local taste and the manner by which the latter has been modified by the more or less strict enforcement of the Volstead act, the patient warehouse foreman push electric buttons and the most wonderful and complete machinery in the world for loading coffee is set into motion.

From vast warehouses extending for blocks and blocks back of the wharves underground endless belts carry the coffee sacks down to the wharves where they are dumped onto other endless belts running for miles along the wharves and from these onto still other hoisting endless belts that mount them up above the decks of the great ocean liners from every part of the world and then drop them into the ship's holds.

ADVERTISING DID IT.

Wrigley's Gum Put Before People By Huge Expenditure of Money.

Wrigley, the chewing gum man has explained how he built up a business of millions of packages a day.

He has done it by sticking to his one line and advertising it. He spends over a million dollars a year in buying newspaper space to tell the world about 5 cent chewing gum. He has educated people to chew gum and to chew Wrigley's. He did not stop shouting as soon as he attracted attention.

He says you must keep it up or the buyers will forget you. Whether yours is a 5 cent or a $50,000 business, keep telling about it.

THE IDEA OF WIPING THE SLATE CLEAN, IS CALLED A BARE AND EMPTY IDEAL

There is a Much More Full and Helpful Aim in Life in the Following of the Road Ahead Clearing Up Its Obstacles on the Way.

Some one described the theory of the clean slate the other day as a very bare and empty ideal.

It is the idea of turning over a new leaf, starting all over again, ignoring the past.

And this speaker didn't entirely approve of that.

His theory was not to wipe the slate clean, but to correct it, and wipe out the mistakes as you go along.

A bare and empty ideal is not one by which you could guide your life.

Starting fresh is necessarily starting without ideals and working them up as you go along, for you have nothing on which to pattern or shape them.

A clean slate, a new leaf, a fresh start are all empty, bare; clean, yes, but bleak, blank, cold and shallow.

Wiping the slate clean as you go, correcting the mistakes of the old leaf before you turn it over and relegate it to past pages of history means more than just saying, "I've made some awful mistakes; I've done wrong; I'm thoroughly sorry, and from now on I'm going to do differently."

Oh, much more!

It means going back mentally perhaps, or it may require actual retracing of steps over the rough places and the bad spots and repairing them before you even dare state your intention of changing your methods.

There are not only apologies to be offered; perhaps there are reparations to be made.

There are definite things to be done which should have been done long ago.

Ideals grow out of a distaste for conditions, qualities and state of mind as much as they do out of a knowledge of the better state that you are aiming for.

When you have no picture of what you don't want or like your state of mind is very much like the remark of the comedian, "Well, how can I make it without any flavor if I don't know what flavor to make it without?"

It's an empty ideal.

Sometimes it seems as if there were too many of those dislikes and distasteful conditions to clear up.

They seem to be such obstacles in the road ahead that little or no progress is possible, and the way is slow and hard.

Cleaning them out and starting fresh seems the only way to get ahead at all.

But they are the steps by which progress is made in improvement.

With each mistake that is remedied each tangle that is smoothed out, each bad condition that is bettered, there is a step forward.

And the idea of the goal and ambition is one step's worth better.

At the start this goal may be just a surface, just a shallow appearance.

But as more is learned of how poor this is and how fine its opposite might be the ideal gains depth, becomes broader, takes on a solidity and realness that makes it less a dream than a definite future.

In a way, it would be cowardly to wipe out everything that needs fixing up and start all over again.

It would be like children who with the score woefully against them, and all their luck entirely out, stop the game and say, "Lets call off this game and start a new one. I think that would be more fair."

They aren't game, they aren't good sport.

They have no idea of fair play, no ideal of "carrying on."

But everybody cheers for the team or the individual that comes out from under a bad score, refusing to admit defeat and wins through to victory.

That's the full, broad, deep solid ideal, not wiped clean of every spot but with every spot made into an interesting design, not bare and empty of experience but with every error turned to account.

We learn by mistakes and we yearn through the discomfort or inadequacy, or ugliness or misfitness of existing conditions, for their opposites in that destination to which the road ahead leads, if we will just have the patience to follow it.

GOOD DRIVERS NOT TROUBLED BY ACCIDENTS

Authorities Say That Reduction of Hazard Rests With Individual.

PRIDE MAY ACT

Good Driver Handles Car According to Conditions Governing Himself.

One of the greatest problems before the motoring public of today is traffic regulation and the reduction of accident hazards. Many authorities agree that the solution must rest with the individual driver, but to date most efforts to enlist his support have taken the form of compulsion, threat, laws, rules and prosecution. These may decrease accidents to a certain extent but unless the individual driver wants to help to decrease accidents by adopting means to that end, there will be no great decrease.

Pride can be made to act where law fails. All the police and law in the world cannot stop automobile accidents, any more than they stop a man eating in a restaurant with his elbows spread so wide he knocks over his neighbour's coffee cup with disgraceful results. It is the man's desire to show the world he knows how to eat that causes him not to have accidents in a a restaurant.

It is the same desire that restrains a man from forcing his way down a sidewalk crowded with school children, knocking them right and left.

Any driver knows that good drivers do not have accidents. The good driver handles his car according to conditions and when there is doubt he governs himself and his car accordingly.

Exceptions can be made to the declaration that "good drivers do not have accidents" but a small fraction of today's accidents can be attributable to legitimate extenuating circumstances.

ECONOMY AND INDUSTRY HAVE AIDED BELGIUM

Work of Repairing War Havoc Financed From Two-Thirds of Own Resources.

Belgium with characteristic thrift and industry is determined on setting her finances in order, and her persistent and unrelaxing efforts to this end have already produced results. A survey of her public finances since the armistice, compiled by the Foreign Information Department of Bankers' Trust Company of New York, will furnish proof of her financial strength and of her will to make full use of it. The work of repairing the havoc done the country during the war—it must be remembered that Belgium was completely occupied during four and a half years and was economically at a standstill in all that period — has been financed to the extent of two-thirds out of her own resources, and in the budget for 1925, the entire service of the loans raised for this purpose, involving an annual charge of a billion francs, has been transferred to the ordinary budget and will be met out of ordinary revenue, that is, revenue from taxation. Increasing revenue by taxation is one of the features of Belgian finance. In 1913 Belgian taxes stood at 351 million francs, in 1921 they had risen to 1,460 million francs, and in 1925 according to the published estimates, they will be increased to 3,540 million francs. Direct taxation alone is now 16½ times greater than it was in 1913, or, if calculated on the basis of gold values, approximately 4½ times more.

This increase in revenue through taxation, coupled with the disappearance of capital expenditure for reconstruction, an event which appears probable within the next two years, will finally enable Belgium to cover the deficit in her budget, which for the current year, 1925, shows estimated revenue aggregating 5,698 million francs, and expenditures 6,470 million francs, or a deficit of 772 million francs, as compared with a deficit of 1,645 million in 1924 and of 2,394.9 million in 1923.

The expenditure incurred by the government in respect of reparations up to December 31, 1924, is estimated at more than 20 billion francs, of which 13 billion were devoted to the reconstruction of public and private property, 5.7 billion francs were used to pay off contributions levied during the war and for interest on loans contracted for reparation purposes, 726 million francs were paid for costs of the Army of Occupation and the balance for expenditures incurred before the armistice and recognized by the Treaty of Versailles. A further expenditure of 1.5 billion for the reconstruction of private property is still to be met, and of this amount it is hoped that 870 million francs will be provided in 1925 and the balance in 1926 out of reparation receipts from Germany accruing under the Dawes Plan, so that commencing with 1927 it will be possible to apply all receipts from that source to the reduction of the public debt.

On September 30, 1924, the public debt of Belgium consisted of internal loans aggregating 32,035,000 francs and external loans incurred since the armistice to the amount of approximately 2,317,231,000 gold francs, which multiplied by five would make the external debt 11,586,158,000 francs on a currency basis or a total public debt of 43,621,158,000 currency francs. Before the war her total public debt was 5,000,000,000 francs.

Estimates of the national wealth recently made by Dr. Fernand Baudhuin the Belgian publicist, are nearly double the previously accepted figures of the pre-war wealth of Belgium. Mr. Baudhuin, as the result of a very careful study of all the statistical data, places the national wealth of Belgium just prior to the war at 50,945 million gold francs. Therefore, the pre-war debt was just about 10 per cent of the national wealth. A careful consideration of all the changes which have taken place in the items which go to form the wealth of Belgium leads the Bankers' Trust Company to conclude that the present day wealth of Belgium, if expressed in pre-war gold francs, would be about the same figure arrived at by Mr. Baudhuin for 1913. If we multiply this figure by five because of the fact that prices in Belgium are now about five times what they were before the war, we arrive at an estimate of the public wealth of Belgium for today, expressed in currency francs, of approximately 255,000 million francs, of which amount the public debt of about 43,621,158,000 francs, of which amount the public debt of about 43,621,158,000 francs would be say, 17 per cent.

FOUR POINT FOUR AIDS TEMPERANCE

Say Stratford Officials in Discussion With U. S. Committee.

STRATFORD, Aug. 25.—(Canadian Press).—Ontario's new 4.4 beer came in for considerable discussion last evening, when the special committee of the United States Congress met with a number of civic officials and prominent men of the city to discuss its effect on the temperance situation. The committee was headed by Congressman Grant M. Hudson, of Michigan, and other members of the committee are Wayne B. Wheeler, Washington, D.C., and W. V. Wallman, of Detroit. They were told by Chief of Police J. L. Broadley that the effect of 4.4 beer here had been to reduce bootlegging and to make the people more satisfied. He stated, however, that in his opinion the beer was not strong enough to meet the situation, and quoted the fact that there had been a trebling in the number of home brew permits issued in the city since the new beer had been sold. Dr. J. D. Monteith, M.L.A., also gave his opinion that the new beer had relieved the situation, pointing out that the number of convictions under the O.T.A. had dropped considerably.

At the time of the seizure at Rouses Point diamonds worth $40,000 were found in a box of candy in Kreppel's trunk. The two men arrived in Montreal from Amsterdam on May 30.

NEW INTEREST IS SHOWN IN MAPS

Tourist Trade Has Increased Usefulness of All Maps in General.

The Canadian government, through the Natural Resources Intelligence Service of the Department of the Interior, isues a number of maps which have been and are of great value in promoting the settlement of the land and in increasing the commercial activities of Canada's business interests. In a young and growing country geographical and economic maps are essential. In Western Canada practically all settlement is carried on by means of maps for which purpose the above service has issued the series of Homestead Maps. These show the location of the lands and their disposition, as well as other features that may enhance or detract from its value.

In foreign trade economic and geographical maps serve a most useful purpose.

In foreign trade promotion, maps serve a useful purpose. Owing to the immensity of Canada's area, importers of Canadian goods require to know something of the country where these are produced. In a letter received recently by the Natural Resources Intelligence Service of the Department of the Interior from a firm in Cuba, the writer in thanking the Service for maps supplied on request, says:

"These maps will be of great service to me, as I represent and maintain business relations with a number of New Brunswick firms. I have many shiploads of New Brunswick potatoes throughout the Island of Cuba, and it is my aim and intention to maintain and increase by business in products from New Brunswick."

Trade Commissioners and British Consular officers in foreign fields, immigration officers, and freight and passenger officials of the railways make use of maps to a very great extent in their work and many thousands are supplied by the Natural Resources Intelligence Service for this purpose.

The tremendous growth of motor tourist traffic is due in no small measure to the provision of road maps; this use of maps also has done much to increase interest in maps in general. The above Service has recently issued a road map of Canada showing also the connecting highways in the bordering states. An enormous demand is reported for this map from across the line.

Maps constitute a wonderful educational feature and a few minutes of intensive study of the Canadian map will reveal much interesting information concerning our vast areas and will repay the time given to it.

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 25—(United Press).—The Prince of Wales is showing marked signs of fatigue. As a result, he failed to participate in a deer drive and other sports arranged for him on a nearby estate, begging to be excused that he might rest. FRENCH REVENUE NEAR TWO BILLIONS

Not Inclusive of Postal Returns Which Go in Separate Budget.

Government revenue from all sources in France totalled 1,896,681,000 francs for the month of June, not including receipts of the postal administration, which are credited to an entirely separate and independent budget.

Out of the above total of 1,896,681,900 francs, normal and permanent revenue, according to advices received by the Bankers' Trust Company of New York from its French Information Service, accounted for 1,811,120,300 francs instead of 1,893,137,200 francs in May. The balance of 85,561,600 francs collected last June under the heading of exceptional resources, was produced by the sale of war stocks, revenue from the tax on excess war profits, fines and miscellaneous items.

Among the items that go to make up normal revenue, direct taxes during last June, yielded 185,557,900 francs, showing a decrease of 357,892,300 francs as compared with the same month last year, while returns from indirect taxation and Government monopolies which constitute by far the largest part of France's budget on the credit side, aggregated 1,613,561,000 francs, and showed a decrease of 52,741,000 francs over June, 1924.

Total receipts of the French Treasury for the first six months of the present year amount to 13,608,021,100 francs, out of which normal and permanent revenue accounts for 13,071,984,000 francs. This sum exceeds normal revenue collected during the same period last year by 1,312,450,900 francs.

Questioned as to the possibility of his becoming Governor-General of Canada, Haig stated that it would be a very high honor to be offered that post.

RADIO SCANDAL IN AUSTRALIA

Message Attacking British Policy Broadcast—Complicates Oriental Tangle.

LONDON, Aug. 24. — A strange broadcasting scandal concerning the Queensland government station was revealed here in messages from Melbourne.

It appears that the station broadcast a message to the effect that the Conservative government in Britain is determined to play a lone hand in the orient and that the Washington treaty will not be put into effect by its signatories, owing to the attitude of Britain, who is determined to nullify it.

"It is evident," the statement proceeded, "that the British government has decided to resort to arms to uphold British financial interests and all available warships and troops are being mobilized. The British financial interests have demanded that they be protected regardless of the views of the customs commission. Britain imagined herself strong enough to call a "showdown" and this will force other powers to take her side. The array of nations will probably be Britain, France, Italy and some minor powers against China, Russia and probably Germany.

Strict Inquiry.

Premier Bruce stated immediately after being informed of the message that he would institute inquiries and steps would be taken to prohibit the broadcasting of inaccurate statements. As the postmaster-general reserves the right to censor all wireless messages this should easily be possible.

Meanwhile the question is being asked who is responsible for the broadcasting of the Queensland message. Queensland is governed by Labor, although the party in that state has always been moderate or at worst of the pink variety of radicalism. It is thought, therefore, that the statement must be the offering of some ardent individual charged with the distribution of news that it may have been a hoax played on the operator. The story has, however, added a minor complication to that already existing over the Chinese situation, which is growing more serious every day. Chamberlain is obviously perplexed as to how to act in the matter and losses to British trades are increasing enormously so that the latter are crying out against the government for its inactivity.

BUS COMPETITION TO GET CONSIDERATION

UNITE TRADES UNIONS.

LONDON, Aug. 25 (Canadian Press)—An attempt by extremists to mould British trade unionism into a fighting organization which can throw the weight of organized labor into the scale in support of the claims of individual unions, will be made at Scarborough, at the annual meeting of the Trades Union Congress in mid-September.

The Widow Appears as a Powerful Factor in Politics

Careful students of things political have lately noted a new and unusual factor in the business of running countries. It is the entrance into politics of the widows of men who died in harness.

You may say that sentiment is the cause of the whole thing, if you like, but the fact remains that those women who have stepped into their husbands' shoes have proved themselves singularly well-fitted to carry on the public duties which they undertake.

In Canada, there is only one example of this recent trend in government. Mrs. Mary Ellen Smith, widow of Hon. Ralph Smith, former minister of finance in British Columbia, was elected to the provincial house to fill the vacancy caused by her husband's death.

That was in 1916. She might have been speaker of the legislature but she declined the honor. She wanted a cabinet post and she got it—the first woman cabinet minister in the Dominion.

In the United States there are a good six examples and also six good examples. Mrs. Mae Nolan and Mrs. Julius Kahn, both of California, succeeded their deceased husbands in Congress and when Congressman Mason of Illinois died, his daughter, Mrs. Winnifred Mason Huck, was elected in his stead.

The most recent and one of the most widely noted is Mrs. Edith Nourse Rogers, widow of a New England congressman and the first woman representative from that part of the United States. She herself had never been an ardent suffraget in the past and had seriously considered that type of career for herself before his death.

But she won her seat on merit, not sentiment, according to the editorial comment following her victory at the polls.

Senator Medill McCormick, senior Illinois congressman and an outstanding legislator, died only a few months ago. Shortly after his death, the report was current, and is still undenied, that his widow would be chosen to fill the next vacancy.

At the present time, there are constant reports that Mrs. Robert Lafollette will succeed her fighting husband though, in this case, it is probable that she may prefer to hand over the candidacy to her son, Robert LaFollette, jr.

MODERN CHAMP HAS BUSY TIME EVADING FIGHTS

With Exception of Harry Greb All Pugs Busy Dodging Bouts.

TOY WITH PASTIME

Dempsey Shelves Wills Battle in Effort to Prolong Issue.

By HENRY L. FARRELL.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—(United Press).—Jack Dempsey's refusal to fight Harry Wills and Mickey Walker's diligent flight from Dave Shade emphasizes the sorry lot of champions that are now holding titles.

Even one who dislikes to hear old-timers speak disparagingly of the current crop of fighters must agree that, as a whole, the present champions are nothing to boast about.

With the one exception of Harry Greb, the middleweight king, there is not a single champion that is disposed to defend his title or take any kind of a chance without being clubbed into it under the threat of an enforced exile from the fruitful orchard of New York.

You begin to realize what credit belongs to Greb when you pick up a paper almost any day and read where Greb fought some place last night and that he's going to fight some other place as soon as the train can get him there.

Greb is not only making money out of his industry, but he is keeping himself in condition by fighting, and that is one of the reasons why he is beaten so seldom.

Jack O'Brien and other veteran critics have said that Greb, in their opinion, compares favorably with all his predecessors with the exception of Bob Fitzsimmons, who had more of a punch.

Those who do not think that Greb is a great fighter can be stopped with the question—"If he is not a great fighter, why does he always win?"

Charley Rosenberg, the bantamweight champion, ought to be eliminated from the list of punk champions. Perhaps it cannot be said now that he is a worthy champion, but on the other hand, there is no reason to say that he is not. He hasn't had the chance to prove himself yet and his ultimate rating depends on what he has done after he has had the opportunity.

Frankie Genaro probably is a first-class champion is a very small and rather poor class. Genaro stands high because there is no one in the flyweight division to put him to a proper test.

There is no argument though that can be used as a defense for the mediocre class of the other champions.

* * *

Since Dempsey flatly refused to accept the challenge of Harry Wills until July 4 next and encouraged the belief that he never will fight again, you will hear a lot of sympathy expressed for the negro challenger.

It is regretable that in any discussion of the heavyweight situation, the critic who wants to pass judgment on Wills must start out with the explanation that his color has nothing to do with it.

Wills, we believe, has been more successful in the boxing game as a negro fighter than he would have been as a white man, because the New York Boxing Commission has given him every kind of a break to forestall any accusation of racial prejudice.

Dempsey probably has been unfair in his treatment of Wills, but the New York Commission certainly has not.

It is doubtful that any outstanding white heavyweight would have been permitted to fight the set-ups that Wills has met in the past three years and to evade the efforts made to match him with good men.

Wills has made a fortune as the logical contender for the title by meeting such low raters as Tut Jackson, Clem Johnson, Bartley Madden, Kid Norfolk and Charley Weinert, and during the same period of his prosperity he refused to fight George Godfrey, Tom Gibbons, Gene Tunney and others.

In evading first-class men he has refused as flatly to prove himself the real contender for the title as Dempsey has failed to prove that he is the best man in the class.

The New York Commission never would grant Dempsey a license to fight any of the set-ups that Wills pushed over, and if a champion is forced to fight first-class opponents it would seem in fairness that a challenger should be recognized only by the class of opponents that he met.

There were shouts of derision when feelers were broadcast to get the public attitude on a match between Dempsey and Harry Greb. The disparity in weight and physical dimensions would make it no contest, it was protested.

There wasn't a word of complaint, however, when Wills fought Kid Norfolk. Wills had more weight and size on Norfolk than Dempsey has on Greb and Greb is twice the fighter that Norfolk was when he fought Wills, because courage is one of Greb's most commendable virtues.

With the passing of Tom Gibbons and Jeff Smith, the list of prominent boxers who had never been knocked down or knocked out was reduced to none. Before Gibbons was stopped by Gene Tunney and before Smith was knocked out by Tony Marullo, neither had ever been off his feet before.

IN POLICE COURT.

A local man, William Rose, was sent down for one month by Magistrate O. A. Langley in the Police Court this morning, the offence being a theft of oats from a neighbouring farmer.

Both accused and his wife took the stand and denied the charge but the Magistrate upheld the evidence of the prosecution and found accused guilty.

After the first case was disposed of Rose was brought back again and peaded guilty to ill-treating a horse for which offence he was sentenced to 10 days with the option of a $10 fine with costs. His Worship gave Rose some very pertinent advice regarding the necessity of improving his future conduct.

BOAT TO LINDSAY RETURN BY TRAIN

The Last and Most Delightful Trip of the Season to Lindsay by S. S. Stoney Lake.

(By Frank Russell.)

Monday was the last—at least for this summer season—of those delightful trips, viz., outward bound by steamer to Lindsay, the passengers returning to this city by special Canadian National train.

The Start.

As usual this trip was made by the staunch little steamer "Stoney Lake," with Captain Scollard in command, assisted by his capable and attentive crew.

And as usual, Commodore "Jerry" Young, the managing director of the Stoney Lake Steamboat Company, was in attendance at the wharf to see to the comfort of his passengers, and he again welcomed the arrival of the vessel at Lindsay.

At 7.35 the last passenger was aboard and the mooring ropes were cast off at the George street wharf, and ere long the steamer was passing through the Ashburnham lock. The lift lock was then negotiated, the lift occupying only two and three-quarters minutes in the ascent, and the voyage was continued through the canal.

The Weather

Was simply perfect, a cloudless blue sky, and a lovely sun together with a refreshing breeze, gave indications of the sort of day we might expect, and verily no one was disappointed; for it was a perfect day. At many points in the canal the foliage was beautiful, the contrast between the leaves of the sycamore, so transparent and yellow, with the sun behind them and the apparently new shoots of the spruce fir being very noticeable, while the branches of many seemed to feather down to the surface of the water, like good Samaritans extending their arms so that any unfortunate drowning person might save himself by their assistance. As I have before said the sky was clear and the day brilliant and the sunshine on the dark, slightly tinged foliage of the oaks and through the almost transparent leaves of the maples had a delightful effect.

The Trip Up the Canal

As may be well imagined under such conditions the trip up the canal to Lakfield was truly enjoyable. At almost every turn some pretty vista view burst on the absorbent eye. A certain amount of excitement was afforded to some of the many strangers on board, by the lowering of the steamboat's smoke stock to admit of passing under the road bridge to the north of the liftlock. The actual time occupied in the ascent of and the clearing out of the liftlock was just about ten minutes, yet there were some who complained at the delay which they estimated at half an hour!

By ten o'clock we were in the lock at Lakefield, where we were joined by some passengers; we had also taken some aboard at the Ashburnham Lock and also ....MORE ..MORE ..MORE .. he lift-lock; more joined us at Lakefield wharf, so that by that time we had about one hundred and seventy-five souls on board. This number gave plenty of room to walk or sit about without the slightest inconvenience. There were, as usual, some children on board, but they were extremely well behaved and gave no trouble to their elders.

Up the Lakes.

Leaving Lakefield wharf at 10.20, we entered the Katchawanooka lake, and steamed up to Young's Point, where a new lock and dam are being constructed. Then we passed through Clear Lake into Stoney Lake, which is to the writer's mind the prettiest lake of this aggregation of lakes. It is more diversified, with its numerous wooded islands and summer cottages, together with the rocky islets with which it abounds than the other lakes. At 12.5 we entered Burleigh double lock and passed through into Lovesick Lake. Then was heard the welcome sound of the dinner bell, and right merrily a number of us flocked into the saloon to partake of the good and acceptable fare offered. Others attackled their respective dinner hampers.

The Afternoon.

After dinner some wished for a dance, consequently a rather pretty young lady, a Miss Alexandra Johnson, kindly volunteered her services and presiding at the piano played a number of dance tunes, which were very much appreciated.

Buckhorn was reached at 1.30; then a pleasant run took us to Bobcaygeon, through the Buckhorn reached at 3.40, we entered the reache dat 3.40, we entered the Sturgeon Lake, arriving at the mouth of the Scugog Rvier at 5.35. Supper was then the general order of the day.

By this time as the days now materially shorten, the lean, regretful fingers of the declining sun — that old rone of the heavens, who has cast his yellow wreath into the laps of so many generations of gold diggers—the amorous fingers of the old sun, the oldest of lovers lingered in caresses across the smooth bosom of the river "forever warm and still to be enjoyed, forever parting and forever young." (This paragraph is for the older generation; the younger generation will probably skip it). Beside the graceful curves and smooth surfaces that trembled under the hot sunlight like a young girl, eager and unabashed, but restless and quivering under the ardent gaze of her first lover, the green fringes of the woods trailed like a silk garment beside the bed of the river. The diamonds, sapphires and gold that sparkled on the breast of the water were the gift of the sun. The air, warm as the blood of youth, was heavy with a late summer fragrance and filled with restlessness and desires.

The End of the Trip.

At 6.15 we were welcomed at the Lindsay wharf by Commander Young. Railway passes were issued to the voyagers to carry them back to Peterborough by a special train leaving Lindsay at 7.10 p.m., and it left sharp on the dot, and arrived in the city at 7.45 p.m., only a journey of 35 minutes, a fast run. Everyone had thoroughly enjoyed themselves for the day had been just perfect, and everything had gone off without a single hitch. Personally, I, who have taken this trip many, many times do not remember ever having had such an enjoyable time.

The sun had not set and the warm gray of a summer twilight lay over this city when we approached it. Oh the persuasive sweetness of a summer evening, the sharp, delicate fragrance that is loosed when the first dew falls and the perfume of reviving flowers. And that thought struck me when we landed at that beauty spot, that garden at the C. N. R. station, which I was glad to note had received the prize at the recent floral competition.

The car that put the War in Warren

JIM WARREN bought a car—the "Ginger-bread Six."

Never heard of it before, but he happened to be walking along Automobile Row and during a lapse moment his foot slipped—he stepped inside

"Nifty boat," said the salesman.

"Not bad," said Jim, as paint and doo-dads got in their hypnotic work.

"But why isn't it advertised?" asked Jim.

"Don't need to advertise a job like that," was the forearmed reply. Sounded logical. But—

Six months later Jim had a collection of bolts and grease-cups and broken springs and disjointed steering mechanism and a motor that almost ran.

"Never again!" said Jim. "The car that's little known and never advertised hasn't much responsibility; little to live up to. Before I buy another car—or another anything—I'm going to get the facts. I'm going to read the advertisements about automobiles—or whatever I'm buying."

Advertisements are an invaluable guide to intelligent buying. Read them regularly

Bankers and Lockworks Battle to 4-4 Tie Last Night.

PLAY THURSDAY.

In the first game of the Mercantile League playoff series, played at Riverside Park last evening, the Bankers and Lock Works played seven innings and finished on even terms, the score standing 4-4. Some very smart plays on the part of both teams accounted for the close score. In the third inning the Lock Works bunched three hits and were assisted by two Bankers' errors, and accounted for 3 runs.

Irvine Bailey, for the Lock Works, with a double and A. Baird for the Bankers with 3 singles, were the heavy hitters.

Art Armstrong pitched wonderful ball for the Bankers, retiring 14 Lock Works batters via the strike-out route.

The second game of the play-off series will be played Thursday of this week at Riverside Park at 5.15 p.m. sharp, when the same teams will resume hostilities again.

EXCITING LADIES' GAME TO-NIGHT

Toronto Girls to Meet the C. G.E. Girls at Riverside Park.

The ladies' soft ball game at Riverside Park this evening, between the Danforth team of Toronto and the Peterboro C.G.E. girls' team should prove a treat. The visitors have one of the snappiest teams in the Queen City, where the ability of the local girls to play fast ball is widely recognized. The clash between the two should be full of thrills. The Danforth girls and a squad of supporters, the party numbering about 40 in all, are travelling to Peterboro via motor bus.

Arrangements have been made to entertain the visitors at a banquet after the game which will start at 5.45 o'clock sharp.

GOVERNMENT WON'T CHEAT CANADIANS

G. N. Gordon Explains Immigration Policy—Labor Competent to Advise.

TORONTO, Aug. 25 — "Many people today are crying for unrestricted immigration into Canada but the policy of the government has been, and will continue to be, to bring into this country only those for whom we have employment," declared Hon. G. N. Gordon, deputy speaker of the House of Commons, in his address at the gathering of Centre-East Liberals at Scarboro Beach on Saturday afternoon.

'It would be unfair to laboring Canadian citizens and to organized labor to bring hundreds of thousands from the bankrupt countries of Europe to cheat Canadians out of their jobs," he continued. "We favor British immigrants before those of southern Europe, for we want citizens of Anglo-Saxon stock who will assimilate with the least difficulty in our country."

Speaking further on the immigration policy of the government, Mr. Gordon declared that the administration was encouraging farmer immigrants but they were not in favor of bringing more for the industrial centres until Canada was able to absorb all the labor that is available at the present time.

"The government has been accused of going to the Labor leaders for advice but there is no one better able to advise on questions of immigration than the Labor leaders," declared the speaker.

SPORT GOSSIP AND COMMENT.

The Petes will leave for Kingston via Canadian National tomorrow morning, determined to trim the Ponies in the second game of the play-off, and thus tie up the series. The team will practice tonight at the Exhibition Grounds, owing to Riverside Park being in use, and they should be fit and ready for the big test tomorrow. The game will commence at 4.15 o'clock standard time, and Kingston expects the biggest crowd on record.

Peterboro broke even with Ottawa yesterday in the "Kids" League double header at Kingston; the Rotary team, Peterboro's Bantam representatives, smothering the Ottawa youngster 31 to 1, in a sudden death O.B.A.A. Bantam game; while the Royals lost out to Ottawa, 6 to 3, in the Midget series. Royals were under a disadvantage, as the game was played on a Senior diamond, instead of the regulation Midget diamond, such as has been played on by the Royals all season, and as called for by the O.B.A.A. rules.

The biggest crowd that ever saw a ladies' ball game in Peterboro is expected to be at Riverside Park this evening, at 5.45 o'clock, when the local C.G.E. Girls' team will clash with the Danforth Ladies' team of exhibition of softball. The Toronto Toronto in what should be a great girls are travelling to Peterboro in two big motor buses, bringing 40 people with them, and they are confident of victory here. The Peterboro team, however, is in good shape and should give the invaders a merry battle. The visitors will be banquetted after the game.

Heavy Trading In Everett Featured Dull Mine Market

TORONTO, Aug. 25.—(Canadian Press).—Trading on the Standard Mining Exchange was somewhat quieter this morning, transactions numbering 152,175 shares. Everett featured the market with heavy sales and declined 3-8 to 7 7-8. Trading in Tough Oakes was also heavy, with an advance of 1½ points to 40. Argonaut declined 3-4 to 30, and Dome Mines also dropped 15 cents to 14.15. Vipond was two points lower at 118, while Castle Trethewey made an advance of three points to 105. Mining Corporation was four points higher at 260 and La Rose one point up at 44.

Decrease In Volume of Trade On Toronto Market

TORONTO, Aug. 25.—(Canadian Press).—A further decrease in the volume of trade was shown on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning, and the tone changed to an almost wholly downward trend. A feature of the session, however, was the strength of Canada Steamship issues—the Preferred advancing two points at 48 and Common a point at 12. The leaders were all marked down slightly, Brazilian 3-8, F. N. Burt 1-8, Canada Bread Common 5-8, and Consolidated Smelters a half point. The latter two opened firm. Canada Bread B Preferred sold up to 95, then receded at the noon close for a net gain of 3-8 at 94 3-4. Dominion Stores sold firm at 55¼.

Lower Prices In All Grains After Opening

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—(Canadian Press).—There was a large liquidation of wheat, corn and oats, shortly after the market on the Board of Trade opened to-day, with commission houses with north-western connections selling September wheat. Values dropped to more than two cents below Monday's close within half an hour after the opening, and many stop orders were caught the way down. Weather reports of high barometer and low temperatures in both the American and the Canadian North-West served to strengthen the market, however, a little later, and it rallied slightly. Wheat opened ½c up to 5-8c lower, with September 160¼ to 160½, and December at 159 to 159½, but September delivery soon dropped to 158½. Corn prices suffered from the liquidation. After opening ⅛c up to ¼c lower, with September 100 3-8 to 100½, a break carried September corn to 98¾c before a rally ensued. Prices then hovered around the low figure.

Oats opened unchanged to 1-8c with September at 38 7-8 to 39c, but soon suffered a fractional drop.

Provisions were lower.

Profit-Taking Failed To Halt Upward Trend

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—(Canadian Press).—Profit-taking, probably inspired by the marking up of call money rates, slowed up but failed to halt the upward movement of the Wall Street market, which continued to display remarkable absorptive power throughout the morning. Further evidence of an over-extended short interest in some issues was supplied by a rapid advance in Chrysler, which extended its early gain to 11 points by touching a new peak at 136. Chrysler Preferred, Mack Trucks, Sears Roebuck, Fay Department Stores and Baldwin extended their early gains 2½ to 4½ points. Allied Chemical was bid up briskly to a new top on reports that the Preferred stock would be retired and the dividend on Common increased. The effects of the gasoline price-cutting war in the East and Middle-West were first felt in Pan-American B, which dropped nearly 2 points before noon. Additional new 1925 highs in the rail group were recorded by 'Frisco Common, Seaboard Airline Common, and Preferred, and Western Maryland Common.

Call money opened at 4¼ per cent. and then advanced to 4½.

HIS GREAT MISTAKE.

TORONTO, Aug. 25.—(Canadian Press).—That the late Sir Sam. Hughes, about the year 1916, was offered a place on the proposed board of three men, to direct the war strategy of the British Empire was the statement made by Dr James L. Hughes, brother of the late Canadian War Minister, according to a Toronto report to-day. Dr. Hughes has just returned from a trip to Europe. Dr. Hughes further remarked that in his opinion his late brother's refusal of a position on the board was the "greatest mistake that Sir Sam. made in the war."

RADIO SCHOOLS NEXT.

Former Minister of Education Urges Schools to Get Sets.

LONDON, August 25 (United Press).—School teaching by radio is one of the prospective developments in education in Great Britain.

H. A. R. Fisher, former minister of education, urged the introduction into the public schools of wireless equipment recently, and his suggestion is today being followed up by other educators.

"If we had radio in all our schools" said Mr. Fisher, "pupils would have the benefit of the lectures of the best teachers in the country. Instruction that is now given in only the most exclusive schools would then be available in the smallest country school house. This would lead to a general improvement in education."

For the education of pupils to appreciate the best sort of music he said, the radio should prove invaluable in the schools.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

"The Miracle Man" is a miracle play. Probably never before has Peterborough had so enthralling a story depicted on the silver screen, carrying so much of moral, so much of real love interest, and so vivid picturization of life in crookdom and in high places. "The Miracle Man" must stand out from the ordinary run of screen stories because of the galaxy of artist-stars in the cast; because of its lesson, and for its beauty in setting. Here, in one picture, are Lon Chaney, remembered by Peterborough audiences for his wonderful presentation in "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," talked of for weeks; Thomas Meighan, whose name is known to every screen fan; Betty Compson, the winning, clever, bewitching actress whose skill is seen at its best in this picture; J. J. Dowling, and several others as well known. In "The Miracle Man" is seen the triumph of the good that is inherent in all over the evil that is super-imposed. The story is enacted in beautiful surroundings, the restless sea washing up to the rocky base on which is built the pretty home of the miracle man. The color effects are wonderfully exact, and those who love beauty in screen effects will find much to gratify their desire.

As though to gild the lily, the Capitol management has added for the first part of the week an attractive presentation by the "Two Scots" of a short, snappy, dialogue and song turn. John Smith and Robert Hendry, the latter aptly named the "Harry Lauder of Peterborough," have won well merited praise as entertainers, and they are at their best on the Capitol stage. Included in their numbers last night were "Canadian Girls," by Bob Hendry; "Hundred Pipers," by John Smith, and "We've Had a Lot of Trouble" as a duet. Their jokes and local "hits" drew great applause.

"Felix" the cat is his usual spicy self, proving conclusively, if in a somewhat irregular manner as viewed by scientists, that monkeys come after men, and not men after monkeys. A side-splitting comedy rounds out a programme that would be difficult to equal for its catering to all tastes and its completeness in presentation.

The Feature Picture.

"The Miracle Man" is the story of a party of crooks, designing to capitalize the reputed ability of the patriarch of a small village to effect cures of the hopelessly deformed and lame. Lon Chaney depicts "The Frog," deformed, evil of countenance, and apparently perverted of mind, in a way that conveys the impression of reality. How he leads the procession of lame and ailing to the patriarch, pretends his own cure in order to inveigle from other trusty ones their money, and how he stands amazed as the impossible happens, is acting in its highest form. Thomas Meighan, as Burke, leader of the crooks, is Meighan at his best, and Betty Compson as Rose is a beautiful and bewitching partner.

Coming to ridicule, they remain to revere; planning to capitalize in cash the reputed power of the aged recluse, they find their infirmities of body and soul falling away before his wonderul power, until finally the good in them prevails and the old man's work is accomplished.

There is enough of wholesome comedy in the picture to offset the more sombre and touching tones, and altogether it is a well balanced and well-pictured story of supreme attracting power.

AT THE ROYAL.

"MARK OF ZORRO."

Undoubtedly his Best, Gives "Doug" Wonderful Opportunities.

Those who were fortunate enough to witness Douglas Fairbanks in "The Mark of Zorro" his fourth production for the United Artists that was exhibited to a capacity crowd yesterday at the Royal theatre, reported with that feeling of satisfaction that they had seen by far the best picture in which the vigorous "Doug" had ever appeared.

It can readily be seen that he has spared no expense in the assurance of creating the best there is to further the cause in entertainment. While excessive expenditure may not be the apex of a successful picture, yet in the Fairbanks' case we can surely see it as a criterion.

Here is a strong romance, containing love, action and humor, predominating for five full reels. We are given a very vivid insight of the times when the grandees ruled sunny California during the last century before its acquisition into the union. In this picture "Doug" has put more thrills and excitement before our view than he has ever done before. In it we see a replica of the City of Los Angeles as it was a century ago.

The "set" probably must have been constructed at an enormous cost involving many thousands of dollars. Thus the rich background afforded the audience an unusual opportunity to note what California resembled when it was ruled by romance and rapiers. Due to the most diligent and careful research work conducted by the Fairbanks organization that was only arrived at after the most cautious deliberation, we are able to perceive the exactness of the customs and picturesque atmosphere prevailing during those times.

The plot is most mystifying from start to finish. The love interest, though powerful, is not as great as the mass of new feats "Doug" is called upon to perform in this vehicle. These stunts, apart from being thrilling, have a tendency to provoke great laughter.

We clearly can see how "Doug" attains his secret ambition. From that we have come to realize that his satisfaction in winning is one of the most primitive of good feelings. The mere overcoming of obstacles does not suffice. It is not necessary to conquer in order to feel the pulse of self respect. One must play fair at all times. It certainly goes back even to the prehistoric man who successfully clubbed his rival and took away his pelf.

So for centuries evolution has been developing in man lust of success and courage. It appears as if Fairbanks appears to be endowed with that human energy that seems to put forth not merely the intention of of producing a motion picture but in a more accurate sense he accomplishes that which fundamentally adds something to the sum of mankind's happiness.

CRICKET SCORE IN BANTAM GAME

Rotary Bantams Score 31 Runs Against Ottawa in Playoff Game.

PLAY TORONTO NEXT

Thirty-one to one would seem more like a rugby score than a baseball score, but that was the score of the Bantam O.B.A.A. game in Kingston yesterday between Rotary of Peterborough, and Kiwanis of Ottawa. And the Peterborough boys had the 31, while the 1 went to Ottawa. As it was a sudden death game, Jack Deannard's boys move into the next round.

The game was a walkover. It lasted only seven innings, but those seven were plenty for players and spectators alike. The Rotary boys made 25 hits off three pitchers. In the third inning every man, but two, batted twice and thirteen runs were counted. In the fifth, sixth and seventh, the team batted round.

The Ottawa boys were simply outclassed. They were able to make but four hits off Crary, and made 13 errors behind their hurlers. Their only run came with two out in the seventh, when Tapp walked, stole second, took third on Starr's bad throw and scored on Gilliard's hit. The fielders were caught out of position time after time by high flies that should have been easy outs, and showed far less judgment in taking their positions.

There were no stars on the Rotary line-up. Every man hit the ball hard and often, while only two minor errors were chalked up against them. Cuffe, with a homer, a triple, a double, and two singles in six times at bat, was the leading batsmen, but the others were not far behind. Crary also contributed a homer, a triple and a double, while Starr had a triple. The Ottawa pitchers were small lads and could do little more than lay them in, as if for batting practice, which suited the local boys to a "T." Shore drives that just cleared the infield composed the majority of the singles, while the extra base hits were good solid clouts.

One run, on one hit and an error, was the first innings quota. The second produced the same result. The third saw Blondin's departure from the mound, after ten hits and six errors had been fittingly closed by Cuffe, who hit for the circuit with two on.

Tapp moved in from shortstop and tossed them for two innings. In the fourth the damage was slight, being two runs and four hits. In the fifth, the Rotary boys batted round, scoring five runs on three hits and four errors.

Purdy, the second baseman, then took up the burden for the Capital City, and he fared equally hard. In the two innings he pitched, six hits and four errors, combined with his own wildness, were enough for nine runs.

Two fast double plays helped keep the score sheet bare of Ottawa runs in the first six innings. The Peterborough boys made a number of nice stops and throws. The outfielders didn't have a chance, although they covered the ground nicely, holding the Ottawa hits to singles. Cuiuk, March, and Purdy were the pick of the Ottawa lads in the field.

With a good lead amassed, Manager Deannard gave his subs a chance to get in the game and they fitted in nicely.

FONTAINE TAXI TEAM DEFEATED

Chemong Cottagers Ran Up Score of 14-4 in Softball Game.

The Chemong Cottagers last night defeated Fontaine's Taxi Service in a game of soft ball in Jopling's Field at Chemong Park.

A large number of spectators turned out and were treated to a fairly good game. Both teams fielded well but the Cottagers had a big margin in the hitting. They hit the ball hard and often and quite a number of long distance hits were secured of Scates, who was on the mound for Fontaine's. Carruthers did the heaving for the Cottagers, and turned in a great game. He was given great support by his teammates.

Bill Lundy at short and Oxley at third turned in great fielding exhibitions for Fontaine's. Lundy made some great stabs at short and turned in some of the feature plays of the game. Dr. Long on first and Brahama at second turned in good ball for the Cottagers while their outfield got everything, not making a single slip.

The feature play of the evening came in the ninth inning when Fontaine's started a belated tally. With two out they filled the bases. Corkery was sent in to bat for Rutherford. He caught the first ball pitched right on the nose and it looked like a sure homer, but Mowat in right field started on the sprint after the drive and nailed the ball just as she was about to clear the fence. It was a wonderful catch and it retired the side.

The Cottagers had no real hitting stars, everybody taking a good wallop at the ball and all collecting at least two hits each. McClelland with a homer and Long with a triple were the long distance sluggers. Bill Oxley, with four hits in five times up, and Withers with two in five were the hitters for Fontaine's.

The lineups:

INSIDE GOLF.

By CHESTER HORTON

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

The farther back you take the club the more difficult is the timing. By the reverse rule, the shorter you swing back the easier is the timing. When you swing a mashie, for instance, back and forth easily, with a total swing action of a couple feet or so, the timing is so easy you don't even think about it. Timing is the knack of getting the clubhead to the hitting spot at precisely the right instant—in perfect unison with hands, shoulders, body and the natural acceleration of the clubhead. When you swing the clubhead away back you are almost certain to lunge at the ball with the body. It is impossible to hit the ball solidly this way, since the body is hitting rather than the clubhead Sometimes you do seem to hit the ball squarely this way, only to see it skid away to right or left. The body push, putting the body ahead of the clubhead, causes this misdirection of the ball.

ROYALS LOSE BY LISTLESS PLAY

Peterboro Midgets Were Off Color in Game With Ottawa.

ON BIG DIAMOND

Royals, of the Peterborough Midget City League, were somewhat decisively beaten in Kingston yesterday afternoon, when Ottawa Loyola Midgets came out on top by the score of 6 to 3. The game was a sudden death affair and the Ottawa boys will move on into the next round, unless a protest should be entered because the game was played on a 90-foot diamond, in opposition to the O.B.A.A. rules. The Ottawa tteam apparently thought that Mr. Wyllie's word was more essential than the O.B.A.A. rule book, and Mr. Kennedy of Kingston, who had charge of the arrangements, admitted that he had no knowledge of the subject himself, but had laid out tht diamond according to instructions.

Pitching sixty feet, for a pitcher who has pitched fifty all season, is a difficult feat, and Buster Goodson, the Royals' little southpaw, found the strain too much for him. Howden relieved him when his arm gave out in the second, and had difficulty in locating the plate at the longer distance.

Aside from the difficult conditions, the Royals failed to show the heads-up ball that won for them against Oshawa. Errors were frequent and play was listless. Opportunities of scoring were wasted, while their opponents though out-hit, were on their toes all the time and took advantage of every chance.

The Royals won the toss and took the field. The Ottawa boys started right away. Lynch got a hit, stole second and went to third when Hollingsworth was throwing out Bennoff. Galarnieu tapped to the box for an out, but Lynch was able to score, due to slow work. Another run came in the second after Spry had dropped Gardner's fly. Goodson's arm gave out and Howden took up the burden. He was wild and after Ralph had sacrificed, wild-pitched Gardner home.

Another came in the third. Lynch was safe on Reynold's error. Bennoff forced him and went to second when Hollingsworth made a wild throw for a double. A wild pitch and Hammel's single sent him in. In the fourth, as usual, the Ottawa boys counted one, when Ralph walked, stole second and came in on Purdy's single and Hope's error.

For the first time the Royals counted. Hatton singled and stole second. Mackli's throw was wild and Hatton took third, to score on a wild pitch.

The Ottawa gang missed in the fifth, but came back in the sixth, when an error by Spry, a stolen base, a wild pitch, and a single put Purdy across. They repeated in the seventh on a walk to Bennoff who was forced by Galarnieu, two stolen bases and a single.

In the eighth, the locals made a brave bid for the honors. After Beavis had struck out, successive singles by Hollingsworth, Hatton, Reynolds, and Hall sent in two runs. With two men on, Galarnieu tightened up and struck out Spry and Wilson. In the ninth, with two out, Beavis hit his second double and stole third on the fourth ball to Hollingsworth, who immediately stole second. Hatton lifted a long fly and Bennoff made a fine catch.

Eighteen strike-outs by Galarnieu put a crimp in the Royals' chances. When his infielders made a pickup, the throw was usually wild, but Purdy on first saved them many errors by fine catches.

Smith and Arniel of Kingston were the umpires. Arniel, who catches for Kingston Seniors, was good; but Smith, behind the bat, was not good. He let Galarnieu get away with two steps for several innings, until Arniel called the matter to his attention, and when Mackli's glove hit Beavis' bat, refused to call it anything but a strike, instead of giving the batter his base.

Robert Carmichael, the prominent half-back of the Thistle, was given permission to revert back to the juniors into the C.P.C. by the Senior Executive Board, and wished him every success.

After many years of good and faithful service to the Senior Soccer Board in the city, Vincent Stewart intimated his resignation, to take place immediately, owing to business reasons. Vince was a member who always expressed his view without any favoritism and "abide-by-the-rule" advocate.

An interested spectator at the Gordon Cup final was Stewart McMillan, who played with the Caledonians, C.G.E. and Thistle a few years ago. He has given up taken any part as a player now. We wish him a pleasant sojourn in the city.

A very interesting junior tussel takes place on Saturday afternoon between North Dummer and Canadian Packing at King Edward Park. Kick-off at 3 o'clock. Referee, Frank McKinley.

Draw for the Turner Charity Cup resulted as follows:

First round—Masseys vs. C.P.C.

Semi-finals—Masseys or C.P.C. vs. De Laval; Dummer vs. Warsaw.

All the Junior League fixtures will be completed within the next two weeks, and according to the standing, the Dummer boys have the best chance to win the championship if they win the remaining two games, while if C.P.C. wins they will be one point behind.

The New Throw-In.

It is stated that referees have been instructed to penalize any player who rises on his toes when throwing-in the ball.

This is in consequence of the deletion of the last sentence of the law which stated that any part of both feet on the line complied with the law. When the new proposal is incorporated it will state that the player must stand on the ground behind the line, etc., etc.

Seeing there is evidently ambiguity in some minds, I have made inquiries at the association headquarters, and I am informed that there never was any suggestion of debarring a player from rising on his toes.

In point of fact, ere the last sentence was deleted, the International Board satisfied themselves that it was quite unnecessary, the same purpose being served by including the words "standing on the ground." I agree.

Surely a player who rises on his tiptoes is still standing on the ground. If it is the case that such an instruction as I refer to has been given to referees, perhaps those who issued that instruction will say how it could be argued that he is not standing on the ground, and thereby complying with the law.

DEMPSEY LOSES GRASP ON IDEALS WHILE STALLING

Fandom Respect Won By Fighting Champion Lost Now.

WALKER TOO.

Beating by Greb Causes Him To Duck Signed Agreement.

By Henry L. Farrell.
(United Press Sports Editor.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 25 (United Press.) — There is nothing sensational in the collapse of a hero in the sporting world because it is dogmatic that fans build up heroes just to tear them down and that they take as much pleasure in the assassination of a king as they do in his coronation.

The circumstances attending the downfall of a popular hero are sometimes surprising as they are in the cases of Jack Dempsey and Mickey Walker. The speed with which they were transformed from two most popular ring champions to a pair of the most discredited boxers in the ring was almost amazing because it happened almost over night.

Jack Dempsey was treated patiently during the five years he avoided the challenge of Harry Wills because the fans had faith in him as a great champion and they believed that there were political objections that would interfere with a mixed battle for the heavyweight championship.

As soon as the New York Boxing Commission, exerting all the pressure at its command, tried to force the champion to accept the negro's challenge and failed, there was nothing else for the public to conclude but that Dempsey was afraid to fight Willis.

Regardless of what opinion a personal friend might have about Dempsey's reasons for delaying a fight that would be worth perhaps a million dollars to him, the public now believes and is making public demonstration of the belief that Dempsey has not fought Wills because he has been afraid of him.

Hisses filled several Broadway movie houses recently when a news film was shown picturing the arrival of the champion and his wife from Europe, and he was hissed later when he was introduced from the ring in Los Angeles.

* * *

Where the constituted authority of the State of New York failed to get Dempsey into action, the hostility of the public may urge him to defend his title because he is very sensitive. Although he seldom gives any outward expression of his feelings, he has always been hurt by criticism.

* * *

The downfall of Mickey Walker, in the estimation of the fans, came under circumstances almost identical, and it is singular that Dempsey and the welterweight champion should have happened to be under the management of Jack Kearns at the time.

Walker, when he took his title away from Jack Britton, was just as popular as Dempsey was when he beat Jess Willard at Detroit and the fans believed him when he sang his song: "I'll be a fightin' champion!"

He was a fighting champion until Dave Slade came along with a challenge and then he began to find reasons for evading the lone contender of any class in the division.

Walker said that he did't want to fight to a decision in New York unless he could have a voice in the selection of the officials. He said he did not want to appoint the referee, and the judges but that he would like to name several that he didn't want as officials. There were reasons to support his contentions at the time because several loose decisions had been made—perhaps through inefficiency—and Benny Leonard as well as several other prominent fighters, told friends that they wouldn't risk their titles on the judgment of a butcher or a truck driver.

Walker fought Harry Greb for the middleweight championship on the same card with Shade and Slattery, but to have a suspension lifted he had to sign an agreement and post a forfeit of $10,000 that he would accept the Shade challenge after he had fought Greb.

Walker received an awful pasting from Greb and was almost knocked out in the 15th round—a round during which the strange words got on the radio at the ringside: "Don't put me away!"

The beating that he took from Greb and the brilliant form that was shown by Shade in stopping Slattery evidently caused Walker to forget his signed agreement and to pass up $10,000 to make his title secure. The fact that Shade showed he could make the weight and be strong may have had something to do with it.

Under the circumstances there is nothing to conclude but that Walker is afraid of Shade and that he will go to the extreme to avoid him.

Since ducking out of his signed agreement Walker has done nothing but make himself ridiculous.

His efforts to get a match with Gene Tunney caused fans to question the mental condition of Walker and Kearns. When he could not beat Greb he could meet nothing but annihilation from Tunney.

It would be interesting to hear what Kearns and Walker would say if Charley Rosenberg, the bantamweight champion, would challenge Walker.

Our doubts are traitors
And makes us lose the good we oft might win
By fearing to attempt.
—Shakespeare.

MANY IN SPORT FOR THE MONEY

Some Professional Men Are Not in Love With the Game.

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Aug. 25 (United Press).—There is so much bunk written about the lives of professional baseball players and boxers that it is refreshing to hear an occasional hero come out and tell the truth about his business.

The first line written about a new ring champion concerns the great love that he has for his mother, as if love of a mother is so unusual that it should be worthy of comment.

The next line always concerns the way the fighter started in his racket and it always tells the same story. He was brought up in the tenements where he had to fight the bully of the block or stay in the tenement and that he took up professional fighting because he liked it.

Filial devotion isn't considered so extraordinary in baseball that it should be featured in writing about a hero of the diamond, but the big star always got his start on the corner lot and succeeded in getting to the top because of a consuming love for the grand old national pastime.

* * *

It is refreshing to hear a nice, mild-mannered youngster like Charley Rosenbert, the bantamweight champion of the world, tell the truth about his purpose in becoming a professional fighter.

"I didn't have to fight as a kid, and I wasn't born in a tough tenement district," Rosenberg says: "I took up fighting because I thought it was the quickest way for a boy with a limited education to make money. I'm staying in the boxing game just for a stake. I'm not in love with the business and I want to get out of it as soon as I have enough money to set me up in a good real estate business. Ive got a little money now and I'm already building up a business. I'm going to save my money and I won't have any regrets when I'm through."

* * *

Another who blasts popular romance that is painted around a baseball hero is Earl McNeely, the young outfield star of the Washington Senators, whose hit won the last world's series against the New York Giants.

McNeely admits thet he has no consuming love for baseball and that he is in the game purely for business reasons. He wasn't born with a baseball in his hands. He didn't play on the sand lots and didn't play at all until he was nineteen years old.

"When I had a chance to play professional baseball," he says, "I went into it only because I wanted to get a bankroll. I took a course in civil engineering and worked some in a bank, but found out that those who succeeded quickest in any profession were those who started out with a bankroll, and it is the old bankroll that I'm after."

* * *

Abe Goldstein, even when he was the bantamweight champion, never admitted that he liked the professional ring. He, too, said it was the big money that came quick that started him in the game and is keeping him there."

* * *

There are some baseball players and some fighters who really love their professions, however.

No one ever will dispute that Babe Ruth does not love baseball. He shows it in every action.

There never will be any doubt that Jack Britton or Johnny Dundee are all wrapped up in boxing or they would have retired long ago.

Britton has plenty of money but he is still boxing. He made $25,000 last year in bouts fought here and there around the Pacific Coast that caused little notice in the east. The money angle has no connection, however, because if he hadn't been fighting for a purse he would have been working out in a gym.

"That fellow never will be able to stay away from the gloves," Dan Morgan, his manager for years, said recently.

* * *

It is always interesting to hear the answer of a man associated with professional sports when asked what profession he would prefer for his son.

Commissioner Landis was asked once if he would recommend baseball for his son or any youngster and he declined to answer.

Tom Gibbons was asked once if he wanted any of his five fine little fellows to take up boxing and he replied—"You know better than that, don't you?"

* * *

Recently, Leo Flynn, who has been connected most of his life with the boxing game as a manager and who has the largest stable of fighters in captivity, was asked what line of sport he would recommend for a youngster.

"Well," he replied, without much deliberation, "if I had a son I would put a golf club in his hands when he was five years old and I'd keep him at it. I think it is the greatest of all games.

"It offers the opportunity for physical development and promotes good health. It furnishes ideal environment for a youngster and then if the money angle is to be considered, a good golfer can always make money."

Ed. Walsh, one of the greatest pitchers of all times, has two fine sons coming up. One is at Notre Dame—a most promising football and baseball player, and the other is prepping for Notre Dame.

GIANTS JINXED BY LONG TRAIN OF MISFORTUNE

Every Infielder on the Team Has Suffered Injuries.

BALL TOO LIVELY

Ban Johnson Says Poor Pitching Causes Hitting Increase.

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—(United Press).—John McGraw has been through too many campaigns with his New York Giants to cry about bad luck or to alibi his failures but if he loses the National League pennant this year he could blame the loss on bad luck.

It is not of record that any championship team ever suffered the succession of injuries that wrecked the regular lineup of the Giants from almost the very opening of the season.

Every infielder on the team has been out of the game for a part of the season and Frank Frisch, the sparkling captain of the team, was laid up twice with fractured finger bones.

McGraw learned years ago that injuries were misfortunes of baseball that had to be taken as they came and he has always kept in mind the importance of reserve strength, especially since the introduction of the lively ball, which has made life so much more hazardous for pitchers and infielders.

Before the season started, many smart critics picked the Giants to win their fourth consecutive pennant because McGraw has a team of star regulars and another team on the bench that was almost as good. Nothing, it was pointed out, but an extraordinary run of bad luck could disable the team.

McGraw had plenty of reserves and it was a good thing that he had taken the precaution to recruit a number of first class substitutes otherwise the team would have sunk into the second division.

It is true that the Giants played some very bad baseball on their last western trip, but even a team under the lash of McGraw could not help but become discouraged with such a continuous run of bad luck.

You can imagine what would have happened to the Washington Senators last year and this year if they had so many injuries as the Giants had this year. You can figure, too, what would have become of the Pittsburgh Pirates this season if they didn't have their full strength in most every game and you know how the Cincinnati Reds fared early in the season when they were having a run of bad breaks.

The Athletics had some bad luck when Joe Hauser, a star first baseman, hurt his knee and had to go out for the season and when Sammy Gray, who had won nine games in a row, broke his hand and had to sit on the bench for months. But no team in the league had as many serious accidents as the Giants.

The return of little Dicky Kerr to the Chicago White Sox after his exile in the semi-pro provinces was welcomed by all fans who admire fair play.

Little Dicky, one of the few players who remained faithful when the "Black Sox" sold out in the 1919 world's series and one of the many underpaid stars that were on Charley Comiskey's payroll at that time, was forced out of organized baseball when the club refused his demands for a slight increase in salary.

When the "Black Sox" were tossed out of professional baseball, Comiskey had to buy a new team and if he tried to get a pitcher of Kerr's ability and loyalty he would have been forced to pay at least $50,000 for him.

Yet Comiskey refused to give Kerr a raise that might not have amounted to $20,000 over the stretch of his active career.

Comiskey always can be held partially to blame for the treason of his players because he didn't pay them enough salary to hold their loyalty and to strengthen them against the temptation of some easy money.

Kerr never should have been allowed to get out of the American League and now that he is back it is to be hoped that he will be as good as he was in 1919, and that he will get some of the good breaks that he deserves.

Ban Johnson, president of the American League, lines up with the magnates who claim that no changes have been made in the ball for the purpose of encouraging long distance hitting in the major leagues.

"Poor pitching," he says, "is to blame for increase in hitting. The good pitchers do not have trouble with the ball."

Johnson said he would not support the suggestion of the National League that pitchers be allowed to use resin next year under the supervision of the umpires.

HELEN WILLS IS TENNIS VICTOR

U. S. National Champion for Third Straight Year—In Doubles, Too.

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Aug. 25—Helen Wills flashed a racquet of magic power across the centre court of the West Side Stadium yesterday. With it she turned back the challenge of Kathleen McKane, ace of British women players, and won the national tennis championship for the third straight year in as spectacular a title match as has ever been witnessed.

The 19 year old girl did not retain her laurels without a struggle. She lost the first set to the slim British star but came back after that to sweep her rival aside.

An hour later Miss Wills returned to the court to play a dominant part in carrying off her second title, in the doubles final, which she won with Miss Mary K. Browne by defeating the veteran team of Miss Elizabeth Ryan and Mrs. May Sutton Bundy in an all-California battle. The scores of this were 6-4, 6-3.

Miss Wills not only rose to her greatest heights yesterday in overcoming Miss McKane, but in the glow of her victory cast aside the mark of reserve that has been one of her principal characteristics for a burst of girlish enthusiasm. Tossing her raccquet aside she "jumped for joy" as a shout from the gallery apprised her that the final and deciding point, which she had believed an error, was a placement for her instead.

Never before has Miss Wills shown such a rare combination of power, generalship and pluck as she did Monday in first checking her rival's early advance, then putting her to rout with astonishing decisiveness in the final two sets.

Desperately as she tried, Miss McKane could not check the hurricane power behind the champion's strokes or solve the baffling change of pace. In little more time than it had taken for the entire first set alone, Miss Wills had swept through the remaining two to victory, allowing her opponent only two games and twenty-four points.

COLLEGE STAR GLINTS IN BUSH TILL IT GLOWS

Players Fail to Make Jump From Campus to Big Time.

FANNED OUT

Must Bust Fences for Proper Development of Faculties.

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Aug. 25—(United Press).—Even with the more advanced coaching systems that are being established in the big colleges, the college player does not seem to be any better equipped for a quick trip to the major leagues that he was years ago.

With such a demand for good young players managers are inclined to have more patience with a college player and give him a better chance than he would have done in the days when ball players were cheap and when college boys were known as rah-rahs.

Yet under auspicious conditions, very few of the players who have the advantage of four years' instruction and coaching from a former major league player are able to hold down a big league job without going through the mill in the bushes.

The outstanding college players of the year were the two Holy Cross stars, Owen Carroll and Gautreau; Eddie Farrell, the Pennsylvania shortstop and Charley Caldwell, the Princeton football and baseball star.

Carroll was ranked as the greatest college pitcher ever developed. He lost only two games in the four years that he pitched for Holy Cross and many major league scouts said if there ever was a pitcher that was ready for fast company, it was Carroll.

But he failed to make good with the Detroit Tigers, a big scoring club that should be comparatively easy to pitch for. Carroll said it was just the difference between the amateur game and the professional game and that he had been bothered by the signal system. He had a chance to make good eventually, however, unless he becomes discouraged.

Gautreau, second baseman, was rated next to Carroll as the big star at Holy Cross. He went to the Philadelphia Athletics when he graduated but he had very little chance because Connie Mack could not afford to experiment in a hot pennant race with a minor leaguer on first base and a college player on second. Waivers were asked on him and the Boston Braves claimed him. He has been used regularly and Dave Bancroft thinks he will develop into a major league star.

Eddie Farrell had all the major league scouts looking over him for two years when he was playing with the Pennsylvania University nine and the New York Giants landed him. He reported to the club just when it was almost wrecked by injuries and he was ordered to play shortstop his first day with the club and he has been used more or less as a regular ever since. He is a capable fielder but he can't hit up to McGraw's demands.

Caldwell also was recommended by several major league coaches and the New York Yankees signed him. Miller Huggins took a few looks at him and said he wouldn't do. He turned out to be a rather expensive experiment as he cracked Wally Pipp on the head with a wild pitch during batting practice one day and sent him to the hospital for two weeks.

The most promising collegian who has come up since Frankie Frisch is Lou Gehrig, the former Columbia star, who is playing first base for the New York Yankees and hitting like a seige gun.

Gehrig had to bust the fences for a year in the minor league before he could handle a regular job for Huggins.

He was always a great hitter, but he was an awkward fielder and it took a lot of patience on Huggins' part to correct his faults.

Gehrig gives just as much credit for his development to Billy Evans, the popular American League umpire, as he does to his manager.

Evans used to watch him when he was umpiring on the bases and when he saw him do something wrong he would correct him. He told him one day: "Young fellow, you won't last long up here when they find out that you pull your foot off the bag before you get the ball." He has never made that mistake since then.

Although it is not generally known to the fans, there are a number of umpires in the major leagues who take a similar interest in coaching young players and they are in a better position to see the little fielding faults of a player than a manager in the dugout.

While managers are complaining about the small number of good players in the minor leagues and the exorbitant prices asked for those who do not look like major league prospects, the crop of youngsters who came up last season and this season has been nothing to kick about.

Cuyler, Moore and Wright, with the Pittsburgh Pirates, are three of the best players developed in years, and it is rare that any one club can get such a harvest.

Among other good young players ae Combs, of the Yankees; Hafey, of the Cardinals; Lamar, Simmons and Cochrane, of the Athletics; Rice, of the Browns; Zitzmann of the Reds, and Brooks of the Cubs.

WEDDING BELLS.

O'BRIEN—BURKE

The wedding in the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception, Kingston, on Monday morning, of Bridgie, eldest daughter of Mrs. M. E. Burke, and Marcelle, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. O'Brien, of Ottawa, was one of the prettiest events of the midsummer season. The pretty bride was charming in a frock of shell pink and orchid georgette, with two-toned poke hat of the same materials draped with narrow ribbons. She carried a bouquet of Sweetheart roses and shaded sweet peas. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Leo. Power, of Sarnia, a cousin of the bride. She was given away by her uncle, Mr. Ignatius Burke. Miss Helen Burke, gowned daintily in pale pink, was her sister's bridesmaid, while Mr. Vincent O'Brien was his brother's groomsman. Gounod's "Ave Maria" was rendered beautifully during the ceremony by Miss Mary Gratton. At the home of the bride's mother on Clergy Street, a dainty luncheon was served following the ceremony and the happy couple left for Toronto, Hamilton and Ottawa, the bride travelling in a smart ensemble suit of rosewood crepe and handsome fox fur, the gift of the groom. On their return Mr. and Mrs. OBrien will take up residence in the Brock Apartments. Both are well known in Kingston and to hundreds of friends elsewhere, whose best wishes will follow them. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. O'Brien, formerly of Peterborough.

CAN. GENERAL ELECTRIC GIVEN BIG QUEBEC ORDER

ELECTRIC TRAIN TESTED HERE MAY CHANGE TRANSPORTATION OUTLOOK OF RAILWAY WORLD

Lakefield Line Used in Trial of New Canadian National Product.

SAVES FUEL COST.

Runs at 2 Cents a Mile—Steam Costs 20 Cents With Same Load.

On the invitation of Alpine McNab a number of Peterborough citizens enjoyed what may yet prove to be an epoch making trip on a new type of car which if it fulfills all the high hopes entertained concerning it will revolutionize railway traffic all over the world.

The train which consists of a car and a trailer is driven by a 4 cylinder 200 hores-power oil fuel engine directly connected to an electric generator which furnishes the motive power. Entirely an Empire product the coaches were built at Point St. Charles by the Canadian National Railway and the engines by the British Thomson Houston Company of Rugby, England.

Attempts have been made in the States to make a gasoline electric railway car a commercial success, but the oil fuel electric car marks an entirely new departure, the car that visited Peterboroguh today being the only one of its kind either here or in the States. Seven similar cars are being built at Point St. Charles, and two others of a somewhat larger type, which will be run in different parts of the country.

With the object of giving the engine a practical test on ordinary conditions, the journey was undertaken

Young Men Beat Girls Who Repulsed Advances

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 26. — (Special by United Press).—Detectives are scouring Newark today for two modern Don Juans, who beat one of two young women who refused to promenade with them.

Miss Dorothy Kist, 24, of 370 Washington Street, Newark, told the police that when she and her sister repulsed the advances of two flirty youths, one of them slapped her face and then kicked her "right under an electric light."

Women's Hats Graded By Sizes Like Men's

LONDON, Aug. 26.—(United Press).—The almost universal practice of bobbing and shingling has resulted here in the grading of women's hats by sizes.

The same plan of grading used in men's hats has been adopted, but a new size—5 3-4—has been created, which is smaller than any men's size made regularly.

This, it is stated by manufacturers, is because women's heads are smaller than men's. However, they are also making a size No. 8—but this is for women who have still retained their lengthy tresses.

Sub Which Sank Lusitania Blown Up on Danish Coast

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Aug. 26.—(Canadian Press).—Another drama of the World War ended yesterday at Veilby Beach, on the West Jutland coast, when the German submarine U-20, credited with the destruction of the Lusitania, torpedoed and sunk off the Irish coast, May 7, 1915, with the loss of 1,206 persons, was blown up to-day by order of the Danish Admiralty.

MUST LEARN U. S. DEBT ATTITUDE

Franco-British Conference Can Go No Further in Agreement.

OFFER £10,000,000.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—(Canadian Press)—The Caillaux-Churchill debt negotiations yesterday reached a point where the Chancellor of the British Exchequer declared it to be imperative to learn the attitude of the United States towards the Franco-American debt before proceeding further with the attempt to reach an Anglo-French agreement.

Caillaux held many conferences yesterday. He dropped his previous attempt to get Britain to accept a large share of the Dawes receipts, and offered ten million pounds a year, regardless of the German payments. Churchill reduced the British demand to fourteen million pounds a year, conditional, however, upon the United States not exacting more than this from France.

PREMIER DENIES REPORT OF NEW MEN IN CABINET

"Product of Pure Imagination," He Says of Report of Differences.

LYONS TO STAY.

Will Not Drop Two Before Seeking Second Term of Office.

TORONTO, Aug. 26.—(Canadian Press). — "Just a product of pure imagination" was the terse assertion of Premier Ferguson when asked regarding the report that two members of the Provincial Cabinet would be dropped before the Government goes to the country after its first term in office. Mr. Ferguson's comment referred more particularly to that portion of the report which stated that, because of Cabinet disagreements upon timber policies and because of numerous complaints reaching the Government concerning Northern Ontario affairs, Hon. James J. Lyons, Minister of Lands and Forests, would be relieved of office. The other reported change in the Cabinet was a successor to Attorney-General Nickle, who, the report said, was generally believed to be the likely choice of the Government for the Hydro Commission chairmanship.

Shiloah Man of 79 Returns To Wed First Wife He Divorced Forty Years Ago; Second Is Dead

ORLAND, August 26.—A unique wedding took place at the home of George Mutton in the Shiloah neighborhood, about five miles west of here last Monday. Forty-one years ago Mr. and Mrs. Robert Powler were separated, he going to Ohio, where he obtained a divorce from Mrs. Powler, and married again. A son of this second marriage is now 30 years of age. Some years later Mr. Powler's second wife died, and last week he returned to Shiloah and renewed acquaintance with his first wife, who remained unmarried, bringing up an only daughter who was 12 years of age when her parents separated. The re-acquaintance resulted in the re-marriage of the couple. Mr. Powler is 79 years of age, and his bride of forty years ago and of to-day is 75.

Canton Action Violates Treaty, Say Experts, But Retaliation is Withheld.

SENDING JOINT NOTE.

Use of "Big Stick" Methods Would Affect Reception Given Message.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—(Special by U. P.) — Although legal experts have reported to Austen Chamberlain, secretary of foreign affairs, that the Chinese ban on British shipping at Canton clearly violates the existing Anglo-Chinese treaties, the British government has decided on a cautious policy and is awaiting some overt act before taking any retaliatory measure.

Long Note.

Coupled with this information comes the announcement that various outstanding questions between China and the powers interested in the republic will form the subject of a long note to be presented through the diplomatic body at Peking. It is stated that an agreement reached by this country, the United States and Japan, that the three documents which originally were to have been separate: (1) The answer to the Chinese demands following the Shanghai shootings. (2) The warnings to the Central Chinese Government to put its house in order, (3) The answer to the Chinese invitation to the extra territorial conference, shall now make up a joint combination. Whether there is any connection between these two pieces of information was not stated officially, but diplomats here point out it is obvious that the reception of a joint note would adversely be affected should it be preceded by an attempt to apply "the big stick" methods. Regarding the situation in Canton, the Britishh representatives there report to London the coastal traffic, :1) Which for three months in the year can navigate the river from Hong Kong to Canton, has not yet been interfered with, as the Hong Kong strike has already tied up most of the smaller craft it appears there has not been a test case under which the new Canton regulations have operated.

Peterboro Branch Shares In Making Electrical Units

Aluminum Plant Awards First Contract For Preliminary Installation—Will Give Employment For Some Months and Further Development is Expected to Follow.

LARGEST EQUIPMENT OF ITS KIND.

TORONTO, Aug 26 (Canadian Press).—One of the largest contracts for electrical equipment placed in Canada for some time has been awarded to the Canadian General Electric Co. by the Aluminum Company of Canada for their new plant at Chute a Caron, Quebec.

The order covers 18 synchronous converters, each of 3,600 k.w. capacity; 12 high voltage step up and step down transformers, each of 25,000 k.v.a. with a primary voltage of 154,000 volts, and 10 transformers, each of 7,500 k.v.a. capacity.

The converters will be the largest units of this type in Canada, and interesting features are incorporated for starting any of them automatically.

The high voltage transformers will have both the greatest capacity and the highest primary voltage of any transformers in this country.

This equipment will be manufactured in the plants of the Canadian General Electric Company in Toronto and Peterboro, and will provide considerable employment for Canadian labor for some months. The plant of the Aluminum Company will be one of the largest industrial developments in Canada and is expected to ultimately require electrical apparatus of many times the capacity of the equipment covered by the present order. Power will be developed at the company's water power on the Saguenay River capable of developing approximately three quarters of a million horsepower.

UNIONS DIVIDED ON PROPOSAL OF ONE BIG UNION

Scheme is Represented as Red Effort to Control Unions.

COOK ATTACKED.

Sponsor of Scheme Draws Sharp Criticism From Miner Leader.

LONDON, Aug. 26. — (Canadian Press).—A division of opinion has arisen among British trade unionists over the proposal to be submitted to the forthcoming Trade Union Congress providing for the formation of a great industrial alliance of all unions representing 5,000,000 workers.

A. J. Cook, general secretary of the Miners' Federation, is the main sponsor of the proposal, which is represented in the press as an attempt to capture the unions by Reds. The scheme is already meeting with opposition.

Meanwhile Cook is in bad odor with some of his trade union colleagues. He has especially fallen foul of G. A. Spencer, Labor member of Parliament for Broxtowe, and one of the leaders of the Nottinghamshire miners. The two men have exchanged sharp letters.

Spencer charges Cook with being less concerned with the cause of the miners than with the gratification of his own "ambitious egotism."

The best of the trade unionists, Spencer adds, are disgusted with Cook's revolutionary utterances and his statement, in the commoner's opion, reveal "a mind diseased with inflation of its own exaggerated importance."

A. J. Cook recently sprung into prominence through his success in negotiating a favorable settlement of the miners' dispute with the operators.

CITIZENS AND MINERS MEET

First Move in Hazelton, Pa., To Arbitrate Anthracite Dispute.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 26.—The first move to aribtrate the wage dispute in the anthracite coal fields got under way yesterday.

Miners and operators were to meet separately with a citizens' group in Hazelton, Pa. The miners were to appear yesterday and the operators to-day.

The invitations to leaders of both factions to attend the arbitration conference were presented by John H. Uhl, tobacco manufacturer, of Wilkes-Barre, chairman of the citizens' no-strike committee.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, accepted the invitation on condition that the meeting be open to the public. Lewis said the meeting would be attended by the full scale committee. Major W. W. Ingles, chairman of the operators' scale committee, also accepted the invitation to appear before the citizens' group and said he would be present Wednesday. As both factions turned their attention to developments at Hazelton, cities in the east began to take stock of their coal supplies and otherwise prepare for a strike on September 1.

No Shortage.

Coal dealers in New York city announced there was no need to fear an immediate coal shortage, as there was a six weeks' supply available should coal shipments cease at once. Heavy buying was reported throughout the metropolitan area.

ATHLETICS FOR WOMEN VIEWED WITH CONCERN BY AUTHORITIES

Prominent Citizens of Peterborough Look Upon Feminine Invasion Into the World of Sport With Mixed Feelings Of Concern.

NO GAME TOO ARDUOUS.

"Costumes affected by modern girls in the field of sport are apt to excite disparaging comment."—His Worship, Mayor Turner.

The ills resulting from girls' participation in sport are due to exploitation by managers, who make box office receipts the first consideration."—S. H. Roper.

"Canadian representatives to England received wide approbation, which should indicate the worth of athletics."——Frederick M. de La Fosse.

Last night's softball game at the James Stevenson Park, in which the Peterborough C.G.E. team of girls defeated representatives from the Danforth of Toronto, has raised anew the question of whether or not girls are out of their sphere when they indulge in sports of the softball variety. While some citizens think that such sport is too strenuous, others believe that the girls are benefitting; many are adopting a "wait and see' attitude.

Women in Peterborough, as elsewhere, are invading the field of sport today as never before. Modern Atlantas are no longer a novelty but are common-place figures, exciting no marked comment from followers of sport. The most violent of sports do not bar admission to women who participate in them with a zest which causes many to wonder on the result as will be shown in the coming generation.

Mayor Turner, when interviewed by The Examiner, expressed grave doubts as to the advisability of women throwing themselves so unrestrainedly into all sorts of athletic endeavors. He was of the opinion that women are descending from the high plane which they have maintained in the regard of men by appearing in athletic contests in many cases scantily attired.

He believes that the costume of the Turkish woman is much more becoming and modest and remarked that their bloomers which come well below the ankle are provocation of greater respect, excite less curious comment and should prove quite adaptable to modern athletic pursuits. The silk stockings worn by the girls who play soft ball are not unsuitable because dust so easily

WOMAN ACCUSED OF GRAIN THEFT

Constable Recovers Nine Bags Which Woman Admits Stealing.

MEN INVOLVED.

CHATHAM, Ont., Aug. 26.—(Canadian Press). — While investigating the theft of a quantity of wheat from the farm of John McMillan, Howard Township, High Constable Peters and staff discovered clues that led to the recovery of nine bags of wheat, alleged to have been taken from the granary of Lloyd Spence, Howard Township.

Mrs. Lily Raine, who is said by the county police to have admitted taking the wheat was charged with the theft and appeared in county police court at Ridgetown Tuesday. Charles Nebblethwaite, who is said to have aided the woman in taking the grain to a Ridgetown mill was arrested and released on bail. Another man thought to have been with the woman and Nebblethwaite and whose name is given as Invril Beaton, has not been apprehended.

QUINTE AND TRENT POWER COMPANY TURN FIRST SOD FOR NEW POWER HOUSE AT CAMPBELLFORD; WILL DEVELOP 6,000 H.P. AT TWO SITES AS DEMAND GROWS

Contract Let To J. J. Macnab, of Trenton, Who Built Lakefield Bridge.

7TH IN DISTRICT.

Expect to Supply Power to Belleville, Napanee and Trenton.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 26—J. J. Macnab of Trenton has been given the contract for building a new power house at the paper building and the first sod was broken for the foundation Wednesday morning. Mr. Macnab is the same contractor who last year built the new concrete arch bridge at Lakefield for the County of Peterboro.

Campbellford is to have another power house, which will make seven in the district including the one at Healy Falls, the new one to be erected at the paper mill by a private company, known as the Quinte and Trent Power Company, Limited.

First mortgage sinking fund gold bonds to the total value of $400,000 have been issued to carry on this work, these bonds being disposed of at 98½ and bearing interest at 8½ per cent.

4,000 Horespower.

In a circular issued by the company when the bonds were offered for sale, full particulars as to their plans are given. They will develop at once 4,000 horse power at Campbellford and Frankford and later will increase this development to 6,000 horse power as the demand for electrical energy arises. Contracts for power have been signed with various users in the district and the revenue already assured is, according to the circular, sufficient to earn the bond interest nearly three times over.

A Thriving District.

The circular goes on to state that the district in which the Quinte and Trent Valley Company will operate is old established territory and is dotted with thriving towns and villages. Within a radius of 35 miles of Frankford, there are such manufacturing centres as Belleville, Napanee and Trenton.

In this connection the name of Campbellford does not appear in the circular, possibly for the reason that this is the only town in the district manufacturing its own power, so that it cannot be reckoned as a prospective customer of the new company. It is stated however, that there is no surplus power in the territory in which the company will operate so that the "permanent value of cheaply developed power is obvious.

Rights Worth $350,000.

The company, by special agreement is permitted to use the dams at both Campbellford and Frankford with cost to themselves. The Campbellford dam to be utilized is No. 10; built by the Hydro Commission; dam at Frankford being the property of the Department of Railways and Canals. Certain conservation work done on the head waters of the Trent River is to be utilized by the company, all without charge.

The Local Situation.

The new power house to be erected in Campbellford will, it is understood, have a capacity of 1,000 horse power. It will be situated near the paper box factory, both being within the co-operate limits. It seems that provision was made for such an enterprise when the canal was constructed through here, as an aperture was left in the ore wall opposite the paper mill and secured with stop logs. From this aperture a flume will be laid connecting the canal with the new power house which will stand on the banks of the river some distance from the canal. At this place the canal leaves the channel of the river for some distance.

A Local Customer

The paper mill, one of the town's oldest and most prosperous industries, uses 681 horse power and the supply is secured from the civic plant. Although the location of the plant is some distance from the town proper, it was included in the corporation to enable the company to secure fixed assessment and cheap power. The mill is a branch of the Canadian Paperboard Company and manufactures, besides paper boxes, Gyproc, the material that is used to sheet the inner walls of houses in the place of lath and plaster.

The building of the new power house will give employment to a large number of local workmen and will also make business for Campbellford merchants, just as did the KEENE, Aug. 26. — While cleaning out his potato bin in preparation to receive this year's supply, Mr. Kennealley, proprietor of the Victoria House found some old potatoes from which had grown a good pailful of new potatoes. The potatoes were larger than most of the new crop already dug in this district, and also were an extra clear sample.

COLLEGIATE IS NOT SUFFICIENT

For Needs of City, Says Chairman of Board of Education.

MUST ENLARGE.

Approached by The Examiner today for a statement on the proposal to build a new combination collegiate and technical school, John A. McKone chairman of the Board of Education expressing himself as in favor of the plan emphasized the following points:

Peterborough is harder hit by insufficient collegiate accommodation than any other city. At present many pupils who ought to be housed in the Collegiate under the direct supervision of the Principal are divided among other schools. At the Collegiate there is no provision for training in domestic science, manual work or gymnastics. For the latter the boys had to go to the Y.M.C.A., the girls to the Y.W.C.A.

The technical training is being given in a building which is inade-

MARTYRS QUICK TO AID SCIENCE

Heroes Like Those Who Died to Conquer Yellow Fever to Submit to Cancer.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19. — The stage is set in London for another one of those glorious manifestations of human courage called "a martyrdom to science," which have, times past thrilled the world with a new regard for the nobility of man. Two British scientists have made remarkable discoveries relating to the disease of cancer. Under their microscopes they have isolated the infinitesimal parasite which is believed to cause cancer. And upon birds and small animals they have made tests which seem to bear out their theories, paving the way for a cure of the dreaded scourge.

Yet these tests upon small animals are inconclusive and at best merely indicative of a possibility. And the time must inevitably come, as predicted by a noted London physician, when volunteers will be called forth to submit to tests upon the human body. They will be asked to permit the abrasion of their bodily tissues, and then the injection into these tissues of the supposed cancer microbes.

If the new discoveries are correct it will naturally follow that the volunteers will become infected with cancer. It will then remain for the physicians to attempt cures upon the deliberately infected victims, using such serums as seem indicated and as may have been discovered upon the small beasts. The victims may die. But out of their sufferings will come certain great truths, corroborations and indications, which eventually, perhaps, will benefit millions of human beings.

The action of such volunteers as may come forward will seem incredible to most normal men, and some will call them foolhardy, says the Evening World. But others have done it. And the most moving instance of such transcendant courage for the sake of science was provided by a little group of Americans 25 years ago. Agony, physical and mental, was their lot. One of them died a horrible death. And another was so weakened that he succumbed within a short time. Yet out of their bravery was born the knowledge that yellow fever was caused only by the bite of a mosquito, and with this knowledge yellow fever has been banished from the face of the earth.

Yellow Fever Martyrs.

In 1899 America had the horror of yellow fever brought home to her. It had been considered largely a tropical disease until then, with sporadic cases in this country. But that year American expeditionary troops in Cuba were scourged by it, and there were epidemics in Southern cities which alarmed the Nation. In desperation the Government despatched a commission, headed by Dr. Walter Reed of Quemados, Cuba, to discover the cause of the disease. With Dr. Reed were Dr. James Carroll, Dr. Jesse W. Lazear and Dr. Aristitdes Agramonte, the latter a Cuban immune.

The commission made many tests among the patients of the infested quarters of Havana, and finally reached the tentative conclusion that the disease was caused by the bite of the female stegomyia mosquito. But proof of the theory was needed, as proof is now needed of the cancer theory. A human being must allow himself deliberately to be bitten by the little insect.

Going through the wards Dr. Lazear bent over a patient in the last stages of the disease. He saw a mosquito alight on the patient's face, and watched it a moment while it fed. An instant later the insect flew up and dropped on Lazear's hand. He did not brush it. Five days later he died in convulsions.

Dr. Reed considered the theory practically proven by this heroic sacrifice, but proof was not yet certain. And the day after Dr. Lazear's death Dr. Carroll offered himself for the test. Four mosquitos were caught, fed for a moment on yellow fever patients, and then placed on Dr. Carroll's body. Within two days he was taken to the isolation camp on a litter, violently ill with the disease. He spent three days in delirium, on the verge of death, but at last the disease ran its course and he recovered.

"I Salute You"

But such is the thoroughness of men of science that still other tests were considered necessary, and Dr. Reed called for volunteers for a series of parallel experiments intended to prove that the mosquito bite was the sole method of translating the disease. Almost immediately two private soldiers came forward: John R. Kissinger and John J. Moran, from Ohio. Dr. Reed told them of the danger they would run, but they insisted. And when he informed them that a sum of money had been set aside for their use they steadfastly refused to consider a reward.

Touching his cap, Dr. Reed, an officer of the Medical Corps, said: "Gentlemen, I salute you."

Moran was placed in a closely screened room and subjected to the bites of infected mosquitoes. Kissinger, also in a tightly screened room, slept in nightclothes taken from a dead patient and in the bed occupied by the patient until his death.

Moran contracted the disease but recovered. Kissinger had no symptoms of fever whatever, indicating that yellow fever is not contagious except through the bite of the insect. These experiments later were duplicated, proving Dr. Reed's theories.

The end of the yellow fever was brought about by these brave men. And, if the London physician is right, the end of cancer, when it comes will be made possible by men as brave willing to give themselves the disease to prove what causes it and how it may be cured.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

OUTLOOK ENCOURAGING

That the coming to Canada of the immense plant of the Aluminum Company is already being felt, is shown by the following dispatch. An immense industry of this nature cannot help but distribute much business throughout this part of Canada, and there is no doubt that in a short time it will be felt very considerably.

MONTREAL, Que., August 26 — From the present appearances the Dominion Bridge Company would seem to be faced with the brightest outlook in years. About the Street one now hears that sufficient business is in sight to keep that company busy for three to five years.

If the company has secured the contract for 35-000 tons of steel work in connection with the Aluminum Co. development at Chute A. Caron, it is not outside the realm of possibility that the Dominion Engineering Co., a subsidiary, will get the contract for the turbines. What this will amount to can be judged from the fact that 600,000 horsepower is to be developed and that for a 100,000 horsepower turbine the cost is more than $800,000.

In addition to the above, a report about the Street has it that the engineering subsidiary of Bridge has secured the entire machinery contract for the new International Paper mill at Chelsea. It is estimated that this order will amount to more than $2,000,000.

Of the Dominion Engineering Co. stock, which company was reorganized last year, 51 per cent is held by the Dominion Bridge Company.

Another development from which the Dominion Bridge Co. and it subsidiary Dominion Engineering, might reasonably expect business is the new Rothmere Paper development, Anglo-Canadian Paper.

Then last, but far from least, is the Montreal Bridge, in which undertaking it is confidently expected that Dominion Bridge will get a good share. Dominion Bridge Co. pays 4 per cent. per annum on the common stock, of which there is outstanding $6,500,000. There are no other capital obligations.

BATTLEFIELD OF ARMAGEDDON IS SOUGHT BY ARCHEOLOGISTS

Expedition Leaving New York Hopes to Find Old Civilization.

WORK ON BIG SCALE

Four Hundred Men to be Employed and Railway Built.

By CYRIL MORAND.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 26. — (United Press).—An attempt to pierce the dim veil of fifty centuries at the hill of Armageddon—"battlefield of the ages"—will begin with the departure of an expedition for five years of field work in excavation of the site and archeological research.

Details of the expedition were announced by Dr. Clarence S. Fisher, recently appointed field director, at his home here. Dr. Fisher, who was formerly curator of the Egyptian section of the University of Pennsylvania museum, and one of the foremost Egyptologists, said it was hoped definite traces of a civilization more than 5,000 years old would be disclosed as the scientists cut through successive layers of the historic hill of the Book of Revelation—the Biblical battleground of the eternal war between righteousness and evil.

Successive stages of man's progress, through the Stone, Copper and Iron ages, will stand revealed as excavators penetrate the hill, Dr. Fisher hopes. "I feel that we will uncover at least ten layers of past civilizations," he said.

Hope to Find Prehistoric Remains.

"Discoveries by British scientists, recently, lead us to believe we may discover remains of prehistoric man at Armageddon. If we do, they will be of the Semitic type, but of what branch I do not think we can determine.

"Our work will be done in an area which was believed the centre of the ancient civilizations. It lies within 400 miles of where the Garden of Eden was supposed to have been. Anything that pertains to the Bible will be found, we believe, in a section half way down the hill. The Philistines lived in this country and we are hopeful of finding traces of their civilization; also of two tribes, the Hittites and the Hyskos, whose history has been long hidden in obscurity and of which little more than their existence is known."

Operations will be on the largest scale ever attempted in work of this nature. Four hundred men will be employed, mostly as diggers, under direction of scientists. A narrow-gauge railway will be built to carry away dirt beyond the area of excavation. This will be brought to the cars in reed baskets carried on the heads of native workmen. Automobile trucks will be used to transport supplies to the expedition from the nearest towns. By reason of the altitude and climate at Armageddon, it is believed the work can be continued without interruption, through 12 months of the year.

Motion Pictures to be Taken.

Complete motio npicture equipment will be taken to photograph all activities of the expedition, the film to be later used in university lecture work. Scenes from old Arab life, fast said to be disappearing, will also be filmed. In the comparatively inaccessible regions near which the research work will be done, old Arabic costumes, scenes and customs still remain with little change.

"The best prize we could nope for," Dr. Fisher said, commenting on possible discoveries, "would be the finding of the answers to the El Armarna letters, which would greatly clear up the connection between the histories of Palestine and Egypt. The letters themselves were found, about 1890, by an Arab at El Armarna, a city of the Nile. Egypt once held the area that we are about to explore, and about 1300 B.C. the El Armarna letters were written, addressed to the Egyptian Government, asking for help. The Government answers to these letters we hope to find in the fortress at Armageddon. The letters would be on clay tablets, we hope, in the Cunieform writing, and should be well preserved."

ELECTROCUTED RESCUING CAT

Humane Inspector Climbed Hydro Pole and Touched High Tension Wire.

LEG BURNED OFF.

TORONTO, Aug. 26.—(Canadian Press).—Frank Woods, aged 27, an inspector employed by the Toronto Humane Society, was electrocuted yesterday afternoon by high tension wires when attempting to rescue a cat which had climbed to the top of a Hydro pole. A current of 13,000 volts went through Woods' body, killing him instantly. One of the man's legs was burned off and his head was almost severed from his body.

In reaching for the cat, Woods' leg must have touched a wire strung across a lower pole, while his head or hand made contact with the wire on an upper arm. Instantly a sheet of flame shot forth from where Woods was standing, and the next moment his dismembered body hurtled through the air and struck the top of a motor car, then rolled to the sidewalk.

QUINTE AND TRENT POWER COMPANY

construction of the two Hydro plants within the past two years.

To Remain a Customer.

When it was learned that the new power houses were to be built, the conclusion was justified that the paper mill would on its completion, cease to be a customer for power developed at the civic plant. That this inference was erroneous was shown by the following letter received from J. G. G. Kerry of Toronto, president of the Canadian Paperboard Company, and which was addressed to S. J. Abernethy, chairman of the Water and Light Commission:

"I am writing to advise you as chairman of the Water and Light Commission that this company is arranging for the construction of a Hydro-Electric power plant of 1000 horse power capacity immediately adjacent to its mills in Campbellford. It is not however the intention of the company to in any way interfere with the present satisfactory business relations existing between your commission and the company.

"The Canadian Paperboard Company intends to continue to purchase the necessary supply of electric power for the operation of its mills at Campbellford from the Commission as heretofore, and will provide by the installation of additional equipment for the utilization of a new supply of power which is now being provided at its instance.

"I should like to take this opportunity of expressing our appreciation of the courteous treatment that has at all times been extended to us by the commission, and of the character of the service we have received from it."

Two Companies the Same.

Mr. Kerry is president of the Quinte and Trent Valley Power Co., as well as of the Canadian Paperboard Company, so if the two organizations are not one in law they are in fact.

Mr. Kerry's intimation that the extra power will be utilized by extending the plant will be welcome news to working men and merchants in Campbellford.

The officials in charge of the local branch of the Canadian Paperboard Company, are Thomas McCook, Superintendent, and Wesley Stephens, Secretary-Treasurer.

OPERATORS REFUSE TO RESUME PARLEYS

HAZELTON, Pa., Aug. 26—(Canadian Press). Anthracite mine workers yesterday, in conference with the citizens' "no strike" committee here, offered to resume negotiations with the operators if the latter in turn would agree not to rule out the demands that might involve increased cost. The operators later refused on the ground that increased cost would mean higher coal.

SETTLEMENT OF ALL DEBTS NEED NOT BE EQUAL

Coolidge Says Terms Given France or Italy May Differ From Others.

BASE ON ABILITY.

Every Opportunity Should Be Given Nations to Seek Liberal Terms.

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., Aug. 26 (Canadian Press).—Settlement of French and Italian indebtedness of the United States, in President Coolidges opinion, should be based on the ability of the two nations to pay and the terms need not be the same, necessarily, as those granted Great Britain or Belgium.

The capacity to pay the principal, which the President believes should apply to all refunding agreements, is not to be varied in his judgment by provisions of the Versailles Treaty or any other international agreement understood or actually consummated.

This view of the executive was disclosed today at the summer White House, with the added statement that he believes every opportunity should be afforded such nations as France and Italy to present to the United States Debt Commission any reason they may have for seeking more liberal terms than granted Great Britain.

4.4 IS FAILURE SAY AMERICANS

Prohibition Leaders Find That New Beer Satisfies Nobody.

HAVE MADE TOUR.

TORONTO, Aug. 36 (Canadian Press).—Ontario's 4.4 beer amendment has been a flat failure, from whatever angle it is viewed, is the conclusion that is being arrived at by representatives of the prohibition forces in the United States who have been making a tour of Canadian towns and cities studying the question, and who were guests of R. J. Fleming and several members of the Ontario Prohibition Union at dinner in the Ontario Club last evening. Grant M. Hudson, chairman of the United States Committee, said they had found that 4.4 beer had not satisfied those desiring stronger liquor and had not tended to wean drinkers from a taste for hard liquor.

HOW THEY MAKE WAX MANIKINS

Modeled From Life by Sculptor, Then Molded and Twisted.

The delightful life-like manikins of wax seen displaying the lovely garments in the shops go through a most interesting process before attaining this state of perfection.

They are modeled from life by an efficient sculptor. The first process is the clay modeling, the subjects being actresses and artists models. From this model a mold is made of plaster, into which the wax is poured. After the wax for about half an inch has become solid, the liquid wax in the centre is poured out, leaving a hollow wax shell just like the original figure of clay.

Four different colors are used to produce the flesh tint. But the really difficult part comes after the figure has been slipped out of the mold. Teeth are fitted and eyes are chosen to make it more realistic. Eyelashes are added and in order that the hair can be dressed in the latest fashion, the hair is put on with a needle, fastening each hair separately. The complexion is put on very carefully, like theatrical make-up, because the lights in the shop windows are as brilliant as foot-lights and makes the face look pale and insipid.

There must necessarily be "types" to suit the various costumes, consequently the manikins can not be all alike; there is the dainty type for the frivolous clothes, the student face for the sedate and somber gowns, and the athletic face for the sports costumes.

UNBOBBED BEAUTY.

Madame Nina Scholsperin, one of the most beautiful leaders of Hungarian society, claims the distinction of having neither bobbed her abundant tresses nor entered the movies, although she has won a number of beauty contests and has had tempting offers to become a film star.

JURY FAILS TO NAME SLAYER

Either Arthur or Ruth Janisse Shot McMullen, Says Verdict.

WITNESSES HEARD.

WINDSOR, Aug. 26.—(Canadian Press).—That Clayton McMullen, young Windsor battery service station proprietor, came to his death from a bullet wound through the heart, fired by Arthur Janisse or his wife, Ruth, was in substance the verdict returned by the coroner's jury here last night. Eight witnesses were examined regarding the firing of the shot, but none was positive who had done the actual shooting.

Drink Coca-Cola Delicious and Refreshing

Announcing the $1000 First Prize Answer to the Question:

When do You enjoy Coca-Cola most?

By MRS. A. PHELAN
342 GOYEAU ST. WINDSOR, ONTARIO

If the question should be asked of me,
O'er my morning tea and toast,
As to when I really do enjoy,
My Coca-Cola most—
I would find it hard to answer,
As I like it any time;
But I'll try to tell you truly
At the finish of this rhyme.

When I've done my household duties,
I enjoy it every day,
And when I'm worn and tired out
It drives the blues away;
Or when I'm "bargain hunting"
Coca-Cola always serves
To relieve that thirsty feeling
And to soothe my weary nerves.

In the evening when with hubby,
I am seated in the swing,
And with crochet-hooks or needles
I am making pretty things,
With our children seated round about
In attitudes of rest—
'Tis then that we enjoy our
Ice-cold Coca-Cola best.

"TRUTH" SERUM.

Attorney-General Nickle has done well to refuse t oallow the so-called "truth" serum to be used in the case of a Windsor man held on a murder charge.

This serum, the invention of a citizen of the United States, is said to have the effect of compelling a person into whom it is injected to tell the truth.

The Attorney-General will have the support of public opinion in declining to allow a court of justice in this Province to be the scene of any such test as this, particularly in a case in which the charge is one involving capital punishment.

We have our legal procedure in this country to get at the innocence or guilt of persons charged with offences, and even at the risk of being termed old-fashioned, we respectfully decline to substitute for them such a fantastic scheme as injecting serum into a person's blood and endeavouring to make him convict himself.

Truth serum may some day have its place in the scheme of things, but Mr. Nickle is justified in flatly refusing to permit any trial of the preparation in the courts of Ontario.

SAFETY FIRST RULES.

The Ontario Highways Department has issued a number of instructions to motorists in regard to their method of driving at intersections that if generally followed should do much to reduce the number of traffic accidents.

Most of the automobile smash-ups occur at intersections—and the majority of them are the result of a failure on the part of one driver or both to follow the safety first principles that should guide every motorist.

Not only is there a disregard of traffic rules at street corners, but there is also too much fast driving over intersections, particularly on the part of those driving into busy thoroughfares from side streets.

The man at the wheel of a car on a much travelled street is inclined to think that no one would be foolish enough to drive across such a street at a dangerous speed, and consequently he is not as much on the alert as he should be.

Because there are—in spite of his opinion—many drivers who will do exactly what he thinks they won't—and the result is often a collision that might easily have been averted.

Motorists should study the rules laid down by the department and put them in general use, thus removing a very constant source of danger.

STRENUOUS DAYS.

It is stated that the attendance at the Cobourg Horse Show fell off this year because the weather was too fine.

That may sound like a strange reason until it is explained that the farmers were so busy on account of the splendid weather conditions that they couldn't take the time off to attend the Horse Show.

The incident calls attention to the fact that the average Ontario farmer has no reason to complain of unemployment just now.

While the West sounds its appeal for harvest hands and thousands respond, the majority of farmers in this Province are working short-handed and utilizing every daylight hour in the harvesting of his crops.

Strenuous days these on the farms in Peterboro district and all through Ontario.

"If some of the men around town are convinced that their hours are too long," points out the London Advertiser, "we suggest that they follow a farmer who is carrying the burden of a farm alone, or with a hired man, during the cutting, drawing-in and threshing season."

The Ontario farmer may not get as much publicity as the Western producer, but he has a man's sized job on his hands at the present time, and Peterboro people inclined to grumble at the warm weather should be grateful that the working of taking in the crop is being pushed ahead.

THE FEAR OF DEBT.

Men and communities and nations might be conveniently divided by the view they take of debt—those who fear it and those who do not. Looking over the whole situation, that line of cleavage stands out clearly and significantly. Of course, if everybody believed that debt was a wholly and indefensibly bad thing, and must therefore be avoided, there would be a tremendous and disturbing slowing down of enterprise. On the other hand, no one can doubt that a disregard of the elementary principles of prudence, accompanied by reckless borrowing, invariably leads to trouble and bankruptcy.

Wisconsin holds a unique position in her judgment about debt. She does not permit bonds to be issued on the public credit for any other purpose than military defence. What cannot be paid for out of ordinary or special revenues must be done without. Wisconsin pays as she goes; and this applies to the State as well as to all municipalities within the State. The one thing not permitted is to go into debt. And yet Wisconsin is a highly developed and a highly prosperous State. She has 5,000 miles of extra good modern highways, and every foot of them has been paid for by immediate taxation. It might be argued that this has been hard on the present generation; but, on the other hand, the question arises as to both the moral and the legal right of the present generation to lay burdens on the next generation.

In order to keep out of debt, Wisconsin has been obliged to impose heavier taxation than have some of the other States. It has a special impost on income, and a special business tax. The people are not a unit as to the wisdom of that policy. Some of them insist that it has driven industries to other States, and has operated against industrial development in general. To this the reply is made that Wisconsin is undeniably prosperous and should therefore have no regrets. The defenders of the course taken go further, and lay emphasis on what they call "real prosperity" and "artificial prosperity."

The truth is not to be found in either of these judgments. Debt may be a very good thing or a very bad thing. It is a good thing when it is incurred for constructive purposes, and the obligation is kept well within the ability of the community to pay. It is invariably and unqualifiedly bad when it does not come within that prescription. All the trouble that debt has caused in the world, or is likely to cause, has its roots in the principles of ordinary prudence. Wisconsin has played safe by leaving no room for argument about ability to pay or anything else; and, of course, Wisconsin will not have to lie awake at nights worrying about her outstanding bonds.

Whether or not relative propinquity has had anything to do with it, the fact remains that many of our own western municipalities are doing things in a very positive way about their debts. They are cutting them down. The case of Saskatchewan is in point. The net per capita municipal debenture debt of municipalities within that Province has been lowered as follows:

	1916	1923
Cities	$333.00	$265.12
Towns	117.30	92.60
Villages	14.34	5.70

While these figures, particularly as respects cities and towns, are above those which apply to Ontario, the fact remains that the latter have been steadily rising for more than ten years past.—Ottawa Journal.

CANADIAN POLICY AS TO RAILWAYS.

There is in Montreal newspapers, editorially and in correspondence, and occasionally it finds its way to the platform, a constant stream of insidious propaganda in respect of the Canadian National Railways. There is copious weeping of the trochiloid order over the burden to the nation entailed, the fact that due consideration a few years ago was not gvien to the problem to be created by taking over the lines now consolidated with the Intercolonial and National Transcontinental, and the mournful situation of now being unable to unload—though that by some devious process would seem to be the objective aimed at. Of course, the conclusion is that we must now somehow or other make the best of a bad bargain and so on ad libitum. There are variations of the plaint, but it is the one string of the harp that is being strummed on.

It is true there is a difference of opinion as to what is the best way to make the best of it; but it usually simmers down to something like amalgamation of the two railway systems, the C.P.R. shareholders to be guaranteed their usual dividends. There would be a dual management of Mr. E. W. Beatty and Sir Henry Thornton, an expert railway man as liaison officer between them, and the Railway Commission to continue to act as at present a buffer between the railways and the public.

That may be a good way or it may not, but it is highly desirable, taking a leaf out of past experience, and adopting advice which our Montreal friends assure us should have been taken before consolidation was brought about, to consider well before taking another leap into the railway future that we are not flying to ills worse than we already have. Canada has two railway systems now, the greatest in the world, which is at least something to boast of, and if we do not have competition in rates we at least have competition in service. Moreover, on account of that competition there is an esprit de corps among officials and other employes in each system that is admirable. There is no other railways system anywhere to which the staffs are so loyal as in the case of the C.P.R., and Sir Henry Thornton is rapidly working up the C.N.R. staffs to a similar standard of loyalty to, and pride in, the national system.

The point is, remove the stimulus of competition, of emulation in effort, which is the life-blood of business, will those highly desirable conditions continue to exist? After all, amalgamation really means a nationalized enterprise—even if not under direct Government control—in which the employes would attain to a new status of near civil servants. Can you keep them at their present kind of on-the-toes service and eliminate the spirit which has created it?

It is entirely futile now to discuss the ways and the wherefores of the present situation. No one in Parliament or in the press has yet been able to tell us how it could have been avoided or why it is not the logical result of previous circumstances, without disastrous consequences to large sections of the country and serious financial loss to those whose money was invested in the systems taken in and in the investments of the Canadian taxpayer. If the resourceful brain that directs the editorial policy of the Montreal Gazette has evolved a practical theory in respect of it, it has not been made plain to print. It is quite possible that much may be accomplished by co-operation in getting rid of expensive duplications of service and in other economies, but the situation in a nutshell is this: We are over-railwayed, the result of ill-considered projects and reckless optimism in the past.

As Sir Henry Thornton has pointed out repeatedly, it is not a question of Government ownership versus private ownership; it was a condition, not a theory with which Canada was faced. What we have now was the inevitable. There is no way of escape from the liabilities, and only one way out. By the industrial development of Canada, by the filling up of our waste places, by a wise utilization of our natural resources, and by patriotic endurance of the nation's responsibilities we must grow up to and overtake the railways. They can only subsist profitably by the traffic which the country affords.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Let us make it 30,000 in 1925.

The Al. Sweet Band, which is to be a feature of Peterboro's Exhibition this year, will provide many of those "sweet sounds" Shakespeare wrote about.

Space for special exhibits at the Peterboro Industrial is likely to be at a premium. The wise manufacturers and merchants are filling their applications early.

Dollar Day serves the useful purpose of demonstrating that a lot of people still have the article from which the day takes its name.

"See Ontario in October" is a good slogan for the publicity agents who are seeking to encourage the tourist traffic to come this way.

A THOUGHT.

THE HAPPIEST HEARTS.

The happiest hearts are those that have made many sad souls cheerful. The supreme pleasure in life is when we deny ourselves something in order that we may do unto others who are in distress.

I. The mere justice in satisfying creditors is, of course, honorable; but the greatness of generous giving to the needy, raises the soul above the level of earth.

When a man feels that inward satisfaction of endowing some good cause—when he learns the luxury of charitable giving—when he has the co-operation of a clear conscience, caused by generous giving to the deserving, he has laid the stepping-stones to success. Proof: The thoughtful or practical giver to the worthy becomes a magnet, attracting many friends; and how well we all understand that a man makes a mighty poor showing in business or in a profession without friends.

II. Human history records the lives of illustrious villains, but there never was an honored man that refused to recognize the pressing need of want.

Men who are blessed with good health and good business seldom come in contact with those who are tortured by actual need and suffering from the lack of food, but when they do, these men give and give generously—and it is gratifying to record that they receive and receive plentifully.

But to those who do not know how humans suffer through want, let's take a trip to some hall-bedroom of the irrevocably blind; to the uncarpeted floor couch of the innocent, half-fed, feeble infant; to the mere stopping places of the poverty poor, the incurably diseased, or to the cold and cheerless rooms of old age where there is no light in the evening of life. Come with me to the cot of the injured, or to the cold chamber of the incapable where the lamp of intelligence is turned low. Go out into the parks and witness the wretched who shiver in their sleep of weakness. See the stumbling-along army starving in their cheerless march to misery.

No social station, no man-made wealth gives the lasting satisfaction and such deep solace as that of conferring help upon the helpless. It is a holy holiday for the human heart, the season of helping humans up the hill, and the more we give of our plenty the greater peace we find in our good will and good work toward men.

III. The man that immediately reaches for his check book when humans are cold, hungry, sick, blind and injured — the man who responds promptly to the call of humanity, rings the temple bells in his own heart and kindles the fire of right religion that can be seen from the Throne of Judgment.

—The Silent Partner.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Aug. 25—The cattle market today opened slow, common and medium grade stuff with good demand for choice stock. Including stale cattle the offerings totaled 2,100 head. Common quality butcher steers and western stockers are in the majority. Trade is fairly active on stockers at $3.75 to $5.50 a hundred. Butchers were draggy with few early sales.

The calf market was steady at $10 to $11.50 for choice.

Hogs were unchanged at $14.25 off cars for thick smooth and $13.63 for selects, premium $2.66 per head for select bacon.

Lambs were steady at $13 to $13.50 a hundred. Good light sheep were firm at $7 to $8.

MONTREAL GRAIN

MONTREAL, Aug. 25—The demand from New York houses for No. 1 Northern Wheat on spot on the Montreal market continued steady and sales of odd lots were made at 35 cents per bushel over the Winnipeg October option, C.I.F. Montreal. The trade in cash grain was slow owing to the fact that buyers have ample supplies on hand for the time being. A weaker feeling prevailed in the market for oats and prices closed one cent per bushel lower.

The feature of the flour trade of late was the demand from foreign buyers for new crop spring wheat flour and as the prices bid were considered satisfactory by some millers, a little business was done with the United Kingdom, and sales were also made to Germany in spite of the duty for October shipment. There was no change in the local trade, business being quiet and the trend steady.

Prices for winter wheat were well maintained but the trade volume was small.

There was no change in the condition of the millfeed market, the demand being ample to absorb all offerings and prices ruled firm.

A moderate amount of business was transacted in standard grades of rolled oats and prices were unchanged.

Extreme dullness marked the trading in eggs. An easier feeling developed in the butter market and prices were reduced a fraction. A fair business was transacted in the cheese market but the tone was irregular.

CURB BUTTER SALE

MONTREAL, Aug. 25 — On the local curb market today there were 1,800 packages creamery butter and 2,300 boxes of cheese offered. The butter sold at 38 1-8c per lb. for No. 1 pasteurized creamery, and at 37 1-8c per lb. for No. 1 Creamery, while the cheese was disposed of at 20 1-2c per lb., delivered here.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Aug. 25 —Professionals, taking advantage of a market that was easily influenced, were in control of the session all during the day. They hammered values of all deliveries on occasions and staged short-lived recoveries at times when they saw fit to accept substantial profits. Reports of frosts in Alberta and Wyoming were offset to a certain extent by a forecast of warmer weather in the Northwest. Bearish European news, particularly the Russian estimates, also sent the wheat values further downward. Closing quotations showed wheat one to two cents lower than Monday's close, with September at $1.58 7-8 to $1.59, and December at $1.57 3-8 to $1.57 5-8, corn 1 to 2 5-8 cents down, with September at 98 1-8 to 98 1-4c, oats 1-2 to 7-8c net loss and provisions 10 to 35 cents lower.

At the start several locals sold the early delivery and as the session grew older selling becam general with Northwest and Eastern interests joining in pushing September down. Weakness in the Canadian market and prospects of an increase in the movement of spring wheat served to bring out holdings of recent buyers. At one point September wheat touched 158 1-2.

Local shorts hammered both September and December corn during most of the day, but covered their commitments during the final hour of trading, though final prices failed to reflect the buying as commission houses offered both months in volume all afternoon. Corn dropped to within a cent or two of the low for the season.

Scattered liquidation took place in oats and this grain established a new low for the season.

Provisions were lower and weaker.

DEPLORES "CIVILIZATION"

Western Methods Have Brought China Sorrow, Says Dr. Lynch.

(Associated Press Despatch.)

Stockholm, Sweden, Aug. 22.—The introduction of western civilization into China has brought nothing but trouble to the former celestial kingdom, declares Dr. Frederick Lynch of New York, one of the United States delegates to the universal Christian conference here, in a lengthy artictle written for Dagens Nyreter, a leading Stockholm newspaper.

"The saddest day for China was when our western civilization touched her. She would have been infinitely better off if Europe and America had never got near her," the writer says. "China was always a peace-loving nation until she came in contact with western civilization. If she is militaristic to-day, she learned it from the Christian nations. We employ enormous energy with killing or trying to kill each other, while we bestow only trifling endeavors on missionary work."

PETERBORO' LOCKS.

Editor, Examiner:

Dear Sir,—As a citizen of Peterborough who appreciates the beauty of our own Kawartha lakes and who on several occasions has made motor boat trips to Stoney Lake and return, I wish to call the attention of those in charge of the canal, to the very great inconvenience that is caused to launch owners, through lack of a proper, private or public telephone connection between the various locks.

I came down from Stoney Lake a few days ago, and out of nine locks there was only one that I did not have to wait for to close the down gate, fill the lock and empty again, 'ere I could proceed.

Without thinking of the convenience of launch owners at all, I believe that a system of telephones should be installed for the lock tenders themselves, as in case of an accident it would be very hard for some of them to get in touch with assistance without needless delay.

Then, again, I would like to see residents of Peterborough placed in the same class as any other tourist whenever it is necessary to use the lift-lock. As it is now, a resident of Peterborough can only use the lock at 9 a.m., 2 and 7 p.m. and if you happen to miss that hour by a minute you may have to wait till next morning. Of course, if you are a tourist why you can go right ahead without any lost time.

Surely these locks were not built for tourists' convenience alone. So why the restriction on local residents?

Thanking you for space,
"Launch Owner."

1.—Common sense and some experience.
2.—Good food materials.
3.—An efficient Gas Range.

Any woman can acquire the first of these requisites. She can also learn what to buy and how to buy wisely. As for the third requisite, no woman should be expected to excel in cooking without the aid of a reliable modern Cabinet Gas Range, the greatest single aid in good cooking in any household.

STIRLING FARMS PRODUCING FOR NATION'S NEEDS

Feeder Cattle Bought in Toronto Arrived in the District—Wheat Shipped.

BARNS BULGING.

Cheese Factories Receive Heavy Flow of Milk and Distribute Cash.

STIRLING, Aug. 26—Col. Roscoe Vanderwater and Mr. Walter Boardman of Chatterton unloaded a carload of feeders here last Thursday morning. They were of the Shorthorn breed and purchased in Toronto. This is a new venture for this section. Mr. Seeney, near Hoard's, shipped in a carload recently and it is the intention to ship in more.

The workmen at the new church sheds have the frame erected and are awaiting the arrival of the metal to enclose it.

Mr. Norman A. Moore, who was awarded the contract for the taking down and rebuilding the old church sheds for the Agricultural Society, began his work Tuesday morning.

Work was also begun on the retaining wall at the north side of the swimming pool.

Completing Harvest.

A great many of the farmers have completed their harvest and are plowing the fields in readiness for fall grain or as a weed killing process. The threshers are at work in some sections, giving each farmer a half-day's threshing so that he may have room for the balance of his crop if he has not already finished. Well-filled barns and granaries, with good plump grain, will be the rule this year, as well as an extra large crop of hay, which was gathered in in good condition.

Shipped Car of Wheat.

A carload of wheat is being shipped from here by Mr. Brickman, the price paid being $1.25 to $1.30, so with the bringing in of the cattle to consume the coarser grains, and the wheat going out to make flour, this section will be doing its part towards feeding the nation, not forgetting the part the dairy industry is taking in this matter. One cheese factory's pay sheet for July was, with 54 patrons, over $7,700; producing 38,657 lbs. of cheese, the average price being 21 54-100c for the month. There are several factories of about this capacity in this section, so the cash distributed in this way each month is no small item.

New Cafe Opens.

The new Empire Cafe began operations on Saturday night with a good run of customers. The opening of this business will supply a need here.

The plastering of Mr. Whitty's new house is about completed.

Mr. Joe Geary is making good progress with the carpenter work of his new house.

The Rev. Thos. Brown and wife, of Lindsay, are visiting their daughter, Mrs. Barrett, at the Stirling parsonage, Charlotte Street.

Mr. Arthur Tucker and wife and Mr. and Mrs. K. M. Sine and daughter Jean were Sunday visitors at Mr Sine's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Sine, Front Street East. Mrs. Sine accompanied them to their home in Peterboro, and will visit friends there for a few days.

SARNIA TOURIST TRAFFIC RECEDES

Entries Decline in August—26,521 Since Jan. 1st.

SARNIA, Ont., Aug. 26.—(Canadian Press).—Though tourist traffic through this port is showing a decline for the month of August taken throughout the touring season, from January 1, it represents an increase of nearly fifty per cent. Statistics of thirty-day permits issued by the local customs department yesterday indicate from January 1 to date, 26,521 permits have been issued to bona fide tourists, compared with 18,640 for the same period ast year. June permits totalled 4,122; July 10,398 and August to date 8,264. Bad condition of the London-Sarnia highway is stated to period last year. June permits to be the cause of fewer entries compared with the record month of August 1924.

BOB HELPED CAUSE CHINESE UPRISINGS

Hairdresser Says Lack of Demand for Wigs Helped Trouble.

PARIS, Aug. 26. — (United Press).—Bobbed hair in the Occident may have more than a little to do with the recent outbreaks of anti-foreign feeling in China, according to the theory of the wise coiffeurs of Paris. There is no longer a great Western market for Chinese hair.

The mad women of the wild western civilization have cut off their hair. Madame's friend, the coiffeur, sighs wistfully between his smiles as he orders a few more chairs to be installed in his establishment to accommodate his customers.

"Alas, my good friends, the makers of wigs, are unhappy," he says. "With hair going so short they must curtail their orders for Chinese importations. Vast quantities of hair used to be imported from China to be worked into chignons. Now when I see the heads of my fair clients I am not surprised that there is revolution in China. The hair of the Orient is no longer in demand."

Wigs, according to the best coiffeurs, are now very rare, and when worn at all they are of lustrous silk in thick strands, white, silver or gold, something plainly artificial that will reflect the light of a ballroom. Chinese hair is no longer in demand.

SHOPLIFTER FINED.

Woodstock Woman Pleaded Guilty to Four Charges.

WOODSTOCK, Ont., Aug. 26.—(Canadian Press)—A week ago Mrs. Jessie McKenzie of Norwich was arrested charged with theft from a number of local stores. Today she appeared in court and pleaded guilty to four charges of shoplifting. She was fined $50 and costs and sentence suspended on the three other charges on payment of costs.

There'll come a moment when your feet must be seen!

That moment is close at hand. No concealing stockings, no sandals even—just bare feet. . . . You will slip into your new bathing suit and step out onto the sand. All eyes will be upon you, will appraise your stockingless legs and feet—for it is no longer the fashion to cover the feet for bathing. Are your feet well-cared for, shapely, without disfiguring blemishes? If you have even one little corn it will be noted and remembered against you. . . . For no one need have corns. Nice people don't have them. At the first hint of one, they apply a Blue-jay plaster. It is now removing half the corns that grow. They're off because they're out. Dainty shoes may cause new corns, but a corn that Blue-jay removes is gone forever.

ALLIES FURL THEIR COLOURS IN RUHR AND EVACUATE TERRITORY THEY HAVE OCCUPIED FOUR YEARS

French and Belgian Troops Retire in Silence of German Populace.

NO DISTURBANCES.

French Soldiers and German Sweethearts Parted by the Withdrawal.

DUESSELDORF, Aug. 25—The French and Belgian troops yesterday turned over the Ruhr to the Germans after four years' occupation, undertaken to compel Germany to make reparations. There were no disturbances, no demonstrations, no public expressions of either regret or pleasure. There were, however, many emotional partings between young French soldiers and their German sweethearts.

Waiting impatiently outside the city, 1,500 Security police were assembled; they will come in today to take over the general polizing.

In the great industrial area once operated almost entirely by or under the supervision of the French and Belgians, the members of the waterways commission at Duesseldorf, Ruhrort and Duisburg and three French soldiers too ill to be removed from the hospital, alone remain.

The allied army marched out with bands playing. The troops assembled in the forenoon before headquarters, where they were reviewed by the general in command. The bugle sounded and a general salute to the flag, which was run down to "The Marseillaise." The march then began and the troops crossed the bridge to Oberkasselin, in the Belgian zone, to entrain for the French area.

LAKEFIELD CHURCH BEING RENOVATED

Erected in Late Forties, St. John's is Landmark of Village.

LAKEFIELD, Aug. 26.—Owing to the fact that St. John's Church is closed for purposes of re-decoration, only morning service was held on Sunday, and that in the old church now used as a Sunday School and Parish Hall.

The gathering together for worship in this old building, which is undoubtedly the most historic building in Lakefield or the vicinity and certainly an outsand landmark in this district, recalls pioneer days, when this church was the only one in the village.

The money to build this church was raised in England by subscription and the building erected in the late '40's or early '50's. The building is of stone and the exterior is practically as it was in its first days with the exception of a metal roof and the fact that it is now covered with a mantle of ivy.

The interior has not been as well kept up owing to limited means at the disposal of the parish, but the purpose is to restore the interior so that both outside and inside will be beautiful and well worth a visit. In the early 60's the edifice was found too small for the growing requirements of the parish and a meeting of the vestry was called to discuss plans for a larger building. The result of the meeting was the building of the handsome building at the junction of Queen and Regent Streets in 1866, with Rev. Vincent Clementi as rector, and Messrs. Robert Strickland and Robert Casement as church wardens.

The old church is the visible link with pioneer days, and is very closely wrapped up in the history of the village. Its bell, now cracked and useless, called the volunteers to arms in 1866, and in the quiet churchyard the mortal remains of many of the first settlers were laid and remain to the present time.

The old church, known as Christ Church, was the "Old Church" when Lakefield was incorporated as a village in 1875, and when the first train came in.

Each season tourists are attracted by this historic building, with its churchyard surrounding it, and many questions are asked regarding its history, which is a most interesting one.

Student Congratulated.

NO AGREEMENT ON DEBT PLAN

Conversations Between Churchill and Caillaux Made No Headway Tuesday.

GOOD WILL EXISTS.

LONDON, August 26. — Canadian Press. — Almost all hope that an agreement would be reached this week providing for payment of the French war debt to Great Britain has vanished. After his third conversation with Winston Churchill, British Chancellor of the Exchequer, M. Caillaux, the French Finance Minister, yesterday informed the newspaper representatives that there would be no agreement for the present.

"The only thing I can say," M. Caillaux remarked, "is that I shall go to Paris with new propositions on Thursday probably, and ask my colleagues to consider them."

Similarly, Mr. Churchill will have new propositions to offer to his cabinet colleagues by reason of the meetings.

That wide divergency in opinion exists between Mr. Churchill and M. Caillaux over the annual amount France should pay to Great Britain in liquidating her debt is the prevailing opinion everywhere in London. The figures of the two statesmen are declared in some quarters to vary by 12,000,000 pounds. Mr. Churchill is said to have expressed the opinion that Great Britain should have 21,000,000 pounds annually, and M. Callaux is reported to have asserted that France's financial condition would permit of her paying no more than 9,000,000 pounds

All reports concur in saying that the conversations are proceeding in an atmosphere of complete good will but it is considered unlikely that they will come to any immediate definite agreement at this time

TEACHERS IN NORTH.

Visit Lumber Camps Near Sault Ste. Marie.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Aug. 26. — Canadian Press — The representatives of the Ontario Teachers Institute left at noon Tuesday and travelled north through the woods, lake districts, etc., and saw lumbering camps, etc., and pioneer settlements. On Monday they saw some of the nickle mines. Tuesday morning they visited the harbor and canal here and saw the shipping. They also visited several manufacturing plants. In the last few days the visitors have learned much of the resources of the north country. After passing the famous Montreal River district they stopped for two hours at Canyon siding where they had supper in picnic style.

JOCKEY INJURED.

Two Ribs Broken on Winnipeg Track.

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 26—Thrown to the rail when his foot slipped from his saddle stirrup at Whitier Park Tuesday morning, Sammy Smith, 24-year-old free lance jockey of the local racetracks is in St. Boniface hospital with two broken ribs and possibly internal injuries.

Smith was given "Nat Boloman" a work-out when the accident occurred.

The full extent of his injuries will not be known until the doctors have completed an examination. Hospital authorities said they believed his condition was serious.

ACCEPT LOWER WAGE.

Mines in Edmonton District Re-open To-day.

EDMONTON, Alta., Aug. 26—Mines in the Edmonton district which have been idle owing to a strike over wage schedules for the few months resume work with one exception today.

Operators of the Fraser-McKay, the Great West, Penn and Chinook Mines have arrived at an agreement with their employees and it is expected that the Margus mine will sign up after a difficulty over the rate for timbering has been adjusted. The new agreement between operators and men calls for a lower rate of wages than last year. It is also agreed that there be no discrimination against any men for participating in the strike.

MORE ENTRIES FOR FALL CORN

Oxford County Presents Specimens Measuring 13 Feet, 4 1-2 Inches.

RIVALLING IOWA.

WOODSTOCK, Ont., Aug. 26.—(Canadian Press).—Iowa has a rival for the "tall corn" honors in the townships of East Oxford and Blandford in Oxford county, each of which already have a resident reporting corn of over thirteen feet in height. James Hintoul of East Oxford exhibits stalks of the "golden glow" variety, many of which are about an equal height at 13 feet, 4 1-3 inches. This corn, he says, is three months old and was grown without the aid of fertilizer. Albert Lamble of Blandford grows the same variety as Mr. Rintoul and his stalks are about the same height, the largest measured covering 13 feet, four inches of tape.

ON PERJURY CHARGE.

Prisoner Denied He Has Been Previously Arrested.

HULL, Que., Aug. 26.—(Canadian Press)—Alexandre Hutton, who said he came from Montreal, was sent to jail for two months by Recorder J. A. Parent, in Hull court on a charge of vagrancy, and will shortly face a charge of perjury in connection with evidence he gave in the witness box in his own behalf.

In giving his evidence Tuesday Hutton denied he had ever been arrested before, and also that he was familiar with automobiles or had ever driven one.

Detective Sauve through the medium of finger prints taken of the accused at the time of his arrest, was able to prove that Hutton has a police record and has served jail sentences in Moose Jaw for the theft of automobiles on two occasions.

FAMOUS BAND COMES TO FAIR

Al. Sweet Knows What People Want and Has Real Musicians.

STARTS ON 15TH

Al Sweet who brings his famous Singing Band to Peterborough Industrial Exhibition was for seven years band master for Ringling Bros. Circus and when he left the "big top" it was with a pretty fair knowledge of what the great masses of the people want in the way of entertainment. Everybody loves a band. There isn't a man, woman or child whose pulse doesn't quicken, and his blood tingle when the band begins to play. It is the one form of entertainment which has the universal appeal. But Mr. Sweet had an idea for a different sort of band. During his years with the circus, handling as he did hundreds of musicians, he discovered that many of them had good voices and could sing as well as play. From this observation he evolved the idea of the Singing Band. Its great success from the start proved that Mr. Sweet was a master in the art of entertaining the crowds. It is safe to say that he will offer the greatest variety of musical entertainment ever presented to a Peterborough audience when he brings his company of artists on September 15. Aside from the band and male chorus, there are six soloists with the organization including Mr. Sweet himself who is one of the world's greatest cornetists. He was associated for a number of years with Thomas Edison as director of the Edison Concert Band and made the first cornet solo records for the phonograph in the great inventor's laboratory.. Another soloist worth mentioning is Edward Richey, who has the distinction of being the only drum soloist before the public. With his amazing array of traps, Mr. Richey will play the only drum solo ever written. It is entitled "Roll 'em Up". Dudley Buck's "Twilight"—the same composer's beautiful arrangement of "Annie Laurie"—, the stirring military number "Comrades in Arms" and the famous "Hunting song" from "Robin Hood" will be sung by the male chorus. The band will play all the latest popular music, operatic selections, standard overtures and many comic fantasies including Mr. Sweet's own descriptive number "The Circus Parade." The Band is costumed in the handsome Hussar Regimentals.

COMMUNISTS OF MOSCOW STIR UP GRIEVANCES IN MANY LANDS

Russia Itself is "Fine For Foreigners, But Hell For Russians."

AIMS UNIVERSAL.

BUDAPEST, Aug. 26.—For eight years Communism from its throne in one of the largest countries in the world, has been trying to conquer the earth. What has it accomplished and by what means?

Communism in the United States shatters itself against the rock of national prosperity and well-being. Communism in Europe gathers together all the grievances and miseries of unhappy peoples, and tunes its song to each individual case with supreme hypocrisy and cunning. Here in lower Europe is an ugly fact, because among these peoples it is always simple to find bold and desperate men who can be persuaded to violence; they may know little of Communism, and if they understood it, probably would shun it; but Communism contents itself with promising a cure-all and does not display at once all the program it contemplates.

The two headquarters of Communism in Europe outside Moscow are Vienna where the propaganda is organized, and Bulgaria, from which conspiracies are launched. There exists, to fight the Moscow Soviet and the Third International, an organization of 21 states, calling itself the International Entente against the Third International, and from this society I have obtained the following account of the existing Communistic organization, and how it operates.

It is necessary in the first place not to confound liberalism with Communism. We are familiar enough with the radical who sneers at criticism on the ground that narrow conservatism prompts it. But Communism is the direct antithesis of the modern state as we understand it and a sneer should not be sufficient to divert anyone from defending, even to the point of conservatism, a social system which, with all its defects, has less than the system which seeks to supplant it.

Knows No Law.

The Third International is known also as the Komitern. At the congress of this organization a year ago, Zinovieff said:

"In the fight against the bourgeoisie, traitorous socialists and pacifists, every strategic maneuver is admissable." And, in fact, the Komitern knows no law except his own ends, and the first of these ends is the destruction of the modern state.

In pursuit of this goal, the Komitern carries out the following process.

In each state the adhesion of the Communist party to the Komitern compels henceforth the absolute obedience of the party to the executive committee at Moscow, which transmits its orders to the state party through the section of international relations. One notes here the incompatibility between, on the one side, obligations direct to the Third International and, on the other side, constitutional and civic obligations.

In each state the Komitern maintains its agents who are delegates from the section of agitation, of propaganda and of action the section of which the subgroups comprise three international secretariats and 42 national sections. This section of agitation has the authority to impose on the Communist parties of any country any revolutionary action, even if the party receiving the order considers such action premature.

In each state, the Foreign Department of the G. P. U. possesses agents. The G. P. U. is the new name of the Cheka, it is "The Eye of Moscow," organization of terror and of espionage working throughout the world.

Sports Are Utilized.

In each state there exist groups of the Sporting International which, utilizing sports organizations and the favor enjoyed by sports activities, prepares in secret Communistic organizations of combat or recruits for them the necessary materials.

In each state the Peasant International organizes the poor peasants and the rural-workers against the prosperous agriculturists.

In each state, the red International for Aid to revolutionaries has its representatives charged with furnishing assistance to Communists, and with aiding them when they find themselves embarrassed or pursued; these representatives further furnish propaganda against the government of the country that tolerates them.

In each state, the red International of Professional Unions furthers the creation of "cells" in the factories, the work-shops, the professional workers' associations, "cells" which disorganize revolutionary troops.

These are the varied organizations created by the Komitern and blindly obedient to it furnished by it with important financial resources, and which, penetrating all the resting-places of contemporary society, "sows there a seed of death." No social medium is spared by this cunning work of destruction. The organization which seeks to destroy constitutional government as dictator in Russia, has betrayed every class of society, except the dictators and their friends, in a horrible manner, bourgeois being put to death, the workers and peasants being depressed, duped and ruined.

Fine For Foreigner.

"What is the truth," I asked a traveler just arrived from Moscow, "what is the truth about social conditions in Russia?"

"Fine for the foreigner," he replied, "he gets the freedom of the country. But hell for the Russian."

Following its end, the Komitern makes use of every jealousy, every disagreement, every quarrel every grievance that occurs among the unhappy people of Europe To each it holds out the promise of remedy even though often the various remedies would cancel each other. To the individuals, to groups to minorities alike it always, however, preaches one single lesson: The remedy lies in violence.

The anti-communist organization I have referred to furnishes the following summary of activities credited to Moscow during the past eight years:

ALBANIA—Attempt at bolshevization.

UNITED STATES OF AMERCIA—Communist propaganda.

AUSTRIA—Agitation; organization of a center of propaganda, which causes complications with Austria's neighbors.

BELGIUM—Revolutionary strike of railroad workers.

BULGARIA—Bolshevik agitation organized by a mission of the Soviet Red Cross. Bolshevik mutiny. Numerous terrorist outrages, that of the Cathedral of Sofia in particular.

DENMARK—Communist agitation.

ESTHONIA—Communist agitation.

FINLAND—Bolshevik occupation and red terror.

SLAYINGS IN FRANCE

FRANCE—Agitation. Communist demonstration during the translation of the ashes of Jaures. Armed aggressions and assassinations at Marseilles, Paris, etc.

GERMANY—Bavaria: Temporary seizure of power, terror and pillage. Saxony: Agitation, crimes by the Cheka. Berlin: Mutiny by violence: agitation. Hamburg: Armed mutiny. Ruhr: Communist agitation.

GREAT BRITAIN — Agitation. Campbell affair, Zinovieff letter, etc.

GREECE—Agitation and organization of strikes after the admission of a Soviet "legation."

HUNGARY—Temporary seizure of power. Terror and disorganization.

ITALY—Agitation, occupation of factories, disorganization of industry and of public life. Countless terrorist outrages.

LETHONIA—Bolshevik occupation and red terror.

NETHERLANDS — Revolutionary movement in 1918.

NORWAY—Agitation.

POLAND—Invasion by the Red army. Constant agitation. Countless conspiracies.

RUMANIA—Agitation. Bolshevik conspiracies.

RUIN IN RUSSIA

RUSSIA—Seizure of power. Terror. Economic ruin.

SPAIN—Communist agitation.

SWEDEN—Agitation among the young people and in the army.

SWITZERLAND—General strike in 1918 on the day of the Armistice; dangerous strikes at Basle and at Zurich in 1919.

CZECHOSLOVAKIA—Armed demonstration against the government. Assassinations of police agents. Military espionage.

JUGOSLAVIA—Terrorist outrages, in particular against the King. Agitation by the medium of special agents of the Red International for Aid to Revolutionaries, by the Peasant International.

AFRICA—Vast campaign of Bolshevik agitation.

ASIA—Vast campaign of Bolshevik propaganda, in particular in the colonies and in China.

In all the meetings of the various sections of the International, at its congresses, emphasis is laid on the relations among the several states of Europe. The Soviet is never able to forget that it was only able to seize power in Russia because of the profound trouble caused by the war and that its influence in other countries is also a direct result of the war. It prospers best on misfortune. The Komitern understands that every new conflagration in Europe or outside Europe favors its plan of general disorder. Universal peace is the permanent obstacle to bolshevism, which probably is why the Soviet regards the League of Nations as its hated arch-enemy.

STREET NAMES

WESCOTT STREET.

Wescott Street is one of the streets in Peterboro that is slightly misspelled. The name should be written Westcott, after Robert of that surname, who in 1873 bought a strip of land 10 acres, running from the Lake to the railroad (Port Hope) line. He built near the Lake a house, which is still standing, and also a pottery.

He cut a street through the back of the ten-acre lot and called it Westcott Street.

Mr. Westcott operated the pottery until he died. The property was sold in 1905, and the building pulled down a few years ago.

Fred. G. Westcott of Detroit, of the Westcott Paper Products Co., is a son of Mr. Robert Westcott. He left Peterboro when he was 18 years of age, and is at present home on a visit with his wife and two daughters, staying with Mr. Wm. Payne, London Street.

BLAMES FARMER'S WIFE.

Blame for agricultural decline in England is placed on the female sex and the lack of rural domestic science by Mrs. Margaret Wintringham, former Liberal member of parliament. "The farmer's wife is not as interested in doing the adjuncts of farm work as she used to be, and that is one of the reasons why agriculture is declining," Mrs. Wintringham declared.

BY JOHN MAC ELHINNY

Nothing is safe when there is a searching investigation going on. One of the latest bits of scandal is involved in the claim that the schooner Hesperus wasn't wrecked at all.

If this claim is proved, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow is likely to have his poetic license revoked.

The company that insured the Hesperus is about to institute suit to recover the money paid on the loss.

We have always had the greatest respect for Mr. Longfellow and it is hard for us to believe that he was in cahoots with the skipper to cheat the insurance company.

The poem runs, "The skipper he blew a whiff from his pipe, and a scornful laugh laughed he." We are only beginning to realize now what he might have been laughing at.

It wouldn't surprise us at all if the old fellow turned out to be a rum runner.

They say that it was an entirely different boat that was lost. It may have been one of Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrocks.

And what of the people who have often said that they "felt like the wreck of the Hesperus?" It might have been the wreck of some entirely different ship that they felt like.

If it is proved that the Hesperus wasn't wrecked doubt will be cast on all of Longfellow's other poems. How can we be sure that the village blacksmith stood under a spreading chestnut tree? Perhaps it was an elm.

"His brow was wet with honest sweat," says Longfellow. Maybe the blacksmith was only an actor playing in the first production of "Perspire Under the Elms."

Or it is possible that, Longfellow to the contrary notwithstanding, his creditors were making it hot for him.

Even if it is true that "he owed not any man" the chances are that this was because he couldn't get any credit.

However, we hope that Longfellow will be vindicated. If he is convicted, all of the poets will be under suspicion, although their statements would have been correct if their meters were accurate.

In fact, the meters should have been inspected each year by the authorities before their poetic licenses were renewed.

There are some poems that are above suspicion. For instance, we must give credit to the birds who participated in the "Charge of the Light Brigade." We have to give them credit or they wouldn't be able to charge.

Man Proposes, Woman Disposes.

A flapper said to her octogenarian grandfather:

"Grandpa, what did you say to grandma when you proposed?"

"Go away," growled the old gentleman, "and let me work my radio in peace."

"No, but tell me—what did you say?"

"Go away! Can't you see I'm trying to get Woonsocket?"

"I won't go away till you tell me what you said—so there!"

The old man hesitated. Then he coughed and answered:

"I said 'Yes.'"

I'm The Gink.

I'm the gink who walks on the left-hand side of the sidewalk. There are no traffic laws for pedestrians on the sidewalks, so I go as I please. Of course, I bump into people. I am in the way and I know it. I go through with a scurry that causes no end of bumping. I could stay on the correct side and be out of the way, but I'm going to walk as I please. I don't even say "excuse me" when I bump you.

I'm the ginkette who lets my child run wild at the theater or the movie show. I let it stand up in the seat or climb all over the person next to me. I know it obscures the view of others and disturbs the entire row. I make half-hearted efforts to keep my child quiet. I give a command or so, but I never see that they are carried out. Sometimes I let my child get out in the aisle and race up and down. I am indignant if an usher requests me to keep it quiet. I manage to enjoy the show, let my child roam where it will.

Very Natural.

An American professor was visiting the smaller villages of devastated France. Seeing very few children his curiosity was aroused. Hailing a native, he inquired:

"I haven't seen many children in this vicinity."

The native politely answered: "No, sir; there aren't many."

"How often are children born here?" asked the professor.

"Only once," was the very courteous response.—Penn Punch Bowl.

'THE LIDO' PARADISE OF PAJAMAS VENICE'S SMART SUMMER RESORT

Gamboling, But No Gambling Where Wealthy Tourists From World Over Revel.

CROWDED BEACH.

VENICE, Italy, Aug. 26.—It is only necessary to give the Lido the "once over" to understand why it is the mecca of the light-hearted, heavy-bankrolled set during the months of July and August. For there is nothing like it in the world.

Picture a beautiful Moorish palace, reached only by speedy little launches, on a narrow strip of land on the sun-kissed Adriatic. Picture the great lobby and terrace of the palace filled with pajama-clad men and women laughing, talking, drinking and smoking—and a stone's throw away a marvelous sandy beach lined with rows of gayly painted cabins with their flags flying in the breeze. Picture male bathers stripped to the waist and woman bathers with the minimum costume allowed in any civilized land and you will have a picture of the Excelsior palace at the Lido-Venice.

There are two or three hotels at the Lido besides the Excelsior palace—all owned by the same company, by the way—but the Excelsior, as it is called, is the "luxe" hotel of the famous resort. And in the many dining rooms and on its terraces, as well as on the cabin-inclosed bathing beach in front of it, the entire life of the Lido passes in review.

From All Over the World.

Here are held the numerous fetes and galas that attract numerous wealthy visitors from every part of the world. For while the bathing here is supposed to be the lure of the Lido it is the gay beach life, with its pajama-clad parties, dances and other entertainments, that really attracts its hosts of visitors. Eliminate these features and all you have is a mediocre bathing beach, where swimming has no zest because the water is about the same temperature as the average English highball or after-dinner coffee.

However, the beach life here is really unique. For it is the only summer resort where pajamas and evening clothes and a bank roll are the only clothing needed by men or women. Pajamas are worn from the time you get up in the morning until you dress for dinner. Not only do the guests of the hotels lounge around in them all day, but they lunch in them at the Tavern, as the pajama restaurant of the Excelsior is called. To be sure, a few of the more conservative guests wear dressing gowns over their pajamas, but they are in the decided minority. Pajamas are the correct attire from 6 a.m. until 8 p.m., except when in the water, after which evening dress is "de rigeur."

Last Word in Pajamas.

This paradise of pajamas is not as "off color" as would appear at first blush, because the loose-fitting garments that are ordinarily worn while sleeping, are of the most elaborate and colorful variety. They are of silk and satins of the most fanciful patterns. And because every one wears them it is the conventionally attired man or woman who seems out of place. The Moorish architecture of the huge hotel, the bright sunshine and the fact that the Lido is far removed from the hustle and bustle of tourist-ridden Venice combine to make pajamas not only the ideal but the only costume for those who stay here for any length of time.

Unlike nearly every other bathing resort, there is no fixed time for going in the water. The entire day is spent on the beach and in the little wooden cabins that face the Adriatic. Under their awnings one reads, chats and with one's friends, is shaved and manicured, gives or attends cocktail parties and sleeps if it is possible to relax that much from the hectic life here. Consequently it will be seen that pajamas are just the thing for this kind of beach life, far more modest than running around in one-piece bathing suits, as is the custom on our own beaches. But whether you approve or not, this is the custom at the Lido and you have to adopt it or you might as well remain at home.

Here at the Lido there is no set program, except on gala nights. The days are spent as one wishes. Luncheon is eaten whenever one is hungry, in the so-called pajama restaurant or served in one's cabin, or "cabanya," as they are termed. There is no cocktail hour. One visits the bar or orders drinks on the beach, whichever one feels inclined.

Dinner Is Irregular.

Even dinner is not an event or function set for an particular hour. One dines at any time between 8 and 10 o'clock, for the dancing does not begin until 11 o'clock, and the evening ends whenever one wishes to call it a night. Some nights there are people who dance until dawn. On other evenings these visitors have dinner in the privacy of their own apartments.

Except for occasional trips to Venice, half an hour's distance by motor launch, this is the life at the Lido. It is possible because only a few hundred people can enjoy it at the same time. The Excelsior palace is too far away and too expensive for holiday trippers. It is essentially a rendezvous of those who like to imagine themselves rich for a few days.

This huge hotel—it is an eight-story affair covering acres—was originally planned as a great gambling casino, but for some reason its promoters were unable to get a gambling concession from the Italian government. There is no gambling of any kind, but even if there were it is doubtful if the Lido would attract any more people. From July 1 to the end of August the Excelsior as well as the other beach hotels is filled to overflowing. And each year more and more Americans are crowding out the European visitors, because they have more to spend.

Two-thirds of the visitors here are Americans, according to Alfred Campione, who is president of the Italian hotel company operating the Excelsior and sixteen other hotels, most of them at the Lido and in Venice. And as a matter of fact the crowd on the terrace of the Excelsior looks more like a cross section of Atlantic City, except for the inevitable pajamas, than what you would expect to find on the shores of the Adriatic, more than 4,000 miles away from Broadway.

I arrived yesterday afternoon from Trieste as the terrace was filling up for the 3 o'clock tea-dance. Without ever going out to the tables I spied Marie Dressler, big as life, sitting with a group of her friends. Near by was Ed Hutton, the Wall street broker. At another table was Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, widow of the war president, and Miss Belle Baruch. In the lobby I encountered Mr. and Mrs. Sacha Votichenko, who were prominent in New York's colony and musical life before they moved to Paris.

KEMAL'S WIFE HAS FATE LIKE JOSEPHINE

Reason President Kemal Pasha Gives For Divorcing Wife; She Meddled Too Much.

SMYRNA, Aug. 26.—Latife Hanoum, the beautiful twenty-two-year-old woman whom Mustapha Kemal, President of Turkey, by his own Presidential decree has just divorced, is a modern Josephine. Her husband allowed himself to be persuaded that she stood in the way of his career and, like Napoleon, he sacrificed his love to his ambition, she declared in an interview here.

Kemal's divorced wife who has returned to her parents here, plans to continue to work for her country and her sex for whose emancipation she has led a vigorous crusade that is believed to have played a large part in the crash of her marital happiness.

Proud But Heartsore.

"It is terrible to have one's dream of happiness thus shattered, to have all the romance go from one's life so suddenly," she said to her interviewer. "It is a case of Napoleon and Josephine over again. I loved my husband and did all in my power to help him realize his ambitions for himself and the country. Our union stands in the way of his further progress, and as in the case of Josephine it is the woman who must be sacrificed.

"I have no complaints. If by parting I can make for his happiness I will be proud, but just a little heartsore at the time when I think of what has been."

Though Madame Latife used a wealth of gesture to emphasize her words, and even drove home one point with a fierce-ly clinched fist, she softened when speaking of the husband who put her aside.

A Love Match, She Says.

"It's a pity, isn't it," she asked reflectively, "this parting of two whom Allah seemed to have brought together to work His will by a harmonious, happy association? Ours was a love match even in the sense in which you understand the term in the West."

Madame Latife referred only indirectly to the circumstances leading up to the divorce, though indicating the dread of the impending shipwreck that has been hanging over her marital happiness.

"My husband and I were as happy as a man and woman could be in our Garden of Eden," she said, "until the serpent came. Who was the serpent? I can see the question shaping in your mind, but I can't answer it. That's my secret and it will die with me. Suffice it for the world that the point was reach where my husband was brought to the belief that he had to choose between his partner and his future. He chose."

Knows of Prejudice.

Without confirming directly the reports that the divorce was due to her advanced feministic activities, which is resented in a country where the Moslem traditional view of a woman's position is still powerful. Madame Latife said: "No doubt you have been told that I am what is called a strong-minded woman and that I seek to dominate and control in matters outside my province. I know that has been said and that much has been added about my liking for man's garb, in which I have appeared in public."

Then suddenly reversing the roles of interviewer and the interviewed, the daintily, Parisian-gowned divorced wife of the Turkish President challenged: "Look at me before you decide. Am I not as feminine as a woman can be? You know I am, for you have eyes to see."

Asserting there was no better balm for a bruised heart than hard work, and that from now on she would throw herself into such work as she could do for her country and sex, Madame Latife said proudly as the last word, "I'll show them it takes much to break the spirit of a woman such as I."

Madame Latife was educated in England, and thus was able to respond to the questions in English.

The car that put the War in Warren

JIM WARREN bought a car—the "Ginger-bread Six."

Never heard of it before, but he happened to be walking along Automobile Row and during a lapse moment his foot slipped—he stepped inside.

"Nifty boat," said the salesman.

"Not bad," said Jim, as paint and doo-dabs got in their hypnotic work.

"But why isn't it advertised?" asked Jim.

"Don't need to advertise a job like that," was the forearmed reply. Sounded logical. But—

Six months later Jim had a collection of bolts and grease-cups and broken springs and disjointed steering mechanism and a motor that almost ran.

"Never again!" said Jim. "The car that's little known and never advertised hasn't much responsibility; little to live up to. Before I buy another car—or another anything—I'm going to get the facts. I'm going to read the advertisements about automobiles—or whatever I'm buying."

Advertisements are an invaluable guide to intelligent buying. Read them regularly

NEW WAR DEVICES TESTED BY BRITISH

High Speed Tanks and New Smoke Screens Among Inventions.

LONDON, Aug. 26.— (United Press).—Many new devices for the conduct of war including high speed tanks,several types of smoke screens machines for intercepting enemy wireless messages and new methods of transporting troops are to be tested out in England next month.

They will be used in the first peace time army manoeuvres that have been held in Britain since 1913.

The new tanks are capable of a speed of 15 miles an hour on the road and 10 to 12 miles an hour over open country. It is also understood that the latest types of airplanes will co-operate with the ground troops during the manoeuvers.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

THURSDAY, AUGUST 27.

Although this day's sidereal operations point to certain obstacles or delays overcome and some financial aspects look encouraging, yet on the whole conditions may not be construed as satisfactory. A tendency to rash and impetuous moves, attended by a disposition to waywardness and ill-temper, may combine to nullify favorable auguries. Those in the employment of others are warned to be careful not to offend those over them lest they put their positions in jeopardy. It is urged that litigation be postponed.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of contradictions. Although there are auguries for some favorable turn in finances, and there may be a breaking away of an obstruction, yet law, quarrels and impetuosity may be responsible for difficult situations. Those in the employment of others are enjoined to safeguard their positions. Personal affairs should be happier. A child born on this day may be disposed to be headstrong, impulsive and quarrelsome, and these may militate against its success in business or employment.

Licenses are required, under the Gun License Act, in England, for anything that can discharge a missile; eevn popguns are thus liable.

WHERE A BOAR'S HEAD DECORATES A CHRISTMAS DINNER.

No Christmas dinner in the royal castle of England would be true to form unless it began with the ceremony called bringing in the boars' head. Nobody knows exactly the origin of this custom, although there are several explanations offered, but the fact that it is observed remains.

The ceremony is very elaborate. Trumpeters and musicians enter the hall in state, to prepare the way for the entrance of the master cook. He carried the tremendous boar's head decorated and garnished lavishly and bearing a lemon—the emblem of plenty—in its mouth. The cook, in turn, is followed by huntsmen.

This ceremony is observed in almost every institution of England. Oxford makes a great point of it. And private families, too, observe it.

It is said that the Druids, thousands of years ago, killed a boar at the time of the winter solstice and offered its head as a sacrifice to Freya, the goddess of peace and plenty. The head was gilded because this goddess was supposed to ride on a boar with golden bristles. Even in Christian times, this habit of gilding the head was retained. Now an apple or an orange is sometimes substituted for the lemon.

During all of Queen Victoria's reign the Christmas dinner consisted of a baron of beef and woodcock pie and the bringing in of the boar's head preceded the historic dishes.

At Queen's College, Oxford, where this is one of the great ceremonies of the year, there is an explanation offered for the origin of the custom. The story goes that some five hundred years ago, a student of the college was walking through the woods, deep in a study of Aristotle. eH was attacked by a wild boar, and, having no other weapon with him, he thrust the book down the animal's throat. The boar was choked and the student brought home the head in triumph.

There is probably no accurate explanation of the origin of the custom. It is just one of those traditions for which England is famous, and the English love their traditions and honor them. For that reason, the boar's head will, very probably, continue to be brought in before every state Christmas dinner until the end of time.

It is not long since the birds were on the up wave,to begin their nesting, and here we are, almost thinking of next winter's coal and school and coloured leaves of Autumn and the birds are gathering for the down wave. In fact many of them at this time have been on the way south for several days.

It will be time, therefore, to be on the lookout for migrating birds. Get your garden bird-bath and bird-fountain ready, if it is not working, for it is to those who think of these things, that the strange and odd birds come in passing southward.

Scatter some crumbs, bird seed, sunflower seed, and other stuff likely to attract birds. They will come.

While some birds are gathering, in a restless roaming manner, others are just starting or are in the middle of a second or third family. Take a look at the Goldfinch, that little wild canary with the yellow body, black wings and black cap. His wife is a duller colour, being a greenish yellow. These bird folks, the Goldfinches, are possibly just beginning to nest now, as they nest in August and September. You may see them, late in September, eating from thistles, pulling out the down, etc.
